The Self-Help Home Plan is designed to do 2 main things: (1) Make it easier for you to own a home. (2) Reduce the cost as much as possible without sacrificing quality.

The process is made easier by assistance from home building experts who have eliminated the red tape, getting straight to what you want — a home. They have prices and statistics readily available to help you decide which plan meets your requirements.

Reducing the cost is accomplished through modern construction methods and a plan whereby you can work on the home yourself. By finishing the interior yourself, with materials supplied, you can save several thousand dollars off the total cost.

Look into the "Self-Help Home Plan" soon — it could be the best move you ever made.

Sister Never Sends Gifts, Reader Says She's Hurt

Dear Ann Landers: What do you think of a sister who has a few ladies' ready-to-wear stores and never sends her nieces anything, ever?

We don't need anything, thank God, but it would be nice if our teen-age daughters received a dress or a skirt now and then, something so the girls would know their aunt thinks about them once in a while.

For our silver wedding anniversary, my sister phoned her "best wishes." (No present.) Last Christmas she sent four cans of fancy olives.

I try not to be bitter or resentful, but when I think of her size of extension, it hurts. I'd like to see your answer in print.—Oak Park Heartache

Dear Oak: Here's my answer. Now when you see it in print, don't think you'll like it.

Your notion that a gift is proof of caring is a crock of cranberries. The best gift of all is the gift of concern, consideration and thoughtfulness—something that represents personal sacrifice, like time given a busy person, or a hand-made present that required imagination and effort. Your attitude needs overhauling, lady.

Dear Ann Landers: This letter is sparked by Anonymous Lady who said she got "absolutely nothing" out of sex with her beloved husband and moved absolutely nothing to me, either. I consulted a marriage doctor because in those days you never talked to a man about such things. She said my husband must be at fault. I decided I had been short-changed and went to bed with a gentleman I'd been flirting with for several years. It was no better with him. I had several affairs after that and not one of them approximated the ecstasy I had read about in books.

I've concluded that sex is greatly overrated. The anticipation is unquestionably more exciting than the realization. So please, Ann, tell the men out there who aren't satisfying their wives not to worry. There is probably nothing wrong with them. Other men's wives may be better actresses.—Mrs. Zero

Dear Zero: Your theory doesn't hold up, dearie—too much evidence to the contrary. The spectacular, earthshaking, history-changing, mind-bending events that have resulted from the chemistry between man and woman suggest something beyond "faking it." Too bad you've never hit the psychedelic jackpot, but others have.

Dear Ann Landers: I've tried to find an answer to my problem in books, but it's not there. I'm a happily married woman with a fine job. I do not feel self-conscious at all. I'm not a prude, but I'm an inveterate blusher. People often notice my blushing and ask, "Why are you embarrassed? You're blushing!" Then I become really uncomfortable and turn five shades redder.

Is there anything I can do to control this. It's humiliating and I'd give anything to overcome it. Thanks, Ann.—Too Old For Such Nonsense In Lubbock

Dear Lubbock: Blushing is an involuntary act. I know of no way to control it, so my advice is enjoy it. So few girls can blush these days that it's downright refreshing to see one who can.

Quick and fancy tarts are simple to make—frozen pastry cases are filled with a different single-serving a tempting teaplate de- puddings and garnished for dessert.

Successful Living

Solve Procedure Problems This Way

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: I am president of a women's service club. We occasionally have a guest speaker after the business meeting, and sometimes this presents difficulties. I assigned one person to watch for the guest and to introduce her at the appropriate moment, 8 p.m., but the business meeting finished early. I proceeded to the next item of the program — the introduction of the speaker.

It turned out that several members arrived at precisely 8 p.m., thus missing the business meeting and having made a special effort to hear the speaker. They missed the introduction and her opening remarks. I felt very let down when I heard this complaint.

Should the guest be kept outside until the correct moment? It isn't easy to finish up a business meeting at precisely the minute for which a speaker is scheduled.

Puzzled President.

Dear President: Who could expect you to?... The usual dilemma is around the fact that business encroaches on the speaker's time — much to everybody's consternation.

The guest speaker should be brought into the meeting the minute she arrives, so that she has half a chance to look over her audience and feel at home. Personally, I like to arrive early and feel somewhat acquainted with the group I am going to address, ahead of time.

If there is time there to fill in, how about a seventh inning stretch? A certain tension builds up, and you could announce that there would be a break in which guests might stand up, walk around, or make the acquaintance of a new member near them.

It would also give you a chance to welcome the speaker and exchange a few sentences before bringing her up to the head table to be introduced.

Desserts - Simply Delicious

Emergency in the kitchen. Somebody's showed up for tea and there isn't any. Or the family is demanding dessert the day you decided not to bake.

You can come up with handsome but simply delicious desserts from the freezer and pantry shelf.

The basics are canned or frozen fruit slices, blind or empty frozen unbaked pastry shells in the tart and full sizes, pudding cups, ice cream and a normal household store of nuts, jams and jellies and specialty items like chocolate shot.

One solution to a dessert crisis needs empty pastry shells from the freezer.

Then open as many different varieties of single serving puddings as you have on hand and spoon fillings into the custard tart shells. Try using several flavors — vanilla, butterscotch or chocolate pudding cup, or a pudding and fruit dessert cup. Or as an alternative, cover a layer of vanilla pudding with drained, chopped fruit.

Decorate filled tarts using any combination of grated coconut, red or green glace cherries, chopped nuts, sprigs of green mint, fruit slices or pieces, whipped cream or topping, chocolate or coloured vermicelli. Jelly drops look good too, or anything else you happen to have in the kitchen cupboard.

You will be able to fill about 4 tart shells from each pudding can, so by keeping several flavours on hand you can get a good variety of fillings without leftovers.

Crepes can be a dessert-time lazy saver and as a bonus look like an elegant and difficult creation.

Crepes for two

one cup milk
one half cup flour
dash salt

In a small bowl, stir eggs gently to mix but do not allow to become frothy. Stir in flour slowly. Stir in milk and salt, about 15 minutes. Heat a seven inch skillet which has been lightly oiled. When the skillet is very hot, pour in ¼ cup batter and swirl the pan quickly to distribute thin layer of batter over the bottom. Cook about 20 to 60 seconds until bubbles form on the top. Carefully turn and cook an additional minute on the other side. Remove to warm plate in oven.

When all the crepes are made, spread with a favorite jam or jelly, roll up and sprinkle with icing sugar. Well-drained fruit slices make a good filling, too.

Ice cream can become an elegant Peach Melba with ease. Heat raspberry jam in a saucepan to bubbling but be careful not to burn. Surround generous scoops of ice cream with well drained peach slices and top with raspberry sauce.

A can of cherries or cherry pie filling teamed with ice cream is tasty, too.

Heat the cherries or cherry pie filling in a saucepan. If you are using cherries, thicken the sauce with cornstarch and add sugar to taste. Stir in two teaspoons lemon juice and the juice and rind of an orange. You can add any type of sherry or brandy if you desire. Serve hot over ice cream.

A pie that can be put together in 10 minutes and "bakes" in the refrigerator while you're dining is: Fresh Glace Tart.

Bake an empty pie shell.

Meanwhile drain a large can of peaches. In a saucepan, heat about ¾ cup apricot jam to bubbling with about ¼ cup dry sherry. Do not burn.

Arrange peach slices in cooled pie shell. Sprinkle with chopped nuts if you wish.

Pour hot jam mixture over peaches, spreading evenly.

Chill.

Serve with whipping cream or sour cream, if you have it.

Nothing could be more tempting than a fruit crisp, hot from the oven. It'll bake while you're dining.

Fruit Crisp

well drained canned fruit or sliced apples equal parts oatmeal, brown sugar and flour softened butter or margarine one tbsp. lemon juice dash cinnamon, nutmeg
butter or margarine.

Arrange fruit in a single layer in an 8 x 8 baking pan. Mix oatmeal, brown sugar and flour. Cut in butter or margarine to make a crumbly mixture. Sprinkle fruit with lemon juice, dot with butter, just with apples or pears. Top with crumble mixture. Bake at 375 degrees about 30 minutes.

400 Crash Is Blamed On Storm, Road, Speed

BARRIE, Ont. (CP) — A coroner's jury has ruled that bad weather, bad roads and high speed was the fatal recipe for an inferno last March that killed 12 persons in a 32-vehicle crash.

The jury set down tough recommendations aimed at preventing such a disaster from happening again.

The four men and one woman suggested stringent safety checks for transport trailers, a ban on pup trailers during the winter, slower speed limits for buses in winter and guidelines for removing snow fences.

The crash, which occurred in a swirling snow and windstorm, happened nine days after the ministry of transportation and communications removed snow fences lining a section of Highway 400 where the crash occurred near this community.

Making reference to the snow conditions, the jury recommended that the snow fences not be removed before April 15 and said snow fences and trees bordering highways should be properly located.

They further recommended that pup trailers be prohibited on all major highways from Dec. 1 to April 1.

It was further recommended that bus schedules be revised in winter and the speed limit for buses be reduced to 60 from 70 miles an hour.

Diagrams and photos of the crash scene showed at least eight cars had been trapped against the median guardrail which separates the six lanes.

The jury recommended that in future highway construction a minimum median of at least 50 feet be provided for lanes of traffic going in opposite directions.

Both the jury and Ontario's chief supervising coroner, H.B. Cotnam, singled out a two-truck operator for special commendation.

They said Stanley Earl Copeland of Bradford, Ont., saved lives in the fiery holocaust by his quick action.

Five Groups Ask Probe Of Air Pollution Charges

TORONTO (CP) — Five groups including Pollution Probe of the University of Toronto called Tuesday for a public inquiry into allegations made against the air management branch of the provincial ministry of the environment by one of its inspectors.

Ross Mackenzie, 33, a Sudbury inspector for the branch who has alleged that at least one branch member accepted a bribe from a company, faces a private disciplinary hearing on that allegation today and the ministry could decide to fire him.

Paid UCS Administrator Disputed by Director

In an interim report, released Tuesday, the need for a paid professional executive director for the United Community Services has been questioned by Wayne Wickson, president of the UCS board of directors.

The report states that the position of the executive director can be a detriment to the expression of the will of the directors. It cautions that since the director works with the administration of the UCS on a day-to-day basis, the board, correspondingly, is excluded and less able to arrive at "reasonable and relevant solutions to the problems of the UCS."

To make the board more responsive — and knowledgeable of the daily workings of the UCS, the report urges that the office of the director, or administrator, be deleted from the UCS charter. In its place, it proposes that either the executive committee of the board, the president, or a volunteer from among the directors be given an honorarium and allowances to take over the administrative functions of the UCS.

Commenting on the report to be submitted to the board at its meeting Thursday, Wayne Wickson said "its primary purpose is to solicit feedback from the directors and the public knowledgeable in the workings of the board. Copies of the report have also been sent to city council.

Objecting to the hurried nature of the instigation of the search for a new professional employee, Mr. Wickson said the board authorized the search by the personnel committee since same evening it accepted the resignation of its former, controversial executive director, Isidore Cooperman. It started the search, in the same breath, in nearly the text motion after accepting his resignation," he said.

"I'd like to see a very precise job description for an administrator," concluded Mr. Wickson. "It's not too late to present this report if the personnel committee is not going to make any recommendations to the board Thursday.

In a telephone interview yesterday, Martin Hamelink, committee chairman said that although his committee is "very close" to making a recommendation to the board, it will not do so Thursday.

Asked to respond to the report, Mr. Hamelink said, "My task was to find an individual to fill the office of administrator for the UCS. If the board feels that it wants to change direction, that's fine. However, my terms of reference have not been changed by the board."

In concluding his report, Mr. Wickson challenged not only the board, but the community, to "prove specifically that the need for a paid executive director-administrator exists in Belleville."

School Children Visit County Museum

Pupils from Centenary School were the first group of school children to tour Hastings County Museum in its new home. About 84 youngsters visited the exhibits and seven extra guides were brought in to handle the crowd. Looking over the drawing room are museum guide Mrs. Alice Deline, Heather Delior, Lauri Moon, Penny Bald, Heather Sietsma, Lynn Jackson, Debbie Juby, and Christine Yome. In the rear is a parent who assisted with transportation — Mrs. Cari Moon.

Quinte-area Builders Welcome New Provincial Mortgage Plan

Homebuying for Belleville residents should be less costly in future under the Ontario government's plan to provide low - cost mortgages to builders willing to construct "no-frill" housing on their own lots.

Revenue Minister Allen Grossman, who is responsible for the Ontario Housing Corporation, announced the mortgage would provide for 95 percent of the value of homes ranging from $28,000 to $33,500, land exclusive.

To qualify, buyers' incomes must be less than $12,500. The houses would be without such extras as garages, second bathrooms, and finished recreation rooms.

Commenting on the government program, Michael DeMark, president of the Quinte Homebuilders' Association, said the new mortgage rate would allow a larger number of people to own their own homes.

The mortgages would be available at the preferred rate of 8.75 per cent, 8.75 of a percentage point lower than the 9.5 per cent charged on the National Housing Act loans. The program would be restricted to 25 per cent of housing in any new subdivision in order to produce a cross section of quality levels.

"If they only have to put down five per cent," said Mr. DeMark, "It's going to qualify a lot more people for homes. In effect, the government will be subsidizing interest rates. The homebuilders have been talking about that for about a year now."

With the demand for housing already high across Ontario, the new plan would allow low and fixed income earners a greater opportunity to purchase homes. Demand for housing in Belleville is already great, but with the easing of mortgage rates, this should increase further.

Asked whether Quinte-area builders could keep up with the likely increase, Mr. DeMark said he was sure that if the demand arose, area builders could somehow meet it. "I don't think we'd need to import builders to do it," he said.

However, contractors, at present, are laboring under two handicaps — the lack of materials and skilled tradesmen. Mr. DeMark also said that there is definitely not enough land within Belleville city limits, but that since services are extended into the townships, there will be sufficient building sites.

Quinte builders could increase their present production of homes by at least 25 per cent, he said. However, to accomplish this, tradesmen may have to be drawn from outside the area.

When the mortgage money will be available to Belleville homebuyers is not yet known. The lower lending rates announced by the revenue minister at a meeting of federal, provincial and municipal officials at Queen's Park Friday.

Main difference in the new plan, as opposed to the Ontario Standing HOME Ownership Made Easy provincial program is that builders may use their own serviced lots, rather than government assembled and serviced land that a builder leases or buys outright.

Wearing The Hat(s)

Belleville Jaycees this year are wearing the hat of organizers of the city's winter carnival. Headwear figures in more ways than one in the event. Toques, like those shown by carnival organizer George White and secretary-treasurer Diane Brady, will be sold as carnival emblem — and to help defray expenses.

Paper Pickup May Be Resumed

City Manager Albert Elliott has been asked to prepare a report to council concerning the possible resumption of the city's paper pickup program.

Only one letter — from Lee Jourard of Cablevue, Quinte Ltd., has been received at city hall about resumption of the paper pickup, but Mayor Robin Jeffrey and Alderman Jerry Smith, chairman of the council solid waste committee, both said they had received numerous phone calls on the matter.

Alderman Smith said she was hopeful the paper pickup could be resumed but said that householders who have been saving paper could in the meantime sell it to Belleville Metal and Waste.

Alderman Orr Ill

Concern over the condition of Alderman Lloyd Orr who last week suffered an attack while attending a Masonic function, was expressed Monday at city council.

Following the illness attack, Alderman Orr was taken to hospital and was admitted to the intensive care unit.

Mayor Robin Jeffrey referred to the aldermanic illness in opening prayers at Monday's council meeting expressing hope that he soon would be able to again take his seat on council

Driver Fined, Licence Lifted

A Shannonville man, Ronald Wayne Fitzgerald, 19, of 3 Dundas St., was fined $150 and had his driver's licence suspended for a month Tuesday in provincial court, after he was convicted of careless driving.

Fitzgerald was charged with careless driving after he lost control of his car at the corner of Front Street and Dundas Street East in Belleville and ran into a hydro pole on Sept. 18. The accident sent four people to hospital, one of them with a broken neck and caused an estimated $1,000 damage.

Assistant Crown Attorney, Glenn Dallne, told the court that Fitzgerald had been seen driving erratically along Front Street and that at least one person had laid a complaint with police prior to the accident.

Fitzgerald pleaded guilty to the charge when he appeared before Judge J. L. Glenning.

$92 Stolen In Break-in

The Belleville detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police are investigating a break-in at the offices of Agnico Fertilizers Ltd., on Dundas Road, which netted thieves $92 during the long weekend.

The break-in, reported early Tuesday morning, is believed to have occurred sometime between 9 and 10 a.m. Monday.

According to an OPP spokesman, the thieves broke into both the company's warehouse and office premises. The cash was taken from the latter building, while the warehouse was the scene of a joy-ride on one of the company's fork lift trucks.

Prevention Is Working

The Belleville fire department was able to devote its time to a positive fire prevention yesterday, since there were no fire calls during the 24 hour period ending at 8 a.m. this morning.

Fire Prevention Week activities continue today with members of the department manning an information booth at the Quinte Mall and conducting tours of the two fire halls.

Supreme Court Docket Light

The Registrar's Office of the Supreme Court of Ontario yesterday released a list of the cases to be dealt with at the fall sitting of the Supreme Court in Belleville.

This year, the fall sittings, to be presided over by the Honorable Mr. Justice Lacourciere, will have 14 cases on the court docket.

Seven cases are civil jury cases and seven are those made under the Motor Vehicle Act, while one non - jury cases are made up of six Motor Vehicle claims one divorce and a commercial lawsuit. There are no criminal cases slated for this session.

The court will begin its working sittings on Monday, Oct. 15, at 2 p.m. in the County Court House on Pinnacle Street.

Toques Will Be Symbol For Winter Carnival

Belleville Jaycees have enough toques these days to more than cover the ears of their membership six times around.

In fact, the Jaycees have so many toques they're coming out the organization's ears.

But, in some not-too-distant day the Jaycees — an organization of 22 young Bellevile men and women — hope the toques will be breaking out all over the city.

The toques are to be specifically required sidewalk winter headwear will be a symbol of community involvement in the city's biggest events program of early 1974 —Belleville Winter Carnival.

The Jaycees this year are co-ordinators and sponsors of the spirited series of outdoor events which have been warming winter for Bellevilians for the past four years, centred on Zwicky's Park.

As steering organizers, the Jaycees take over from the Chamber of Commerce which has been the program's overseer since the carnival idea first sang with appeal for community groups and individuals.

Soon, the Jaycees will be seeking the support and work of service clubs and other community groups to set the carnival skating toward its May carnival chairman Jaycee George White.

The Jaycees were one such group when the chamber took on responsibility for the organization.

That's where the toques got a head start.

Last year the carnival was held in early February — coincidding a mild spell that not only melted some of the program but the wintry spirit necessary for the carnival.

The toques not only are a symbol of community involvement in the carnival, but donations defraying expenses. Last year, 1,000 were ordered. With the program hit by poor carnival weather, hope the Jaycees had more than a surplus of about 500 toques in storage.

Glen Wardell, carnival co-chairman, says the toques likely could be sold as a package deal — with a lapel badge, program and admission.

Events are being pondered for adding to the now - conventional torchlight parades, skating races, sled and snowmobile races, that have been major productions.

As for the carnival, new Among the new ideas are log rolling contest — in a heated pool — flour-carrying contest and tea - brewing trial

Cost of the four - day program have been running around $3,000, says George White. Any profits go into the carnival's perpetuating fund.

It's hoped the advance package — along with toques — could realize up to $1,500. That's allowing for $1 profit on the red and white striped woolen cap that cost around $2.50 to produce, says Mr. Gerrell.

To make that much money the Jaycees must order another 1,000 of the toques.

If the response is sufficiently solid, the total may be reached, hopes Glen Wardell.

"It also signifies community participation," he says. "What we'd like to see is everybody wearing the toques on the street."

As always, the weather remains the unpredictable, George White admits.

But, there's been cheerful news from at least one source:

"This year the almanac says we're supposed to have a long, hard winter . . ."

Setting Up Symbols of Service

Mary Jane Deacon, display manager of the Walkers Stores Ltd. outlet of Front Street, sets up items symbolizing the 12 agencies participating in this year's United Way campaign. The intention of the window display is to make downtown shoppers better acquainted with the work of the United Community Services in Belleville. The display will remain in the window for approximately a week during the October United Way campaign month.

Quarters Are Loot

BELLEVILLE — There is some loose change in Belleville today as the result of a break-in from coins over the weekend which totaled approximately $100 in 25-cent pieces.

Someone broke into the West College Street home of Christopher Charalambie between the hours of 10 a.m. and 8 p.m. Friday and made off with the coins he had been saving.

Belleville police say that entry was gained to the home through a window.

Manpower Finds More Jobs Here

Canada Manpower officials in Belleville say they have found 30 per cent more jobs for applicants during the past month than the same month in 1972.

The number of people seeking work through the city's Canada Manpower centre — which also services Ameliasburgh and most of Hastings County — also is in sharp contrast to both periods, statistics say.

Statistics reported by the Belleville Manpower centre yesterday show 877 applicants registered as of the end of September.

During September 1972 the total was 1,082. In August this year 886 men and women had applied for jobs through the city's Manpower offices.

The totals do not include 600 students who also were registered for work during August, but went off the rolls when the school year began this month.

The Manpower spokesman described Belleville - area economic activity as "healthy" with the over - all scene improved from last year as the national job situation faces its conventional period of decline.

In the past January, February and March have been the peak unemployment months.

Stepped - up economic activity in southwestern Ontario as well as in big urban job centres have aided the jobplacement task of Manpower officials, the spokesman said.

"Almost anyone who is mobile can go to Toronto and get a job," he said.

But, simultaneous with the Toronto demand, has been expansion in the Kitchener - Waterloo industrial area.

Locally, one attraction for resident local labor is Ontario Hydro's giant, new Lennox Generating Station at Bath scheduled for completion 1977.

The project has particularly siphoned off much ski-led labor from the Belleville - area job market, said the Manpower official.

A's Lead Playoff 2-1

Campaneris Jumps on Slider

BERT CAMPANERIS

OAKLAND (AP) — Shortstop Bert Campaneris, who has hit home runs in two straight games, says Oakland Athletics will advance to the World Series today.

"I don't care who's pitching, we'll win," said the 155-pound infielder whose 11th-inning lead-off homer beat Baltimore Orioles 2-1 Tuesday in give Oakland a 2-1 edge in the American League best-of-five baseball playoff.

The defending major league champions will represent their league in the World Series if they beat the Orioles' ace righthander, Jim Palmer, today. He shut them out 6-0 in the opening game Saturday.

Oakland left-hander Vida Blue didn't last through the first inning in that one but the will be back again.

Blue have a well-rested Blue who has shown he can pitch well against anybody."

Oakland manager Dick Williams. "Certainly we have a chance against Palmer."

Campaneris hit only four home runs during the regular season but he led off the second game of the series with a homer and ended the third game will one. That provided the pitching victory to southpaw Ken Holtzman, who threw a three-hitter.

Campaneris, who was suspended the final three games of the season for throwing his bat at a rival pitcher, said he hit a slider, low and inside, for his game-winning homer.

"I wanted to throw it further inside," said Mike Cuellar, 36, who had allowed only three hits before the homer.

"We have our backs to the wall," said Palmer who won 20 games and lost nine on the season.

"If I don't pitch well and we lose, we're eliminated. I'll try to pitch the same way I did in Baltimore. I think maybe I can do better, not so many walks."

Palmer walked five in the opener. His record during the regular season was only slightly better, than that of Blue, who was 20-9.

Earl Williams got Baltimore off to a 1-0 lead in the second inning when he slammed a Holtzman 1-2 ball over the left field fence, the Orioles' first homer of the series.

Holtzman then retired 14 batters in order before walking Tommy Davis in the seventh. Over the final nine innings, he gave up one hit.

Oakland didn't score until the eighth, when Williams' strategy paid off.

He sent Jesus Alou up to hit for catcher Ray Fosse and Alou grabbed a bunt single off the face of a single. Fleet Allan Lewis went in to run for Alou.

Williams then selected Angel Mangual originally as the pinch hitter for second baseman Dick Green but, with a bunt the obvious play, he switched and used Mike Andrews.

The bunt went to Cuellar, who was off balance when he fielded it. So he threw it first—the reverse of the eighth-inning blows. They weren't hit well."

Wilt Not Missed — Yet

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

How much will Los Angeles Lakers miss Wilt Chamberlain? Hardly at all, if early season opening game can be used as a measuring stick.

The Lakers, playing without the 7-foot-1 giant who signed recently as player-coach with San Diego Conquistadors of the American Basketball Association, began their National Basketball Association campaign with a 117-97 victory Tuesday night over Chicago Bulls.

Jerry West, the Lakers' all-star guard, had a game-high 28 points, including 18 during a third-quarter when the Lakers moved from a 46-45 deadlock into a 82-71 lead.

In other NBA openers, defending champion New York squeaked past Detroit 101-100, Atlanta trounced Capital 128-104, Buffalo edged Houston 107-106, in overtime, and Golden State's game at Cleveland was postponed because of a wet floor.

Gail Goodrich added 26 points for Los Angeles, and Chet Walker topped Chicago with 26.

Walt Frazier scored 27 points and Dave DeBusschere had 22, but it was Bill Bradley's 4-point ball shooting that triggered New York's comeback victory over Detroit and gave coach Red Holzman his 300th victory with the Knicks.

Bradley, who missed all of his eight field goal attempts in the first half, connected for 12 points in the third period when the Knicks' lead erased a 2-44 Dec. trot lead, then put the Knicks in front to stay with 4:30 left in the third quarter. He scored 10 more points in the final period when the Knicks' lead increased to 4-101 Dec. 125-104.

Marshall won 14 of his 25 decisions and earned 31 saves. He set major league records for appearances by a relief pitcher—82, and innings pitched by a relief pitcher—179. He also set a National League record by finishing 73 games.

As player of the year, Marshall will receive $5,000 from a local brewery.

Marshall Player Of Year

MONTREAL (CP) — Relief pitcher Mike Marshall has been voted Montreal Expos' player of the year for the second consecutive season. It was announced Tuesday.

The 30-year-old right hander won in a split vote by the five-member Montreal chapter of the Baseball Writers Association of America, who covered the Expos at home and away.

Marshall won 14 of his 25 decisions and earned 31 saves. He set major league records for appearances by a relief pitcher—82, and innings pitched by a relief pitcher—179. He also set a National League record by finishing 73 games.

As player of the year, Marshall will receive $5,000 from a local brewery.

Lou Hudson scored 41 points, Pete Maravich had 24 and Walt Bellamy collected 21 while Los Washington grabbed 24 rebounds for Atlanta.

Bob McAdoo, last season's rookie of the year, scored a 25-foot shot with two seconds left in Houston. McAdoo finished with 31 points and 21 rebounds like Rookie Ernie DiGregorio had 17 United in the final.

Bob Dandridge added 26 points and set a Braves' club record with 14 assists in his pro debut.

Nicklaus Nears $2 Million

NEW YORK (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, who won the Ohio Kings Island Open last weekend, has regained the title as pro golf's leading money winner for the season and moved within one victory of a $2 million career total.

Nicklaus, who won $35,000 for his sixth tour event, boosted his earnings for the year to $278,124 and surpassed Bruce Crampton of Australia who had led since the American Golf Classic last June.

Crampton, who didn't compete in Ohio, is No. 2 with $272,251, while Tom Weiskopf, who finished third in the Ohio event, and Lee Trevino, who was runner-up, remained third and fourth, respectively. Weiskopf has $245,453 and Trevino $210,011.

Others in the top 10 are Jerry Heard, $198,228; Johnny Miller, $123,853; Billy Casper, $122,285; Hale Irwin, $104,416; Forrest Fezler, $101,951 and Hubert Green, $99,058.

Staub May Miss Today's Game

Rose Lets Bat Do Talking

NEW YORK (AP) — They threw an apple, a tennis ball and an egg at Pete Rose, but the only flying object he cared about was a baseball.

Rose hit it over the fence for a home run in the 13th inning to give Cincinnati Reds a 2-1 victory over New York Mets and tie the National League playoffs at two games each.

"I wasn't thinking about a home run . . . but I wanted to hit that ball all the way to the airport," said Rose, who apparently felt he struck a blow against the Mets' fans for their animosity toward him.

Rose has been the object of scorn since his fight with New York shortstop Bud Harrelson, a scuffle that started a full-scale brawl during Monday's game.

"Sure, I heard them booing at me every time I showed my face," said Rose. "They kept throwing things at me, too. But that only makes me play harder."

Cast as the villain, Rose heard the boos once more as he stepped to the plate in the top of the 13th inning to face reliever Harry Parker.

Someone threw an apple, but he brushed it aside with his bat, looking towards the stands for the source the tennis ball and the egg.

He was reminiscent of Monday's affair, when Rose was showered by pop bottles, beer cans, batteries and a whisky bottle in left field. The garbage shower took place after the Rose-Harrelson fight and the resulting batte royal.

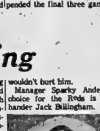
Parker threw his Parker's 2-2 fastball over the right field fence.

Then the 50,786 fans were silent, for the most part, as Rose circled the bases with his right hand held high in a clenched fist gesture of victory.

Rose singled twice and walked before hitting his second homer of the five-game series.

The Mets had taken a 1-0 lead in the third inning on Felix Millan's run-scoring single a n d George Stone protested that slim advantage until the seventh. At that point, Tony Perez slugged a homer run his first hit in 15 at-bats, to tie the score.

After Stone walked Andy Kosco with two out, Tug McGraw came on the scene and pitched scoreless relief through the 11th inning. But he constantly worked out of jams, especially two bases-loaded problems in the ninth and 10th innings.



One of the bliss off McGraw was caught by right fielder Rusty Staub, but it could turn into a costly play for the Mets.

The hot-hitting outfielder suffered bruises while smashing into the right field wall to catch the ball hit by Dan Driessen in the 12th inning.

The Mets were uncertain whether Staub would be ready to play today.

The rest of them are ready, however, especially starting pitcher Tom Seaver. The ace of the staff pitched the opener Saturday, losing 2-1, but felt that just three days' rest wouldn't hurt him.

Manager Sparky Anderson's choice for the Reds is righthander Jack Billingham.

Foster-Fourie Bout South Africa First

NEW YORK (AP) — Light-heavyweight champion Bob Foster will get $200,000 for a history-making boxing bout in South Africa, which could draw a crowd of 100,000, it was announced Tuesday.

Foster, a black, will defend his title against Pierre Fourie in Johannesburg Dec. 14 and will be the first racially-mixed fight in South Africa's history.

"The bout has been sanctioned by the South African Boxing Board of Control," said Dewey Fragetta, American representative for promoter Maurice Towsil.

South Africa has had problems in sports because of its racial apartheid policy. The country has been barred from the Olympics and Davis Cup tennis competition.

The agreement was reached Tuesday for the $200,000 to be posted in the United States before Foster leaves for South Africa three weeks before the fight.

Foster scored a unanimous 15-round decision over Fourie, a South African, in Albuquerque, N.M., last August.

Secretariat May Get Just One More Test

NEW YORK (CP) — A decision will be made in the next day or two on whether Secretariat will run his farewell race in the Canadian Championship at Toronto's Woodbine race track on Oct. 26.

"We haven't decided whether we will run him again," Helen Tweedy, operator of Meadow Stable, said Tuesday.

She said she wants a day or two to make up her mind on racing Secretariat in Canada before he retires to stud.

"It is the most logical race for us," Mrs. Tweedy said, referring to the 1¼-mile race on the grass in Toronto.

Mrs. Tweedy said she hopes to be able to advise Woodbine officials of her decision by Thursday night. "They would have to know to make their plans."

E. P. Taylor of Toronto, who owns one of the $190,000 shares in Secretariat's syndication, extended the invitation to the Triple Crown champion some time ago.

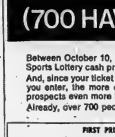
Secretariat, syndicated for a record $6.08 million, is scheduled to retire to stud Nov. 15.

"I'd love to bring him over there," Mrs. Tweedy said. "But . . . we have to see how he came out of Monday's race. We don't know yet if we would have to extend him to get him to his peak."

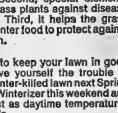
Mrs. Tweedy also noted "we have two Canadians in our camp"—trainer Lucien Laurin who was born in St. Paul de Joliet, near Montreal, and Jockey Ron Turcotte, a native of Grand Falls, N.B.



Laurin himself is inclined to want retirement race for Secretariat, who won the $113,000 Man O'War Stakes Monday at Belmont Park, running on the grass for the first time.

Laurin told William Ruddy of the New York Post after Monday's race that he did not want to see Secretariat run again.

Asked about the Canadian championship, Laurin said: "I hope not. We'll see, but as for me I'd say that is it."



In Toronto, the Ontario Jockey Club said Tuesday that the purse for the Canadian championship has been increased to $125,000-added from $75,000.

John J. Mooney, president of the club, said in a news release the increase was considered appropriate to attract the right quantities of horses for the race. The race will have a gross purse of about $160,000.

John Bradshaw says:
"Winterize your lawn with CIL Winterizer."
You've spent time and money on your lawn this year. Why let winter kill it all off?
And that's why CIL developed Winterizer. You simply put it in the spreader and take a walk around the lawn.

One treatment protects your lawn three important ways: First, it protects against frost damage. Second, special elements condition the grass plants against disease like snow-mold. Third, it helps the grass store up the extra winter food to protect against winter-starvation.
So if you'd like to keep your lawn in good shape — and save yourself the trouble of patching up a winter-killed lawn next Spring — get some CIL Winterizer this weekend and put it on . . . just as daytime temperatures are in the low 60's.

Keech, Ferguson Now With Tondas

Forward Steve Keech and defenceman Ron Ferguson, two products of the Trenton Minor Hockey Association, who were with Brockville in the Central Junior League last season, are now with Buffalo Tondas in the Southern Ontario Junior grouping.

Neither was inclined to return to Brockville for the 1973-74 season. Keech attended the Kingston Canadians Junior A training camp and later turned out with Belleville Screaming Eagles of the Senior OHA League.

As his father, Lorne, put it, "Steve would like to play senior in Belleville this season but he's happy with the Buffalo Organization."

Tondas are affiliated with the Major Junior A St. Catharines Black Hawks so it is possible both Keech and Ferguson could get a shot at the big team.

Keech fired three goals and Ferguson, one, as Tondas won and set on the weekend.

The Buffalo brass is said to be looking for a 40-goal season from Keech. He shouldn't disappoint them.

Last season with Brockville, the trigger-man counted 48 goals and 39 assists in 61 games. A centre by trade, he's a left-hand shooter who found a switch to right wing did not hamper his scoring ability.

Tondas play all their home games at Niagara Falls, N.Y., while waiting for the completion of a sports complex at Tonawanda. The team is coached by former American Hockey League star Willie Marshall, expects to move into its new home late this year.

Hard Luck For Cats

Belleville B-beats, winners in the Metro Junior B Hockey League opener at home Sunday, received a setback when their scheduled game with Toronto Red Wings, Tuesday, was postponed.

The postponement, caused by ice problems at the King City home of the Red Wings, was announced by what Bobcats' officials wanted.

As a result, the Belleville squad now has a week between games with only a practice session tonight to get ready for Toronto Nationals who are the visitors at Memorial Arena, Sunday night.

Efforts will be made to find more practice time for the Mac Hunter coached Belleville skaters.

Students at Loyalist College take advantage of morning archery instruction in the College gym. A new non - credit program, the morning shoots are attracting a lot of student interest and Loyalist Athletics Officer, Sherry Cornell, is hopeful of sending three teams to Intercollegiate competitions in Hamilton, November 17.

Bow Strings Drawn At Loyalist College

As many as 20 students take up bows and arrows each morning at Loyalist College to take part in a new program of archery instruction.

The non-credit recreational instruction is conducted by College Athletics Officer, Mrs. Sherry Cornell. Encouraged by the enthusiasm of the student archers, many of whom have never drawn a bow string before, Mrs. Cornel is planning to enter two teams and possibly three in the intercollegiate tournament at Mohawk College, Hamilton, November 17.

Each beginner is given basic instruction in the use and care of the equipment, safety rules, stringing the bow, correct stance, placing the arrow, and the draw, aim and release of the arrow. Mrs. Cornell said she began the program to boost interest in archery, to provide a facility for shooting practice, to correct shooting styles and provide instruction for novice archers.

Targets and safety nets are set up in the Loyalist College gym each morning from 8:30 to 10:30 and the arrows start flying. Mrs. Cornell said the morning scheduling meant many students could get in for a shoot before their classes started. The equipment: bows, arrows, targets, butts and safety net are provided by the College.

"From this instruction we hope to develop some good archers to go along with the people we already have with some experience for our intercollegiate team," said Mrs. Corneil. "We definitely plan on a man's team of four and a mixed team that includes two men and two women. And we're hoping to put together an all - women team."

Top Effort By Bantams

TRENTON — McInroy Maines minor bantams of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association were in the mood to hand out pointers here Tuesday night.

The Belleville squad gave Trenton's minor bantams a lesson in how to use the puck, skating to an 11-1 win in the exhibition contest.

Passing was the key to the Belleville team's attack and the visitors put on a convincing demonstration.

Gary Frederick paced the McInroy - Maines shooters, with three goals. Danny Vance and Tim Coates each fired a pair. Rounding out the Belleville scoring was Nelson Frederick, Pat Willman, Andy Plane and Ken Revoy.

Trenton defenceman Chris Webb accounted for his team's only goal.

The McInroy - Maines team opens its league schedule this Sunday in Oshawa at 3:30 p.m.

Scotty Bowman Goes with Larocque

By GLENN COLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Normally, Scotty Bowman does not reveal the name of his starting goaltender until he has to write it down on the official scoresheet just prior to a game.

Tuesday the Montreal Canadiens coach made an exception to his rule when he announced that rookie Michel (Bunny) Larocque will start tonight as the Canadiens open their 1973-74 National Hockey League season against Minnesota North Stars in Bloomington.

The Montreal-Minnesota game is one of seven on tap for tonight as the NHL begins its 57th season. In other games, Buffalo Sabres play the Maple Leafs in Toronto, New York Rangers are at home to Detroit Red Wings, New York Islanders visit Atlanta Flames, Boston Bruins play host to Vancouver Canucks and Chicago Black Hawks begin a two-game west coast tour when they meet Los Angeles Kings at Jack Kent Cooke's Fabulous Forum in Inglewood, Calif.

The selection of Larocque comes as no surprise. The former star with Ottawa 67s of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series has been the best goalie of three candidates vying for the No. 1 job left vacant by the abdication of Ken Dryden.

Larocque has the best goals-against average in Montreal's pre-season games, allowing nine goals in 236 minutes of play. He was much sharper than Wayne Thomas and Michel Plasse, the other two Montreal netminders.

But a technicality almost put a crimp in Bowman's plans. Montreal still has Dryden on their reserve list along with Thomas and Plasse, leaving Larocque on the roster of Nova Scotia Voyageurs, the Canadiens' American Hockey League farm club.

NHL president Clarence Campbell said Tuesday however that Montreal could keep their three young goalies until Dryden's status is clarified. Dryden could be placed on the retired list.

Larocque was anxious to land a post with the Canadiens last season after playing 47 games with the Voyageurs and posting a 2.56 goals-against average.

"When I came to training camp, I had one thing in mind," Larocque said. "I wanted to play in the NHL."

But while Bowman has been generally satisfied with the play of his young goalie, he has not been enthralled with the work of those playing in front of him. The Canadiens finished with a 3-2-2 record in 10 exhibition games but Bowman, while not pleased with the results, noted "you can't always go by exhibition games" because there are just too many factors involved.

Bowman said he was not worried about the performance of his goaltenders adding that "when guys have played well over the years, you can't worry about exhibition games."

Thus Bowman is confident that Frank Mahovlich, who had two goals and three assists and his brother Peter, who had one goal in eight pre-season games, will be back in a scoring groove now that the regular season is upon them.

On other fronts, Buffalo Sabres gained a defenceman and St. Louis Blues lost one two rounds Tuesday.

The Sabres' Bob Plager was suspended for two games by Campbell for interfering with game officials and threatening physical violence to referee Andy van Hellemond in a game in Brantford, Ont., between the Blues and Pittsburgh Sept. 29.

The Sabres meanwhile announced that veteran Tim Horton has cancelled his retirement again and has signed a one-year contract with Buffalo. He will play in tonight's Leafs-Sabres game which will be televised nationally by CTV.

Junkin Sparks Golden Blades

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

After an up-and-down career, gunner Joe Junkin may have made his last stop in professional hockey.

The 37-year-old native of Lindsay, Ont., blocked 45 shots Tuesday night to help his latest team — the New York Golden Blades — defeat the Toros 3-2 in overtime before 4,255 fans at Toronto's Varsity Arena.

He stopped 42 shots in Cleveland Saturday night as the Blades and Crusaders battled to a 2-2 tie in the WHA season opener.

Not bad for a guy who once quit hockey altogether and played only eight minutes in the 1966-69 season for Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League.

In another league game Tuesday, New England Whalers edged Quebec Nordiques 3-2 on a goal by Hugh Harris with less than six minutes remaining. Houston Aeros defeated Los Angeles Sharks 5-3 in the final exhibition game.

Junkin made 29 saves in the first two periods before the Blades got untracked after trailing 3-1.

Brian Perry and Bob Jones each scored about one minute apart late in the third period to give the Blades the draw. Toronto outshot New York 7-4 in the scoreless 10-minute, sudden-death overtime period.

The Toros, picking up their second straight tie, got goals from Rick Sentes, Wayne Dillon and Brit Selby, all in the second period.

Junkin—who has played for Oklahoma City of the Central League, Hershey Bears of the American League and was with Syracuse of the Eastern League last season—stopped 16 shots in the first period while New York's fired five at Gilles Gratton.

Linesman Eric Manship, in his first league game after being released from Canadian Forces Base Borden, Ont., cut two fingers on his left hand when his skate blade became tangled with New York defenceman Harry Howell's skate. Twenty stitches were required.

The Toros trimmed their roster after the game by sending forwards Lou Nistico, Jeff Jacques and Gord Titcomb and defenceman Chris Worthington to Jacksonville of the AHL.

Before 8,403 fans in Boston, the Whalers bounced back with a strong performance after dropping a 4-3 decision Sunday night to the Nordiques in Quebec.

Tim Sheehy scored two goal for the Whalers who outshot the Nordiques 35-26. Hugh Harris, with Buffalo Sabres of the NHL last year, got the winner after taking a long lead pass from Brad Selwood. One of Quebec's scorers was Rejean Houle, formerly with Montreal Canadiens of the NHL.

In Detroit, Gordie Howe scored at 1:12 of the first period on a pass from son Mark to set more than 9,000 fans screaming for more than a minute.

The former NHL star got the goal after he stole the puck from a Los Angeles player, passed to Mark, took the puck back and beat the goalminder with a wrist shot.

Habs and Hawks Picked to Repeat

By IAN MacLAINE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Montreal Canadiens and Chicago Black Hawks will repeat as pennant winners in the National Hockey League's East and West divisions respectively but their fates are in the hands of the gods.

Montreal Canadiens
Boston Bruins
New York Rangers
Toronto Maple Leafs
Buffalo Sabres
Vancouver Canucks
Detroit Red Wings
New York Islanders

With Dryden taking the year off to article in a Toronto law firm (amid reports he's being paused to report to the WHA) Toronto Toros when his Montreal contract expires next year), the Canadiens' goaltending job remained wide open.

Michel (Bunny) Larocque, last year with Nova Scotia Voyageurs of the American League, has impressed in pre-season games. He still has to contend with last year's backup men, Michel Plasse and Wayne Thomas, neither of whom looked out of place in 25 games they played in 1972-73 when the Canadiens lost only 10 games.

The defending-Stanley Cup champions are solid on defence—Guy Lapointe, Serge Savard, Larry Robinson, Jacques Laperriere—and coach Scotty Bowman still has Jacques Lemaire, Yvan Cournoyer, Frank and Peter Mahovlich up front.

Highly regarded minor league Yvon Lambert (52-52-104) and Dave Gardner (23-44-67) from Nova Scotia along with rookies Bob Gainey and Glenn Goldup could break the lineup, especially with the losses of Rejean Houle and Marc Tardif to the WHA.

Centre Phil Esposito, NHL scoring champion the last four years, and a healthy Bobby Orr should get the Bruins off to a fast start.

Addition of Andre Savard from Quebec Remparts of the Quebec Major Junior Hockey League will offset the loss of veteran Fred Stanfield o Minnesota North Stars.

But with an Orr-oriented offensive defence, newcomer Gilles Gilbert and holdover Ross Brooks—possibly Ken Broderick from San Diego Gulls—should see a lot of shots at the Boston goal.

Not too many changes in the Rangre lineup—coach Larry Pepid the most notable—and New York still hasn't got the takeclange guy that can keep the opposition honest. Brad Park, Jim Neilson and Dale Rolfe give the Broadway Blues a solid defence if they can escape injuries that have plagued the blueline in recent years.

But up front, veterans Vic Hadfield, Rod Gilbert and Jean Ratelle aren't getting any younger.

Toronto, after several years of mediocrity, could be a pleasant surprise for new coach Red Kelly. Leafs drafted well from the juniors and their first-round picks, defencemen Bob Neely and Ian Turnbull and forward Lanny McDonald, should stick.

And they'll be stronger in goal with Ed Johnston (Bruins), Doug Favell (Philadelphia Flyers) and Dunc Wilson (Vancouver) to call on.

Buffalo Sabres are going to Larry Hillman (WHA) on defence to help their youthful blueline corp some stability. The Rick Dudley-Gil Perreault-Rene Robert line is going to need support.

Vancouver had a great preseason record, but the Canucks will miss the playoffs for the fourth straight year. Goalies Smith and Jacques Caron and Korab won't give the team enough defence.

Ted Garvin, another new coach, will have to get big years again from Mickey Redmond (52 goals), veteran Alex Delvecchio and Marcel Dionne up front if Detroit is to challenge.

The fledgling Islanders gave up a record 347 goals last season. It's doubtful they'll surpass that total this year. They've improved that part of their game by adding Bert Marshall from the Rangers' bench and Denis Potvin, the No. 1 pick in the Canadian junior draft.

Chicago was given a good test by several West Division teams before pulling away in the closing weeks. They'll probably hold first in another close race:

Chicago Black Hawks
Philadelphia Flyers
Minnesota North Stars
Los Angeles Kings
Atlanta Flames
Pittsburgh Penguins
St. Louis Blues
California Golden Seals
The Hawks still have a lot of scoring power—Jim Pappin, Dennis Hull, Pit Martin, Stan Mikita, Cliff Koroll and Dalton. The latter, despite a promising junior career, has yet to prove himself in the big leagues.

Goaltending behind Tony Esposito remains a question mark, but the Chicago defence, anchored by Bill White and Doug Jarrett, should remain a strong point.

Goal scoring should be the least of Philadelphia's problems with the likes of Bobby Clarke, Rick MacLeish, Bill Flett and Bill Barber. If they can keep Bernie Parent happy, the Flyers should also be happy in goal.

One weakness could be at the blueline where defence lacked mobility and general aggressiveness in pre-season outings.

Maturity and balance are Minnesota's strong point, but the aging legs of goalie Gump Worsley, 46, who retired last January) and 41-year-old Dean Prentice may hamper progress.

New faces—Stanfield, Blake Dunlop, Terry Holbrook and Tony Featherstone—could crack the lineup, the Stars biggest turnover in three years.

Los Angeles faded badly in the run for a playoff spot last year, but confidence gained over-all under rookie coach Bob Pulford should carry over to this season.

Bob Murdoch joins former Montreal teammate Terry Harper to bolster defence in front of Rogatien Vachon, another ex-Canadien.

The Flames surprised in their first NHL season, and there's no reason to suppect they'll falter with strong goaltending from Phil Myre and Dan Bouchard. Coach Bernie Geoffrion had the Atlantans flying and general manager Cliff Fletcher recruited well.

Inconsistency at the blueline is the biggest knock against the Flames, but they should add scoring punch with rookies Tom Lysiak and Vic Mercredi.

The Blues have a lot of muscle, but aside from Garry Unger they're short on offence. Promising first-year men, goalie John Davidson and defencemen Bob Gassoff and George Pesut, could make St. Louis a contender.

California concentrated on rounds at the draft meetings, but Charley Finley's Golden Seals, already mediocre defence, were further decimated by defections of Rick Smith and Darryl Maggs to the WHA.

Hustling youth and muscle won't elevate the Seals beyond eighth place in the West.

1. Nails should be placed as close as possible to all four edges of the panel. Also, panels should be nailed in the grooves to the wood strapping which is at 16-inch centres on the wall. IMPORTANT: All nails should be spaced 6-inches apart to avoid warping.

Use coloured nails that match the panel colour.

2. If you're using Panel Adhesive, apply a complete bead of adhesive along each edge, or at any point touching the stud or the strapping. NOTE: to avoid panel slipping, nailed each end of panel, top and bottom.

PC Backbencher Scorches Restricting Land Ownership

TORONTO (CP) — A government backbencher has written a scathing minority report criticizing a provincial legislature committee for proposing "sweeping restrictions" on foreign ownership" of corporate and commercial land in Ontario.

William Newman (PC — Ontario South) was the major dissenter of the 11-man committee report on economic and cultural nationalism tabled in the legislature Tuesday by committee chairman Russell Rowe (PC—Northumberland).

Mr. Newman said the committee had gone too far, and should have opted instead for a selective system of controls which would preserve the equity interests of present landowners and be "more appropriate and equitable."

He said the proposal to ban future sales of industrial and commercial land to foreigners would have a detrimental effect on the economic development of the province.

The committee's 26 major proposals on foreign ownership of land were made public last month by Mr. Rowe after they were disclosed by the Toronto Star.

Main thurst of the recommendations is that only Canadian citizens or landed immigrants should be permitted to buy or lease land in Ontario.

It also agreed that sales to corporations should be restricted to firms whose ownership is 75 per cent Canadian. Foreign-dominated companies would be affected only the right to lease lands.

Mr. Newman, parliamentary secretary to Transportation Minister Gordon Carton, was concerned about the impact of the committee's proposals on industrial and business activity.

"In my view, foreign-owned companies, and the jobs, technology, taxes and so on that they bring with them, should continue to be welcome and they should be entitled to acquire the land on which their premises may be located, and to any capital appreciation in their real estate holdings."

U. S. Firm Given Aid Indians Denied: Lewis

TORONTO (CP) — New Democratic Leader Stephen Lewis charged Tuesday that the province loaned an American-based firm $75,000 to develop a campsite while a nearby Indian-run park was unable to get government help to expand its camping facilities.

Mr. Lewis said in the legislature that the loan went to Camp Grounds of America for a site near Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

But, he said, the Garden River reserve operates a busy and popular park nearby but was "desperately" trying to obtain government funding to extend its campsites.

Claude Bonnetl, industry and tourism minister, promised to "look into it."

Potter Opens X-ray Unit

TORONTO (CP) — Hundreds of heart patients treated each year at Toronto General Hospital will receive improved care through a new x-ray machine, the first of its kind in the world, Ontario Health Minister Dr. Richard Potter said Tuesday.

His comments came as he cut a "ribbon" of vidtolape to officially open a new x-ray unit which has attracted medical experts from throughout Europe and North America since it was completed recently.

Separatist Quebec Budget Shows Surplus First Year

MONTREAL (CP) — The long-awaited Parti Quebecois budget for the first year of an independent Quebec was released Tuesday and it immediately ran into criticism.

The budget, released in Quebec City by Jacques Parizeau, party economist and candidate in Montreal Cremazie in the Oct. 29 Quebec election, predicts a $181.5 million surplus for the province's first year of independence.

All services provided now by the federal government would be maintained except for the armed forces which would be fined at 8,000 men and at an annual cost of $186 million.

The proposed budget would yield the surplus on total expenditures of $11,494 billion and revenues of $11,675 billion.

Premier Robert Bourassa, who has been calling on the two Parti Quebecois for two months to release the document, was quick to react to what he called contradictions in the budget.

These involved both a proposed monetary union with the rest of Canada and the prediction of a budgetary surplus despite increased expenditures and decreased taxes.

Gabriel Loubier, Union Nationale leader, said in Montreal the proposed budget is ridiculous and does not show how a separatist government would raise funds.

In Lotbiniere riding, southwest of Quebec City, Parti Quebecois chief Yves Dupuis said he did not want to waste time on the budget.

Mr. Parizeau said after introducing the proposed budget he is willing to debate it with Finance Minister Raymond Garneau who issued a challenge for such a debate when the election was announced Sept. 25. Mr. Lewis said he is willing to debate the budget with Premier Bourassa "as long as the rules are equitable."

Surgeon Did Not Know When Anesthetist Left

BURLINGTON,O nt. (CP) — A surgeon whose patient died during an operation testified Tuesday that if he had known that the anesthetist was leaving the operating room, he would have asked him to stay.

Dr. Shri Krashan Bhalla was testifying at the third day of an inquest into the death of Dr. Frederick Cole, a vacationing British radiologist, who died in surgery at Joseph Brant Memorial Hospital last March.

Dr. Bhalla said he was "disturbed" when he learned from nurses in the room that Dr. Frederick Lapp, the anesthetist, had just left before the patient developed critical complications.

Diane Cormier, a nurse who attended at the operation, testified earlier that Dr. Bhalla exclaimed, "Christ, he shouldn't have left the room," when he learned of Dr. Lapp's absence.

A number of doctors have already told the inquest that they do not believe that the absence of Dr. Lapp, who was called to the maternity labor room, contributed to Dr. Cole's death.

Reserve Ruling

TORONTO (CP) — The immigration appeal board reserved decision Tuesday on Xaviers Hollander's appeal against a deportation order.

Miss Hollander, 30, who wrote the best-seller, The Happy Hooker, was ordered deported by immigration officials last February.

Canada's Inflation Only About Average

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's inflation, although the steepest in 25 years, is only about average in a world of sharply rising living costs, latest international figures showed Tuesday.

Eleven of the 24 nations in the Organization of Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) have had a larger consumer price increases over the past year than Canada's 8.3 per cent, and four countries fared worse in August than this country's unusually large 1.3 per-cent jump that month.

A report by the OECD said Japan, Italy, the United Kingdom, Denmark, Ireland, Finland, Greece, Iceland, Portugal, Spain and Turkey all had bigger increases in living costs than Canada over the last year.

In August, when Canada's 1.3 per-cent price increase marked the greatest single monthly rise in this country since 1951, even larger increases were reported in the U.S. with 1.8 per cent, Japan 1.4, Finland 2.6 and Spain 1.8 per cent.

While the measurements of living costs are not precisely the same in the various countries, "there are a lot more similarities than differences," said an official of Statistics Canada.

The OECD report from Paris appears to bear out at least in part, Finance Minister John Turner's contention that Canada's recent price increases are related to worldwide inflation that makes it especially difficult for one country to try to bring under control.

The report also indicates that Canada was one of the best countries to be drawn into the international spiral of escalating price increases over the last few years.

Third lowest

It showed that Canada's average consumer price rise of 2.7 per cent per year from 1959 to 1970 was tied with Germany for the third lowest of the 24 OECD nations, with only Greece and Luxembourg reporting lower figures of 2.1 and 2.6 per cent respectively.

From the enviable position of having the lowest rise in living costs (2.9 per cent) of the 24-nation group in 1971, Canada moved to fourth lowest in 1972.

Now, Canada stands squarely in the middle of the group with 11 nations reporting greater inflation in the 12 months dating back from August. Eleven had lower price increases and one—Switzerland—tied with this country at 8.3 per cent.

The report gave these percentages for price increases in the various countries over the most recent 12 months: Canada 8.3, United States 7.6, Japan 12.6, Australia 8.1, New Zealand 7.6, France 7.5, Germany 7.1, Italy 11.7, United Kingdom 8.9, Belgium 6.8, Luxembourg 5.5, Denmark 9.3, Ireland 11.2, Netherlands 8.1, Australia 7.9, Finland 13.5, Greece 15.5, Iceland 20.0, Norway 6.7, Portugal 12.0, Spain 12.3, Sweden 6.7, Switzerland 8.3, Turkey 11.3.

Disease Still Stalks Across Dark Continent

BRAZZAVILLE, Congo (AP) — Black Africa's greatest natural enemy, disease, stalks the continent from the edge of the Sahara Desert to the Cape of Good Hope despite the miracles of space-age medicine.

Millions of dollars, crash medical programs and wonder drugs have done little to relieve the 227 million people of the region from chronic ill health and widespread death.

"Except for India and Pakistan," says a World Health Organization expert, "Africa is the most afflicted area on earth."

The countries are so backward and statistics so unreliable that the toll of disease in Africa can only be guessed at.

Several million are threatened by starvation in the sub-Saharan zone of West Africa in the wake of the area's worst drought in six decades.

They are being kept alive by a massive international relief effort that is pouring tens of thousands of tons of food into the region.

Even in the best of years, Africans suffer acute malnutrition brought on by poverty, ignorance, taboos and chronic failure to boost local food production.

The rapid and uncontrolled growth of cities in creating urban jungles across Africa which lack the most basic health facilities.

Nigeria's overcrowded capital, Lagos, has a population fast approaching two million but no modern sewage or waste disposal.

Health is so poor and facilities are so lacking in Africa that of 1,000 children born about 500 will die before the age of 5.

Malaria, the most widespread disease in tropical Africa, affects 100 million and kills some odd million annually, mostly children under the age of 4.

About 57,000 people in the Volta River basin in West Africa have been blinded by onchocerciasis, a parasitic disease transmitted by the buffalo gnat or black fly.

Officials here say some 10 million people in the region, which includes parts of Ivory Coast, Upper Volta, Mali, Niger and Togo, are threatened by the illness.

At least 1.7 million Africans are known to suffer from leprosy although WHO officials estimate the true number is twice that figure.

Also widely prevalent is schistosomiasis, a snail-borne disease which saps energy and lowers resistance to other ailments.

Another major economic burden is sleeping sickness brought on by the tsetse fly which affects a third of black Africa's land area, about a quarter of the human population and an even higher proportion of livestock.

One of Africa's chief killers is cholera which at the height of an epidemic in 1971 claimed 63,000 known victims, of whom 11,000 died.

But WHO officials say many more die annually from measles.

It is generally considered a harmless childhood ailment in Europe where only four persons per 10,000 cases die. But in Africa, of the same 10,000, from 400 to 1,000 lives are lost.

Thousands of others are stricken each year by endemic diseases ranging from polio and cerebrospinal meningitis to tuberculosis and even, in rare cases, plague.

One of the few success stories in Africa has been the fight against smallpox.

A massive eradication campaign mounted jointly by the United States, WHO and two African regional health organizations between 1967 and 1971 has all but wiped out the disease.

Health services only reach one-quarter of rural Africa which embraces 80 per cent or more of the region's people.

There is barely one doctor per 50,000 people in most African countries. Most are overworked, underpaid and concentrated in urban centres.

The number has changed little in a decade despite an increase in the number of medical schools. This is largely due to the "brain drain" to developed nations where pay is higher and modern research facilities are more available.

Chronic political instability, coups and sudden changes of government lead to interruption in the preparation and implementation of health programs.

The many sources of foreign aid, and co-ordination among them, result in a dispersion of effort.

Limited resources result in a chaotic administrative system. In more than 80 per cent of the cases, complains WHO, "administrative shortcomings have been responsible for the failure of socio-economic development plans."

And health remains a low priority in many countries.

"Too many African leaders," complains a WHO official here, "would rather build running complexes or industries than hospitals and medical centres."

LONDON (AP) — A sports car collided with a panel truck in the midst of London traffic. A male man jumped out of the car and began an argument. "From the way he was standing arguing," said a bystander, "you would have thought he had his best suit on." The man got a free mental examination at the local police station.

Quebec Directors Threaten Boycott

MONTREAL (CP) - A surprise move by 14 Quebec directors has organizers of the Canadian Film Awards up in the air on the issue of whether there will be any awards this year.

The directors, members of the Association des Realisateurs de Film du Quebec (Quebec Film Directors' Association) said Monday they will boycott the awards presentation Friday and "refuse in advance any prizes that might be awarded to them."

The announcement came midway through the first day of showings here until now of the 35-year-old awards have been presented in Toronto.

"They dropped a bomb on us," Marcia Ouellie, organizer of the event said Monday night.

The directors' statement, which included the signature of association president Jacques Gagne, says the awards "piaffarien" the Academy Awards in the United States.

The statement also says, the "rejection of certain films, imposed by the logic of the awards, gives a maldirected picture of our (Quebecois) production."

"We believe that it is ridiculous in 1973 to collaborate in an award which, by its bicultural organization, creates the impression of homogeneity in Canadian cinema."

The awards organizers then issued this statement:

"As a result of the stand taken by the Association des Realisateurs de Films du Quebec with regard to the Canadian Film Awards, the administrators of the Film Awards have decided to cancel the official awards presentation . . . Questioned about the possibility of cancellation of the awards themselves, a spokesman for the organizers said: 'That hasn't been decided yet.'

Six of the 14 directors who signed the statement have films entered in the feature-film category of the competition.

The remainder have films in some other category and at least one—Mr. Gagnon—had a film rejected by the pre-selection committee.

All have said they will not withdraw their films from the showings this week.

After pre-selection , a total of 283 entries, including 32 feature-length films, were chosen to present to the international jury.

Payments to the child are to continue until she reaches 21 or marries.

ZURICH (AP) — Curt Jurgens and his fourth wife, French-born model Simone Boucheron, have agreed to a reconciliation on the eve of a divorce hearing scheduled before a Zurich court, the Austrian actor's lawyer said Tuesday.

Divorce proceedings had been initiated after a 15-year marriage amid reports of a romance between Simone and an unnamed young Greek movie maker.

Jurgens and his wife were not available for comment.

Elvis Makes Ex-wife Instant Millionaire

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (easter) — Singer Elvis Presley, 38, divorced Tuesday the girl he met while he was an army private stationed in Germany in 1959.

Presley's divorce from his wife of six years, Priscilla, 28, was granted on the grounds of "irreconcilable differences."

Arthur Toll, Mrs. Presley's lawyer, said she will get more than $1 million in a property settlement.

In addition, Presley is to pay his former wife $4,200 monthly support for one year and another $1,000 monthly for the education of their only child, Lisa, 5.

Skelton Marries Third Time

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Comedian Red Skelton left the church trailing wisecracks after his solemn, single-ring wedding to Lothian Toland.

"This was a double-ring ceremony," Skelton said as he clutched the arm of his beaming bride. "We had two rings, one for her finger and one for my nose."

The marriage Monday at San Francisco's First Unitarian Church was Skelton's third and his 35-year-old bride's first.

The new Mrs. Skelton looked up at her husband and said softly: "I just know I really love you very much." Skelton kissed her on the cheek.

The bridegroom, 60, was referred to as "Richard" by Rev. David Rankin, who performed the ceremony.

Receives Award

HAMILTON (CP) — The Hamilton chapter of Parents Without Partners has won an international community service award from the parent organization. The chapter was cited for its role in the formation of Separate Parents: A Need (SPAN), a pilot project to help newly-separated families.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDEROSE.

Thursday, Oct. 11

Aries (March 21-April 19) You'll run into opposition where one-to-one relationships are concerned. Concessions will avoid confrontation.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) Today won't be too easy. You'll have some additional responsibilities you won't be able to duck. Do them cheerfully.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) A strain is developing between you and a friend. It may become evident today. Work things out quickly before a split occurs.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) Your image will lose some luster if you become too dictatorial with others. Treat them as respectfully as you would like to be treated.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) You will have a difficult time making up your mind. This will leave you frustrated.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Are you sure you haven't forgotten to pay an old obligation. If you have, it's likely to make its existence felt today.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Someone is going to offend you today with their aggressiveness. Don't make an issue of it. It could develop into something nasty.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't break any obligations under the rug today. Rather, meet them head-on — they'll turn into something worse.

Sagittaries (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You will resent anyone trying to manage you or your affairs today. You will let them know it in no uncertain terms. Cool off.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) There will be outside pressures that will have an effect upon the family as a whole. Wait it out—it will pass.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Do a matter you're rather secretive about, lest you don't discuss it with it's no further. Gossip it will go no further.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20) Don't assume new financial obligations today. You may be balancing on more than you can chew. It's not wise to overburden yourself now.

Keep Out

THEYDON MOUNT, England (CP) — Several warnings posted along the surrounding fences of Hill Hall Prison read: "Trespassers will be prosecuted."

Receive Charter

MONTREAL (CP) — The Apostles of Infinite Love, a breakaway Roman Catholic sect, have received a federal charter. The sect has its own leader, Pope Gregory XVI, and considers Pope Paul a heretic.

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE

SHAWANO'S TOPS FOR INVESTMENT
In today's skyrocketing prices, Shawano is an outstanding investment.
Many lot owners have seen the value of their land increase by 50% or more.
Buying a lot at Shawano is an even better investment than ever before for three reasons. One, the province is running a recreational land Tax, a type of crown land for cottages is halted. Three, provincial planning regulations have restricted private development.
You can still buy a big, 16-acre lakefront lot at Shawano from $2000 with 10% down and excellent financing.
Shawano is the beautiful 1000-acre wilderness recreational area in the historic Highlands of Hastings, 52 scenic miles north of Maples via Highway 62. Marvelous swimming, boating and fishing.

Questions and Answers On Highway Travel

Ontario Motor League Eastern Ontario Club

QUESTION: We will be spending quite a bit of time in Alberta this winter, based mainly on Calgary. Being enthusiastic skiers, we wonder if you can give us any details on where the best skiing is to be found.

ANSWER: Basically, there are five major skiing areas in Alberta: Sunshine Village, Lake Louise and Mt. Norquay in the Banff area; West Castle near the American border; Marmot Basin in Jasper National Park.

Sunshine Village, 14 miles from Banff, is literally on top of the world, being the highest of the five areas. It is accessible only by bus for the last three miles. Once at the village, there is a modern inn with dining and bar facilities. It accommodates 180 guests.

A day lodge nearby has a self-help canteen, a licensed dining area, and live entertainment. There is also a fully-equipped ski shop, rental service and a ski school. The 10 - square - mile ski area is serviced by three chair lifts, two T-bars and a beginner's tow. The base of the lifts is at 7,000 foot altitude, the top of Wawa chair lift (the highest) is at 9,000 feet.

Lake Louise is a few miles further west than Sunshine on the Trans-Canada Highway. The Lake Louise ski gondola rises from the valley floor at 5,050 feet altitude and the top of the new Eagle chair lift is at 7,300 feet. Seven lifts, including the gondola, three double chairs, two pomas and a T-bar give a total vertical ascent of 8,000 feet and access to over 35 miles of well - groomed trails. Three strategically placed day lodges provide cafeteria food service. It is considered the best spot for all levels of skiers, covering two sides of Whitehorn Mountain and one side of Temple. Accommodation is available in Lake Louise Village, a short distance from the slopes, and at Temple Lodge, a rustic chalet right in the ski area.

Mt. Norquay, three miles west of Banff, rises above the town and has some of the most challenging ski slopes in North America. They are fit for world champions. It also has some milder intermediate slopes. A newly renovated day lodge, ski shop and coffee shop are situated at the base of the chair lift, where skiers can enjoy the superb view and refreshments at the same time.

Although less sophisticated than the other mountain areas, West Castle nevertheless has excellent snow conditions and possesses a combination of steep, challenging expert runs and moderate intermediate slopes. Long, level cross - country trails into the Waterton Park area are also available. Accommodation includes a lodge, cabins and a dormitory, but they are open on week-ends and Wednesdays only except for two weeks at Christmas and Easter. Additional accommodation is available at nearby Pincher Creek.

Marmot Basin area has been geologically blessed because the peaks form an Alpine basin above the tree line, providing wide, sweeping runs and protection from the wind — great for getting a super tan in spring. Marmot offers skiing at an altitude of 8,271 feet down to the timberline at 6,800 feet. It is suitable for every category of skier from shaky novice to championship class veteran. Two chair lifts and two T-bars serve the area. Day lodges at two different levels offer cafeteria and full course meals. The upper chalet has a beer and wine license while the lower one serves beer and wine only between 3 and 5 p.m. The nearby town of Jasper offers a wide range of accommodations from the elegant Jasper Park Lodge to more modest hotels and motels, with five - day ski packages offered by most of them.

Helicopter ski jaunts were introduced in Alberta last year, and no skier should miss this mind - expanding experience.

The whirly-bird picks skiers up in Banff after an early breakfast and flies them south into the Kananskis range. The ride in the glass bubble is a glorious experience in itself as the vast, gleaming wilds pass below. Once at the peaks, the fantastic runs are four to six miles this mind - expanding feet of skiing is guaranteed in powder snow and sublime solitude. Then it's back to Banff in time for dinner. Cost for the day is approximately $80.

Nixon Seeks Successor

Agnew Quits; Fined For Evasion of Tax

WASHINGTON (CP) — Faced with one of the gravest political developments in United States history, President Nixon has begun wide-ranging consultations to find a replacement for Spiro Agnew as vice-president.

Agnew, who had insisted for two months that he had done nothing wrong and had "nothing to hide," resigned Wednesday and pleaded no contest in court to a charge of income-tax evasion. He was fined $10,000 and placed on three years' probation.

In return, the justice department dropped other possible charges of bribery, extortion and conspiracy. But as part of the deal, Attorney-General Elliot Richardson released a 40-page summary outlining allegations against Agnew of a decade of illegal payoffs and shakedowns from Maryland contractors, even after Agnew left the Maryland governor's mansion and became vice-president.

Within hours of the shattering developments, Nixon was busy consulting with Republican and Democratic leaders of Congress about a successor as vice-president.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield (Dem., Mont.) told reporters that a nominee could be put forward by late this week or early next.

Any successor would have to be approved by a majority vote of both the Senate and the House of Representatives, under a constitutional amendment passed in 1967.

Both Mansfield and Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott said Nixon appeared to be keeping an open mind about who should replace Agnew.

Leading contenders to succeed Agnew appeared to be Gerald Ford, Republican leader in the House of Representatives; California Governor Ronald Reagan; New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller; John Connally, former treasury secretary and former Democratic governor of Texas who became a Republican earlier this year; and Senator Barry Goldwater Arizona, the Republican presidential candidate in 1964.

Political observers noted that in the event of Nixon's death before a new vice-president is approved the next in line for the presidency is a Democrat: Representative Carl Albert of Oklahoma, the speaker of the House.

With the Democrats in control of Congress, a stiff battle is expected if Nixon chooses a Republican to succeed Agnew because the vice-presidency as a springboard for a presidential campaign in 1976.

And aspirants for the Republican nomination or their supporters might also challenge the president if they feel that the nominee had a head start over them in the struggle to succeed Nixon, barred by the Constitution from seeking a third term.

Agnew admitted in court that he received payments from contractors during 1967, when he was governor of Maryland, and these were not useful for political campaigning and not declared on his income tax returns.

He also acknowledged that contracts were awarded by state agencies to firms who made those payments and that he was aware of those payments.

But he denied allegations, attributed in press reports to witnesses testifying before a grand jury, that he engaged in bribery, extortion and conspiracy.

The specific count to which he pleaded no contest was that in 1967 he and Mrs. Agnew reported taxable income of slightly more than $29,000 when their joint income actually exceeded $55,000.

Tank Battle in Sinai

Israeli Forces Cross Into Syrian Territory

From AP-REUTER

Fighting raged with undiminished ferocity on two fronts today as the Middle East war entered its fifth day.

The sixth day of the war assumed special significance in both sides—this was how long it took the Israelis to overrun the Arabs in the 1967 war. But latest battlefront reports underlined the hard truth that this time there will be no easy victory for either side.

The Israeli military command announced that its ground forces crossed the ceasefire line in the Golan Heights and staged a hit-and-run commando raids across the Suez canal.

Israeli air and naval raids on Syrian and Egyptian positions along the Mediterranean coast and the canal were also confirmed by Arab communiques. They reported the attacks were repulsed.

In the Golan Heights, Israel reported its forces were attacking Syrian armored and infantry forces guarding the road to Damascus. The attack was not mentioned in Syrian communiques.

Commando raids behind the Egyptian Suez canal front struck at "convoys and rear echelons of the enemy," the Israeli command said. The report was dismissed in Cairo as false.

Communiques from Syria said 77 Israeli jets were shot down in savage air battles that raged over the Arab country, and Egyptian communiques said nine more Israeli jets were downed over the Suez canal front after an Egyptian armored force encircled fleeing Israeli tanks and destroyed an entire column.

Israeli tanks and destroyed an entire column.

Syria and Egypt now have claimed shooting down 377 Israeli planes since the start of hostilities Saturday. Israel's air force totals 488 planes.

The Egyptians, who had penetrated nine miles east of the canal into Israeli-occupied Sinai, said today an armored force had encircled fleeing Israeli tanks and destroyed an entire column.

Hijacked Plane Flown From Manila to Hong Kong

HONG KONG (AP) — Three armed Filipinos hijacked a Philippine Air Line jet today and flew from Manila to Hong Kong with the airline's president and vice-president as hostages, military authorities said.

Scores of armed police were stationed at the Hong Kong airport when the plane landed but did not approach the craft.

Minutes after the plane landed, a hijacker asked to speak to a senior airport official.

Roy Henry, a senior officer on duty, and an airport control officer entered a car and drove toward the plane. It was not immediately known whether they entered the plane.

Brig.-Gen. Jose Rancudo, Philippine air force commander, said the plane was taken by three men, not four as originally reported by authorities.

Scheme Outlined

U.S. Says Agnew Headed Shakedown

WASHINGTON (AP) — Spiro Agnew cut deals with the law and reaped thousands of dollars as the kingpin in a shadowy scheme of shakedowns, United States government prosecutors say.

For at least a decade, Agnew actively encouraged the undercover kickback tradition known only to an inner circle of Maryland politicians and contractors seeking state business, the government claimed Wednesday.

He complained often that the demands of public office required a lavishness he could not afford on his salary alone. The contractors helped with frequent cash gifts, knowing they would be rewarded with lucrative state contracts, the prosecutors said.

The scheme was described in detail in a 40-page outline filed by U.S. Attorney George Beall with the district judge who accepted Agnew's no-contest plea to a tax-evasion charge. The plea was entered moments after Agnew quit the vice-presidency.

Agnew admitted he received payments in 1967 and that he knew the money was taxable. He denied the other allegations and said he took part only in "a long-established pattern of political fund-raising in the state."

Attorney-General Elliot Richardson said the evidence shows "serious wrongdoing" but said he chose a quick settlement rather than inflict "serious and permanent scars" upon the nation through a protracted trial.

The outline of evidence was remarkable for its graphic and unprecedented portrayal of wrongdoing by the second highest officer in the United States.

It laid out for public scrutiny many details gathered in a nine-month investigation.

The accusations focused on Agnew's relationships with four old friends and business associates:

—I. H. (Bod) Hammerman, a wealthy Baltimore banker and real estate tycoon who allegedly acted as bag man for payoffs.

—Jerome Wolff, a lawyer and engineer appointed by Agnew as Maryland Roads Commission chairman, now president of the engineering firm of Greiner Engineering.

Whelan Says Rich Must Pay For Poor's Food

OTTAWA (CP) — The richer people of the world must make a serious commitment to pay a "reasonable" amount for food for the less fortunate, Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan said Wednesday.

His comments were in the text of a speech prepared for the Canadian Diplomatic Representatives Association and read by his assistant, Henry Vandermeulen.

Mr. Whelan said that in the past food give-aways have been based on production surpluses that no longer exist. Now food prices reflect the actual cost of production, he added, and give-aways will cost more.

City workmen are seen planting one of the eight Lindens located on the market square.

Bourassa Is Ordered to Appear in Court To Answer Contempt Charge Over Book

MONTREAL (CP) — Premier Robert Bourassa was ordered Wednesday to appear in court next week to answer allegations that he is in contempt of court for his recently-published book on the James Bay hydroelectric development.

The Quebec Superior Court order by Chief Justice Jules Deschenes came after arguments by lawyers for the Indians of Quebec Association that the book, James Bay, prejudices their request for an injunction to stop the hydro project.

Mr. Bourassa was ordered to appear Tuesday, in the midst of his campaign for re-election in the Oct. 29 Quebec general election.

James O'Reilly, a lawyer for the Indians of Quebec Association, said that if association lawyers agree, Mr. Bourassa may send a lawyer to represent him at the hearing.

Chief Justice Deschenes said the book, published last week, appears at first glance to be "an inadmissible interference with the normal course of justice."

The injunction request against the $3.5-billion hydroelectric project has been under consideration by the court following six months of court hearings. Chief Justice Deschenes said the book "can easily be interpreted as an attempt to influence public opinion in favor of one party involved in the James Bay case."

Artist in Waiting

When business is slow at her store, the Door in the Wall on Prince Edward Gangway, Joanne Antonucci doesn't let the time go to waste. Instead she gets out her oils, a palette knife and an idea in her head and starts a painting. This is only natural as her store specializes in the sale of artwork and handicrafts of local artisans as well as her own work. It usually takes her a day to complete a painting, and is "a productive way of putting in time" said Joanne, who together with her husband Steve, have run the store since January. And business is booming, she said, although there are quiet days which are well-spent anyway.

—Allen Green, president of Green Associates Inc., one of the Maryland engineering firms that received hefty state contracts during the Agnew administration.

—Leger Metz, president of Metz, Childs and Associates Inc., and a sister firm that also banked in Agnew's favor.

Though Richardson said none of the major witnesses was granted immunity from prosecution, the documents said Metz and Wolff were assured that their sworn statements would not be used "in any criminal proceeding."

Green and Hammerman each have served to plead guilty to a single federal charge of tax violation and co-operate with the investigation in return for a government pledge to bring no other criminal charges. Each faces a maximum two-year prison sentence, the prosecutors said.

After the 1962 election of Agnew as Baltimore County executive, six men named middleman set up a system for Metz to kick back five per cent of fees on county contracts the prosecutors said.

Metz's business became governor in 1967, the kickback system grew.

Shortly after taking office, Agnew instructed his old friend Hammerman to develop his tactics with Wolff, the prosecutors said.

Wolff insisted on a cut and Agnew agreed to a one-quarter share each for Hammerman and Wolff and half for himself the prosecutors said.

The evidence, said the prosecutors, "establishes that Hammerman obtained, and split with Mr. Agnew and Wolff, cash payments from (seven different) contractors" in return for state engineering contracts, and from the financial institution in return for a lucrative arrangement with the state concerning the issuing of certain state bonds.

Green made semi-monthly payments amounting to $11,000 each in 1967 and 1968 during which his company received about 16 contracts with fees between $1 million and $4 million, the government said.

Agnew's election as vice-president in 1968 disturb the kickback arrangement with Metz and Green, the prosecutors said. However, they said that the two found that Agnew had influence with federal contract awards.

Coming Events

Spark Starts Fire

MARMORA — A spark that flew from their fireplace and ignited a spray container of gas threatened to destroy the cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Kislin at Crowe Lake on Monday evening.

Destruction of some floor tiles and wall panelling and smoke damage resulted.

Marmora volunteer firefighters were called but found the blaze had been extinguished the blaze, despite suffering some burn injuries on their hands fighting the fire.

Plaque Approved

MARMORA — A request for a plaque inscribed with the names of principal donors on or near the Marmora Arena's new ice plant was received at the United Steelworkers Local 4854 by Village council this week.

It was approved by council, pending discussion with the Marmora Arena Reconstruction Committee.

One of the first major contributors to the ice plant, the union felt some recognition should be given before the closing of the Marmoraton Mining Company, due to close in 1977 and at which the Steelworkers' local is the labor bargaining agent.

Similar requests will be sent to the Deloro Community Centre Board and the Madoc Medical Centre Board which also received donations.

Septic Tanks Are Blamed

MARMORA — Septic tank saturation is blamed for one householder's complaints of home flooding here.

E. C. O'Connor has been advised by village council that nothing can be done to alleviate flooding conditions at his sister's home on Forsyth St. until the village's proposed sewage disposal system is being installed. Council did promise this week that the village's works department would supply emergency pumping, if necessary.

Complaints centre on cellar-flooding, caused by numerous septic tanks saturating the low lying area. Deputy Reeve Grant Ahrtart said, "It would be too costly for the village to undertake installing drains alone, Reeve J. R. Reynolds said, but at such time as the sewage system is underway, subsidies will be available from the government to assist with the cost of putting in storm sewers.

Mine Shutdown Problems

Manpower Views Marmora Situation

MARMORA — The federal government is exploring ways of softening the impact on this area when its biggest industry — Marmoraton Mining Company — closes out in three years.

That's the indication from local government and mine spokesmen here who say they have spoken with a senior Canada Manpower official.

As yet there have been no tangible developments and any discussion to date has been of a preliminary nature, say local spokesmen.

Canada Manpower has a consultative service that aims at facilitating community and worker readjustment in an industrial phaseout with the local significance of Marmoraton being emphasized.

Village clerk William Shannon said the result of the federal agency's interest could be a committee representing the community, management and labor to consider alternatives when the iron - ore mine — now employing about 300 — closes in 1977.

Mr. Shannon said he talked the situation over for the first time in mid - September with Derryck Adamson, director of Manpower's consultative service in Ontario.

At that time, Mr. Shannon said, the official explained he was collecting details on the local situation.

Later, after interviewing mine and workers' representatives, the official will "return to the village and help ... the community at large to plan a program of replacement" to ease economic problems after the mine shuts, said Mr. Shannon.

The clerk said Manpower pays 50 per cent of costs involved in such planning.

Mine manager George Wistl also said he had been contacted by the Manpower official who was exploring the situation.

He had heard no further details, said Mr. Wistl, and the company could make no commitments until details were known.

Paperwork Weightier

MARMORA — Demand made by the volume of paperwork needed to keep everything official in the modern world has caught up with this village's administration.

The purchase of a stamp metermachine at a cost of $518.95 and a cheque protector at a cost of $400 for the clerk-treasurer's office has been authorized by Marmora Village Council. Clerk William Shannon said his work is growing more complex every day and the two machines would be of great assistance. The stamp metre machine is required especially for mailing tax bills and other large jobs such as the Restricted Area By-law books.

Mr. Shannon said the village had been anticipating shutdown. One project it has been developing for several years is a waterfront site along the Crowe River here as a tourist attraction.

Local opinion has also suggested the open-pit site as a tourist park after mining ceases.

Marmoraton, owned by the giant U.S. Bethlehem Steel, began producing iron ore pellets for shipment through Picton 23 years ago.

It was first expected to operate until about 1980. In August, the company announced it had decided to close in 1977 since further ore reserves could not be economically mined after that date.

Job Open, No Applicants

Recreation and parks committee, headed by Councillor Leo Provost Jr., has not received a single bid for position of manager for the Marmora Arena for the 1973-74 season. The committee is in the process of negotiating ice time with local minor hockey and recreation clubs, said the councillor.

Some $2,000 has been spent removing trees and other work at the approved Marmora Municipal Park. Councillor Provost reports and it is expected that the south end of the park will be completed this year with landscaping and fencing up to Madoc Street. Booster Park was closed Thanksgiving weekend.

Storm Long Gone, But...

Brighton Still Ponders Aid from Queen's Park

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

BRIGHTON — On the surface, this community seems to have all but recovered from the wrathful July 13 windstorm that ripped its downtown section.

But looks are only skin deep. Several questions remain unanswered for local recovery committees and workers.

Local sources say the village has been cleaned up and things are getting back to normal. But, still in the balance, is the question of provincial government aid.

Originally it was intended — and voiced by the province — that Queens Park would match dollar for dollar money raised locally for storm recovery.

The committee has since raised $35,000.

With the land drive it was discovered provincial aid was tied to regulations that disqualify some of the most costly expenditures — particularly damage from falling trees, blown down during the storm.

These regulations excluded relief funding for recovery from falling trees, crumpled television antennas and privacy fences.

To effect repairs for subsidy under provincial regulations, the cost could be covered by the funds raised locally and the province would be off the hook.

According to 59 claims received by the fund committee, estimates of total damage would be some $30,000 leaving $5,000 in surplus.

However, a local fund administrator explained these figures do not take into consideration the high cost of removing fallen trees.

Estimates are running as high as $250 for the removal of a single tree, he said.

Local authorities do not want to break any provincial regulations even though it would appear they have a surplus of $5,000 to remove trees.

"I say $30,000 now but I wouldn't want to say that will be the exact figure. Some 10 percent of the claims attached no estimate and others are only guessed," said Cecil Knight, a committee worker.

Brighton Reeve Dorothy Brintnell said the community would have more than enough money if the province participated dollar-for-dollar.

She said another $20,000 with the present donations would be adequate to complete the cleanup.

For the moment, committees are meeting with homeowners involved in evaluating claims.

"We're very disappointed with the performance of the provincial government," said the reeve. "We'll have to wait and see how things develop. We don't have a very clear picture right now."

Loyalist Courses For Deseronto

DESERONTO — Tentative arrangements to offer Loyalist College courses at the public school here were discussed between college and community representatives Tuesday.

A survey showed that 11 subjects drawing the most response included art, typing, ceramics, physical education, antique restoration, small engine repair and conversational French.

Courses are to start on Nov. 5 with registration night on Oct. 29. Fees will be $15 per course for adults of 18 years and over; $5 per course for students. More detailed information will be advertised in the near future.

Tweed Chamber Starts Tourist Sign Contest

TWEED — Local artists and other interested persons have been asked to take part in a design contest for two signs to be erected at the north and south entrances to this village.

The Chamber of Commerce has offered prizes of $25, $15 and $10, for the three best designs. Originality will be a major factor in awarding the prizes.

Entries in the contest are to be sent to the Contest Committee, Tweed Chamber of Commerce, PO Box 580, here. Closing date will be Oct. 20. Last year the Highlands of Hastings Tourist Region applied, on behalf of the Tweed Chamber for signs on Highway 37, to guide tourists to the Region's information booth. The Highlands of Hastings was advised that Tweed did not qualify for the signs since the booth was located on a municipal road, not the highway proper.

In view of the fact that provincial signs would not be available, the chamber has begun the current project.

Shoplifting Problem

Shoplifting is part of the phenomena of our times. Given the open nature of department store displays these days the wonder is the problem is not worse.

As it is, the loss through pilferage all over Canada annually runs into thousands of dollars.

There are the kleptomaniacs — the compulsive stealers who cannot help themselves, or so it seems — and there are the others, some of them, strangely enough, suffering from no material want, who simply succumb to temptation.

In one instance recently, in Vancouver, a young woman who is known internationally and who has made a lot of money as author of a number of books and in other activities, was charged with stealing an item of apparel from a store. She was freed on bail and so far as we know the case is still pending.

From Washington meanwhile comes word that a department store's Pentagon branch is experiencing a higher rate of shoplifting than any of its eleven other establishments in the area. In the lunch period in particular, from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m., the store is losing a variety of goods, from brassieres to tools — and this to employees with top security clearances. Most are said to be secretaries and clerks making about $8,000 a year, but some are high-salaried personnel.

What a commentary on human nature. Could this be happening in say Ottawa, among government people there? Perish the thought, but the indications are certainly present, from the U.S. experience, that thefts are being perpetrated by people who should know better, and in any event are not candidates for the poor house.

It makes you wonder.

Discovery

A great Thanksgiving weekend it was. Sunny and warm and the countryside a vast spread of autumn glory.

And we made what these days is a fairly unique discovery — what appeared to be clean water. It was at Dorland which is north from Adolphustown and near the old Quaker settlement and the historic church at Hay Bay dating back to 1792.

There is this little park area with a sign indicating it is part of the Cataraqui conservation area. There is also a plaque saying Sir John A. Macdonald derived inspiration from the countryside round about to weld together the weak and scattered colonies into the Dominion that became a strong and equal partner of the Commonwealth. And there is a stony beach where four small girls were picking tiny shells. A boat ramp of wire mesh enters the water here and this is the water that looked so clean and uncontaminated.

Not that we would recommend anyone trying to swim there. The water may be clean but there is a sharp drop from the ramp and it is not the safe and supervised beach that is to be found for instance at nearby Adolphustown.

But clean water. This is something of a curio isn't it? Far from the madding crowd too, this Hay Bay area. The route leads on to Stillsville and Bath and here is the new generating station with its tall tower-a complex so modern, so clinically perfect in its outlines strangely beautiful in its clean dimensions, yet faintly sinister.

In such contrast too with the history all around, as the mind turns back say to 1812 and that cold November day when the frigate Royal George was intercepted in the gap between Amherst Island and Prince Edward County shores by an American fleet, just managing to escape to Kingston where shore batteries helped repel the intruders.

Dance Group

Les Feux Follets, the distinguished dance group mentioned in this column the other day is appearing in Kingston, will give two performances at the city's Grand Theatre October 16 and 17.

With Kingston and centres like Brockville attracting this and other theatrical riches we may be forgiven for feeling a little out in the cold here. We are about due for some cultural breezes from outside.

UN's Impotence Sealed by Latest Middle East Clash

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Prepared before the latest outbreak of fighting in the Middle East, the following article is eloquent of how far the United Nations is from being a truly effective peace-keeping agency.

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — One of the most vital functions of the United Nations is keeping the international peace, which means preventing wars from getting started, stopping them if they do get started and supervising the truce when the fighting dies down.

It also is one of the most controversial of the UN's many operations.

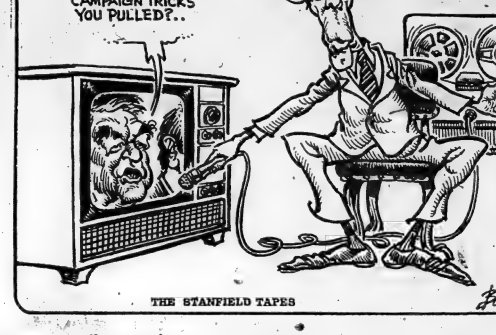
The original concept was that the UN would have an international police force which might patrol the world but the idea quickly fell apart when the big powers quarrelled on how to proceed.

Since then, the UN has engaged in many peacekeeping operations but some developed in piecemeal fashion, often after bitter debate. Some members refused to pay their share of costs.

There now are indications that one of the superpowers, the United States—is shifting its position and the UN may be able to establish some guidelines for the orderly setting up of peacekeeping forces when they are needed.

In his maiden speech to the UN General Assembly, U.S. State Secretary Henry Kissinger said the U.S. is prepared to consider how the Security Council can play a "more central and key role" in conduct of peacekeeping operations." He wants the UN to act more "swiftly, confidently and effectively" in future crises.

This is a departure from previous American peacekeeping policy which tended to sidestep the Security Council where the Soviet Union has veto power and rely on action by the Secretary-General or the General Assembly, which is free from the threat of a big-power veto.



This brings the U.S. position closer to that held by Canada—which maintains that peacekeeping and peace observation operations stand on the best chance of success if they are conducted under the authority of the Security Council. At the same time, Canada recognizes that the General Assembly and the Secretary-General also have some weight in UN councils.

The Kissinger declaration also puts the Americans more in line with the view of the Soviets who always have maintained that the Security Council should be the "primary" body to exercise control over international peacekeeping and to provide the Russian veto in the Security Council gives her power to prevent a peacekeeping operation from getting off the ground or, if it is in the field, to change its course or bring it to a halt.

Britain recently lobbied before the UN a document aimed at attempting to define the various peacekeeping functions, assign them to the various UN groups and bring the question down to manageable proportions so guidelines can be established.

The UN has a special committee seeking to work out an agreed method for setting up peacekeeping forces, as and when they are needed, and it is expected to go deeply into the question during this UN session.

In the past quarter-century, the UN has had peacekeeping groups in the field—either as armed forces, truce teams or observation groups—in Africa, Asia, the Far East, the Middle East and Cyprus. In the case of the Middle East and the Congo operations in the early 1960s, the Soviet Union and other states refused to share the cost and the financial burden severely crippled the UN.

THE STANFIELD TAPES

Peter Reilly Back in Conservative Party Caucus

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Peter Reilly, the freshman Conservative MP for Ottawa West who startled the House of Commons by voice loudly booing former Tory Prime Minister John Diefenbaker, has returned to the party caucus.

For a period, after the booing incident, he "boycotted" the caucus, declaring, according to statements attributed to him in the Toronto Globe and Mail, that he would not return until party leader Robert Stanfield kicked out the 15 Tory MPs who broke party ranks in June to vote against the Liberal resolution on bilingualism in the Civil Service.

Mr. Stanfield subsequently did not "kick out" Mr. Diefenbaker and those 15 other Conservatives, nor in any apparent way has he attempted to reprimand, much less discipline them.

But Mr. Reilly has ended his "boycott" and rejoined the caucus.

Why, he was asked in a television submitted to him in writing?

His reply, also in writing:

"I did not say, nor was I quoted as saying that I would not return to caucus until the 16 had been expelled.

"I said that I would not attend as long as certain members leaked comments to certain members of the Press Gallery.

"This has since been given assurance that this will not happen again.

"I was asked to return to caucus on that basis, and I agreed."

Mr. Stanfield reveals that Mr. Reilly returned after he had spoken to him.

"I told him," related Mr. Stanfield, "that he had better rejoin the caucus and he did."

After booing Mr. Diefenbaker and vowing to boo the former Prime Minister every time he rose to speak, Mr. Reilly, reconsidering, the following day apologized to Mr. Speaker Lucien Lamoureux, Mr. Diefenbaker and the House itself.

Then he absented himself from the Commons for some two weeks, later disclosing in statements attributed to him by the Toronto newspaper, that he was boycotting the party caucus, demanding the expulsion of Mr. Diefenbaker and the other 15 Tories as the price of his return.

The Toronto newspaper had done on to say:

Mr. Reilly, a former television newsman, had another grievance. The two English language newspapers in Ottawa are out to get him, he says, and he believes that everything he says in caucus is leaked to hostile reporters who publish his words out of context and in garbled form.

"So for two reasons — because he can't abide being in the same caucus as those who parted company with their leader on bilingualism, and because his enemies in the caucus are conspiring against him with his enemies in the press — Mr. Reilly has decided to keep away from caucus meetings until Mr. Stanfield acts."

Mr. Stanfield "acted" — he told Mr. Reilly he best to rejoin the caucus.

While denying he had told the Toronto newspaper that he wouldn't return until those 18 conservatives had been expelled, Mr. Reilly did go on radio to say — as the tapes have his words — that they "concluded" Mr. Diefenbaker should be kicked out of the party on their ars."

Peter Reilly, the former New Democratic sympathizer if not supporter and ex-labor union organizer, has made strong words his trade mark since entering federal politics.

He gave the Conservatives their first taste of his hard-line oratory at last year's convention attended by Mr. Stanfield and a crowd of nearly 2,000 when he initially won the nomination.

This year, a quiet convention drawing less than 200 Conservatives, not including Mr. Stanfield, at which he secured a virtually unanimous party reconmination, was in startling contrast.

That first time around, referring to Raymond Rock, a Quebec Liberal MP (since defeated in the last election) who had crossed the floor of the Commons to join the Conservatives, Mr. Reilly crocked from the platform that it was "the first time a rock ever had crawled out from under a snake."

It was the first time anyone around Parliament Hill could recall any politician referring to any prime minister as "a snake," and was a little much even for those Conservative partisans who berated Pierre Trudeau as Political Enemy No. 1.

At the time, when subsequently Mr. Reilly went on national television to further denigrate the Prime Minister, it was assumed Mr. Reilly was "riding shotgun" for Mr. Stanfield, saying things about Mr. Trudeau that the Conservative leader couldn't — or wouldn't — say.

There have been few if any of his national TV shots since for the Tories, so things could be changing for Mr. Reilly.

Education Budgets Under Fire

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Once again I must pick up my pen to exploit the Minister of Education, in the face of a rising storm of protest the Honorable Thomas Wells "generously" has allowed Boards of Education across Ontario to increase their ordinary budgets for 1974-75 by 8 per cent over this year's expenditure. The Ontario Budget covers salaries and other expenses which are affected by the increasing cost of living. The cost of living has already risen by 8.3 per cent as of August 31. There are still four months to go. Even the minister has admitted publicly that the increase he has allowed will not keep pace with the increasing costs of the economy.

The Minister allowed even this increase only because he was faced with strong united action on the part of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation. Faced with the possibility of the cancellation all north-east curricular activities across the province, Wells did just enough to stop the teachers' strong protest.

The fact remains that even with the increase now allowed, boards across the province will continue to be forced to cut programs and staff to meet Ministry of Education's imposed budget limits.

Unlike many other organizations, teachers simply have nor do they want the right to strike. Teachers were faced in this case with only one option to them, emphasize their deep concern about what was happening to the student in the name of "Educational efficiency" and legal handcuffs stop the teachers could take was to withdraw voluntary services.

Even withdrawing there voluntary services still leaves an average teacher with a workload of about 50 hours a week.

All the Ministry of Education has achieved is a temporary respite. The Ministry has solved nothing and, it seems, is even going to actually come to grips with the problem that it created.

Quebec's Election Hurried Affair

Ottawa Le Droit: It has begun. The Quebec provincial election will take place Oct. 29 . . . It will be the shortest and, perhaps also the hardest election, ever held in Quebec.

The four political parties which are competing in this campaign must each seek a victory that will yet them form the next government in Quebec City as well as prove certain things and defend their own interests.

The Liberal party must prove the worth of its 42 months in power (it had a 60-month mandate); the Parti Quebecois wants to arouse a belief in their own independence among Quebecers; the Creditistes want to destroy the Union Nationale party; the Union Nationale party wants to prove that it is still alive and that its death knell has not yet been rung. . . .

The 32 days of this battle, since that is what this campaign will be, represents such a short period that political parties will not have enough time to develop their themes, voters will not have enough time to think about solutions to current problems proposed by many parties and not nor the time to evaluate party programs.

To get through to the people, the political parties will have to use the race around the province like a ball of fire driven through dry grass by a high wind.

The voter will be inundated by so many contradictions from different candidates and by so many attempts to gain his favor that he will not be in a rational frame of mind to make a just and equitable choice on election day.

This hasty election is too hurried. It is only designed to save the face of the current government which has been worn down by internal political problems and the torments of a society in turmoil.

The campaign will probably be one of the most exciting ever known in Quebec and, at the same time, one of the most attractive for democracy. . . .

U.S. Court Lifts Ban on Takeover

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A United States appeals court opened the way Wednesday for the Canada Development Corp. (CDC) to proceed with its plan to purchase a controlling block of shares of Texasgulf Inc.

The court in a brief ruling dissolved an order blocking the CDC, owned by the Canadian government, from proceeding with the purchase of 16 million shares at $20 a share.

The ruling in the Fifth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals came about two hours after the court heard an urgent plea for Quick action.

The ruling said: "The restraining order is hereby dissolved and the opinion of the court on the merits of the appeal will follow."

Texasgulf, which has been fighting the share tender offer, still can continue the fight in higher U.S. courts.

CDC at last report had received from U.S. shareholders offers for just under 10 million shares. At one point more than 16,200,000 shares had been offered, but some were withdrawn as the price of Texasgulf moved up on stock markets following news or new ore developments and higher profits.

Texasgulf shares were about $26 at the time the CDC offer was made in July and now are close to $38.

CDC won a decision in September from a lower U.S. federal court in Houston, Tex., permitting it go ahead with its offer, but the appeals court later issues an emergency order blocking it pending Wednesday's hearing.

Saguenay Superport Said to Be Viable

OTTAWA (CP) — A superport at the mouth of the Saguenay River is worth building despite warnings of possible pollution disasters, says Pierre Camu, until recently the transport department's top marine official.

Mr. Camu, who left the department Oct. 1 to become president of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters, said in an interview Wednesday the economic benefits outweigh the pollution threat.

The federal government is examining proposals for a superport at either Ile Verte or Gros Cacouna, near the junction of the Saguenay and St. Lawrence rivers, 150 miles northeast of Quebec City.

Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa said recently that Montreal would lose its standing as a major oil refining centre if the provincial government bows to pressures calling for a halt to the supertanker port project.

The Quebec port and similar facilities in the Atlantic provinces could be hard hit if a federal proposal to build a Canadian oil pipeline to Montreal is carried out.

But, Mr. Camu, who was federal marine administrator and president of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority, said it is hard to know what would happen if the pipeline were built.

He said Montreal refineries are mostly supplied by oil delivered to Portland, Me., from Venezuela and the Persian Gulf. The oil was carried to Montreal through a pipeline built in the mid-1950s.

It was clear that "an additional way to bring oil will be necessary." He suggested transshipment to smaller vessels from supertankers at new Canadian ports might be an answer to demand for greater oil supplies.

John Bradshaw says:
"Winterize your lawn with CIL Winterizer."

You've spent time and money on your lawn this year. Why let winter kill it all off?

And that's why CIL developed Winterizer. You simply put it in the spreader and take a walk around the lawn.

One treatment protects your lawn three important ways: First, it protects against frost damage. Second, special elements condition the grass plants against disease - like snow-mold. Third, it helps the grass store up extra winter food to protect against winter-starvation.

So if you'd like to keep your lawn in good shape — and save yourself the trouble of patching up a winter-killed lawn next Spring — get some CIL Winterizer this weekend and put it on . . . just as daytime temperatures are in the low 60's.

Hydro Commissioners Admit Mistakes in Letting Contract

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Hydro Commission admitted Wednesday night to making mistakes in the letting of a $46-million contract to build its new head office, and promised not to let it happen again.

The commission, in a seven-page statement, gave a detailed reply to a legislative committee report Tuesday which criticized Hydro for its procedures in giving the contract to build the office.

The six-party committee charged the five member commission with "an abdication of responsibilities" in its handling of the contract.

The hydro commission noted that the committee's report was critical of procedures for calling and judging competitive proposals.

"In the course of the hearings Hydro recognized these procedural omissions which were not evident, when the decision was made to proceed with building.

"Hydro has learned from these mistakes and they will not be repeated," said the commissioners in their tersely worded statement.

The commission, however, rejected the charge that they had abdicated their duties.

"Surely results must count for something in assessing the performances of any administration, and we believe the contract with Canada Square has successfully withstood a more searching examination than any contract of its kind in Canada."

The statement Hydro was delivered to the news media after a day-long closed-door session of the commission. Commission members were unavailable for comment after the statement was released.

The committee's investigation had been prompted by charges of political patronage in connection with the letting of the contract.

Mr. Moog is a personal friend of Premier William Davis.

The committee ordered Hydro for providing "misleading information" to the government and the legislature, but the commissioners also rejected that charge.

"The evidence given at the hearings shows that Hydro officials honestly believed in the accuracy of the information supplied and acted in good faith, and the commission rejects the contention that there was any intention to mislead," the commissioners said in the statement.

The Hydro commission asserted that once the building—now under construction adjacent to the legislature—is completed, Hydro's judgment will be vindicated.

The legislature committee also suggested in its report that the standards of the Business Corporations Act be applied to Hydro.

The commissioners said they were already living up to these standards.

The commission members are chairman George Gathercole; vice-chairman Arthur Evans, Progressive Conservative member of the legislature for Simcoe Centre; J.D. Fleming, a Hamilton-area dentist; Ottawa lawyer Roger Seguin; Lotis Dana, a Thunder Bay court clerk and J. Dean Muncaster, president of Canadian Tire Corp.

Shaheen Opens Refinery

COMEBY-CHANCE, Nfld. (CP) — A $200-million oil refinery that for years was the subject of bitter debate in the Newfoundland legislature was officially opened Wednesday in this harbor on Placentia Bay.

Premier Frank Moores said the 100,000-barrel-a-day refinery, the first and smallest of two planned for Come-By-Chance, put this site 100 miles west of St.-John's "in the arena of superports."

Don Jamieson, minister of regional economic expansion, said the refinery is the cleanest in the world, and he assured Newfoundland fishermen their livelihood would not be endangered by oil pollution.

John M. Shaheen of New York, whose Shaheen Natural Resources Inc. is the parent of the company that owns the refinery, told about 4,000 invited guests that "my speech stands before you" as he pointed to the finery structures in the background.

Panasonic shows you how to be a stereo nut without cracking up over the cost.

A good deal of stereo for your money. That's a promise. Here's the proof.

Every Panasonic stereo system comes complete. With specially matched speakers. With the latest developments in circuitry. With everything you need right now. And with a future. In case your appetite for stereo is bigger than your pocketbook.

Where you start depends on what you need. Maybe it's a good-looking FM/AM/FM Stereo that plays 8-track cartridges. The Bramley (model RE-8250C) does that. And more. It takes two 8-track cartridges and plays them automatically, one after another, for hours of uninterrupted music. Two air-suspension speakers are included in the price. And later on, you can add an optional 4-speed record changer.

The Montagne (model SE-4070C) is a complete stereo home entertainment system in itself. FM/AM/FM Stereo radio. Full size built-in 4-speed record changer. 8-track tape recorder. And if you feel the urge, right now or later, you can add two speakers to the two already there, and enjoy the presence of 4-channel Quadruplex sound from conventional 2-channel sources. Your stereo records have never sounded so good.

If you want a complete entertainment system that is also a space saver, the Brewton (model SE-1040C) is for you. Built-in cassette tape recorder. Panasonic 3-speed record changer. FM/AM/FM Stereo, too. With two speakers included it's a lot of stereo. You'll save space without sacrificing good sound.

A sound start to any stereo system is a good FM/AM/FM Stereo radio. That's The Northington (model RE-7173C). Two speakers are included, and you can go on from there. By adding a record changer, an 8-track or cassette deck, even stereo headphones.

What you see here isn't nearly all Panasonic has to offer. So, whether you want a system to start with, or a system that gives you everything from the start, talk to your Panasonic dealer.

Smiling Kingpin of Lathers Denies He Fears for Safety

TORONTO (CP) — Cesidio Romanelli, a kingpin in Toronto's turbulent lathing trade, shrugged off references to violence and threats in his opening appearance Wednesday before the Ontario royal commission on crime in the construction industry.

Dapper and smiling, Italian-born Mr. Romanelli denied evidence by an earlier witness that he had expressed fear that harm might come to himself. He also indicated, in an early stage of questioning to be resumed today, that he had displayed only a casual interest last year in a shoot - up and three dynamitings at properties of two other contractors.

Mr. Romanelli, 40, who rose from a bricklayer's helper to owner of companies doing more than $4-million work a year, took issue with evidence given last month by union official Gus Simone that the contractor had gone to "an old Italian man" to make things "all right."

"I don't know any old man like that," said Mr. Romanelli, waving his arms for emphasis.

Mr. Simone, business agent of the Lathers International Union, had testified Mr. Romanelli was worried in 1971 that he might be "harmed" by Charles Irvine, vice-president of the Operative Plasterers' Union, which was fighting with the Lathers for control of labor in the wall-construction trade.

Mr. Romanelli said this was not so, and that his only contact with Mr. Irvine had been when he tried to negotiate a contract with the Plasterers Union and was told by the vice-president that he would get one "over his (Mr. Irvine's) father's dead body."

He also said that a meeting, at which Mr. Simone said contractor Angelo Del Zotto had given Mr. Romanelli the address of the "old Italian man," had never taken place.

Mr. Del Zotto is a member of a family which operates a huge string of general contracting companies, and the Del Zottos provide much of Mr. Romanelli's sub-contracted work and own 26 per cent of his main operation.

Commission counsel E. A. Sheppard asked Mr. Romanelli whether he and the Del Zottos met to discuss the violence when the lathing industry was thrown into turmoil in July of 1972.

"There was no meeting to discuss that," the witness said. "I was going into the Del Zotto office to discuss construction problems and Leo (a Del Zotto brother) just said to me 'What happened?' and that was all."

Mr. Romanelli also testified that in 1968, when his chief business rival, C. Romanelli Lathing Co., he had offered Mr. Simone a 35-per-cent share in the profits because "he was always giving us problems—I was giving him a percentage to leave me alone."

Mr. Romanelli said he knew Mr. Simone was "getting money right and left" from other contractors, but at that time he had no money to give.

But he said Mr. Simone wanted his share "under the table" and had torn up papers to incorporate a company through which the union official would have held an interest in the firm."

Late in Wednesday's hearing, commission counsel Shepherd continued his so-far inconclusive pursuit of a $2,000 cheque on Mr. Romanelli's Du rable Drywall Co. signed by Romanelli June 26, 1972, and cashed on June 29, the last banking day before the plant of lathing contractor Naftali Kanner was shot up with an automatic weapon.

The commission has heard evidence that police received a tip that two men were paid $1,000 apiece for a later explosion of the same plant.

The $2,000 cheque was made out to Joe Zappia, an Ottawa employee of Durable who has testified he got it as a loan, and was cashed in Hamilton by Natale Luppino, an assistant of Mr. Romanelli.

Behind the Scenes....

The models glide out in new fall coats.

Seven - foot images filmmaker highlights of the shawl collars and blanket plaids that make this year's coats new.

Music adds to the atmosphere as commentators Sheila Nash and Mary Theresa Trumbi talk about the fashions.

It's the beginning of a two-hour annual charity fashion show sponsored by St. Joseph's Catholic Women's League and put together by McIntosh Brothers Store.

Behind the slick and smoothly put-together show lies months of hard work and preparation, a search for new ways to make an exciting fashion showing of McIntosh clothes.

It's the 16th year Sheila Nash has worked on such charity fashion shows.

"In 1967 the CWL came to us and asked us to do a show. We said 'why not.'" Sheila says.

From that simple beginning, the shows have progressed to the sophisticated presentation held last night, Fashion Our World.

"We try to keep the show fast-moving, interesting and current," Sheila says.

"Belleville shoppers know what's in, what they want and what looks good on them."

The work for the fashion show that must impress the discriminating shopper actually begins in Toronto and Montreal at February fashion shows.

When buying clothes for the store, Sheila and Marie are already thinking of the fall show. All the clothes and accessories shown are from the store's stock.

At the same time, women are always on the look-out for likely models for the show. All the models are local women who volunteer their services for the charity affair.

Sometime during the process, a theme is chosen.

"We try to create an atmosphere and follow through on the theme throughout the show."

Lighting effects and, this year, fall foliage help create the atmosphere along with rear-view projectors.

Handled by Douglas McIntosh and Karel Chrastina, the projections include outdoor scenes.

"We've travelled hundreds of miles in every direction to take slides," Sheila says.

The models and the clothes are put together ("We try clothes on a model and if she likes it and we think it looks good, that's it," Marie says.) as show date nears.

Marie fits the clothes, supervising minor alterations.

Meanwhile, Sheila is working toward a smoothly flowing show.

In her home workroom, a miniature of the hall is used to plan decorations and strategically plot the show's complex timing.

The music, slides, models and clothes must all work together.

"It's like telling a story," Sheila says.

Putting 21 models and 126 ensembles together can be harrowing.

On stage, there's a fowing continuity.

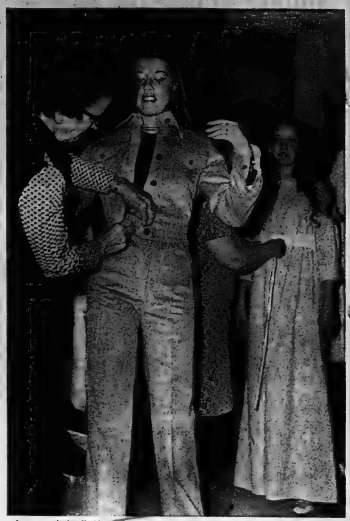
Backstage, it's different.

Every model has her own dresser to get her through the six changes that make up the show.

The clothes themselves, brought to the hall by two station wagons each making four trips, are numbered as are the accessories, chosen by Stella Ducette, to get them in the right order on stage.

And just before the models go on-stage, Marie Nash is waiting in the wings with a copy of Sheila Nash's commentary to make sure everything is happening at the right time.

Once she says the models had to race up and down two flights of stairs to dressing rooms, cutting even shorter the minimal time between changes.



One model showed up in the wings wearing a dress backwards.

To get the clothes ready, the minimum number of fastenings possible are undone to speed things up at dressing time.

For the first time this year, models come out in groups and moving through the audience to small staging areas so that everybody gets a good look at every outfit.

Wearing the clothes this year were Debbie Doyle, Jennifer McCoy, Meribeth McIntosh, Clair Canty, Monica Paterson, Carmen Howe, Medeja Collins, Shirley Waddell, Margaret Doyle Arlene Sweeney, Vivian White, Susan O'Brien, Nancy Soden, Nadine Dolan, Kathleen Drouillard, Dorothy Manning, Denise Stansfield, Maria Addy, Josephine Gist, Betty Jones and Pat Burrows.

The outfits they wore showed fall trends like shorter jackets, cable sweaters, pleated skirts and more and more sweaters, soft dresses all in subtle misty colors and, metallic glow for evening.

Last evening's Fashion Our World teen models, Claire Canty and Jennifer McCoy, receive quick change assistance in the busy improvised dressing rooms at St. Joseph's School, scene of the annual Catholic Women's League and McIntosh Bros. Stores fashion presentation. Mrs. C. Ling, left, one of the McIntosh employees, who helped prepare models, buttons gold corduroy battle jacket, while Jennifer receives finishing touches to show night attire.

Getting ready for the big night ... At left, Sheila Nash lags clothes to ensure a smooth-running fashion show. The show, held last night, was sponsored by St. Joseph's Catholic Women's League and organized by Miss Nash for McIntosh Stores.

Above, Marie Nash and Stella Ducette match clothes and accessories for the show. The product of months of planning and co-ordination, the fashion show last night featured 21 models wearing 126 outfits.

Ann Landers—
Miss Goody Two Shoes, Isn't

Dear Ann Landers: I was struck by the polgnancy of the poem by R. B. Richards, Fabius Verdre Estates, Calif., Pardon Me, Doctor, But May I Die.

The old gentleman had buried his wife, most of his friends were gone, his children were grown and on their own, his work was done, he was tired and sick—very sick—and he asked the doctor to take away all those tubes and machines and let him go in peace. That plea was one I hope will make an impact on doctors everywhere.

I have another poem, which I hope you will print.

Put Out the Flame

"I do not fear death, dear physician,
As much as I fear the indignity
Of hideous deterioration."
Thus Euthanasia's friend spoke openly.
"Kind doctor, when that certain time arrives,
When I am not productive anymore,
Or cannot add to any fellows' lives,
Or with excruciating pain am torn—
Then I beseech thee in God's holy name,
Perform they greater Hippocratic role.
The hour unknown to me, put out the flame
Within my body and release my soul.
To take its journey to that Resvroir
Where all departed souls and angels are."—Boston Globe Reader

Dear Reader: Sorry, but there's a big difference between keeping a terminally ill person alive "through extraordinary measures, and "putting out the flame."

To "put out the flame" suggests, to me at least, that something be done to end a life. I am not in favor of this. The old gentleman who pleads, "Let me be dead," is asking that he be permitted to go out, but to pull it out is to end a life, and no man has the right to do this.

Dear Ann Landers: There's a certain little high-fannied blonde in this office who pretends to be Miss Goody Two-Shoes of the Purpatual Build ing. Some of the stories we've heard about her from the last bunch of girls she worked with don't add up to the Virtuous Miss she is portraying.

Several of us have noticed that every Thursday she wears the same dress or pantsuit she wore on Wednesday, also her hair is a mess. This has happened four Thursdays in a row.

We have concluded that the gal has a steady arrangement and doesn't sleep home on Wednesday nights.

Should I be a pal and tip her off that we know, and in at least take a different blouse and shirt along and wear a hair-net—Friend in Need

Dear Friend O: I'd hate to believe that every girl who is wearing the same dress or pant suit today that she wore yesterday didn't sleep home last night. If you want to be a pal, keep your mouth shut and suggest that the other gals in the office do the same.

Successful Living
Give Groom Special Treatment

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: Here is a poem for a tired young mother who is in need of inspiration:

A little child may have a loving heart
Most dear and sweet,
And willing feet.
A little child may have a ready hand
Full of kind deeds
For many needs.
A little child may have a gentle voice
And pleasant tongue
For everyone.

—Author Unknown.

Verses which have been an inspiration for long years are often by someone unknown — Have you noticed? — Just Granny.

Dear Granny: What was it Maurice Chevalier's song said? ... "Thank God for little girls!" Let's include the little boys in that too.

Once in a while, when we print a happy thought, a reader comes up with name of author or poet for it. He or she does deserve credit.

Dear Doris: Our daughter is being married next month, coming from North Carolina where she and her fiance both live.

The groom is originally from Ghana and has never met any of the guests. Who would introduce him? None of his family will be here.

We are going to ask an uncle to propose a toast. How could he include the groom, since he has never met him? Anna.

Dear Anna: Just as the groom - to - be arrives in your town, a few days ahead of the wedding (I sincerely hope), it is your job to make his acquaintance, perhaps by having him to dinner with the immediate family.

Do all you can to make that first occasion informal, a comfortable family affair. If you would like a larger pre-wedding party after that, he would have a chance to enlarge his acquaintance.

The uncle can propose his toast to the bride and groom without having known him in the past. He wishes the whou having known him in couple well, tucks in a little humor and a heap of warmth. My leaflet on "Wedding Toasts" suggests possible wording. (Available for 25 cents and a stamped, self - addressed envelope.)

The groom replies, then proposes a toast to the bridesmaids. Bend over backwards to help him love Canada and Canadians, as well as the one precious Canadian he has planned to spend his life with.

MR. AND MRS. EVERETT JAMES BURT

Burt - Thorn

Rev. Peter Tett officiated at the September wedding in St. Thomas Anglican church was united in marriage to Everett J. Burt of Ottawa.

The bride is the daughter of Marjorie Thorn and the late Charles Thorn, and the groom is the son of Caroline Burt of Oshawa and the late Frank Burt.

Given in marriage by her uncle Percy Thorn, the bride wore a gown of organza with an empire waistline, high mandarin collar and long sheer sleeves trimmed with guipure lace. A pillbox headdress held a cathedral length train, also trimmed with lace. She carried a white Bible and red roses.

Caroline Nickle, matron of honor wore a gown of yellow embossed sheer over taffeta. She had yellow roses in her hair, and carried a white Bible with roses.

Bridesmaids Sheila Arsenault, the bride's sister; and Patrica Chapman, and Junior bridesmaids Janet Thorn, the bride's sister and Cathy Burt, the groom's sister, wore dresses like that of the matron of honor but in shades of mint, green, purple, blue and pink. They wore rosebuds in their hair and carried white Bibles with roses.

Angel Babcock, the bride's niece, was flower girl in a dress identical to the matron of honor's. She carried a basket of white and yellow daisies.

Michael Arsenault Jr., the bride's nephew, was ring bearer.

The groom's brother, Donnie Burt, was best man.

Serving as ushers were Charles Thorn, the bride's brother, and Herbert Scrimshaw.

After a reception at the CFB Yacht Club in Trenton, Mr. and Mrs. Burt travelled to Prince Edward Island. They now live in Petawawa.

Taxi Trek

HORSHAM, England (CP) — Grandmother Ethel Murphy has hired a taxi to drive her from here to Australia, a journey estimated to take three months. The cost of the driver and the conversion of a regular taxi into a camper will be around $3,800. "When you're going that far it is silly to rush it by travelling by jet and see nothing," said Mrs. Murphy.

Sailors Nibble Necks
Hold Hands on Decks

SANCTUARY (AP) — The sailor in faded dungarees nibbled affectionately on the neck of the sailor ahead as they waited in a crowded chow line. Nobody lifted an eyebrow.

On the main deck, another pair of swab-jockeys walked hand in hand, gazing blissfully out on a calm sea about 20 miles off the California coast. Nobody turned a head.

It's all part of the somewhat hilarious revolution in the United States Navy, where the first women shipboard sailors in 200 years of history are proving they can pull their weight alongside the men. The stage for the historic experiment is the 14,822-ton hospital ship USS Sanctuary. The skipper, Capt. Thomas Rodgers maintains the experiment is working.

he Sanctuary's 63 enlisted women sailors work side by side with the men, sharing all duties including scrubdowns, watch standing, garbage-hauling, knot-tying, lugging around heavy equipment and huge hawsers, painting, goldbricking and shoreside binges.

It is common knowledge aboard the 30-year-old ship that considerable fraternization goes on in many nooks and crannies offered by any big vessel. But all hands remain casual about it, including the handsome, 43-year-old skipper.

"You'd have to be an ostrich not to believe some liaisons are going on," Rodgers grinned. "I don't personally know about them."

"It's natural," said a beautiful, blue-eyed deck monkey scrubbing down a scupper drain. "We're healthy girls, you know."

Although contraceptive pills are available to any distaff sailor who ask, pregnancies have happened on the ship, some of the women said.

"You do it to get off the ship," said one. "Not everybody likes this duty."

One who does is Seaman Antelese Knapp of Delavan, Wis., an orphan who said she looks on her captain "like a father."

"He doesn't know me, but I think he's great," she said.

She spotted the skipper on a wing of the bridgh, gave him a big smile and a wave. On the bridge, Rodgers, more accustomed to salutes, leaned against a stanchion and laughed.

"She's cute," he said.

The women, of course, have brought dramatic changes to the spit-and-polish of the naval vessel.

In the segregated women's berthing spaces up forward, the girls drape colorful blankets on their banks rather than the drab Navy issue. There also are dozens of stuffed animals on bunks.

The feminine touch is present throughout the ship—a pink ribbon around a water-pipe, a pink telephone in one of the officers, a basket tagged, Incoming Goodies and Outgoing Goodies.

Hardly any cussing at all was heard on the ship in two days the Sanctuary steamed off the coast with a handful of reporters and photographers.

Advice for Consumers

Consumer Advisor Helen Gagen, Wednesday night told Belleville shoppers that being an intelligent consumer is "a lifetime job."

Miss Gagen, former Toronto Telegram food editor and currently consumer advisor to Miracle Food Mart, recommended ways to save money while ensuring good nutrition.

She told the audience that using reconstituted powdered skim milk, for example, can save 20 to 21 cents a quart and reminded them that for non - milk drinkers, cheese is a substitute.

Canned orange and apple juice are most economical sources of Vitamin C, she said; and added that cooks should remember that the apples in a dessert apple pie count as a person's daily serving of fruit.

Vegetables are often best bargains when suppliers sell off frozen and canned stocks when new crops come in.

Miss Gagen pointed out that not all convenience foods are expensive.

She said, for example, a cake mix may be cheaper than a "scratch" cake.

Best buy in cereals, she said, is rolled oats. In "ready to serve" cereals, shredded wheat is the best nutritional buy.

Miss Gagen cautioned shoppers against overrating the amount of meat needed for good nutrition.

In 1972, Canadians ate just over 207 pounds of meat each.

"We probably don't need that much," she said.

She recommended, that shoppers rough out a weekly menu after reading food advertisements, then shop alone at off-peak periods.

Nutrition information about Canada's Food Guide was presented by Connie O'Byrne and meat specialist Arthur Buck demonstrated meat cutting techniques to the audience.

Mr. Buck, who teaches at Toronto's George Brown College of Applied Arts and Technology, categorized beef in three ways: hard-working meat, lazy meat and the meat in-between.

All meat is muscle, he told the audience, and "if you know where meat comes from — if you understand meat — you don't need piles of cookbooks."

He said Canadian families spend about $500 for meat each year.

"If I gave you $500 to spend on a diamond ring or a mink coat, you'd compare prices and shop around," he said. "Why won't you do that for meat?"

In an interview before the program, Miss Gagen said that in dealing with consumers, questions most often arise about price increases, meal planning and nutrition, and sometimes quality.

"We're grateful when people bring things to our attention," she said.

Miss Gagen says she sees herself as an ombudsman between Miracle Food Mart and consumers.

"My goal is to try and discover what is the right thing to do," she has said. "And more often than not I find myself siding with the rapidly-changing consumer needs in the supermarket."

Through her efforts, code dating, unit pricing, single item pricing (no more "two for"), nutrition information and "if you know where" are all realities at Miracle Food Mart.

Information on code dating, not only of store-packaged meats but of manufactured products, is available at the information counter of every store, she says, as is information to substitute cheaper cuts of meat and store brands for national brands, she reduced the shopping basket cost from over $29 to just $18.

"In spite of high prices, we're still an affluent society," she says. "The one thing that's obvious in spite of all the bad news about food prices is that we're all still buying. There's no slow down."

Helen Gagen, consumer advisor for Miracle Food Mart, conducted a consumer meeting Wednesday night at the Quinte Mall. Miss Gagen, former food editor of the Toronto Telegram, told the audience that being an intelligent consumer is a "lifetime" job.

Three Die

Evacuate Quebec Camp After 20 Trailers Burn

MOUNT WRIGHT, Que. (CP) — A northern Quebec construction camp was being evacuated early today by military and civilian aircraft after fire Wednesday destroyed more than 20 trailers used as a cafeteria and kitchen for the work force of 1,500 men.

Three men died and six others were injured in two fires which levelled about a third of the Quebec Cartier Mining Co. camp, site of construction of a $300-million iron ore refinery in this community near the Quebec-Labrador boundary.

Part of the sleeping quarters used by the men also was lost in the fires, which one worker said apparently began with an explosion in a kitchen area.

Mount Wright is 180 miles north of Sept-Iles, the ore-shipping port on the Gulf of St. Lawrence at the southern end of the Quebec North Shore and Labrador Railway line.

Some of the evacuated workers were taken to Sept-Iles by rail and others flown to airports at Rimouski, Mont Joli, Quebec City and Montreal.

Buses, trucks and construction vehicles carried the workers 25 miles from Mount Wright to Wabush, Nfld., where they were housed in an arena while awaiting flights south.

The injured men were admitted to Sir William Jackman hospital in Labrador City, adjacent to Wabush, where hospital officials reported the three deaths.

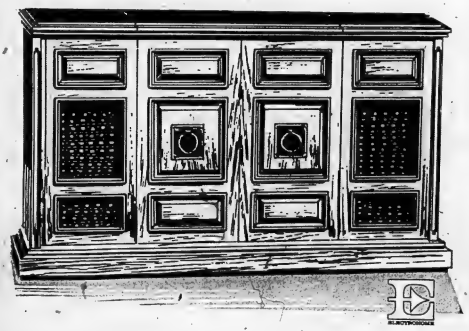
Aircraft belonging to Air Canada, Quebecair, Nordair, Air Gaspe and Northern Wings Airlines were pressed into service in the airlift, along with two Hercules transports from the armed forces base at Trenton, Ont.

Initial reports from the isolated camp said the first fire was extinguished without injuries. One fire truck from Wabush, aided by 39 security personnel at Mount Wright, fought the blaze.

The second outbreak, six hours later, tore through the bunkhouse area, destroying six dormitories used to house 800 men.

Company officials said it was impossible to say when work would resume on the ore refinery, which had been scheduled to begin operation in two years.

But workers arriving in Montreal early today said it might take a force of 800 men up to six months to reconstruct the destroyed section of the camp.



Alberta Board Ruling Not Setback: Lougheed

EDMONTON (CP) — A board's decision not to interfere with natural gas exports to Ontario from Alberta is not a setback to the province's policy of seeking higher prices for the gas, Premier Peter Lougheed said Wednesday.

He was commenting on a report released earlier in the day by the Alberta Energy Resources Conservative Board, It declared itself not a proper body to settle the constitutional battle between Ontario and Alberta over Premier Lougheed's government's plans to raise gas prices.

It recommended no interference with the flow of natural gas to Eastern Canada under an export permit issued to Consolidated Natural Gas Ltd.

Time Appears Running Out In Saskatchewan Oil Fields

ESTEVAN, Sask. (CP) — One may be running out for this city that calls itself the oil capital of Saskatchewan.

The oil that started to bring prosperity to Estevan and surrounding towns in southeast Saskatchewan 20 years ago is being used up, with no new major discoveries being made.

Officials say that existing wells will keep producing until 1985 or 1990, but at a declining rate. They estimate that 60 per cent of discovered oil supplies in the southeast have been used up.

For Estevan, Weyburn, small towns like Midale, centre of the Midale oil field—and for many farmers, the decline of the oil industry will mean radical changes.

When the southeastern oilfields were being opened in the early and mid-50s, recalls Paul Seiferling, the countryside seemed to be covered with men running about with cheques to give farmers.

"It was a scramble, a mad scramble," said Mr. Seiferling. He was once responsible for filing claims and now is a senior executive with Shell Oil in Calgary.

He remembers one frozen night riding in a home-made snowmobile to get one farmer to agree to a deal.

"The people welcomed us with open arms," he said, noting that since then there have been some complaints about royalties paid by the oil companies.

Farmers received bonuses—up to $250,000—rentals and royalties of 12½ per cent.

But at the time, oil seemed a godsend to the area.

Even today, after much development, the land still is rocky and slough-infested. Few trees grow and cattle are rare among the evenly-spaced, perpetually-rocking oil pumps with their complex networks of electric power poles.

Farmhouses generally appear isolated, even by Saskatchewan standards.

In 1954, said Mr. Seiferling, the area was "wilderness with very few people in it."

"The land you could buy at $10 an acre, no problem, lock, stock and barrel. . . .

"It had nothing going for it. It was a very, very poor agricultural area."

Roads—and legal governments—were poor.

"The municipalities didn't have enough money. They just said, well, if you need a road, build it. And we built them."

When farm income ran into periodic declines, the southeast had the oil industry to absorb some of the impact.

Over the years, pumps, pipes, wiring and treatment facilities appeared and for a long while production was exceeded by new discoveries.

But the pace of exploration and discovery declined and attention turned elsewhere. Last year, $20.7 million was spent in Saskatchewan on oil exploration, down about 45 million from the averages of previous years.

The southeast absorbed much of the decline.

Industry spokesmen, however, say they are not writing off Saskatchewan.

"It might appear that we aren't very active and in a relative sense probably we aren't," said A. L. LaBerge of Saskatoon, chairman of the Saskatchewan division of the Canadian Petroleum Association.

But "the industry hasn't left Saskatchewan. . . .

"We're not sure where the oil is that is to be found. But we're working at it, at a little slower pace."

But much depends on what effort the oil companies put into their searches.

And this, oil spokesmen say, depends on government action. They are critical of national oil policy, which would keep domestic prices lower than export prices, and provincial increases in royalties.

Mr. LaBerge said that discovery costs in Saskatchewan during the last five years were $3.25 a barrel, when oil was selling for barely more than that.

And drilling for the possible oil at deeper levels would be considerably more expensive. Existing oilfields in the southeast are about 4,000 feet down.

The Radville-Bengough fields, if they are there, would be about 9,000 feet down.

Another disturbing factor is SaskOil, the provincial Crown corporation being formed to explore for oil.

The oilmen say they expect SaskOil to be extremely cautious in its first few years, shying away from risky high-priced gambles like deep drilling.

But they express concern that the Crown corporation might make unjustified use of its ties with the government.

It would be unfair, they say, for oilmen to spend large sums of money to find a well and, if the well were beside government land, to have SaskOil get the oil rights on the adjacent land without doing any work or putting up any money.

However, the industry would welcome SaskOil involvement in exploration, since more exploration means more information for everyone.

"This kind of competition doesn't bother us a damn bit," said Mr. LaBerge, "just so long as they play the rules the same way we do."

South African Tourists Flocking to Swaziland

MBABANE, Swaziland (Reuter) — Every weekend thousands of South Africans from the densely-populated Witwatersrand area trek to Swaziland to enjoy its splendid scenery and some of the more worldly pleasures denied them at home.

At the same time, they cannot help but see some of the contrasts which this little kingdom—said by Prime Minister Prince Makhosini to be "almost non-racial"—presents to the apartheid society of its neighbor.

With its tree-lined mountain slopes, colorful people and relaxed atmosphere, Swaziland would probably be a tourist centre whatever its geographical situation.

But because it can give South Africans gambling and a more permissive attitude, it cannot go wrong. On the long hill road from Mbabane to the royal village of Lobamba, hotels are mushrooming where in 1969 there were none. Last year, almost 800,000 tourists travelled that road, 86 per cent of them South African.

The Swiss Spa Casino, is a favorite place for South Africans who technically break the law at home by running an office sweepstake on a major horse race.

The croupiers are white and, except for special "gamblers nights" by "invitation only, the gambling is more of the flutter variety than the big time. Slot machines clatter in the background.

At another hotel the cabaret features South African artists and differs from those in the nightclubs of Johannesburg in that all but the stripper are black.

The drive-in cinema frequently uses the billboard "Banned in RSA." (Republic of South Africa).

Playboy magazine and its ilk, however, have disappeared from the shops, gas stations and hotel desks where they were once a major attraction, he magazine was banned in August, just after the Swaziland censors decided not to allow the film Last Tango" in Paris to be shown.

The prime minister strongly rejects suggestions that this is the result of pressure from South Africa, where government ministers have expressed disapproval of neighboring states making the most of the republic's Calvinist standards.

Prince Makhosini says his people have their own standards.

But the change of heart does not seem to have affected trade. Nine million rand ($12,400,000) is currently being spent on new hotel projects.

The government is keenly aware that many visitors only see the road from the casino to the picturesque craft centre on the edge of Mbabane and there are plans to develop other parts of the country.

Tourists brought about 3,300,000 rand ($4.8 million) into the kingdom last year and one of the results is that a growing number of Swazi are able to share in the tourist attractions.

he casino, the nightclubs and the bars are thus increasingly multiracial.

Swaziland is an intensely conservative country and there is little sign of attempts to teach South Africa a lesson in multiracialism. But the prime minister told reporters at Independence anniversary celebrations in September that if South Africans wanted to make a comparison, they were welcome.

Conservatism among ordinary people also helps tourism. The road linking the capital to the commercial centre of Manzini is lined with men and women wearing the mahiya, a wrap-around piece of highly decorated cotton, usually on a red background. The picture is completed with a feather in the hair—red if the wearer can claim royal blood.

Men in warriors' costume are also sufficiently common to avoid any suggestions that they are "dressing up for the tourists."

Job Bids Said Inflated

The city of Belleville is being "taken" by contractors who submit inflated bids on tender calls.

That was the charge levelled at Wednesday's meeting of the city Recreation and Arena Committee as members considered a bid on improvements at the Memorial Arena that was more than 60 per cent above the cost estimate for the job.

Alderman Joe Cox raised the question, noting that it was impossible for tenders to come in 60 per cent above estimates if specifications for the job remained the same as at the time estimates were made.

The arena job in question was for washrooms, rough plumbing and electrical work estimated to cost $1,100. The lowest tender for the job was $2,300.

Alderman Paul Russell said that either the person making the estimate didn't know his job or else "someone is leading us down the garden path."

The alderman said he didn't buy the story that the high tender bids were the result of inflation.

Alderman Stu Meeks said it was not only the recreation committee which was being hit by inflated bids.

The alderman charged that contractors automatically upped prices when submitting bids on municipal jobs.

The committee agreed that the arena job should be re-evaluated, preferably by an experienced estimator.

Cyclist Hurt

A Belleville man was treated for cuts and bruises and released from Belleville General Hospital Wednesday after he was involved in a motorcycle accident on Highway 2, just east of Shannonville.

Michael Steven Sullivan, 20, of 57 Southview Ave., upset his motorcycle while driving along Highway 2 around 6:30 p.m. He was taken to hospital by a passing motorist.

The Belleville detachment of the OPP are investigating the accident and estimated damage to the bike to be $100.

Students Face More Busing

More busing to secondary schools in south Hastings and continued use of portable classrooms are in prospect for at least the next six years.

Trustees of the Hastings county board of education learned Tuesday night that problems of overcrowded secondary schools will be with them until 1978. The school population in 1979, expected to be about 7,122, will be slightly less than can be accommodated in the present six schools in the southern part of the county.

BCI, Centennial, Moira, Quinte, Bayside and Trenton have a total capacity of 7,137.

Director of education Eric Runacres said the small surplus of space will last from 1979 until 1981, when enrolments are expected to climb again.

Ministry of education spending cutbacks prevent construction of more secondary schools.

"We'll be buying more over the next years — the spaces aren't where the children are," warned Mr. Runacres.

The enrolment projections of the board are based on a one per cent growth rate in the area, and are lower than Quinte Planning Board projections, based on a three per cent growth rate.

The actual enrolment in the six secondary schools this fall (6,811) is slightly lower than expected. The cause, said the director, is the relatively high dropout rate.

The "no construction" edict has given BCI a new lease on life. Opened in 1929, the school will soon be 50 years old and under former regulations would be eligible for replacement. Tuesday night the board approved $1,400,000 for renovations for the school. However it is expected the ministry of education will give approval to only part of the expenditure.

Northern Expanding

MONTREAL (CP) — Northern Electric Co. Ltd. announced today construction of a $1.5 million facility in Port Huron, Mich., that will house the telephone manufacturing plant of its United States subsidiary, Northern Telecom Inc.

The new 37,000 - square foot plant will replace a 13,000 - square - foot plant located in Port Huron's industrial park.

The company said the new plant will permit a four-fold increase in the value of telephone products manufactured there and is expected to create about 100 new jobs.

Thurlow Offer Turned Down

The Hastings County Board of Education has deemed Thurlow Township council's offer of not over $500 as an unacceptable price for the recently vacated Point Anne Public School.

The school board offered the two-storey building to council several months ago.

At their regular monthly meeting Wednesday council refused a reply to a letter sent to the board last month. At that time, council considered using the building for recreational and community activities for township residents but were unwilling to spend a large amount of money to purchase the property.

Decreasing enrolment in recent years caused the board to close Point Anne Public School at the end of the 1972-73 school year.

Alarm Box

Members of the Belleville Fire Department responded to the following call between the hours of 8 a.m. Wednesday and 8:30 a. m. Thursday.

6:45 a.m. Thursday, Oct. 11, 160 Front Street — false alarm.

Car of Many Colors

Derelict automobile became paint-up art project for Ameliasburg's Kente public school art students who have liberally laced it with colors. Idea behind the project, says art teacher Fred Colton, was to emphasize mobility of art. An art medium is not necessarily confined to canvas or paper but where you find it.

Waterfront Blueprint Directed

City council wants a concept plan for the development of local docking facilities and the entire city waterfront.

Council directed the city manager to prepare the report together with possible costs.

The call for the report came as result of a letter from the Belleville Yacht Club inquiring about the possible sale of the L-shaped visitors' dock on the Belleville inner harbor to the city or some local authority.

Alderman Stu Meeks said the visitors' dock had been in need of repairs for years and moved that the Belleville Harbor Commission sell the dock to the city for a nominal $1 figure.

He said the dock in its present state of disrepair was a "disgrace to the city."

Council approved the motion, as well as a second recommendation calling for a concept plan of the waterfront area.

The tentative offer of the yacht club to assist in the repair and maintenance of the dock was tabled until the concept plan report is received by council.

Certificates Presented

Two program workers with the Belleville Recreation and Arena Committee, Robin Heggie and Mrs. Wilma Summers have received recreation leadership certificates from the Ministry of Community and Social Services. The certificates were presented by Alderman Jean Smith, chairman of the recreation committee at its meeting in city hall on Wednesday.

Mr. Heggie had won his permanent municipal recreation director's certificate, type A, while Mrs. Summers won junior interim certificate in the same category.

Raffle Tickets Bring Yule Cheer

Members of the Belleville fire department are doing their Christmas shopping early this year. They have to. They have more than 1,200 underprivileged children on their shopping list.

For years now the firefighters have been gathering, repairing and distributing Christmas gifts for needy youngsters in the Belleville area.

Last year, they purchased or received approximately $2,700 worth of toys for children in more than 400 families. In fact, the program placed such a demand upon the firefighters that they had to negotiate a $400 bank loan to meet their commitments.

This year, the firefighters are combining their early shopping spree with an appeal to Belleville residents to help them provide gifts for the children. Throughout Fire Prevention Week and the remainder of the months of October and November the fire department will be selling raffle tickets for the $500 bond. Proceeds from the ticket sales will go toward the purchase of toys.

Bill Williams, president of the Belleville Professional Firefighters' Association explained that this year's raffle is an integral part of the firefighters' Christmas gift program.

"We no longer have the facilities to repair toys," he said. "Most of the children's toys on the market now are made of plastic and we just can't repair them. If we want to continue giving gifts to the underprivileged children, then we have to purchase new toys or receive donations of new toys."

This year's raffle is designed to help the firefighters raise money to buy gifts, but it will also provide some lucky winner with $500 — just in time for Christmas.

Tickets may be purchased from any Belleville firefighter, at both fire halls or at the Fire Prevention booth in the Quinte Mall.

The draw will take place during the Firefighters' Christmas Banquet, Nov. 30.

Top K of Cs At Trenton

TRENTON — The provincial board of the Knights of Columbus will visit Trenton this weekend to join in the 50th anniversary celebration of the Knights' founding here.

The board is the Order's top administrative body in the province, overseer of all civic work of local councils.

Also expected to visit the town is Erjon Wolff of Peterborough. Mr. Wolff is a member of the supreme board, the Knight's international administrative group.

Provincial board members will be guests of honor at a cocktail party at the Red Lion Friday night where they will meet area civic officials.

A social evening will continue at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Front Street.

Budget Figures Requested

MARMORA — Village councillor Bert Gray, fire and water committee chairman reported to council Marmora volunteer fire department had answered one fire and one resuscitator, call in August and two fire in September.

He has requested the fire department to submit its requirements for the year in January, to facilitate budgeting.

Li-Rong Lilly Cheng Sets Up Therapy Centre

Speech Defects Her Target

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

A special human need is being met by a special project now being organized in Belleville.

Belleville General Hospital has added a speech therapy centre to its complex of special services.

Speech impediment and its parental or personality complications — may excite slight public awareness.

But community authorities concerned verbally embrace the arrival of the service. They see it as a project that will ease a long - standing problem in the Hastings County area — and one that has special significance for children.

Dr. Reg Anderson, BGH's medical director says there is "not much community awareness of the problem. But it's a very considerable one."

Eric Runacres, county education administrator — whose trustee board commissioned a report that statistically profiled the need — sees the service offsetting "very serious problems" for children. "Speech defects and their root causes — may lead to learning impairment. The centre will be a remedial source for a diversity of demands: The victim of organic injury or impairments, the parents whose offspring shows no evident interest in vocalizing; children and adults who stammer or articulate poorly.

The new service is centred in BGH's former Education Hall and — since it's still in the organizational stages — is mainly Mrs. Li-Rong Cheng.

The young speech and language pathologist is still in the midst of making the centre fully operational.

Nonetheless she is already actively engaged in practice — seeing patients at the centre and in the wards, conferring and instructing nursing staff, and in contact with local school teachers who specialize in speech correction.

"Everywhere there is a need for such a therapy services like this," says Mrs. Cheng, who graduated last year after study and practical experience at Illinois and Michigan university centres.

"And, there definitely is a need for it in this area."

Statistics emphasize the claim.

Until Mrs. Cheng's arrival on the Belleville scene, individuals needing speech therapy were sent to Kingston centres.

Last May alone, she says, 70 people from the Belleville area were registered for therapy at Kingston General Hospital's speech clinic.

Local need was documented by the 1972 survey undertaken at Hastings' educators request by a visiting United States speech therapist, Mrs Mc Runacres.

The school board has tried to ease the problem by hiring speech correction teachers. There are now eight in the county school system, Mrs. Cheng says.

But the board hasn't been able to afford the specializing presence of a therapy pathologist.

Hence "we're very, very pleased that Belleville General has been able to lend leadership here," he says.

Survey findings have indicated local need is such it could create a fresh problem, indicates Dr. Anderson.

"The need is so great one pathologist can't hope to cope with all the problems," says BGH's medical director.

The survey suggested "three or four" such specialists might be needed.

"Our problem is not finding work for Mrs. Cheng, but to keep her from being overwhelmed by the needs of the community.

There's already one community example.

Several years ago a similar program was organized in Oshawa with a single speech therapist. Now there are three therapists at work, says Mrs. Cheng.

The intricacies of the specialty demand slow, patient flow.

Mrs. Cheng estimates a pathologist can work with only five or six patients a day — whether in diagnostic interviews or remedial therapy.

The centre will be equipped with audio - visual aids to assist therapy where necessary.

But diagnosis could range further afield — from psychiatrists to social workers.

If assessment reveals a physical or emotional link to the speech defect, the patient will be referred to the necessary specialist physician before therapy. Social workers, school teachers and school nurses could also be consulted.

Mrs. Cheng made contact with the local need that produced the service she's now directing, while still at Michigan State University. She heard about it last year while talking with a visiting specialist from Belleville's Ontario School for the Deaf, and became involved when BGH decided on the centre.

Her husband, Koun-ping, was studying for his mathematics PhD at the U of M when completing his study program from Michigan to Montreal's McGill — then Mrs. Cheng's decided on the move.

First for Mayor

Buying the official first ticket for the Belleville Professional Firefighters' Association's benevolent fund raffle, Mayor Robin Jeffery provided the firefighters and association president Bill Williams with encouragement yesterday at the Fire Prevention booth at the Quinte Mall.

How About Those Mets!

NEW YORK (AP) — It's two "miracles" down and one to go for New York Mets.

"You've got to believe," said pitcher Tom Seaver after the Mets won the National League pennant with a stunning 7-3 victory over Cincinnati Reds Wednesday.

Winning the pennant for New York's Cinderella team was as unlikely as winning the National League East had been—but there it was.

Next stop is the World Series, an illogical thought through most of the summer when the Mets were far behind the leaders in the East.

"We were dead three months ago," said veteran Ed Kranepool, "and dead one month ago."

Three months ago, the Mets were 15½ games behind. One month ago, they were in last place. So miracles do happen.

"I just want to win four more games," said a buoyant Yogi Berra, the Mets' manager. "Just four more!"

The Mets will go into the World Series Saturday at the American League park fresh from an emotion-charged playoff series that had every element of baseball drama—and then some.

New York won the deciding game of the five-game set with a pitcher supposedly washed up with the big guns and with a lineup that wasn't supposed to hit that well.

Seaver, although the ace of the New York staff, was the only Met pitcher to lose a game in the 1969 World Series—when they won their only world championship. And since then, critics have derided Seaver for losing crucial games, calling him a "choke" pitcher.

The Mets' hitting has been suspect all season, too. On paper, their lineup doesn't have nearly the firepower of the Reds. But on Wednesday, they outhit their supposedly stronger opponents 12-7.

Berra's coveted pennant had a bitter flavor to it, though. After Tug McGraw came in to save Seaver in a base-loaded, ninth-inning jam, a bizarre scene of mob rule erupted at Shea Stadium.

Uncontained by the park police, thousands of fans rolled out of the stands and literally tore up the place. The vandals not only ripped off temporary stands along first and third base, but scooped giant holes out of the turf.

Several people were hurt in the madcap madness as the Mets fans went berserk, fighting among themselves and attempting to grab the fleeing players who literally ran for their lives. Even the Shea Stadium infield had a supernatural moonscape effect with jagged craters throughout.

Many of the more than 50,000 fans at Shea Stadium had plenty of time to warm up for their passionate celebration. The Mets had taken a 6-2 lead with a four-run fifth inning.

A mental error by rookie third baseman Dan Driessen opened the gates for the Mets' deluge.

Driessen tagged the base instead of the runner when the Mets tried to move Wayne Garrett, who opened the inning with a double, to third with a bunt. Garrett subsequently scored the winning run when Cleon Jones doubled and the Mets added three more runs on a walk, a chopped infield single by Willie Mays, a Texas League single by Dan Hahn and a single by Bud Harrelson.

"It was just a matter of time before the Mets won their second pennant in five years.

It's not, magic it's togetherness," said the 43-year-old Mays, who was to rest today along with his joyous teammates.

"We can do it—we can win the World Series now."

Deciding Game Today

Etchebarren, Grich Supply the Punch

OAKLAND (AP) — The game that got away from Oakland catcher Ed Kranepool of the Baltimore Orioles after the American League playoffs into the finals today of a baseball series where the unusual out-distanced the expected and home run hitters haven't been the sluggers.

Catcher Andy Etchebarren and second baseman Bobby Grich provided the power Wednesday that won 5-4 for Baltimore Orioles after the Athletics had led 4-0 through six innings and Vida Blue had given up only two singles.

Etchebarren hit a three-run homer that tied the score in the seventh and then Grich led off the eighth with a blast off reliever Rollie Fingers that also cleared the left field fence in the Oakland Coliseum.

The day before, Oakland shortstop Bert Campaneris homered in the 11th for a 2-1 victory.

Today, the Orioles face the A's ace right hander Jim (Catfish) Hunter who was 3-0 against them in a 21-3 season even though Baltimore slammed eight home runs from his offerings.

The Orioles, who saw their ace Jim Palmer blasted in the second inning Wednesday, rely on Doyle Alexander, 13-8. To Alexander's credit, he was 1-0 against the A's and allowed only five hits and one earned run in the 11 1-3 innings he pitched against them in the regular season.

The playoffs go an extra day is deciding who will meet the National League champion New York Mets in the World Series because of a rainout Monday.

Etchebarren hit only two home runs during the regular season and said of his hit off Blue, "I was looking for a fast ball and he threw me a curve. I don't know why I swung at it but I just adjusted to it and swung."

His homer drove in Don Baylor and Brooks Robinson ahead of him and the latter had already knocked in the first Baltimore run. Then Grich, with 11 homers during the 162-game regular season, homered off a Fingers fast ball.

"It was not quite close enough," said the right-hander when asked if the pitch was close to where he wanted to put it.

While Etchebarren and Grich took the batting honors, the Orioles came up with a pair of fine pitching performances from Bob Reynolds and Grant Jackson.

Reynolds took over in the second inning and gave up only one run in 4 2-3 innings. Jackson, a southpaw, came on in the seventh with two runners on base and one out and retired Jackson and Gene Tenace, the home run slugger of last year's World Series.

Jackson became the winning pitcher as the Orioles overcame the four-run lead with just eight outs to go. Before Robinson's second-inning single, Williams had a chat with his pitcher.

"I wanted to calm him down and talk with catcher Ray Fosse," the manager said. "He told me Blue was pitching very well."

Etchebarren followed Robinson to the plate and hit Blue's first pitch 390 feet over the left field fence.

"Blame, me I let him pitch to one batter too many," Williams declared.

"Before I knock in the winning run, how about a little chat about next year's contract, Boss?"

Golden State Foiled Again

Golden State Warriors have established themselves early in the season as the Calamity Jane' team of the National Basketball Association.

Wednesday, the Warriors, for the second straight night, had a game postponed because of a slippery court.

The court conditions were caused by moisture on a newly shellacked floor at Cobo Arena in Detroit.

Not only were the Warriors on hand to help spoil the Pistons, opener, but Tuesday night Golden State was to open its season in Cleveland, but that game was also called off because of a wet floor.

In other NBA games, Chicago Bulls buried Kansas-City-Omaha Kings 105-90, Houston Rockets blitzed the Philadelphia 76ers 104-88, and Phoenix Suns defeated Seattle SuperSonics 115-111.

In the American Basketball Association, Indiana Pacers defeated the New York Nets 115-99, Utah Stars beat Memphis Tams 111-109, and San Diego Conquistadors defeated San Antonio Spurs 121-106.

Wednesday's NBA games featured the debuts of Bill Russell as Seattle coach, John McLeod as Phoenix coach and Gene Shue as Philadelphia coach.

The Detroit game actually started and the Pistons led 21-16 lead before it was stopped by referee Darrell Garretson in the first quarter.

Chet Walker scored 29 points and Norm Van Lier 25 for the Bulls, to offset the 42 points scored by the Kings' Nate Archibald.

Houston opened the final quarter with a 18-point barrage led by Rudy Tomjanovich and Calvin Murphy, while Charlie Scott scored 36 points for Phoenix against Seattle.

In the ABA, Dave Johnson scored 36 points and Dwight Lamar 30 to help make Wilt Chamberlain's debut as San Diego coach a winning one.

George McGinnis scored 27 points for the Pacers, who came from behind a six-point deficit with seven minutes to play, Julius Erving had 42 points for the Nets.

Agreement Finally Comes

DENVER (AP) — After three months' delay, a last-minute prod and 12 hectic hours of negotiation, the American Basketball Association owners and players agreed Wednesday to a new three-year contract.

The agreement allowed the league to begin its seventh season on schedule.

Denver Rockets owner Frank M. Goldbertz, chairman of the league's trustee committee, and Arland Penfold, lawyer for the ABA Players' Association, announced the settlement after seven of the league's 10 teams voted to strike and several owners threatened retribution.

Although specific terms of the contract weren't announced, the players' association appeared to have won at least some ground in its fight for what they termed crucial—increased pension benefits, living and travel expenses, and player shares of post-season playoff competition.

Penfold told reporters Tuesday he would ask the players not to play in the league's opening games Wednesday and tonight because the owners didn't see re concerned about negotiating a new contract, which had expired in July.

Conquistadors Hope To Have Wilt Play

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A judge ruled Wednesday that Wilt Chamberlain cannot play for San Diego Conquistadors this season, but the American Basketball League club said later it is trying to make an out-of-court settlement that will allow the giant centre to play for them after all.

Superior Court Judge Campbell Lucas issued a temporary restraining order at a request by Los Angeles Lakers of the National Basketball Association. The order says the 7-foot-1½-inch star may not play for anyone but the Lakers this year.

The Lakers said he saw no difference between this case and any other case of sports figures who have refused to abide by contracts featuring reserve or option clauses.

Chamberlain's two-year contract with the Lakers ran out after last season, but the team choose to exercise its option, holding Chamberlain to it for another year.

Outstanding Day for Rutherford

Trojans Are On the March

By ALAN TESWORTH
Sports Staff

Moira scored into sole possession of first place in both the Senior 'A' series and the Junior Eastern Division yesterday, as the Senior Trojans piled up a 21-6 win over their Trenton counterparts, while the Juniors shut out the Bayside Jaguars by a 34-0 count.

Dave Rutherford was the outstanding player in the Senior game. Rutherford ran for the incredible total of 220 yards while scoring the only three touchdowns of the game.

After Glenn Shaw had booted a 40 yard single, Rutherford scored his first of the three majors. Rutherford took the ball on the first play after a Trenton punt that was fielded at the Moira 30, and raced the 84 yards for the score on an off-tackle run.

Glenn Shaw booted the convert, and added another single on a 45-yard kick before the quarter had expired.

In the middle of the second quarter, Trenton was again forced to punt, this time from their own 33. Peter Stalikovich took the punt in the Moira 40, to set up the next scoring play.

On the second play from scrimmage this time, Rutherford went 53 yards on another off tackle for the score, breaking several tackles enroute.

Shaw's convert attempt was wide.

The third- quarter was a good period of football, as was the whole game. However, neither team could get on the scoreboard in the period, with defensive efforts both teams standing out.

The fourth quarter was moving along in the same fashion, until with about five minutes to go until full time, Trenton was once again forced to a punting situation

On the return, Rutherford fumbled the ball after being rocked hard by Joe Norman and Nick Alexander to advance on the return of about 10 yards to the Moira 36.

Norman picked up the loose pigskin and outran the Moira punt return team for a 50 yard major.

Quarterback Dave Lewis' pass to Don Armstrong for the convert was no good.

The next series of plays almost proved disastrous for the Trojans as another fumble by Rutherford on his own 38 gave Trenton possession deep in Moira territory.

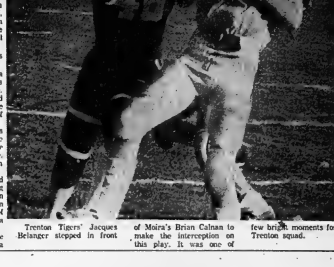
However they were bailed out on Trenton's first play, as Pat Bradley picked off a Lewis pass on the Moira 23 to take the pressure off.

Add to High School Football take 2

Rutherford then turned the turnover into a touchdown to make up for his previous miscue, as he motored 87 yard's for the major, outrunning six Trenton backfielders to the goal line.

Shaw's convert was no good as a bad snap went over the head of the holder.

Rutherford racked up his 220 yards on only 15 carries to an average 21 yards per carry, while Peter Stalikovich piled up 87 yards on 10 runs.



Trenton's big rusher was Armstrong, with 51 yards on 16 carries, while Mark Petrie had 21 on six. Trenton's total offense was only about 125 yards, which speaks well for the Moira defense.

Moira Coach Mike Dulack was quick to point out the work of the defensive cornerbacks. The work of Sam Reston and Bradley stopped the patented Trenton sweeps effectively yesterday, and Bradley made a key interception in the late stages of the game.

The win gave the Trojans six points on three wins against no losses to put them two points up on the Tigers, and Centennial, who were idle last night.

Rick North and Roger Sprague went over for two touchdowns each in the Junior game, as they whitewashed Bayside by a 34-0 score. Mike Kirby and John Lowe added the other majors, while North and Kirby added two point conversions.

In tonight's games, Centennial takes on Trenton in the junior contest at Trenton, while BCI takes on Centennial at CSS.

Trenton Tigers' Jacques Belanger stepped in front of Moira's Brian Calnan to make the interception on this play. It was one of few bright moments for the Trenton squad.

Leg Miseries Don't Stop Esposito

By RON SUPLOW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Just wait until Phil Esposito gets healthy.

Esposito, the perennial National hockey League scoring champion, destroyed Vancouver Canucks with three goals and two assists in Boston Bruins' 6-4 victory Wednesday night.

Espo, who played his first game since surgery to his right knee, figured in the playoffs last April, and reached the 600-goal plateau. His 401st was the winner after the Canucks had scrambled to a 4-4 tie late in the third period.

"The knee isn't as strong as I want it to be and my right leg is still a lot smaller than my left, but I can play," the 30-year-old centre said after recording the 21st three - goal performance of his career.

"When he cast first came off after the operation, I looked at the leg and said, 'Oh, Oh,' goodbye.' However, it's building up gradually."

Brother Tony also grabbed a share of the NHL's opening night spotlight as he blasted 25 Los Angeles Kings shots while Chicago Black Hawks did all the scoring in the second period for a 3-0 win to open defence of their Stanley Cup crown.

Rookie goalie Bunny Larocque kept Minnesota off the scoreboard for two periods as Montreal Canadiens thumped the North Stars 5-2 at Bloomington.

Veteran Henri Richard started his 19th season with a goal and an assist. The 37-year-old centre managed only eight markers in the 1972-73 campaign.

Elsewhere, the Maple Leafs also thumped Buffalo Sabres 7-4, at Toronto; the Rangers whipped Detroit Red Wings 4-1 at New York; California Golden Seals edged St. Louis Blues 2-1 at Oakland, and New York Islanders tied the Flames 1-1 at Atlanta. . .

Toronto plays the Flyers at Philadelphia in tonight's only contest.

At Boston, where the Bruins record of consecutive sellouts was snapped at 181, Esposito scored the first two goals of the season for his club as a crowd of 480 short of a capacity house looked on.

He then set up line-mate Wayne Cashman to make it 3-2 and Chris Oddleifson scored his first NHL goal to give the Bruins a 4-2 cushion.

Gerry O'Flaherty and Orland Kurtenbach pulled the Canucks even before Esposito went to work again with the winner and set up Ken Hodge for the insurance marker into an empty net.

Chicago rookie Darryl Sittler also counted his first NHL goal after earlier second-period scores by team-mates Dennis Hull and J. P. Bordeleau at Los Angeles.

Yvan Cournoyer, Chuck Lefley, Pete Mahovlich and Guy Lafleur completed the Montreal goal-scoring as the Stanley Cup champions didn't appear to miss all-star goalie Ken Dryden, who quit hockey this year to join a Toronto law firm.

John Stewart pulled the Flames even with the Islanders after Lorne Henning gave the New Yorkers the lead in a goal-tenders duel.

Danny Bouchard turned aside 24 shots while Gerry Desjardins was spectacular for the Islanders in kicking 28.

"Last year all I saved was my pride," said Desjardins, whose club won only 12 games last season. "The Islanders have stronger defencemen and that has helped me a lot."

Meanwhile, Serf Ted Garvin was fumbled about his Detroit defence after Walt Tkaczuk, Pete Stemkowski, Vic Hadfield and Billy Fairbairn had waltzed through his Wings for scores.

Garvin, making his coaching debut along with Rangers' Larry Popein, was particularly miffed about defenceman Rick Foley's play "and he knows it."

"I have no plans for him unless he improves the performance we got him for. He hasn't rattled those boards the way I expected."

Foley, in Garvin's doghouse for being overweight since he was obtained from the Flyers, retorted that "I don't give a damn who he says . . . If he does have something to say I will be the last one to hear it."

Dave Keon and Rick Kehoe each scored twice to dull the Sabres who went undefeated through their first 10 games last season.

Jim McKenny, Norm Ullman and Darryl Sittler completed the Toronto scoring as the Leafs shelled rookie Buffalo netminder Gary Bromley for circuit wins announced Wednesday.

six goals in the two periods he played.

Rene Robart tallied twice for the Sabres.

Garry Croteau's unassisted goal with less than three minutes remaining was the winner at Oakland. Joey Johnston also scored for the Seals and Lon Angotti replied for St. Louis.

Blazers' Fans Happy

VANCOUVER (CP) — Rookie Jim Adair's second goal of the game, at 2:50 of the overtime period, gave Vancouver Blazers a 4-3 victory over Winnipeg Jets Wednesday night in a World Hockey Association game.

Adair slammed Don Burgess's rebound past Winnipeg goaltender Ernie Wakely to send the opening-night crowd of 15,402 home happy.

The Blazers were transferred from Philadelphia to Vancouver and the off-season when purchased by Vancouver multimillionaire Jim Pattison.

The Blazers took a 2-1 lead in the first period on goals by Adair and Danny Lawson, with Lawson scoring by finishing off a three-on-one break against Wakely.

Winnipeg opened the scoring on a goal by Jean Guy Gratton, who steered a loose puck past Vancouver goalie Gerry Archambeault after some sloppy clearing by the Blazers.

Winnipeg veteran Ab McDonald scored the only goal of the second period, a soft effort which appeared to catch Archambeault off balance.

Claude St. Sauveur, a 21-year-old rookie, gave the Blazers a 3-2 lead at 4:54 of the third period, beating Wakely on a return pass from Lawson. Norm Beaudin tied the score again for Winnipeg at 7:17 when his effort along the ice slipped by Archambeault.

BLUES RELEASE 2

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Veterans Fran Huck and Danny O'Shea were placed on waivers Wednesday by St. Louis Blues for the purpose of releasing them from the National Hockey League club.

Theismann, Devine In Football Match

It was a classic situation. Seconds remaining in the game. The 'white' team down seven points. And who was the quarterback of the losing team? None other than Toronto Argonaut star quarterback Joe Theismann.

The occasion was a touch football game, October 7, at Northview Heights Collegiate, organized by Elk's Mens' and Boys' Wear. For the past six weeks, Elk's have been running a clinic, offering boys throughout Ontario the opportunity to come to Toronto and participate in a football clinic and touch football game . . . and, most importantly of course, to meet Joe Theismann. Stephen Devine of 309 Victoria Avenue in Belleville was one of the winners.

Thirty young men, betweeli the ages of nine and 16, all wearing Elk's No. 7 football shirts, converged on the Northview Heights stadium on a day that dawned cloudy but quickly brightened. First Theismann led them through a series of exercises and offered some professional pointers on the snoot. Then the game began in earnest. Joe was playing the 'white' side for the first half and Jimmy Elkind (son of the president of Elk's) quarterbacked the opposing 'blue' team.

Much to the amusement of parents and onlookers, the 'Blue' team, led by Jimmy Elkind, was soon out in front 7-0. It wasn't until the last seconds of the game that a much relieved Theismann completed a pass for the tying touchdown. Referee Bob Haggert, Theismann's agent breathed a heavy sigh of relief as well.

The post game celebrations included a luncheon, hosted by Elk's during which the young men received an Elk's No. 7 sport shirt, a copy of Joe Theismann's recently released book "Quarterbacking" and autographed photos of Joe, and an autographed football.

WHA Arrives in B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver hockey fans got their first taste of World Hockey Association action Wednesday night and there was something in it for almost everyone.

The first 4,650 fans got pennants commemorating the Vancouver Blazers' first home game, politicians got a donation to their favorite charity and the opposing player Bobby Hull of the Winnipeg Jets received a steer for "his great promotional work on behalf of the WHA."

The pre-game festivities lasted more than an hour, with searchlights sweeping the sky in front of the Pacific Coliseum, torches on the ice and music from the Kitsilano Boys Band.

Jim Patison, multi-millionaire owner of the Blazers, handled the pre-game introductions, presenting Vancouver Mayor Art Phillips and British Columbia Attorney-General Alex Macdonald who had a puck-shooting contest, attempting to fire the disc into the net from centre ice. Success was rewarded by a $1,000 gift from the Blazers to the politician's favorite charity.

Macdonald, wearing a kilt, was several feet wide of the net with his try but Phillips put it right in the middle.

Phillips and Macdonald then had a ceremonial face-off at centre ice with WHA president Gary Davidson dropping the puck. The game finally got under way minutes later.

The turnout of 10,000 fans was disappointing, with large areas of empty seats. However, they went home happy with a 4-3 win.

The Blazers played last season in Philadelphia where they finished third in the WHA's east division. Patison purchased the financially-troubled team a the off-season, moving it to Vancouver to give the Vancouver Canucks of the National Hockey League some competition.

The Canucks' first home game is Oct. 17 when they defeated 6-4 by Boston Bruins Wednesday night.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Dave Ricketts, a former catcher for St. Louis Cardinals and Pittsburgh Pirates, will be the Cardinals' bullpen coach in the 1974 season, general manager Bing Devine said Wednesday. Ricketts, 38, will rejoin the Cardinals after three years as the Pirates' bullpen coach.

A's FAVORED

RENO, Nev. (CP) — Oakland Athletics have been made 7-to-5 favorites to win today's fifth and deciding game of the American League playoffs over the Baltimore Orioles. The Reno Turf Club said Wednesday it would go with Oakland because it felt Athletic pitcher Jim Hunter was superior to Baltimore hurler Doyle Alexander.

JIM STILLWAGON STEVE SMEAR

Lost to Argos for Season

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Argonauts have apparently lost the services of defensive tackle Jim Stillwagon and linebacker Steve Smear for the rest of the Canadian Football League season.

Stillwagon, who injured his knee in a Sept. 9 game against Hamilton Tiger-Cats, said Wednesday he probably will require surgery to repair damaged cartilage.

Smear, acquired in an off-season trade from Montreal Alouettes, was sidelined with ligament damage in his right knee in Toronto's second game.

Tim a Bomber

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Western Football Conference announced Wednesday the acquisition of defensive halfback Tim Beamer from Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Eastern conference for a five-day trial.

The acquisition of Beamer, a six-foot 195-pounder who can also play offensive halfback, completes an earlier trade which sent utility Pete Ribbins to Hamilton for centre-linebacker John Bonk and future considerations.

Residents and Campers To Be Banned from Park

TORONTO (CP) — A committee attempting to protect Inverhorsen Provincial Park from development by Ontario Hydro has been told that residents, campers and cottagers will be banned from the park.

The Inverhuron Committee of Concern heard a decision on the future of the park at a meeting Tuesday with officials of Ontario Hydro, the Atomic Energy Control Board (AECB) and provincial Energy Minister Darcy McKeough.

Committee members, residents near the Lake Huron Park between Kincardine and Port Elgin, were told that after 1974, only "daytime use of the park will be allowed.

Jury Called Arbitrary

TORONTO (CP) — Recommendations made Tuesday by a jury in an inquest into the death in a crash last March on Highway 400 that took 12 lives were termed "arbitrary" Wednesday by the president of the Automotive Transport Association of Ontario.

M. W. Donnelly said in a statement that the jury's call for a ban on wire rope operation of coup trailers was hasty and that "a more complete examination of the facts is required before such far-reaching pronouncements can be put forward for public consumption."

He said, we have to either "learn to live with double trailers or we ban them completely," with the final criteria being whether "they really present an unusual hazard."

The jury of four men and one woman also suggested stringent safety checks for transport trailers, slower speed limits for buses in winter and guidelines for removing snow fences.

Transit Committee Chosen

TORONTO (CP) — Premier William Davis announced today the membership of the 11-member steering committee established to develop the format for the Ontario Regional Transit Authority.

To be chaired by A. T. C. McIntosh, Ontario's deputy minister of transportation and communications, the committee will decide on the form of a regional transit authority encompassing several regions in the Toronto area.

Crawling Arnold Makes A Conquest

One-Act Performances Uneven

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

More caricatures than characters, actors in one-act plays have a problem to overcome. Little time is given for a player to grow into a role, to live through the course of a part and become convincing.

It's a situation similar to a television sitcom, but with only some 30 minutes to make a point before leaving the audience's mental screen, not to return next week, same time, same station.

To various degrees, each three one - act plays presented during Wednesday's opening night of the Belleville Theatre Guild's first production. Comedy Bizarre II, suffered from this.

John Hawken's The Wax Museum, and Anton Chechov's The Proposal suffered the least from such "caricaturization". Jules Feiffer's Crawling Arnold, the most.

The fight for the audience's attention begins immediately with the raising of the lights, also, very appearance of the set, the first word spoken.

Take The Wax Museum, directed by William Culp. The lights come up revealing a stage full of mannequins courtesy of producer Olga Allan and stage manager Rene Robertson. The lights are dim. The question — what will actresses Nora Barclay, as Bingo, and Sharon Poitras, as Sally Ann, do with these motionless dummies.

It wasn't love at first sight between Arnold and Miss Sympathy during Wednesday's opening night performance of Jules Feiffer's Crawling Arnold, but the cooing came soon and swiftly. Steven Forrester and Isabel Huggan portrayed the leading characters in Feiffer's comedy satirizing the Cold War attitudes of middle America of the early 1960s. Miss Sympathy, a social worker, has just succeeded in "helping" Arnold, although she has come down to his level — namely, kisses. Crawling Arnold, Anton Chekhov's The Proposal, and John Hawken's The Wax Museum continue on the Belleville Theatre Guild's Pinnacle Playhouse stage October 31-13 and 17-20.

The audience's attention is snatched quickly by Miss Barclay, playing a museum attendant in a Canadian summer resort town. An aggressive, raunchy, sarcastic bitchy - woman who strongly implies she is the lover of George, a red-uniced Royal Canadian Mounted policeman, she intrigues the audience as to her purpose in the house of wax.

She's George's bad girl, she says, but not for long. In a superbly paced, insidious manner of functions, Miss Barclay, slowly, but perhaps deliberately, places with Sally Ann, an engaged woman who happens into the museum. Miss Barclay's pervasive presence is felt strongly in the theatre, though, perhaps her articulation would be better suited for a less modern vehicle than Hawken's.

To those familiar with his play, the end, and the characters movement to that end can be easily seen, but to this first night audience, it appeared difficult. The manner is subtle. Bingo slaughters Sally Ann's innocence, invades her disinfected body, slides her silk stockings down her legs, and leaves. In the end, Sally Ann, by no means as brazen a hussy as Bingo, with golden hair falling about her face, chastises George, the dummy.

In so doing, Miss Poitras takes her bows on another successful addition to her list of credits. From the role of Miss Greyquake in The Wiz to Opal in Parted on a Wedding Morning (both one-act plays of the 1973 Theatre Guild August session) and now The Wax Museum, she has very capably and sensitively performed.

The Proposal, the final offering of the evening, was risky business. But the three players did it justice under the guiding hand of director Ernst Kneisel.

The danger lay in having the actors taunting their arms about in mock fury across empty space — the hot rage and cursing written in the lines overcoming the intent of same. Nothing of the sort happened. On the contrary, the three players, Fred Webster as landowner, Chubukov; Diane Coyne as his daughter, Natasha, and Jim Alexander, as the sickly sailor, controlled the play. The outrageous arguments getting in the way of a proposal of marriage warmed the audience to laughter and subsequently to a good round of applause.

Alexander did not hide his characterization in the palpitations and heart tremorings he might have, had he been unsure of his roles.

Mrs. Coyne, after a reported previous success as Mother Courage, exhibited her building rage with restraint. When the explosion came, it was heard. Webster, as Chubukov, flapped his hands about in admirable frustration at the goings-on.

Whereas The Proposal ended the evening well, Crawling Arnold, directed by Verna Patterson, made for a poorer beginning. Yes, there were two other plays, but there's no need to rush, thereby unhinging the players from their roles.

The farce, satirizing the dubious comforts of a fallout shelter equipped with four years' bark issues of Reader's Digest during the times of America's fear of Communism, displays Arnold, played by Steven Forrester, on his knees.

Isabel Huggan, as Miss Sympathy, a social worker hired to help Arnold, over-friends."

Sympathy, a social worker miscast, she weeps overmuch, breathlessly. Her platitudes are delivered in a tizzy.

Newcomer to the Belleville stage, Cliff Hoy, as Mr. Enterprise, an over-zealous patriot, displayed about as much finesse as a bulldozer. At times, it wasn't necessary. Jane Wife, in a competent, though colorless, portrayal by Vivian Barclay, was the cliche of the concerned mother. Irene Maybury shuffled and scowled her way effectively through the role of Millie, the Enterprise's newly-militant black maid.

Forrester's characterization, though competent and pace-mouthed, again suffered from the rush-hour pace. The subway door closed before the audience knew what satirical stations Miss Sympathy and Arnold had passed through.

In all, it's worth the trip down to the Pinnacle Playhouse. Comedy Bizarre II continues October 11-13 and 17-20.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDROSOL

Friday, October 12

Aries (March 21-April 19) Legal matters will prove problematical for you today. Avoid disputes or entanglements that could go to court.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) It's very important that you do everything in the open so that your motives cannot be questioned.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) Your companions will not be as reliable today as you'd like them to be. Rest you don't count too heavily on them keeping promises.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) Whether you know it or not others are watching you very carefully. You're not making a lot of points with them. Guard your reputation.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) Today be sure that you do not overup or make excuses for something you've neglected to do. Tell it like it is. Take your bumps.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Make do with what you have. Don't borrow. It could lead to complications you can do without.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Keep your opinions to yourself today. Something you will tell another in confidence will be twisted and used against you.

Scarpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This is not a good day to begin an unfamiliar project. Work only with tools and materials that you handle competently.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're overly optimistic today. This affects your judgment. Take off your rose-colored glasses. You'll see things as they are.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Today you will be tempted to spend for something you feel you need just because someone else whom you admire has one.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 - Feb. 19) You'll find yourself in a situation where it would be easier to evade the issue than tell the cold, hard truth. Face up to things.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) Continue to watch your pennies closely. You're not a particular sharp buyer today. You could be easily taken advantage of.

Dick Collver Tries to Revive Party on Deathbed 25 Years

SASKATOON (CP) — He's a prosperous, conservatively-dressed efficiency expert who rides a motorcycle over the countryside and expects to be the next premier of Saskatchewan.

He's Dick Collver, the 37-year-old president of the Saskatchewan Progressive Conservative party, whose election as president last March 24 prompted jokes about a convention held in a telephone booth.

But in his hard-driving, get-it-done-now manner, he is trying to bring back to life by 1975—expected date of the next provincial election—a party that all but died a quarter century ago.

The only Conservative government in Saskatchewan history fell in 1934. For six years, the party has not even had a single member in the legislature.

The party has not been considered a serious contender since the CCF victory of 1944. In December of last year there were 42 paid members in the entire province.

But that is changing, Mr. Collver said in an interview. At the time of the March convention, there were 320 members. Now there are more than 3,000.

He is not out for limited gains. He is out to win in 1975 and says he can do it.

How?

First comes hard work—a permanent headquarters has been set up here, furnishings donated by businessmen, a young staff has been collected and organizers are being sent out into the country.

More important, in his view, is that his party offers the right approach at the right time. After a lengthy tour of the province, he said he feels the people are fed up with the NDP and Liberals and worried about the future of the province:

"You need only drive through Saskatchewan as I did on this campaign tour—8,000 miles, 150-200 small towns—and watch the ghost towns developing in Saskatchewan. . . . You know somewhere there's something wrong."

The real problem in developing the province, he said, is that "successive governments have taken the idea, let's be government for special interest groups."

The pattern he sees of discrimination for or against certain groups, by both Liberal and NDP governments has disunited people, he contends:

"My candidacy, my main thrust, is to attempt to thwart that pattern, to act as a catalyst . . . to bend that pattern around so that it will be for everybody. And then everybody will pull together."

A forceful individualist who doesn't want to be treated like a puppet by government or big business, he said he believes the people are ready for the Progressive Conservative philosophy, which he summarizes as a belief that one's "string" should not be pulled:

He gave a glimpse of his approach to the next election campaign, calling for a return to the classic conservative philosophy. "That government functions best which is closest to people if you are to maintain a democracy."

Both Liberal and NDP governments, he said, have taken away the powers of municipal governments and school boards—the kinds of government people have greatest control over.

What kind of premier will Saskatchewan citizens get if they elect this man with neatly-trimmed beard who was never involved in party politics before becoming leader of a virtually-non-existent party?

If he has his way, the answer to that question will not be a short one. He disdains labels, calling them "counter-productive" and "simplistic."

His style seems to switch from businesslike realism to idealism, depending on the topic.

He would abolish medical care premiums because they are too costly to collect.

But he also says that if men could only truly understand one another—through interpathy, for instance—"there would be no war, there would be no crime."

Born in Toronto and educated at Calgary high schools and the University of Alberta—where he took economics and law before articling as a chartered accountant—he described one of his first jobs by saying "I peddled dope for Ford."

That, it turns out upon inquiry, was drugs for chickens and pigs.

After moving to Saskatoon, he was urged by friends to run for mayor and did just that last year—losing by a wide margin.

Beside his wife and three children, his personal interests revolve around the Kidney Research Foundation of Saskatchewan, which he organized, the Saskatoon Symphony Orchestra, golf and trail-bike riding on a Honda 175 motorcycle.

His climb in the business world started in 1965 when he founded Management Associates Ltd., a Saskatoon-based company described as providing "a broad management service to many medium-sized businesses in Ontario, Saskatchewan and Alberta, including farms, hotels, taxis, construction, financial services, automotive, retail outlets, medical clinics and so on."

His said his employees, from Thunder Bay to the Rockies, total 2,000. One of his most recent deals involved purchase of the Bessborough Hotel, a Saskatoon landmark, from the CNR.

Why, with an apparently-highly-successful business career, did he enter politics as leader of a nonexistent party?

"I was asked," he replied. "If you believe in the system, you should belong to a political party."

Scottish Nationalists Hope for Independence

EDINBURGH (Reuter) — From a tiny basement festooned with relics from Scotland's past, nationalist leaders are looking to a forthcoming British government document to bring about their dreams of Scottish independence.

The 65,000-member Scottish National Party (SNP), formed in 1928, seeks the establishment of a Scottish parliament separate from Westminster.

Many Scots have long complained that Scotland has been misgoverned and even exploited by England, to which it was linked in 1603.

The party now pins its hopes on a government-appointed commission on the British constitution, set up five years ago after the last wave of nationalist euphoria, which Prime Minister Edward Heath has said will report "later this year."

Welsh nationalists are so sure that the commission, headed by the eminent Scottish judge Lord Kilbrandon, will recommend a separate Scottish government that they have launched a campaign under the slogan "we want an assembly too."

The SNP has demanded a completely autonomous Scottish parliament, retaining Queen Elizabeth as its monarch, but this is certain to be rejected by the British government.

The most that the Kilbrandon commission could offer is a provincial assembly which would have powers over local matters.

The setting up of the 15-member commission was announced by Labor Prime Minister Harold Wilson in 1968, the year after a nationalist candidate won a sensational Commons byelection in the Glasgow suburb of Hamilton.

SNP officials have condemned it as a sop to independent-minded Scots and have maintained that both Labor and Conservative governments have kept the report on ice without any intention of publishing its findings.

"The commission must give us a Scottish parliament," said SNP organizing secretary John McAteer. "Scotland has the right and the need to be self-governing."

Nationalists contend that arguments that Scotland is not a viable unit have been shattered by the discovery of huge oil deposits in the North Sea off its east coast. Experts estimate that the area will soon yield 150 million barrels a year, producing annual revenues of more than £350 billion.

The oil boom has revitalized the Scottish economy as 130-mile pipeline is being tunneled from the northeast coast to the main oil-refining port of Grangemouth.

It has also provided a resurgence for the SNP, which at present holds only one of the 71 Scottish seats in the 635-member House of Commons.

Nationalists have bitterly attacked the Conservative government for not forcing the oil companies to pay more royalties from their exploitation.

Last March the party fought a special election in Dundee on a platform advocating more control by a Scottish parliament over the oil industry. It came second, losing by only 1,000 votes, and slashed the victorious Labor party's share of the poll from 56 to 32 per cent.

The SNP is so confident of its rising status that it has made a public commitment to contest all 71 Scottish seats in the next general election, due by mid-1975.

In 1966 the party polled 128,000 votes. Four years later the total had risen to more than 300,000—about 11.4 per cent of all ballots cast.

Officials say the party could win about 12 constituencies now but political observers estimate that the nationalists would have real chances of capturing about four seats with an outside chance of four more.

Heath is believed to be sympathetic to the idea of a provincial Scottish assembly. But he faces opposition from Scottish Conservatives, who point out that any Scottish parliament would have a Labor party majority.

The idea of "devolution" or decentralizing some aspects of power, is not new to the British political system. Northern Ireland was governed by its own provincial assembly for almost half a century until March last year, when the British government took over direct control of the province because of sectarian violence there.

CP News Roundup

Mowats Manitoba Residents

WINNIPEG (CP) — Author Farley Mowat remarked casually in June that he would consider moving to Manitoba if the New Democratic Party won the provincial election.

So last month he loaded the family camper, said good-bye to Port Hope, Ont., and headed west to settle in Premier Ed Schreyer's backyard in north Winnipeg.

Mr. Mowat, his wife Claire, and their two Newfoundland water dogs, have been guests of the Schreyers ever since, except for visits around the province.

The well-known author and conservationist has never expressed much of the attraction to politics or politicians, but he dubbed the NDP the "least obnoxious party" and accompanied the campaigning premier before the June 28 election, won by the NDP.

"I took a lot of pooped my big mouth during one of those trips," he recalled in an interview. "I mentioned that I was so impressed with the NDP that I would consider moving to Manitoba if they won."

Ed and his family were in Prince Edward Island for a conference during the summer, as they stopped in at our cottage in the Gulf of St. Lawrence."

"He said I had made my bluff and asked me if I would live up to it. And that was that."

Since his arrival in Manitoba, Mr. Mowat says, his impression of the NDP has grown by leaps and bounds, particularly because of its hopes for the north.

20,000 on Trail

ALGONQUIN PARK, Ont. (CP) — Recreational programs have become so popular that 20,000 visitors trampled over one trail in Algonquin provincial park this season.

That is one reason that about 150 rangers, naturalists, historians and teachers will meet here Oct. 17-21 for private discussions on how to improve environmental education in parks and museums across the country and how to organize to do the job.

Ballard Parole

OTTAWA (CP) — Harold Ballard, 70-year-old president of the Toronto Maple Leafs National Hockey League team who has been serving a prison sentence for fraud and theft, will be paroled Oct. 19.

The parole board announced Wednesday that Ballard, who is now is in a correctional centre in Toronto, will be released after serving one-third of the three-year term he received one year ago.

Reach Accord

TORONTO (CP) — The United Auto Workers and Chrysler Canada Ltd. signed a tentative local contract settlement Wednesday covering 350 workers at a piston-casting plant here.

The agreement came a few hours before a strike deadline set by the union and following agreements on local contracts Tuesday at three Chrysler plants in the U.S. covering a total of 7,700 workers.

Spring Vote

COLLINGWOOD, Ont. (CP) — Allan Lawrence, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Northumberland-Durham, said Wednesday the minority Liberal government is counting on an election this spring.

Industrial Boom Next

Spending Booms Believed Over

TORONTO (CP) — Opening speakers at the annual business outlook session of the Conference Board in Canada zeroed in on inflation as the main problem for economic planners in Canada and the United States.

Arthur J. R. Smith, president of the Conference Board in Canada, said the Canadian economy now is at the end of "an old-fashioned business-cycle boom" except that price increases "have been far more pronounced."

Abeet T. Sommers, chief economist for the Conference Board in the U.S., said the key issue for U.S. business "is how to contain domestic inflation without inducing serious recession, in other words, how to escape from the stop-go behavior of the past five years."

Mr. Smith said the booms in housing construction, spending on big-ticket consumer items, profit increases and growth of productivity now are generally over.

The booms have meant an expanding economy has pushed many industries to capacity.

"The key implication of this situation is that a build-in investment boom is now getting rather belatedly under way."

Mr. Smith said data on capital expenditures and surveys of planned business spending "lead me to the conclusion that the Canadian economy is poised for a substantial expansion of industrial capacity — all the more so since we had very little rise in real plant and equipment outlays in 1970-72, which we were experiencing accelerating growth of real output."

Mr. Smith, a former chairman of the Economic Council of Canada, said he sees several strong points in the Canadian economic outlook, including:

—Increased support for consumer spending through government "transfer payments," such as family allowances and aid for low-income families.

—Increased industrial demand because of low inventory positions.

—Strong demand in basic industries, such as food production, mining and logging.

"In these circumstances, I would look to a Canadian economy in 1974 that will grow significantly less rapidly than it has grown this year — perhaps under five per cent real growth rate — but one that will grow significantly faster than the U.S. economy next year."

Mr. Smith said the problem of inflation "is primarily a problem of food and housing prices."

Little of the real growth in income during 1973 went to wage and salary earners because it flowed into higher corporate retained earnings, higher government taxes, higher rents and higher interest and dividend payments.

If this situation continues there would be a basis "for greatly increased pressures for wage and salary advances."

He said elements contributing to inflation have become "powerfully intertwined" in such way as to create a floor for inflation.

"As a bunch, I would guess that this kind of combination of factors is now providing a kind of floor to inflation of somewhere close to 6 per cent per year in the industrial world."

Pay Women

SASKATOON (CP) — A daylong occupation of the Indian affairs department office here ended late Wednesday when a compromise was reached to pay Indian women to take a domestic training program.

About 40 Indian and Metis women and 20 Indian men occupied the office at 9:30 a.m. protest the federal government's refusal to pay Indian women up to $17.50 a day to take a homemaking course. The provincial government pays up to that amount to Metis women.

Never-resign Agnew Resigns

'Mr. Clean' Faces Cloudy Future

WASHINGTON (CP) — Tall, neatly-dressed Spiro T. Agnew, who recently vowed "I will never resign," has walked out of the vice-presidency of the United States leaving a trail of controversy behind him.

Often described as "Mr. Clean," the former Maryland governor faces a shadowy political future after apparently using his office to make a cozy bargain that gave him an easy sentence on an income-tax evasion charge.

Never before in U.S. history has the vice-presidency been under such a cloud. Only once before, in 1832, has a vice-president resigned. John C. Calhoun, running mate of Andrew Jackson, quit over an ideological dispute.

Agnew, who at one time appeared to be a sure winner to take over from President Nixon in 1976, may now fade into political obscurity.

Son of a Greek immigrant, Agnew was nationally unknown when Nixon picked him as running mate in 1968. But Agnew soon rose to prominence with his attacks on persons and issues he disliked.

He accused much of the American press of being biased and unfair and charged American black Panthers with spending too much time "in querulous complaint and constant recrimination against the rest of society."

His attacks were so strong that the International Press Institute, an organization of journalists and news agencies, described Agnew in January, 1970, as the most serious threat to freedom of information in the Western world.

But when the Watergate political scandal broke and threatened to engulf Nixon, Agnew stood aloof. His hands appeared clean and his White House prospects continued to rise.

Last August his political fortunes shrank as the vice-president was warned he was under investigation by U.S. Attorney George Beall for "possible violations" of extortion, bribery, conspiracy and tax laws.

Agnew maintained he was innocent.

Agnew charged there were certain persons in the U.S. justice department leaking information to the press about the so-called charges and he then told an enthusiastic gathering of Republican women in Los Angeles: "If indicted, I will not resign."

Throughout the period there was speculation that Agnew's lawyers were trying to make a deal with the Justice Department, ready to yield the vice-presidency in return for a lighter sentence. Agnew denied he was making any deal.

But an Attorney-General Elliot Richardson indicated at the Baltimore hearing Wednesday a deal had been in the works. Of all the alleged charges against Agnew, only one was impressed. Agnew pleaded no contest on a charge of income-tax evasion. The judge considered the plea equivalent to acknowledgement of guilt. He sentenced Agnew to three years probation and a $10,000 fine.

Tuesday evening, Agnew told President Nixon he was resigning. White House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said Nixon "hopes the American people will afford Mr. Agnew and his family their compassion and consideration."

Agnew is married to the former Elinor Judefind of Bellefonte, Pennsylvania. They have three children, a son and three daughters.

A company commander with U.S. armored forces in Europe during the Second World War, Agnew was born and educated in Baltimore. He got a law degree in 1947.

He was a Democrat until 1966 and a moderate until the mid-1960s. A judge who befriended him drew him into the Republican fold.

Regular Schools Best For Retarded Children

WARDSVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Retarded children possibly are better off attending a regular school rather than a special training establishment, an official of the Ontario Association for the Mentally Retarded said Wednesday.

James Turner said experiments in integration of the retarded into the general school community have been "remarkably successful."

Bill Would Force Revealing Of Sources of Information

TORONTO (CP) — Even neighborhood gossips may think twice about unbuttoning their lips if legislation before the justice administration committee of the legislature is approved.

A bill to control the storage and supply of personal information for credit-rating purposes was amended Wednesday so that when a benefit is denied a consumer the nature and source of detrimental information is available to the consumer if he wants it.

John Clement, minister of consumer and commercial relations, said there are probably more abuses in the field of personal information reporting than in credit reporting.

He used job applications and employment opportunities as an example.

"If I'm going to say something adverse to your character, I should be prepared to stand behind it," said the minister.

Several members of the committee and legal representatives of various credit agencies suggested the legislation could open a "Pandora's box of libel actions.

However, Mr. Clement stood by his remarks:

"If I make an irresponsible statement I have to suffer the consequences of that statement."

The sweeping legislation which controls the disclosure and review of credit information would, if approved by the legislature, result in creditors being informed if a bad credit report results in a denial of credit.

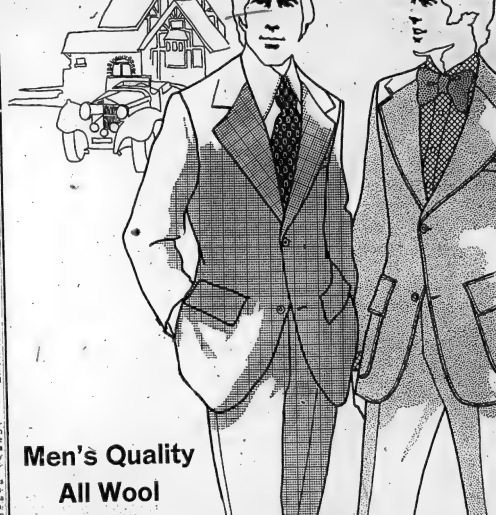
The bill, which has been redrafted and under study for about two years, is aimed at protecting the consumer from inaccurate and unfair credit reporting and provides a method of having such reports corrected.

Mr. Clement noted that now a neighborhood gossip "could say you were a heavy drinker and nding pay your bills and you wouldn't get his name."

John Kimber, president of the Toronto Stock Exchange, said in a letter to the committee that the legislation could adversely effect some workings of the exchange.

Mr. Kimber said it is often necessary for the exchange to use sources of information that would be unknown to the applicant to the exchange.

Several committee members agreed that there are obvious exceptions that would have to be made to the legislation.



The committee will likely complete its study of the legislation next week and it will then be reported to the legislature.

Patrick Lawlor (NDP—Toronto Lakeshore) said what is really needed is a privacy act to supplement the legislation before the committee. Such an act, he said, should balance individual rights against good business practices.

Spokesmen for the insurance companies and credit agencies argued against disclosure of sources and said the source is often as important as the information. The legislation, they said, could have the effect of drying up all their sources.

A neighbor would hardly say something detrimental if it would get back to the party concerned, they said.

Nixon Picks Deputy Gives Choice Tonight

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon selected today a nominee to succeed Spiro Agnew as U.S. vice-president and will disclose his selection in a television address at 9 p.m. EDT, the White House announced.

Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said Nixon reviewed potential candidates Thursday during an overnight stay at Camp David, Md., narrowed the list down to five, and made his final choice today.

Ziegler said Nixon intends to notify the vice-presidential nominee "shortly before his address to the nation."

Earlier, friends of former governor John Connally of Texas said he had been offered the nomination. Connally himself was not available for comment. He was reported driving from his Houston law office to his ranch, four hours away in South Texas.

His office refused to confirm or deny the report.

Shortly after returning from his overnight stay at Camp David, Nixon called Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott, Pennsylvania and House Republican Leader Gerald Ford of Michigan to his office.

The White House said Nixon wanted to accelerate the procedures to be followed by the Senate and House in handling the nomination, which requires majority approval by both bodies.

Rejecting the notion he must name a "caretaker" vice-president, Nixon was said by sources to have narrowed substantially the list of possible Agnew replacements.

The president secluded himself overnight at his mountaintop retreat to sift through the secret recommendations of Republican leaders, then returned on short notice to the White House.

A spokesman who disclosed the president's helicopter return to the White House said Nixon did not confer with anyone during his 14-hour stay at Camp David. Md. And he said he has no information on the president's schedule at the White House today.

But reliable sources said Nixon is moving rapidly toward a final selection, and could make an announcement soon.

A public remark by Deputy Press Secretary Gerald Warren and private statements by other aides underlined Nixon's reported conviction that he should seek a man without regard to 1976 presidential politics.

Warren asked whether Nixon might forgo picking an Agnew successor who might prove a strong contender for the 1976 Republican presidential nomination. Warren responded Thursday that "I would not limit the president's options in seeking a successor."

From all indications, the names of John Connally, Nelson Rockefeller and Ronald Reagan still rank high on Nixon's list. But sources familiar with the president's thinking cautioned against focusing exclusively on these three names—a possible sign that the president is considering a surprise choice.

Though Connally's stock with Nixon is unquestioned, there are growing signs that the former Democrat and Texas governor would face a long and troublesome confirmation by Congress.

"If the president names Connally, that would split both parties," said a leading Democratic senator. Another congressional source predicted that Connally would be rejected by the Senate.

A majority of both the Senate and House of Representatives is necessary.

Administration sources indicated that no more than a half dozen or so will be in the running, and that the president's choice will be disclosed before the first of the week.

Agnew resigned Wednesday when he was sentenced to three years probation and fined $10,000 on a no-defence plea in an income-tax evasion charge arising from a corruption investigation.

As Nixon pondered a decision, those mentioned as possible Agnew successors were showing differing shades of desire for the job.

Rockefeller is reported to have told a New York congressman he has an "active interest" in being appointed. Connally, for his part, said he does not anticipate being the choice but "I have no idea what the president's going to do."

Other names being promoted include House of Representatives leader Gerald R. Ford; former secretary William Rogers; retired senators John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky and John Williams of Delaware; Senators Barry Goldwater of Arizona and Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania; former White House aides Donald Rumsfeld and Robert Finch; former Pennsylvania governor William Scranton, and Representative Gerald Ford of Michigan.

Agnew, meanwhile, spent his first day out of office without public comment on Wednesday's events, still guarded by a contingent of Secret Service agents. He was driven by his cousins to his Executive Office Building suite and, later in the day, attended the funeral of his half-brother.

Trudeau, Chou Differ in Views

PEKING (CP) — A second round of formal talks between Prime Minister Trudeau and Premier Chou En-lai was scheduled today, but with no indication that the two leaders will be able to bridge their sharp differences on world affairs.

The exchange of speeches at a sumptuous banquet Thursday night, preceded by Chou's messages to Europe and Syria to persist "as protracted and unremitting struggle" against Israel, made clear there is a wide gap in Chinese and Canadian thinking on the Middle East war.

Kissinger's Trip Plans Indefinite

WASHINGTON (CP) — Tentative plans for a visit to Canada in the near future by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger appear to be in a state of suspension, a high state department official said Thursday night.

"Mr. Kissinger hopes to get up to Ottawa, but no date has been considered," the state department source said.

Propane and Butane Exports Are Curbed

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government clamped export controls on propane and butane gases and heavy fuel oils effective Monday, the National Energy Board (NEB) announced Thursday.

R. A. Stead, NEB secretary, said in an interview that the controls were prompted by unusually heavy flow to the United States, which is currently facing an energy crisis.

There was a danger that rising fuel prices in the U.S. would draw even larger amounts across the border. This might not leave enough for Canadian requirements, he said.

Propane is used in several ways as a substitute for natural gas in heating and cooking. Butane is used to improve qualities of gasoline and heavy industrial fuels have industrial uses.

"If is the intent, under these controls, to retain as far as possible the established trading patterns in these products to the extent that products deemed surplus to Canadian requirements are available for export," the board said in a brief news release.

Mr. Stead said that normal quantities are likely to be exported under the controls.

Canadian marketers of these fuels were being notified by the NEB about how to apply for permission to export.

The NEB secretary said that shortages of natural gas in the U.S. led to increasing demands on Canadian suppliers pushing up prices.

These fuels were heading south in "substantial amounts."

The government controls were imposed before there was a "crisis situation" in Canada.

Israelis Renew Drive On Road to Damascus

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israel said its tank forces backed by planes moved inside Syria today as Israeli civilians reoccupied all but one of their settlements on the war-marked Golan Heights.

The Egyptian command reported its jets blasted two Israeli command posts and two radar stations in the Sinai while Egyptian naval forces in the Gulf of Suez were said to have destroyed an entire Israeli flotilla.

Neither side reported heavy tank action in the Sinai desert, but Israeli and artillery duels resumed at dawn. Egypt said its forces were digging in to stay on the eastern bank of the Suez canal.

Syrian communiques said tank battles raged "along the entire front line" but did not pinpoint where the battles were taking place. Israel reported Thursday night its forces had punched six miles beyond the ceasefire lines, drawn when Israel seized the Golan Heights in the 1967 war, and were battling down the road to Damascus.

Damascus reported Israeli jets were strafing and bombing deep in Syria and said a dozen planes were shot down in the Damascus area.

UN Security Council To Try Peace Bid Again

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The United Nations Security Council tries again today to come up with a Middle East peace formula after a plea from Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim for council members to "redouble their efforts."

But there appeared to be no prospect of a break in the deadlock between the United States, supporting Israel, and the Arabs' Soviet and Chinese backers.

The council waged a four-hour war of words Thursday night, but came no closer to ending the fighting in the Middle East.

Waldheim expressed hope that the council will try harder to get a ceasefire and "a just and lasting settlement."

Faisal Note to Nixon May Be About Oil

BEIRUT (AP) — King Faisal of Saudi Arabia has sent a private message to President Nixon, the Beirut newspaper An Nahar reported today.

In a dispatch from its correspondent in New York, An Nahar said Omar Saggaf, Saudi state minister for foreign affairs, who has been attending the United Nations General Assembly, went to Washington Thursday to deliver the message and meet with U.S. State Secretary Henry Kissinger.

There was no word on the contents of the message, but the paper implied it was an effort by Faisal to persuade Nixon to refrain from any fresh arms supplies to Israel for the Middle East conflict.

The move came at a time when pressure was mounting on Faisal, who controls the world's largest known oil reserves, to throw the so-called Arab oil weapon into the battle against Israel.

This presumably would mean cutting or reducing oil supplies to the U.S. and other countries supporting Israel.

During the 1967 Middle East war, Faisal and other Arab oil producers cut the flow to the West for three months.

Egypt Hints At Retaliation For Air Strikes

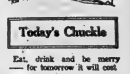
CAIRO (Reuter) — Egypt has warned of possible retaliation for Israeli air strikes which it says have killed 500 civilians, including many children.

More than 100 were killed Thursday as Israeli planes bombed and rocketed non-military targets in the densely populated Nile Delta region, the authoritative Cairo newspaper Al Ahram said today.

In the United Nations General Assembly Thursday, Egyptian Foreign Minister Mohamed el-Zayyat said 500 persons have been "murdered" in Israeli plane attacks in the Delta and in the suburbs of Cairo.

Plumber Egil Krogh Charged with Lying

WASHINGTON (AP) — The wide-ranging investigation of special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox has produced its first indictment—a charge that the former boss of the White House plumbers lied to the original Watergate grand jury.



In a proceeding that lasted barely a minute Thursday before Judge John Sirica of U.S. district court, a grand jury delivered an indictment against Egil Krogh Jr. It charged that on Aug. 28, 1972, Krogh lied under oath when asked about the activities of Howard Hunt and Gordon Liddy.

Krogh, 34, did not appear in court. A spokesman for the prosecutor's office said he probably will be arraigned next week.

Meanwhile, on Capitol Hill, the Senate Watergate committee was told by Frank Mankiewicz, personal director of Senator George, McGovern's 1972 presidential campaign, that Republican dirty tricks created "an unparalleled atmosphere of rancor and discord within the Democratic party."

After hearing Mankiewicz and Rick Stearns, another former McGovern campaign aide, the committee recessed until Oct. 30, when it will continue its investigation of political espionage during the 1972 campaign.

A Matter of Moving On

Harry Mulhall

Once houses like this made Point Anne an active Quinte community. But, as a company village created by Canada Cement for its workers, its fortune was tied to the plant's presence. Now technological developments demand a move on and many of the houses are coming down. A highly-automated plant near Bath will replace the obsolete Point Anne production site.

UCS Committee Will Assess Need for Boss

A special committee will be set up by the United Community Services to study the need of an executive director for the organization. This will delay the hiring of a new director.

"This committee will assess the work that has been done by the present executive committee," acting as an executive committee with a president, two vice-presidents and a treasurer," said Wayne Wickson president of the UCS board of directors.

"This is the basic gist of the meeting held last night," added Mr. Wickson.

The meeting was set up to study the need for a paid professional executive director for the UCS.

The UCS board last night, without reversing its decision to hire a replacement for the former executive director, Isidore Cooperman, voted for a motion, from Mr. Wickson that the committee be established to study the effects of having a non-paid executive director during the months of September and October.

This scheme is to see if the board can operate without a paid administrator.

It was also decided that the committee is to be charged with interviewing each of the directors, board staff, representatives of United Appeal agencies and representatives of the community before recommending anything.

The board also rejected last night a motion that it permit a temporary administrator for an interim period.

Firefighting Glamor Appeals to Youngsters

Sirens wailed all afternoon Dundas Street East yesterday, but their piercing notes did not proclaim the outbreak of fire.

Instead, they saluted the grade - school youngsters who were scrambling about the building gazing in bug-eyed wonderment at the city's firefighting equipment.

The 26 students from Grades 4 and 5 at St. Joseph's School, who toured the Dundas Street station yesterday, were just a segment of the young firefighting enthusiasts who have descended upon Belleville's fire halls during Fire Prevention Week.

After a week's study, spent inspecting their homes for fire hazards, drawing posters and writing essays on fire prevention, the children were thrilled with their tour of the fire department.

And, though it may not be surprising at this age of women's liberation, some of the girls, as well as most of the boys left feeling they wanted to be firefighters.

Van, Car In Collision

A rear-end collision on Bridge Street East, just east of Pinnacle Street, sent two people to hospital with minor cuts and complaints of pain around noon hour Thursday.

A van driven by Steven R. Taylor, 18, of 91 Chatham St., was involved in a collision with a car driven by Marie Mackenzie, 30, of 34 Taylor Drive. Total damage resulting from the collision is estimated at $200.

Taylor was taken to hospital by ambulance, where he was treated for cuts, and later released.

$2,000 Damage In Collision

HILLIER — A Trenton man, Lawrence Howard, was taken to Trenton Memorial Hospital yesterday following a two-car collision on Hillier Township road.

He received facial injuries when the car he was driving collided with a vehicle driven by Donald Alexander, 40, of R.R.2, Consecon. Police estimated total damages at $2,000.

Council Disputes Pollution Claims

Repeated claims by council delegations that the city and the Ontario Ministry of the Environment are slow to act on complaints of pollution in the Moira River and the Bay of Quinte were disputed by council members Monday.

The discussion arose as a result of a letter from city resident Clarence Young appearing on the council agenda regarding pollution in drains entering the Bay of Quinte in the area of Belleville General Hospital and the Mead Johnson Company.

In his letter Mr. Young claimed one drain behind the hospital was spewing out soap suds. A second drain was said exuding a thick oil while still a third was said to be coming from a drain behind Mead Johnson.

Mr. Young said it was time to demand that the Ministry of the Environment put coloyed dye through the drains from the hospital and from Mead Johnson to determine where the filth was coming from.

But Alderman Stu Meeks said the Ministry of the Environment and local authorities were taking appropriate action on any complaints of pollution received.

And Alderman Ben Corke, who with Mr. Meeks had accompanied Mr. Young on the inspection tour of the bayfront behind the hospital, said in his opinion the flow of water over-ruled what was minor.

He couldn't see how two such minor streams could affect the volume of water in the bay.

He admitted he didn't get very excited about the matter people.

Mayor Robin Jeffrey said, however, if the hospital was causing pollution in the bay it should clean it up.

At the same time, she maintained that the Ministry of the Environment was doing its job and cited a letter from G. I. Macey, chemical technologist for the Industrial Waste Branch.

Mr. Macey in his letter referred to a meeting held in the mayor's office on September 28 to discuss means of providing improved co - operation between the city and the Ministry in order to better control liquid industrial waste discharges in the Belleville area.

Mr. Young said it was felt that the situations referred to could be cleared up to the satisfaction of everyone concerned.

QPB in Trenton No Difference

Planning Dissenters Stay Out

BRIGHTON — To Brighton and the townships of Brighton and Murray, moving of Quinte Planning Board offices to Trenton doesn't change a thing, says spokesmen for the dissenting municipalities.

Brighton's reeve Dorothy Brimmell said Thursday "it doesn't make much difference where the offices are. No way are we going back in."

Despite provincial government warnings the three municipalities, after storming out of a board meeting 16 months ago, are still refusing to return.

At that time, the three criticized the board for giving the lion's share of planning to the city of Belleville. This criticism was compounded by offices in Belleville's city hall.

Brighton township Reeve Arnold Boes could not be contacted but Murray Reeve Harry Lafferty agrees wholeheartedly with Reeve Brimmell.

Asked if having the offices located in Trenton made any difference, Mr. Lafferty said, "we're staying out until the provincial government makes a decision."

"If the minister ordered us back in I'd say no and wait to see what he'd have to say."

Reeve Lafferty said he was interested in steps being taken by Northumberland County — in which the three municipalities are located which is attempting to set up a Northumberland Planning Board, similar in structure to the Quinte board.

Trenton QPB Offices Ready for February

TRENTON — Town council here has approved renovations to begin immediately in the municipal offices which soon will provide the new home for the Quinte Planning Board.

While several problems have held up the completion of the new town offices, council concurred this week it was imperative that work begin soon to accommodate the planning board staff, which is ready to move in Feb. 1.

Mayor Duncan McDonald said renovations would include a number of items, the largest being the laying of carpet throughout the building and enlargement of existing washroom facilities.

Cost of all renovations to the offices is borne by the municipality. In return, the planning board will pay $900 a month rental.

Until now the board's offices had been located in Belleville, despite the criticism of three Northumberland county municipalities on the planning body.

Moving the offices to Trenton raised eyebrows at that time around planning board members with most wondering what might happen if Trenton decided to leave the planing area.

"I can't see any reason why Trenton would leave the planning area," said Mayor McDonald.

The municipalities to the west have several times invited Trenton to join them in another area and the mayor qualified his comment saying, "we might at some time be in a different region but this wouldn't affect planning."

The mayor said it was possible the new offices would be ready by mid-December.

He said he was happy for the town in having brought the offices here and that the rent derived from the building would be placed in general revenue.

Food Must Be Good

Bill Casemore, director of food services at Trenton Memorial Hospital will assist Loyalist students in food administration course. Mr. Casemore talks with hospital dietitian Gertrude McColl.

Hospital Kitchen Open to Students

TRENTON — What would you say if you had to buy three tasty, nutritious meals a day, spending no more than $1.10

It is done every day at Trenton Memorial Hospital for 200 patients. And beginning Monday, students from Loyalist College's hotel administration course are going to learn how the hard way.

Under the watchful eye of Bill Casemore, ex-hotel chief chef, now hospital food services director, the students will be taught every facet to keep mealtime being routine a servicing, keeping costs down and enhancing quality.

First, second and third years students in the course will work at the hospital for two weeks, learning the business.

"They'll work hard here or they won't be around long," said Mr. Casemore.

Mr. Casemore will go to the college as guest lecturer.

Feedback from government officials and patients indicate Trenton hospital as a prime example of good food services.

More than 90 percent of patients interviewed recently recommended hospital food for its taste, variety and temperature served.

A Ministry of Health director, after lunching at the hospital, later wrote to Mr. Casemore, "that was the best institutional prepared meal I have ever tasted."

First and second-year students will work in actual food preparation while third year students will be a "side kick" to Mr. Casemore studying the administrative aspect of food services.

New Limits For Bridges

Following an engineering inspection of three bridges in Marmora Township, a bylaw has been passed by township council limiting loads.

The Shanick bridge will have a limit of 15 tons, the Moira River bridge six tons, and the Beaver Creek bridge five tons. The proposals will not become law until approved by the Ministry of Transportation and Communication and the bridges posted.

Trenton Town Hall Ready Next Week

TRENTON — Consulting engineers are hopeful the new town offices here will be virtually completed by Monday.

A spokesman for Lasing Associates, consultants on the job, said Thursday only elevator installation will stand in the way of completion.

At the moment, crews are laying carpet and putting the final touches to paint work with hand rails and lighting fixtures to be delivered this week.

David Humm, project engineer, said he would make a pre-inspection of the project this Monday, prior to inviting council to take a look at its new home.

The elevator is expected Oct. 15 and Mr. Humm says it will take at least another six weeks before installation is completed.

Ratepayers Ask Arena Details

DESERONTO — The last meeting of the Deseronto - Ratepayers' Association showed some concern voiced that building and upkeep of might, possibly, in the future, impose a cost on taxpayers.

With this in mind, arrangements have been made to have the Community Centre Campaign Committee represented at the next Ratepayers' meeting October 18. This will give taxpayers an opportunity to hear the latest developments on the project and discuss its aspects of the project.

Further arrangements were made for a pre-election meeting with municipal government candidates, Nov. 28. Rev. Cyril Betts of Tyendinaga Reserve has once again consented to act as chairman.

The Ratepayers also decided to ask town council if advertisements could not be placed inviting applicants for location of election polls, as well as for positions of deputy returning officers, poll clerks and scrutineers.

Hydro Public Opinion Surveys from Ontario Hydro's eastern region office in Belleville were distributed for members to complete and return by mail.

Agnew Quits

For Spiro Agnew, vice-president of the United States, the game is up.

After repeated denials on his part he has confessed to income-tax evasion and been convicted in court.

He has resigned his office — a ruined man.

What can be said in the face of such stunning culpability on the part of a man in such high office, following as it does the sorrowful tale of Watergate, which itself is still under public scrutiny?

Even veteran Senator Mike Mansfield was at a loss for words.

After expressing "surprise," he hesitated, then said: "I don't know what to say."

What to say indeed, save to acknowledge the occurrence of yet another American tragedy.

It does not seem possible, in one who appeared to be, and acted, the very soul of integrity. One question being asked: did he resign rather than face prolonged court hearings, under pressure from President Nixon?

When all is said and done though, in the wake of this political bombshell, perhaps the only fitting reaction should be one of compassion.

Spiro Agnew, in the agonising days ahead, will discover who his real friends are.

As for the nation, it must stagger through another crisis; but then Americans should be getting used to that. One day the country may lift its head again, but that day is not yet.

Governor-General

Jules Leger, chosen as Canada's next Governor-General, may have been known to few of the population at large, but a study of his career reveals a man of distinction who has served his country as a diplomat and who is currently ambassador to Belgium and Luxembourg.

A Quebecer and one-time newspaper editor, Mr. Leger is a brother of Cardinal Leger who some years ago gave up high office in the Roman Catholic church in Montreal to pursue a missionary calling in Africa, where he remains today.

Mr. Leger succeeds Roland Michener who retires in October 30 after a markedly successful tenure as the Queen's representative in this country

The new Governor-General may be expected to place his own special stamp on this high office, one which undoubtedly will strive to preserve the unity of Canadians while at the same time encouraging its acknowledged diversity.

Focus on Belleville

How many Bellevillians are aware that a cigar factory, manufacturing a brand by the name of "Old Homestead," once occupied a building across from the upper bridge where it still stop now stands?

And that somewhat battered looking stone structure in the corner of a Station Street metal merchant — probably few know it was part of the mill erected by Captain John Walden Meyar in the 1790s, in Belleville's very early days when it was a settlement called Meyer's Creek. Most recently there was the Post Office where this newspaper now stands.

These are some facets of the astonishing variety of information to be found in the latest publication by Nick and Helma Mika.

Their book, Belleville—Friendly City," profusely illustrated with photographs and reproductions of prints and paintings, — one of them a waterfront scene by Mr. Mika, — depicts the life of the city over a period of many years.

A fine addition to the Mikas' series on Belleville and other communities, it includes contributions by a number of local personalities. A chapter on sport for example, was penned by Bob George Carver, former Intelligencer sports editor, shortly before he died. All in all, it is a diversified chronicle of the changing face of the city.

Parliament Faces Busy Session

Wiretapping and Election Expenses Will Occupy Commons

By STEWART MacLEOD

OTTAWA (CP) — The political guessing now is that this current session of Parliament, which resumes Oct. 15, will prorogue about mid-December and that there will be an extended Christmas recess—perhaps six weeks—before a new session begins.

The government will try to clean up all the major legislation still on the order paper, along with several new bills, and sources say it will be prepared to leave over minor legislation for introduction in the new session.

There are 14 bills remaining on the order paper, two of which require only one more reading. There are six others before committees, and there are eight which still await second reading.

"We want to pass all the bills which have reached committee stage," said a government source. "Too much time has been spent on them and we don't want to start all over again in a new session."

There are also some bills in their early stages, such as the legislation to increase family allowances to an average $20 a month, that the government is determined to get through this fall. And Welfare Minister Marc Lalonge is standing by with legislation—it requires provincial approval—to peg the Canada Pension Plan to the full increases in the cost of living index."

Other bills which the government is determined to get through include legislation on wiretapping, election expenses, changes in marriage legislation to encourage greater investment in the area and the much-debated bill to resume a partial ban on capital punishment.

And the government is bracing itself for a prolonged debate on legislation imposing the 40-cent-a-barrel excise tax on oil exports.

Sources say there may be several other new bills, and four days will be designated as "opposition days" when the opposition parties can debate a subject of their choice. There is provision on one of these days for a non-confidence motion against the government.

Since the current session began Jan. 4, the House has approved 25 bills.

Government sources say the only event likely to interfere with a December prorogation would be a clear indication that the New Democratic Party, which holds the balance of power between the government and the official, would not vote with the Liberals through another Throne Speech. Some NDP members have said they did not want to face the "humiliation" of supporting the government through the opening weeks of a new session.

The government could continue the current session into the new year with a recess at Christmas, but there is opposition the Conservatives would block such a recess. It is in the interest of official Opposition to get a new session underway, since it affords more opportunities for non-confidence motions.

If the opposition blocked a recess at Christmas to force adjournment motion, the government would be virtually forced to prorogue the House, since executive decision that can't be delayed.

Two Employees for Each Bilingual Job

What's New in the Great Bilingualism Hassle?

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — At a cost to the taxpayers which some Opposition MP sooner or later will pull together into a total through questions on the Commons Order Paper, government departments have been sending their special staff representatives across the land to spell out the lingual facts of public service life to their regional officers.

Reports are they were met with equal measures of skepticism, amusement and hostility.

This was particularly so in the West and to only a slightly lesser degree in Atlantic Canada.

The message they bore to federal public servants in regional offices from Halifax and Saint John to Vancouver and Victoria was that if you didn't speak French you were an ever-higher paid executive jobs in Ottawa, better come armed with both languages.

For starting next year, as Treasury Board President Drury already has amply warned, a varying and sometimes percentage of positions in each department will be designated bilingual.

Which means in many cases that even if you were recruited for your job because of your special skills, and its designation becomes bilingual, you are going to have to do it in both French and English or spend a year in language school.

Then, if you qualify, good. But if you fail, bad.

For if you cannot hack it bilingually, you get sidetracked into a unilingual job.

Your pay will be the same, but your promotion because your new slot is not bilingual, will be limited.

And you will be no room at the bilingual top for you.

Now, while Treasury Board officials do not put it in these words, the situation for bright young recruits is this: If you do not speak both languages and cannot learn them expect your career to plateau out at about age 40. It is a dead end.

Nobody is saying it that bluntly, maybe in Treasury Board spokesman, but that is how it adds up.

The departmental emissaries taking the official word on languages to the regional offices say the general reaction was "you're kidding."

And it was not for real, many of them insisted then that "somebody down there in Ottawa has got to be crazy."

There were some who not only were convinced the federal government was "sick," but were concerned with a deep dislike of Prime Minister Trudeau, and some, but not all, of his cabinet.

The pressure for bilingualism has become so intense that it has become a requirement in one small sector of air traffic control for which, generally speaking, English is the universal language.

Aircraft in Canada still will be brought in and directed out of airports in the English of air traffic control, but under the language regulations, there is a bilingual controller who wants to talk over his job problems or complaints in French, there will be some official on call to hear him.

This sidetracking into a unilingual job at equal pay if you fail to make it in two languages, results in more than just a dead-ending for you.

It means that while you are in language school — making it into the two-language stream where there is room at the executive top, or flunking out into a unilingual and limited - future job at equal pay — there goes on what public service deputies and directors call "double banking."

Somebody is taken on to fill the spot while you are taking language training.

He may be a bust at it, and so "the deputy or director is unsatisfied and upset, but the department is stuck with him. And even if he is transferred, he still remains on the payroll and a charge to the taxpayers.

And if he is a whiz, it is the same thing — the taxpayers are left with two persons equally qualified to do the same good job.

This "double banking," taken to the bilingual ultimate, could mean that there would be a "stand-in" for every job requiring the two languages.

It will not go that far, of course, because everyone whose job may be designated bilingual is not going to take the required language training and qualify.

Some will take the easy — dead-end — way out.

But many are bound to give it the old college try.

And when that happens, most times there will be two occupants, qualified, and working, for each bilingual position.

The cost?

Some MP is going to have to dig it out with a series of questions on the Commons Order Paper which the government will be in no tearing hurry to answer.

Socialism Imposes Burdens

Montreal La Presse: Capitalism is used to hard knocks since it has been getting them from both sides of the Iron Curtain for some time now.

But as idealists harass it, it changes and recycles itself . . . which is good.

Socialism has, for a long time, had the benefit of the doubt. . . . But the time seems to have come for it to pass through the test of fire. Will the test prove beneficial?

In Chile, reaction to the Allende regime betrays the great disappointment it caused. . . .

One can see the same disappointment in Sweden, the country which passes itself off as the ultimate in evolutionary socialism.

The Swedish can boast of having the most progressive social security system in the world but they say they are tired of being the most-heavily taxed people in the world and the decrease in ardent socialism testifies as to their weariness.

The same lassitude can be seen in Norway where the worker party has suffered a setback and only maintains power thanks to its coalition with the Communists. The Scandinavians have reproached socialism for its administrative top-heaviness and its beauties and costly bureaucracy.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

October 11th, 1953

Members of the crew of H.M.C.S. Iroquois, who won a brilliant name for Canadian naval history in World War II, were given a reunion in Brantford. A special guest at the get-together was Rear-Admiral A. C. Hibbard, DSC, RCN.

At the annual meeting of the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club, Harold E. Hyde and Mr. Gerald Bell were re-elected president of the club for the ensuing year.

30 YEARS AGO

The Belleville Kiwanis Club met at luncheon Tuesday in the Quinte Hotel where they heard a talk on life in the British Honduras jungle by Mr. Gilbert E. Bell, assistant manager of the Consolidated Optical Co., Belleville. He said that life in the jungle was peculiar and some times primeval but never like it is portrayed in the movies.

40 YEARS AGO

October, 12, 1933

President W. A. Parker, vice president W. H. Morton and past president E. J. Illsley of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce are in Ottawa to attend the annual convention of the Canadian Chambers of Commerce.

Mr. A. Bernard Collins, KC left on Toronto on legal business.

October 12, 1923

Rotarian Arthur McGie, chairman of the building committee in the Board of Education, addressed members of the Rotary Club at their regular luncheon. He gave an informative talk on the school situation here and stated that the Board of Education will proceed with the building of a high school or collegiate institute to cost about $400,000 just as soon as the city council gives consent.

Boost For Maritimes

Moncton L'Evangeline: . . . Jean Marchand, the federal transport minister, has announced two excellent pieces of news for the Atlantic region: subsidies to transport will be increased to 50 per cent from 30 on certain products shipped west of the Maritimes and the coastal trade between different Canadian regions inside territorial waters will be closed to foreign vessels within the next five years.

These are measures certain to please the Atlantic economic region. . . .

As for the news that coastal trade inside territorial waters will be restricted exclusively to Canadian ships within the next five years, this may appear to have little significance at first glance.

However, this decision by the transport department will considerably change the shipbuilding . . . and will later create many jobs for Canadians employed to these ships. All that we need now is the creation of a Canadian merchant marine. . . .

There is nothing political in this decision. Couldn't Prime Minister Trudeau have got more electoral profit out of making these announcements when he visited Saint John recently?

Royalist Legend

Kitchener Waterloo Record

An annual story in British newspapers, for 15 years ago, was the one about the mystery woman, heavily veiled, who appeared every April 14 to put flowers on the grave of Joe Boyle in a churchyard in a London, England, suburb.

It was popularly supposed that the veiled lady was the exiled Queen Marie of Rumania, granddaughter of Queen Victoria, and that Joe Boyle, who died April 14, 1923, had been her lover. The reporters and photographers who watched for the veiled lady each year never found out for certain, but after Queen Marie died in 1927, the appearances ceased.

Lieut. - Col. Joseph W. Boyle was the son of a horse-trainer at Woodstock, Ont. After being a deep-sea sailor, a law student and a professional boxer, he went to the Yukon in the gold rush of 1898 and struck it rich.

Hockey fans who know their sports history may recognise his name in connection with the 1906 Stanley Cup series. Boyle was the madcap millionaire who recruited a hockey team in the Yukon and financed its way to Ottawa Silver Seven.

The Yukon team got beaten 9-2 and 23-3, but they and Boyle had a lot of fun.

In 1914 Boyle again recruited in the Yukon at his own expense but this time it was a machine gun battalion, which he donated to the Canadian Army and led overseas. His subsequent career was more colorful than any Dickens.

The Russian government asked Britain for an expert to reorganize the Russian railways. The British borrowed Boyle from the Canadian Army and sent him off, apparently on the theory that if anybody could do anything.

One story is that in the early stages of the revolution he confronted single-handed a Bolshevik mob in the Kremlin (through Lone Lentigan). He knocked down the first 12 men who came at him. Then the mob decided to go somewhere else.

In the organized personally the special train that rescued the Rumanian royal family during the revolution spread into Rumania. The friendship for friendship he then formed with Queen Marie is still a matter of speculation. What is known is that his grave in England is marked by a Rumanian memorial cross, which was transported from a monastery in Rumania at the time of the revolt.

The news of late was that the Boyle homestead on the outskirts of Woodstock, has been wrecked to make way for a hamburger drive-in. Most people there, we suppose, are ignorant of the colorful chapters that go with the Boyle name in Canadian history.

If we think Canadian history is dull, it is only because we don't know it.

Bible Digest

by H. B. DEAN

"Therefore thus will I do unto thee, O Israel," saith Amos, "because I will do this unto thee, prepare to meet thy God, O Israel." Amos 4:12

The way we prepare to meet God is by being reconciled with His Son and accept the pardon He has provided. "There is none other name under Heaven given among men whereby we must be saved," Peter said. "I am the way." How wrong and futile it is to try any other route.

'Reasonable' Prices Boost Farm Production - - - Whelan

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada's generally reasonable grocery prices are giving a strong, much needed boost to farm productivity, federal Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan told the Quebec Farmers Association's annual meeting Thursday.

"Farmers got a raw deal for years in the economy and society as a whole," he said.

"It's high time that Canadians paid reasonable prices for their food because it's the only way to increase productivity. Increased prices, not government grants, are the best way to provide cash to purchase machinery and modern barns, he said. Current food costs finally mean farmers are not running welfare programs.

"For too long farmers just gave the rest of the people a free ride. Now if people want to get on the wagon, they have to pay," he said.

Mr. Whelan said from August 1972, to August 1973, the average industrial wage almost doubled, while food prices rose only 6% per cent.

Farmers Get 43 Pct. More For Products

OTTAWA (CP) — Prices paid farmers for their products jumped an unprecedented 43 per cent between August last year and this, providing further evidence of increasing farm fortunes in a year of heavy demand and rising prices.

Statistics Canada reported Thursday that farm prices rose by 13 per cent between July and August this year, the largest increase in more than a decade.

One-stop Social Service Centres Are Proposed

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Liberal leadership candidate Norman Cafik proposed Thursday grouping social services of all three levels of government in one centre.

Speaking at York University, the member of Parliament for Ontario riding said these locations would be "one-stop service centres where the buck really does stop."

He said the ordinary man is often confused about which level of government is responsible for which services and subsequently finds himself snarled in red tape, being shuttled from agency to agency.

Canada Pensions to Be Altered

OTTAWA (CP) — The dream of a complete overhaul of social security programs came closer to reality Thursday as federal and provincial welfare ministers announced Canada Pension Plan (CPP) proposals that will increase both benefits and contributions.

Three major changes agreed upon will tie pension benefits to the consumer price index and raise the earnings level upon which payments are based.

Federal minister Marc Lalonde—who initiated steps toward the overhaul last spring—said at the end of the first of two days of closed sessions that immediate action must be taken to bring the two changes into effect by Jan. 1.

Although Parliament must pass the amendments, the provinces had first to agree in a two-thirds majority to accept the changes. That hurdle has been overcome.

In a statement after the meeting, the ministers said removal of an annual two per cent limit on cost-of-living increases would prevent further erosion by inflation of CPP pension benefits.

The two per cent limit was included in 1966 legislation but since then the annual cost-of-living has risen faster than that amount, Mr. Lalonde said and increases linking total annual consumer price rises will be made at the end of each year.

A second change alters the ceiling on pensionable earnings—the amount of wages and salaries upon which benefits and contributions are based.

In 1974, assuming the proposals pass through Parliament, the maximum pensionable earnings level will rise to $8,600 from the present $5,600 for CPP and $5,300 for a similar Quebec plan. Minimum earnings taken into account in benefit figuring will go to $700 from $600.

That means that in 1974, employee and employer maximum annual contributions into the plan will jump to $196.20 each from the present $80. Self-employed persons pay double the amount.

Benefits under the revised CPP plan also will rise to an estimated annual maximum of about $1,200 in 1974 from this year's payment of $1,080.

By 1988, the maximum CPP pension will be about $3,600, while the maximum pensionable earnings will climb to $13,000. The ceiling is to be raised each year after 1974 by 33⅓ per cent until it reaches the average earnings of employed workers according to Statistics Canada.

There was good news from the meeting for an estimated 200,000 persons who retired between 1967 and last year. They will receive retroactive benefits that make up some of the difference over those years between the two per cent cost-of-living limit and actual consumer price increases.

For those who retired in 1967, the annual payment will amount to 13 per cent of benefits. This decreases to 2½ per cent for persons who retired in 1972.

The ministers also said they had agreed to offsetback the earnings test applied to persons between 65 and 69.

If you'd like to make our country your country, we'd like to help you by keeping Canada Immigration Centres open evenings and Saturdays and until midnight, October 15, 1973.

Suppose you were in this country by November 30, 1972, and have remained here since, as a visitor or without legal status.

During the sixty days of grace ending midnight, October 15, you may apply for permanent Canadian residence under very relaxed rules.

If you're living successfully in Canada, you're likely to qualify as a landed immigrant.

If you apply before midnight, October 15, you will not be penalized because you entered or remained in Canada illegally. And if your application fails, you may still appeal to an independent appeal board.

After midnight, October 15, you cannot qualify for landed immigrant status while in Canada, and have no appeal against deportation.

Before then, we'd like to help.

We'll go half-way. We'll even keep Canada Immigration Centres open to receive applications weekdays from 8:00 am to 8:00 pm, and Saturdays from 9:00 am to 5:00 pm. And on Monday, October 15, they'll stay open right up until the deadline at midnight.

You can walk in anytime, and pick up literature that gives full details, and no questions will be asked.

We invite you to make our country your country.

For further information, phone, write or visit your nearest Canada Immigration Centre, or, if there isn't one near you, your nearest Canada Manpower Centre. (Services given by Canadian Immigration Officers are free.)

Canada Immigration Centres are open to receive applications weekdays from 8:00 am to 8:00 pm and Saturdays from 9:00 am to 5:00 pm, and from 8:00 am to midnight Monday, October 15.

OSD Visit

Maude Woodgate, chief executive of the Order of the Royal Purple, a service club, visited Belleville Lodge 184 yesterday.

Mrs. Woodgate, from Thunder Bay, was elected to her office at the national conference in Penticton B.C. this July. She is known as the Supreme Honored Royal Lady.

During the coming year, she will travel from Newfoundland to the Yukon, visiting the 308 lodges across Canada. Her visit to Belleville marks the first time in four years the lodge here has been visited by the head of the order.

Mrs. Woodgate, who now has a life membership in the Order of the Royal Purple, has spent 25 years in the organization, and held every office before becoming Supreme Honored Royal Lady.

During her day in Belleville she was taken on a tour of the Ontario School for the Deaf, which is one of the special projects of Lodge 184.

Providing funds for detection of deafness in children is a national project of the Order of the Royal Purple. The Belleville lodge donates funds to the Ontario School for the Deaf, and also assists the Elks Lodge in providing a Christmas party for children who must stay at the school during the winter holidays.

Keith Schaver, teacher at the school, guided the tour Mrs. Woodgate was accompanied by Beatrice Travers, Earla Whitney and Elsie Bunning as she visited the infirmary and several classrooms.

Mrs. Woodgate praised the teachers she met at the school for the work they are doing to help deaf children and spoke with pride of the assistance given by the Belleville Order of the Royal Purple.

After her tour she was entertained by the local members, and honored at a dinner in the Elks Lodge Hall.

Mrs. Woodgate visits to Picton today, then travels to Ottawa to begin her tour of the eastern provinces.

Social Services Topic At St. Paul's ACW

Mrs. Helen Farrar, field worker for the regional office of Community and Social Services, was guest speaker at St. Paul's Anglican Church Women's luncheon meeting last week.

Mrs. Farrar outlined the benefits that are available to those who qualify. She suggested that smaller communities like Marmora should try to set up self counselling group to help people with problems such as budgeting, ailments, children, marital disagreements. Many of the clergy have taken counselling courses, she said but the felt there were others in the community who have time and the ability to assist people with their problems.

A clothing and furniture exchange would also be of assistance to many people on limited incomes, Mrs. Farrar said.

In answer to inquiries from ACW members regarding abuses of the family benefits, Mrs. Farrer explained that complaints can only be dealt with if they are reported in writing by a citizen and that person is willing to back up their charges in an inquiry.

Mrs. Hazel Lavender reminded members of the annual bazaar to be held Nov. 16th.

Mrs. Edward Colden reported that members save stamps and greeting cards for a member of her family who prepared them for shipment overseas. The money raised by this means is used for mission work.

...uccessful Living
...taunch Principles Best Defence ...gainst Perils of City Life

Dear Doris: It is a heartwarmer to have one person tell the way that young girls do, she asks): "What sex for?" You (as always) have a very good reply. Secondly, I am a believer in our wonderful control; that you don't tell people off, but cool!

Please help me to advise my daughters, twins at 16. How can they best protect themselves? They will both be leaving home for business training soon. They are country girls, hardly realizing the perils of city life. — Country Mother.

Dear Mother: As wise friend once said to me, "When children are raised children, the best thing you can do is to have them the ammunition for fighting their own battle in the world." What he meant was, trust them with all the information, with some common sense of their own and believe in their responsibility in using it.

Point out the obligations that go with today's freedom, and then you simply must depend on the upbringing they have had to give them staunch principles of right and wrong. I am sending my list of recommended books on subjects related to dating and sex and birth control, marking a couple which you will find particularly useful.

It is not easy for a girl or boy to make the decision which seems right for each one. We are not living in their shoes, but we can give them food for thought.

Dear Doris: Although I have been several wedding's it is a different matter when it comes to planning your own. I would appreciate any information you feel will assist us.

There is one question I have: Is it appropriate to have a flower girl without a ring bearer? — Being Married.

Dear Being: Flower girls outnumber ring bearers 10 to one — or some similar statistic. Maybe little girls are more prepared for the limelight of a wedding procession than little boys — could that be it? Anyway, there's no reason why you should not have one, or the other, or both, or neither.

We have an assortment of leaflets on wedding occasions which tell you what to do and when — like listing the hall, collecting the trousseau, sending out the invitations, pre-wedding parties, duties of bride's and groom's families, and assorted ways of managing weddings, large and small, at home or in a hired hall.

I'm sending the list. Take your pick, enclosing 25 cents for each leaflet you want, plus a large, eight - cent stamped, self - addressed envelope.

Dear Doris: When considering questions of morals why do so few people refer to God's commands any more? Career Girl wanted to know if she should have a sexual relationship with someone she's husband or follow the Victorian "society's code".

It is not society that said "Thou shalt not commit adultery" — it was God! Has our world become too sceptical to believe in miracles and its people too concerned with today to worry about eternity?

I went to university so I guess that means I'm not too ignorant and I still believe in God's existence. The present disregard and disrespect shown God and His Holy Bible scares me to death.

It makes me think of what Paul said to the Romans: "They boast of their wisdom but they have made fools of themselves, exchanging the splendour of immortal God for an image shaped like mortal man." Romans 1, 14 21. — In Behalf of Christianity.

Dear Christianity: Our values — some of them — have wandered a long way off the path of Christianity. But the light still shines in darness. Carry your own bright candle!

(Doris invited comments on correspondence, in care of this newspaper. If you read about a problem similar to the one you have solved, let's hear about it.)

They Can Do Anything!

SARNIA, Ont. (CP) — Daphne and Brian Wilson are taking advantage of the changing world.

Daphne, a Grade 7 student, is taking an industrial arts course. Her brother, a Grade 8 student, is enrolled in home economics.

Brian says: "In case I go to university, I want to know how to cook and mend clothes. I couldn't even sew a button on before.

"I am the only boy in the class, and at the first of the year I got a lot of ribbing, but now it's not so bad. Some other boys want to take home ec but they're afraid of the ribbing."

Daphne believes she is the only girl in Sarnia enrolled in general shop in the elementary school.

Her mother says Daphne has been cooking and sewing for several years, and would have been bored in the home ec course.

She won four prizes at a hobby show this month, for a metal box made in shop, an embroidered cushion, a plastic-cast paper weight and a mounted Sphinx moth.

The children's parents, Robert and Betty Wilson, say they should be able to study what they want.

"They can be anything they want to be," Mr. Wilson says. "It doesn't matter what sex they are."

Both took a gourmet cooking class at summer school and Brian says he may continue in the field.

Daphne thinks she would like to be a veterinarian or a zoology lit.

A firm that played an important part in the growth of Belleville was Tickell and Sons Company.

The Daily Intelligencer in the Special Industrial Souvenir number of 1909, has written :

"Over half a century ago, in 1858, Mr. George S. Tickell laid the foundations of a manufacturing business of furniture and caskets, and as the years went by, the business grew until today Belleville has no more sterling firm than that of Tickell and Sons Company.

They are still located on the original premises at 387 and 389 Front Street, one of the finest business streets in Canada. The large three-storey building of brick and stone is very complete in its equipment, used as office, show and sales-rooms, containing stock for their wholesale and retail trade, which extends from Vancouver to Halifax.

The two large three-storey buildings in the rear are used as upholstering and finishing departments. Besides these, they have a large factory building at the corner of Pinnacle and Foundry Streets which is equipped with modern devices in the way of wood-working machinery, and where a large and competent staff of highly skilled mechanics are employed.

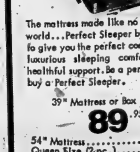
The firm, while manufacturing everything in the furniture line, pays particular attention to Bedroom Suites and Sideboard, also making a specialty of Caskets and attending to all requisite undertaking details.

The annual output amounts to about $50,000.

The present partners in the firm are Mr. Edward H. Tickell and Mr. Joseph L. Tickell. The manufacturing is efficiently superintended by Mr. E. H. Tickell. The outside business is ably looked after by their travelling salesmen and Mr. J. L. Tickell.

The members of the firm were born in Belleville, of English parentage, are graduates of the Belleville schools and the Ontario Business College, and are very closely associated with the interest of the city, as well as being highly esteemed by the community at large.

Mr. Joseph L. Tickell took a special course at, and is graduate of, Professor Clarke's New York School of Embalming, and with their efficient assistants, is particularly well - qualified for directing the undertaking department.



The furniture trade in Canada speaks in highest terms regarding many years of satisfactory business, with best values, from this firm.

The magnificent Hotel Quinte in Belleville was furnished throughout from their premises, as was also the County House of Refuge, Public Library, large boarding houses at the Cement Works and many of Belleville's palatial residences."

Miss Josephine Tickell, daughter of the late Mr. Joseph L. Tickell, grandaughter of the late Mr. George S. Tickell tells us:

"I have my Grandfather's apprenticeship papers as a wood craftsman from Devon in England. They are quite interesting really. From England, he came to Belleville, in 1853. He and his family lived for sometime on Pinnacle Street, in the house that is next to the Corby Library. In 1890, he moved to 254 Church Street — where he died in 1899."

Undisciplined Kids Driving Her Crazy

Dear Ann Landers: I am a nervous wreck because of my husband's three young children. Thank God their mother will let us have them only one month out of the year.

The boys are eight and nine, the girl is five. They are permitted to run wild at home—no hours for sleeping or even eating. They snack all day and when mealtime comes they aren't hungry. I get upset when they nibble at a lamb chop and take one bite out of a steak and leave it. With the price of meat today it drives me crazy.

My husband says we can't discipline them kids and we shouldn't try. But, Ann, the fighting and yelling and eating habits are taking years off my life, even if they are here for only a month. Any suggestions—Wreckerlie.

Dear W.: Your husband's attitude is a cop-out, dear. Those kids are old enough to understand English. Tell them what the rules are in your house and insist that they abide by them. And don't be surprised if they like the new setup. Discipline is a special kind of love.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have a new home. We waited a long time for this place and it's lovely. Unfortunately, my husband's parents seem to think it's a tourist attraction. They have arrived unexpectedly at our front door with friends yet, a half dozen times already. We resent the intrusion. Less than a week ago they popped in during dinner and announced, "We just wanted to show the Petersons your house."

Last night we were not at home but our house guest was. He reported that in our absence the in-laws came by with another couple. He told them, "Sorry, but Ben and Beth aren't here." They replied, "That's all right. We just wanted to show the house." In they came, trooping from one room to another opening closets and cupboards.

I insist it's my husband's place to say something to his parents. He claims it's up to me, "The Lady of the Manor." What do you say—Ulcer Candidate in Florida

Dear Candidate: I say it's up to him, but mebbinks he hasn't the guts. This means you have to do it. Sample sentence, "We are flattered that you enjoy showing our home, but please call ahead before you bring anyone else. We want it to look presentable and a little notice would help a lot."

Dear Ann Landers: The man I went with for two years and devoted my whole life to, told me last night that he wants his ring back and he'd "see me around."

This is the second time it has happened and it's all because of his cousin. She was in "several of my classes in high school and we never got along. She has been underminding me with Ted at every turn. Last year she told Vic some vicious lies about me and created real trouble between me and Vic's mother. He took his ring back then and I nearly had a nervous breakdown. We patched it up and all was going well. The wedding date was set for Christmas, and then his cousin started up her old tricks again. Last night he said, "Either you are lying to she is, and I think it's you."

Please, Ann, help me get him back. I can't face my friends and family with the news that I've been dumped a second time.—Crying My Eyes Out

Dear Eyes: You need this guy like a giraffe needs a strap hanger. A man who has so little confidence in you would make a rotten husband. Put your eyes back in your head and look elsewhere.

Crackdown Next Week On Fire Route Parking

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Parking on roads and driveways on Belleville General Hospital property comes under direct police control Monday — with $5 parking tickets as penalties.

That's the least costly control measure in a move aimed at keeping access routes free for fire trucks in case of emergency.

Illegally-parked cars may also be towed away — at owner's expense.

The same measures will be enforced at the Quinte Mall, the big shopping centre in the city's north end, which has been facing the same fire safety frustration as BGH. Drivers have continued to park unlawfully in fire lanes — even under warning signs.

The solution comes with a special city ordinance prohibiting parking on routes designated as fire lanes, and empowering police to enforce the bylaw.

In the past week, city police have been leaving courtesy tickets on cars illegally parked at both centres, warning of the impending new enforcement system.

"We don't particularly enjoy having to give out tickets," says Police Chief Douglas Crosbie. "As if people just obey the signs on the designated fire routes we'll be happy."

The problem has been a source of particularly acute concern at BGH where all roadways and driveways must be kept free in the event of emergencies.

Despite more and better - controlled parking facilities with introduction of paid parking, roads around the hospital and driveways at both emergency and administration entrances — posted against parking — have continued to be used by motorists.

The situation has been a recurring topic of irritated, baffled comment at hospital board meetings with BGH public at large being criticized as contributors to the problem.

"It's been a long - standing irritation," says Robert Joy, director of hospital services.

Along with the police warning tickets, notice has gone out to all hospital staff warning of the new enforcement bylaw, says Mr. Joy.

Only the entrance area to BGH's emergency department will be exempt from rigid enforcement of the bylaw, says the official.

Parking will be permitted in the emergency unit area for what is considered "normal use" but "no long-term parking".

The bylaw provides for a maximum penalty not exceeding $200 for infraction of any of its provisions.

BGH now has parking space for nearly 300 cars on hospital property, nearly a nearby lot for staff from local school authorities.

The hospital board now is in the process of deciding on a new garage and has asked architects for a 700-car facility design.

All Quiet Last Night

Belleville firefighters have been called out to fight only one minor fire during Fire Prevention Week, and that occured early Sunday.

Yesterday, the fire department spent a quiet day conducting tours of the fire halls and manning an information booth at the Quinte Mall. There were no calls for assistance during the 24 hour period ending at 9 a.m. Friday.

Carrying Place Woman Hurt

A Carrying Place woman was treated at Belleville General Hospital last night following a two - car collisionon Redmersville Road.

Mrs. Stafford Haley was taken to hospital with head pains after a car driven by her 72-year-old husband collided with a vehicle driven by Jack Longstaffe of RR1, Carrying Place. Total damage was estimated at $1,000.

Bull Bolts Barn, Blocks Bypass

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

A bull that escaped from a Belleville Livestock sales barn Tuesday blocked Highway 401 traffic in both directions last night with crews working to clear debris from two major accidents.

Two cars were demolished due to the meandering bull and a driver of one car sent to Belleville General Hospital's intensive care unit.

Hugh Finn, 21, of Kingston, this morning was listed in fair condition after sustaining head injuries and lacerations.

While westbound traffic was halted awaiting the disposal of the bull, Mr. Finn ran into a Canadian Tire transport, burying more the left of his car under the truck. Crews worked for more than an hour to separate the vehicles.

The 10 p.m. lineup began when a Toronto mast headed home collided with the bull. Glancing off the animal, the car driven by L. H. Rosen slid under another transport and ricocheted across the median, across the westbound lanes and onto the opposite shoulder.

Mr. Rosen was uninjured.

Fog Crash Damage Heavy

A two-car collision at the intersection of Highwa 2 and Wallbridge Road early this foggy morning caused an estimated $1,800 damage.

Around 6:30 a.m. a 1973 Mustang, driven by Lorne Cornell, 22, of RR3, Belleville, collided with a car driven by Allen George Wilson, 41, of 157 Church St., Belleville.

The Cornell vehicle, which received $1,500 damage, was travelling south on Wallbridge Road when it struck the Wilson car, causing $300 damage to the right side door.

The Belleville detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police are investigating the accident and report there were no injuries.

Scholarship Winner

Winifred Jane Foster of RR1, Hillier, has been awarded the Rufus Gibbs insource scholarship of $650 at Trent University. Total value of all scholarships awarded by the university this year is $50,000.

though his rental car was demolished.

The bull continued meandering about the highway until bold the owner, Clare Been, of Kaladar, and the Belleville OPP arrived. The investigating officer shot the bull and while the bull was being disposed of the rear-end collision occurred.

The driver of the Canadian Tire transport involved in the rear-end collision was uninjured and said he would attempt to complete his trip from Montreal to Toronto.

A police officer arranged transportation for Mr. Rosen, who was returning from business in Cornwall. He is the negotiating representative of the Civil Servants Association of Ontario.

EMO Cutback Dismays Quinte-area Officials

A $1.5 million cost-saving sliver shaved from na.ional defence expenditures could jeopardize the Quinte Emergency Measures Organization, its top officials warned Thursday.

Warnings mingled with dismay as leading elected and appointed officials of EMO reacted to the federal government's announced reduction of halvsie its $3-million annual contribution in disaster planning in the provinces.

The federal government, now pays 75 per cent of emergency measures budgets. The reduction would wipe out more than a third of the Quinte organization's funding — already tautly budgeted, said QEMO co-ordinator Angus Duffy.

"What such a cutback would do is to effectively wipe out our whole program as far as I'm concerned said Mr. Duffy, responsible for disaster planning in Hastings and Prince Edward counties — an area of about 118,000 people.

Mayor Robin Jeffrey, chairman of the QEMO committee representing participatpal local governments, said such a financial loss would "place the whole program in jeopardy".

QEMO organized in 1962 with Mr. Duffy as coordinator, has shown its value in co-ordinating training community resources in both counties for disasters, he said. In Belleville alone, it has already proved its merit in winter flood precautions.

"I only took on the committee chairmanship this year and I've had my eyes opened as to what the operation has done in preparing the area for possible disasters," said the mayor, "I'd say we're one of the areas where we're ready to cope with any emergency situation. We've something to be proud of — and this is unhappy news as far as I' nconcerned."

Mayor Jeffrey said she was anxious to discover the provincial government's reaction to the situation. The province pays 15 per cent of QEMO expenses and participating municipalities the remaining 10 per cent.

Would municipalities be prepared to take up the financial slack — about $7,000 — caused by the federal cutback?

The mayor said it was "a possibility we could look at".

"I'd hate to see the program go down the drain because the federal government refuses to continue its contribution," she added.

Mr. Duffy said the program was "being shot down" to save $1.5 million on over-all defence spending now running around $7-billion.

The QEMO director — who has a distinguished war record and is a former lieutenant-colonel — criticized the defence department for de-emphasizing civilian needs in favor of the armed services.

The department is mainly concerned with military requirements and "civilian needs like emergency measures organization rest little sympathy", he said.

"This, I suspect, is why emergency measures is getting short-changed," he added.

Civilian preparedness is paramount in a local emergency, he said.

Mr. Duffy, a former Belleville city councillor, has produced emergency plans for various municipalities since he took the task of co - ordinating professional and volunteer agencies through QEMO.

"If a disaster happens in a village or township it's the local reeve who has to deal with it immediately and keep who to call while the machinery of bigger government help is getting into motion," he says. "This is where emergency measures groups come in".

Mr. Duffy and a secretary are the total staff of QEMO.

"Our budge provides for our salaries, rental, postage and paper work. We're budgeted tightly," he said.

A modern technological society heightens the need for preparedness against more than natural disasters, said Mr. Duffy.

The multiplication of nuclear devices patrol and aircraft equipped with such devices is one modern development "which no one wants to face," he said. "But somebody should worry about it — in case there's an accident."

QEMO also faces a special situation. In a year it houses Canadian Forces Base Trenton, headquarters for the mind for military air transports, noted Mr. Duffy.

Seek Arena Cost Share

MARMORA — Marmora and Lake township council will seek information on Marmora Arena operating expenses, in the quest for township has not contributed to arena operations.

Councillor Pat Bertrand explained the rink committee members had "thrown it up" to him that three quarters of the boys enrolled in Minor Hockey are from the township — but the township council is not contributing to arena expenses. He felt council should investigate and consider including a contribution in the 1974 budget. He said the local minor hockey organization has accepted a 38 per cent increase in ice time costs and the area curling club has been advised of the increase.

Tweed Fair In Time

The Oct. 17 issue of Time magaine will have a feature on the Tweed Fair.

James Wilde, one of the Canadian editors of the magazine was in the village last weekend to gather information for the story. He said his publication is attempting to show Canadians that there is more to the country than the big metropolitan areas.

About 3,000 people attended the fair Saturday, breaking all previous attendance records.

Road Takeover : Way Paved

MARMORA — Donald Bowen of Charlotte Properties Ltd., has given Marmora and Lake township council a letter of commitment for bringing roads in the Shawano recreation development in Lake Township up to standard in preparation for the municipality road takeover.

Council agreed to prepare the necessary bylaw for the takeover and passage of the ordinance after provincial government approval.

Reeve Graham Bell told Mr. Bowen the Council would be in touch with the Cottagers Association to discuss road snowplowing. He also requested Mr. Bowen to tell landowners to locate cottages at least 66 feet back from the waterfront as this area will be involved in the proposed land use plan being prepared for Hastings County.

Berry, berry unusual

Everybody knows that raspberries are not supposed to be growing at this time of the year. Then how come, Mrs. Marjory Large of Dundas Street West, picked five quarts of delicious raspberries this week and still has many more to pick as there are blossoms on some of the bushes. Mrs. Large attributes the late harvest to the fact that this is only the second time the land has been worked, being owned by the city before. Mrs. Large said the land has been left to grow as it was and there is no chance that she will have everything else in her garden has also been bigger and better than she has seen before. As for the raspberries they are going into two homebaked pies to be served to special company this week.

Newspaper Boy of the Year

This Saturday is International Newspaper Carrier Day and two Intelligencer carriers were honored with presentations at City Hall yesterday. Martin Harris of Whalen Court, a 15-year-old carrier boy who has been delivering The Intelligencer for seven years was presented with a citation and a $25 cheque. Basil Lavoie, circulation manager of The Intelligencer, and Mayor Robin Jeffrey presented Martin with his award. The best newspaper carrier girl was Janet Napadek of Deloro who was unable to attend the presentations.

Female Firefighters?

The Belleville fire department has not succumbed to women's liberation yet but the day may not be too far off if seven young girls from St. Joseph's School have their way. Toiring Fire Station No. 1, as part of Fire Prevention Week, Lynda Smith, Janice Medade, Angela Forgie, Colleen Carter, Mary Bone, Maria Andonieli, and Natelie Smith were inspected in firefighters' garb by Jay Ross yesterday.

Hunter Gets the Job Done for A's

OAKLAND (AP) — Hard-throwing left-hander Ken Holtzman finds himself in the same position today as he was a year ago—scheduled to pitch the opening World Series game for Oakland Athletics against the National League champions.

This time New York Mets opponent Holtzman, who beat the Oakland Athletics 3-1 in last year's opener and in his latest outing, he went 11 innings to beat Baltimore Orioles 2-1 in the third game of the American League baseball playoffs.

The Athletics, defending major league champions, wrapped up their second straight pennant Thursday as right-hander Jim Hunter blanked the Orioles 6-0 in the finale of their best-of-five playoff series.

"I was getting tired, but no way I'm coming out of that ball game," said the 27-year-old pitcher who posted a 21-5 regular-season record and beat Baltimore twice in the playoffs.

"I was just trying to keep the ball low," he said of his five-hit, shutout performance. "They didn't get a home run off me in two games; isn't that a switch?"

During the regular season, the Orioles slammed eight homers from Hunter offerings but still he was 3-0 against them. The Athletics, who blew a 4-0 lead Wednesday and lost 5-4, took a 1-0 lead in the third inning on only his second relief appearance in four years. Palmer shut out the Athletics the rest of the way.

Manager Dick—Williams appeared unconcerned that his club won't be able to use a designated hitter in the best-of-seven World Series. The new rule, with a batter going to the plate instead of the pitcher, goes into effect in the AL only this year.

"We've been having the pitchers take batting practice all season when we had the designated hitter, and Hunter is considered a good batter. He hit .301 three seasons ago.

"He got up once this year and got a hit," Williams recalled. "Holtzman was up once and drew a walk."

Oakland goes into the World Series with three 20-game pitching winners—Hunter, Holtzman and Vida Blue, 20-9. Williams said Blue would face the Mets Sunday and Hunter would go Tuesday when the clubs play game No. 3 in New York's Shea Stadium.

The Mets left New York immediately at the conclusion of the game in Oakland. They won the fifth game of their playoff series against Cincinnati Wednesday—a day earlier because Monday's game was postponed by rain.

Saturday's opener is scheduled for 4 p.m. EDT, and Sunday's game starts at 3:30.

Oakland is favored against New York, which surprised everybody in 1969 by beating a heavily-favored Baltimore team 4-1 in that World Series.

Athletics 3-2 Favorites

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Oddmakers have made Oakland Athletics of the American League a 3-to-2 favorite to win the World Series against New York Mets of the National League.

The Athletics are also favored to win the opening game of the best-of-seven baseball series Saturday.

A $3 bet on the Athletics will earn $2 if they win the Series. Their backers must put up 1.25 to win $1 if Oakland takes Saturday's opener.

Mets backers can win $1.25 for a $1 bet if New York wins Saturday.

2nd Miracle for Mets?

OAKLAND (AP) — New York Mets, considered a group of misfits when they won the 1969 best-of-seven World Series title, go after their second miracle Saturday.

In their way will be Oakland Athletics, making their second straight championship.

The Mets catapulted from last place near the end of the 1973 season into the National League playoffs, and then defeated Cincinnati Reds for the right to compete in the series.

A succession of injuries hampered the Mets this season as they stumbled along at the bottom of the standings. Many of the faces demanded manager Yogi Berra be fired and several players were criticized for their performances.

But Berra remained as manager, the injuries healed, the players rallied into a unified team and the Mets won 20 out of 28 games in September and clinched first place in the NL East.

They beat the Reds 7-2 in the fifth and deciding game of the playoff Wednesday.

Defending champion Oakland, which ran up a regular season record of 94-68 compared with 82-79 for the Mets, whipped Baltimore 3-0 in the deciding fifth game of the American League Playoffs Thursday.

The Athletics started slowly this season but shifted into high gear with a nine-game winning streak in July to take command in the AL Al West.

The Athletics boast a strong pitching staff, a hard-hitting array of batters headed by Reggie Jackson.

The Mets' strength is pitching, the two-thirds of New York's 1969 World Series starting staff remains.

Right-hander Tom Seaver, the only Met hurler to lose a World Series game, finished the regular season with a 19-10 record, a league-leading earned-run average of 2.08 and led the NL with 251 strikeouts.

Jerry Koosman, the southpaw who won two 1969 series games, ended the regular season with a 14-15 mark and the ERA of 2.81.

The newest addition to the starting trio is 23-year-old Jon Matlack, who recovered from an early-season slump and hairline skull fracture suffered when he was hit by a line drive in early May to post a 14-16 record.

The Mets starters are backed by reliever Tug McGraw.

Cleon Jones, John Milner and Rusty Staub provide the Mets' batting punch.

On defense, the Mets bank on the double-play combination of shortstop Bud Harrelson and second baseman Felix Millan.

The Mets also can draw on the inspirational power supplied by 45-year-old great Willie Mays, who is retiring after the Series.

STREAK ENDS

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Bruins' streak of playing to capacity crowds at Boston Garden has ended after 181 National Hockey League games, including Wednesday night's crowd for the Bruins' season opener against Vancouver Canucks was 460 short of the usual 15,003 sold-out. The last non-capacity crowd was on Feb. 9, 1992.

Right-hander Jim (Catfish) Hunter, 21-5 with a 3.34 ERA, headed the Oakland pitching staff. The other starters are Vida Blue, 20-9 and 3.28, and Ken Holtzman, 21-13 and 3.37.

The bullpen reserves include Darold Knowles, Rollie Fingers and Paul Lindblad.

Jackson, who hit 32 homers and drove in 117 runs in 1973, is the mainstay in the hitting department along with Gene Tenace, Joe Rudi and Bert Campmaris.

Houk To Pilot Tigers

DETROIT (AP) — Ralph Houk became "the highest-priced manager we've had in the history of the ball club," Detroit general manager Jim Campbell said Thursday in announcing the selection of the former New York Yankee skipper as manager of the Tigers.

Houk, 54, agreed to terms for a two-year contract which Campbell said was also the longest for any of the 18 managers in the 73-year history of the American League baseball club."

Houk was also present for the announcement, but was flying in from his Florida home, the Tigers said.

Personally, I think he's a heck of a fine guy and he's got all the qualities we were looking for," Campbell said.

Among those qualities, Campbell said, were "experience, reputation, the handling of men and the running of a ball game."

When asked if Houk's contract made him the Tigers' first $100,000 manager, Campbell said: "No."

Houk is reported to have received $75,000 a year as manager of the Yankees when he quit in the final day of the regular season, with two years left on his contract.

Houk replaces acting manager Joe Schultz, who took over the Tigers when Billy Martin was fired Sept. 2. Martin's salary was reported to be between $65,000 and $75,000.

Campbell said his first real conversation with Houk about the opening was last Sunday, and since then there was a certain amount of talk about the club.

Houk managed the Yankees for 11 years, beginning in 1961. He went to the front office as general manager in 1964, but returned to the dugout in 1966.

He led the team to World Series victories in 1961 and 1962, and to the American League pennant in 1963. He was named manager of the year in 1961 and 1976.

Howard Cosell A Pussycat?

SPRING CREEK, Nev. (AP) — The Elko Rodeo Association has named sports commentator Howard Cosell as the man they would most like to spend a weekend on the trail with.

The poll of association members was released Thursday in connection with the association's world championships scheduled at this northeastern Nevada location Oct. 20-21.

The cowgirls said they felt Cosell was "refreshingly arrogant."

"Behind his brusque comments is a pussycat full of tenderness."

"You know that test who gave us all those losers at the race track? I just told him to bet on me."

Buchanan Wins in 6

TORONTO (CP) — Scotland's Ken Buchanan keeps winning fights, but his record remains the world lightweight title don't seem to improve.

Buchanan, who beat the world No. 1 Panamanian Roberto Duran last year, scored a sixth-round TKO Thursday knocked over Frankie Otero of Miami in a scheduled 10-round Thursday night.

After the fight, the 28-year-old Scot was asked if he thought he now might have a chance to get a rematch with Duran.

"Duran? Who's he?"

It was Buchanan's way of saying he is losing hope of ever getting another match with Duran who three times has backed out of scheduled rematches since taking the title from Buchanan in June, 1972.

But, aside from the bit of sarcasm directed at Duran, it was a happy Buchanan who collected $20,000 for his sixth win since the loss to Duran.

The victory came after Otero's manager, Richard Riesgo, refused to allow the 23-year-old Cuban native to continue against Buchanan's relentless attack.

"I had a doctor in the corner with me and I had to take his advice," said Riesgo who threw in the towel after the end of the fifth round.

"I could not risk having Frankie suffer a severe injury. He was getting hit pretty hard."

Buchanan, who decisioned Otero in a 10-rounder last May in Miami, won the rematch by using a system of jabs followed by hooks to the head.

The Scot, who weighed 134 pounds, repeatedly backed Otero into the ropes with a series of left jabs. When Otero was cornered, Buchanan followed with right hooks to the head which several times appeared to leave the Cuban groggy.

One of Buchanan's right hooks decked Otero late in the first round, but Otero survived the only knockdown of the bout by bouncing up at the count of two, just as the bell sounded.

KEN HOLTZMAN
Familiar Position

Little Vic Davalillo tripled off the 372-foot sign in right centre and Jesus Alou singled him home. That was plenty of insurance for Hunter as Oakland won the series 3-2.

Dave Alexander, the Orioles 23-year-old right-hander, started the game but left after Alou's hit with Jim Palmer making his second relief appearance in four years. Palmer shut out the Athletics the rest of the way.

Manager Dick—Williams appeared unconcerned that his club won't be able to use a designated hitter in the best-of-seven World Series. The new rule, with a batter going to the plate instead of the pitcher, goes into effect in the AL only this year.

"We've been having the pitchers take batting practice all season when we had the designated hitter, and Hunter is considered a good batter. He hit .301 three seasons ago.

"He got up once this year and got a hit," Williams recalled. "Holtzman was up once and drew a walk."

Oakland goes into the World Series with three 20-game pitching winners—Hunter, Holtzman and Vida Blue, 20-9. Williams said Blue would face the Mets Sunday and Hunter would go Tuesday when the clubs play game No. 3 in New York's Shea Stadium.

The Mets left New York immediately at the conclusion of the game in Oakland. They won the fifth game of their playoff series against Cincinnati Wednesday—a day earlier because Monday's game was postponed by rain.

Saturday's opener is scheduled for 4 p.m. EDT, and Sunday's game starts at 3:30.

Oakland is favored against New York, which surprised everybody in 1969 by beating a heavily-favored Baltimore team 4-1 in that World Series.

Athletics 3-2 Favorites

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Oddmakers have made Oakland Athletics of the American League a 3-to-2 favorite to win the World Series against New York Mets of the National League.

The Athletics are also favored to win the opening game of the best-of-seven baseball series Saturday.

A $3 bet on the Athletics will earn $2 if they win the Series. Their backers must put up 1.25 to win $1 if Oakland takes Saturday's opener.

Mets backers can win $1.25 for a $1 bet if New York wins Saturday.

Hawks Down Lakers

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Until Leu Hudson went to work, Los Angeles Lakers had a chance to beat Atlanta Hawks in a National Basketball Association game Thursday night.

Hudson scored 10 consecutive points in the third quarter and the Hawks went on to win 126-102. The Hawks led 60-55 after the half but increased their margin to 85-69 entering the fourth quarter.

Hudson wound up with 34 points, while Walt Bellamy, who had 14 in the third quarter, finished with 22. Pete Maravich picked up 26 points for the Hawks, now 2-0.

Bellamy, 6-foot-11 centre, needs only 31 points to become the seventh player to reach the 20,000-point mark.

Gail Goodrich, with 27, and Jerry West, with 17, led the Lakers, 1-1, in the game at Atlanta.

In American Basketball Association games, Carolina Cougars defeated Virginia Squires 133-96 and Denver downed San Diego Conquistadors 133-111 to hand Will Chamberlain his first loss as a coach.

Jim Chones paced the Cougars with 28 points, while George Gervin scored 22 for the Squires.

Ralph Simpson got 34 points for Denver and Willie Long added 18. Dwight Lamar led San Diego with 26 points.

Centennial Stops BCI 28-6

By CHARLES VANDERWATER

The Centennial Chargers Senior Football team came up with another win over the BCI Collegians yesterday with a 28-6 win at Centennial. Centennial exploded in the second half with a strong running game to sail away the victory.

Rob Vanderwater proved to be the margin of victory, as he led the Chargers with three touchdowns.

The game opened on a note which suggested a continuation of last week's 49 - 0 Centennial victory. Dick Howe ran BCI's opening kickoff back 60 yards for the major score.

But this seemed to spark BCI into action. Their offensive and offensive backfields to aid the Chargers in their 28-6 win over BCI.

Denny Tompkins adding singles.

Quinte Area Represented In Tournament

The eighth annual All-Ontario Invitational High School Soccer Tournament will be staged Saturday in Newmarket.

Representing the Quinte area will be teams from Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School, and Trenton High School.

All three schools had a good record in last year's tournament, reaching the finals of their respective divisions.

fensive squad supported a long consistent drive which was stopped at the Centennial 12.

BCI bolstered their offense for another drive in the second quarter, but again to no avail, as a lost fumble nullified any scoring hopes.

Persistence did pay off, for the Collegians on a late drive was kept alive by a long pass on a halfback option from Bill Wilcox to Larry Wilson.

Centennial seemed to have stopped the drive, as they held BCI from the four on two downs, but on the third down, Wilcox took a pitch from Ross Simmonds and ran the ball in for the score.

Centennial coach Pat Carty must have had some choice words for his team at the half time break, as Chargers came out running in the third quarter.

Vanderwater led the charge, as he picked his way through BCI's line for a 32-yard touchdown for the eventual winning points.

Dick Howe's reception of a Gabe Krekit option pass put the score at 14-6 in favor of the Chargers.

BCI did start a comeback, though, as they moved from their own 20 to the ball into deep Centennial Territory. A scramble by Howe from kick, and a Charger Pass interference call put the ball into scoring range, however, they gave up the ball on a third and short yardage situation.

Vanderwater put the game out of reach early in the fourth quarter, as he came up with a 37-yard run for another major.

Moments later, a stray Simmonds pass was picked off by Centennial's Dick Howe, a standout for the Chargers in yesterday's game.

Vanderwater made good use of the resulting Centennial possession, as he added to the BCI defense for his third touchdown on a 64 yard run.

Krekit picked up the two point conversion on a broken play.

Vanderwater ended the game with a total of 209 yards on 15 carries, while Doug Nash had 89 yards on 17 carries, including many key first down runs.

Despite the loss, one could see improvement in BCI's game, as opposed to last week's poor showing.

Belvedere, Stinson's Win in QHL Openers

The Quinte Hockey League began its 11th season last night with a pair of games at the Memorial Arena. Last year's champions Belvedere Hotel opened with a 4-2 win over the Teachers, while Stinson Construction opened their season with a 6-4 victory over Reid's Dairy.

Four players scored for Belvedere, with Brian Allen scoring the winning goal with only four and one-half minutes remaining in the game. Elmer Cain, Gary Reid, and Craig Long scored the other markers for the winners.

Bruce Cameron and Phil Weeks scored for the teachers in a losing cause.

Dwight Rathwell fired a pair of goals to lead Stinson in their win over Reid's. Al Walker, Bill Goodfellow, Bob Bailey, and Dave Horwood collected singles for Stinson's.

Jim Rutherfore tallied a pair of goals for the losers, with Bill Barberstock and

The schedule of Solunar Periods, as printed below, has been taken from Mrs. Richard Alden Knight's Solunar Tables. Plan your days so that you will be fishing in good territory or hunting in good cover during these times, if you wish to find the best sport that each day has to offer.

The Major Periods are shown in boldface type. These begin at the times shown and last for an hour and a half or two hours thereafter. The Minor Periods, shown in regular type, are of somewhat shorter duration.

Use Eastern Standard Time.

October 13 - 21.

The Apollo Barbell Club of Belleville has produced more than one weightlifting champion over the years. Most notable, of course, is Olympic lifter Price Morris.

Now, Gary Walt is in the news again. And this time, he and coach Ken Carr-Braint have combined talents to come up with a first.

Competing in Canadian Championships and Commonwealth Games trials at Bal Comeau, Quebec, on the weekend, Walt earned himself a place on the Canadian team.

He will be one of the lifters representing Canada at the Commonwealth Games in New Zealand in January

Now, here is where the "first" comes in. Carr-Braint will be accompanying the team in his capacity as a national coach.

Never before have coach and lifter had the honor of taking part in a competition of this importance together.

Says Carr-Braint, "It's quite unusual to have one of your own boys make the Games and be a part of it yourself, as coach. I'm really thrilled about it all."

Walt's second place finish at Bal Comeau, good for a silver medal, was not confirmed until Thursday. In the weekend meet, he had a combined total of 683½ lbs.

Two other Apollo Club members, Ron Hayes and Trey Smith, also showed well on the weekend. In their respective categories, they came up with fourth and fifth place standings.

Hayes' total was 418 lbs., and Smith's, 484 lbs.

League's New Entry Will Test the Eagles

Vance Millar leads his Welland Merchants onto Memorial Arena ice tonight for Ontario Hockey Association Senior A action with Belleville Screaming Eagles.

Millar, former star with Cambridge Hornets, is league's new entry from Welland. With Hornets last season, he scored 16 goals and picked up 29 assists in 47 games.

There'll be another familiar face in the Welland lineup tonight. Defenceman Pete Stoutenburg who did his senior playing for Belleville not long ago, is with Merchants this time around.

But once they get by Millar and Stoutenburg, observers will be getting a look at an array of skaters who are new to senior hockey. Leading the list is Larry Rauzel, the top scorer in Intermediate A company last season.

Merchants have made two starts this season, losing to Cambridge and Orillia. But the Welland squad was certainly not run out of the rink during those two reversals. They improved with their ability and desire. Obviously, Millar has his skaters ready.

No changes are expected in the Screaming Eagles' lineup for tonight's 9 o'clock contest. News of player signings is expected in the near future but for the present at least, coach Larry Hughes will go with the team that turned back Brantford Foresters 4-2 in the season opener October 5.

CHSS Girls Post 2 Wins

By SCOTT BERRY

MADOC — Centre Hastings Secondary School (CHSS) junior and senior girls basketball teams played host to Napanee Secondary School squads Thursday and came up with a pair of wins.

Led by Gloria Coons with 15 points and Ruth Lingertat who hooped six, CHSS juniors posted a 30-28 win.

Ellen Gollick and Judy Howell each scored nine points to pace the seniors to their 37-21 victory. The winners took command of the game in the second quarter and never looked back.

CHSS girls basketball teams appear headed for an excellent season.

Hawks Fall 6-3 To Petes

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — Peterborough Petes scored two goals within 22 seconds in the second period and went on to defeat St. Catharines Black Hawks 6-3 in an Ontario Hockey Association Junior A game Thursday before 1,551 spectators.

St. Catharines led 2-1 after the first period but trailed 3-2 entering the third on the strength of the second Peterborough goals. Petes scored three consecutive goals in the third period before the Black Hawks counted the final goal of the game.

Bill Evo scored twice for Peterborough with Mike Fryia, Paul Evans, Red Laurence and Paul McIntosh getting one each.

Bill Hamilton, Will Carleton and Rick Addiuono replied for the Black Hawks.

Peterborough outshot St. Catharines 41-23 and took five of 12 penalties.

Sacharuk Impresses

BOSTON (AP) — Larry Sacharuk, sent down to Providence Reds last week by New York Rangers, is wasting no time in telling the Rangers know he wants back in the National Hockey League.

The eager defenceman scored three goals and assisted on two others as the Reds defeated Boston Braves 5-1 Thursday night in the lone game in the American Hockey League.

Sacharuk scored from the blue line at 6:36 of the first period, then in the next two minutes assisted on goals by Don Borgeson and Bert Wilson to give Providence a 3-1 first-period lead.

He struck again on a 30-footer at 4:31 of the middle period, and again on a power play midway through the finale.

Yvon Boutilon, a rookie centre and one of nine first-year pros on the Boston club, avoided a Braves shutout by tipping in a 30-footer at 3:16 of the third period.

BANGOR ADVANCES

BANGOR, Northern Ireland (Reuter) — Bangor defeated Ballymena United 3-0 in semi-final play Thursday to advance to the final of the Irish Gold Cup soccer competition.

Flyers Blank Leafs

PHILADELPHIA (CP) — It was a promoter's dream, there was Bernie Parent, the wandering goaltender, at one end of the rink for Philadelphia Flyers and their former team-mate Doug Favell in goal for the opposition.

The opposition, of course, was Toronto Maple Leafs who won only seven of 39 National Hockey League games on the road last season and lost all three in Philadelphia.

The Flyers won 3-0 Thursday night as Parent stopped 26 shots in a hard-hitting game, dominated by the rugged Philadelphia club.

It was the first game of the season for the Western Division Flyers and the second for the new-look Leafs, who defeated Buffalo Sabres 7-4 Wednesday night.

The league resumes tonight with Chicago Black Hawks playing in California against the Golden Seals and Pittsburgh Penguins at Atlanta Falcons.

Before 17,007 fans in Philadelphia, the Flyers took a 1-0 lead in the first period when centre Terry Crisp beat Favell from 25 feet. Bill Barber added the insurance goal with Dennis Dupere of Toronto in the penalty box at 16:38 of the third.

The Leafs, who dressed eight players not with the club last season, didn't provide Favell with a difficult test until late in the second period during a power play.

Parent, who played with Philadelphia Blazers of the World Hockey Association in 1972-73, made an impressive save on Dave Keon from 20 feet, then another on Errol Thompson.

Earlier this year, the Leafs traded Parent's rights to the Flyers and their second-round junior draft choice Larry Goodenough in return for Philadelphia's first choice Bob Neely. Later, the Flyers completed the deal by sending Favell to the Leafs.

The Flyers, who outscored the Leafs 23-4 in Philadelphia last season, picked up two majors compared with one by the Leafs.

Dave Schultz of the Flyers and Swedish defenceman Borje Salming exchanged slashes in the first period, then engaged in a bagging match which earned the pair each a minor and major. In the third period, Ed Van Impe got a five-minute spearing penalty but the Leafs didn't pose much of a threat.

Blades' Coach Upset

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Coach Camille Henry said New York Golden Blades set an unofficial club record for the young World Hockey Association season.

"The first period was our worst of the year, the second period was our second worst, and the third period was our third worst."

New York's 4-3 loss to Chicago Cougars meant the Golden Blades are winless after three starts, although they have two ties.

In the other game, Quebec Nordiques took over first place in the Eastern Division with a 4-1 win over Toronto Toros.

The final heartbreaker for New York was a missed penalty shot by Andre Lacroix of the Blades with 97 seconds remaining.

"I had it in my mind to take a fairly long shot," Lacroix said, "but when I crossed the blue line, I looked at Cam Newton and saw he was way out of the net.

"So I went in as far as I could and tried to fake him, but he was very bumpy. When I tried to go to my backhand, I fumbled the puck."

The shot was a weak shot which Newton steered out of the way.

The Cougars, second in the Eastern Division with three points, got goals from Brian Glenwright, Francois Rochon, Joe Hardy and Jan Popel which gave them a 4-1 lead. Wayne Rivers, Kevin Morris and Mike Laughlon replied for the Blades, outshot 31-17.

The Nordiques had little trouble against the Toros, seeking their first win against a first and two ties.

Quebec led 2-1 after the second period and outscored Toronto 2-0 in the final 20 minutes before 4,626 fans in Toronto's Varsity Arena.

Rejean Houle, with his second of the year, Serge Bernier, with his third, Norm Descoteaux and Gil Gilbert were Quebec scorers.

"And we're not in shape yet," said Quebec coach Jacques Plante, former National Hockey League goaltender.

Houle and Bernier and the others we got this year couldn't start practising until Oct. 1 and they're going to get better."

Houle played last season with Montreal Canadiens and Bernier was with Los Angeles Kings, both NHL teams.

Plante had words of sympathy for Toros.

"Last year they had a lot of first-year players and they've added more this year. We added veterans. This gives us an edge. But a year from now Toros will be in the same position we are in now."

The Toros got their only goal from Wayne Carleton who opened scoring in the first period.

Legal Aid Criticized

WINNIPEG (CP) — Free-legal aid is running into flak from some officials here, who feel the system is encouraging excessive pleas of not guilty.

The Winnipeg Police Commission has decided to meet the federal and provincial governments to study a larger share of some court expenses.

Police Chief Norman Stewart reported that, an increase in the number of no-guilty pleas has driven up the amount of fees paid for police witnesses at trials.

He said city policemen received about $97,000 in fees last year, but only $5,300 was in connection with city bylaw cases. He said the remainder covered cases relating to provincial and federal statutes.

Commission secretary Georg Parkin said the number of no-guilty pleas among accused persons brought to court has at least doubled. He said almost half of these people now plead not guilty to the charges they face.

Mr. Parkin said the fees paid to legal-aid lawyers relate to the number of hours the lawyers spend in court, "and they are making a good thing of it."

One commission member, Councillor Robert Steen, called it "a damned racket."

No Small Cards

OTTAWA (CP) — If you're planning to send Christmas cards overseas this year, you'd better be careful about the size.

The post office said Thursday it will not accept any envelopes smaller than 3½ inches by 5½ inches for foreign mail.

The decision to regulate international mail size is in accordance with a Universal Postal Union agreement signed by 140 countries in 1969.

Extend Rules

TORONTO (CP) — Regulations controlling the operation of pits and quarries in 128 Ontario townships will be extended throughout the province, Leo Bernier, minister of natural resources, announced Thursday.

Mr. Bernier said the aim is to bring all pits and quarries under the provisions of the Pits and Quarries Control Act, enacted two years ago.

Error Made

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — An "error in judgment" in accurately pinpointing a one-inch natural gas sensing line has been singled out by a provincial government investigation team as the principle cause of a series of explosions last August in the city's Oxford Park area.

Restore Muskoka Ship

Hauled from the water on a new marine railway, the Segwun undergoes a $250,000 to $300,000 restoration at Gravenhurst, Ont., which will return her once again to cruise the Muskoka Lakes. Workmen fit new plates to the 86-year-old hull. (CP Photo) PM -

Cabinet Shakeup Forecast

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — A fair number Ontario cabinet ministers predicted Thursday that changes will soon occur in the provincial cabinet, which will go beyond a shuffle.

Allan Lawrence, now a Conservative MP for Northumberland-Durham, said the new-look cabinet structure with its super ministers dealing with broad policy areas may also be altered.

"There's been a period of gestation and something is about to be born," he told students at the University of Western Ontario.

While the label super ministers was tacked on by the press, it was consistently rejected by Premier Davis who argued they would carry equal status with just plain cabinet ministers.

Woman Driver Runs Down Man — Twice

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — A woman driver was given a one-year suspended sentence Wednesday for dangerous driving because she twice ran down a man who dared her to do so.

Sentence was suspended for Jean Rae of the Kitchener-Waterloo area after she pleaded guilty to the charge that had been reduced from one of criminal negligence.

Court was told that the woman's car brushed the man while it was backing out of a hotel parking lot. The woman and two women companions were harassed in the lot by the man and a male companion.

The man involved told the women that the only way she could get out was out a dead-end street was to run him down. So she bumped him.

The second time he dared the woman, he was hit again

Contractor Testifies

Lathing Trade Combine Hinted

TORONTO (CP) — Frequent mention of "cozy" relationships in the lathing trade here and of unsuccessful efforts at other price-fixing by contractors was given Thursday before the Ontario royal commission on crime in the construction industry.

Contractor Cesidio Romanelli testified that in 1972, when he was getting into the drywall type of construction, he apparently was frozen out of about four jobs by rival firms acting in concert.

"I think there was some combine going," said Italian-born Mr. Romanelli, a major figure in the lathing industry that so far has dominated the inquiry before County Judge Harry Waisberg.

He said that after he had successfully bid on a job at the Constellation Hotel here, contractor Marco Muzzo offered him $15,000 to withdraw and told him three other contractors had agreed to over-bid the Marco figure.

Mr. Romanelli said he turned down the $15,000, did the job and wound up with a profit of about $10,000.

Mr. Romanelli also testified that in 1971 and 1972 he and the same group of contractors had tried to get on what he described as a combine of large lathing contractors, to get them the edge on smaller operators.

One of these plans, he said, consisted in 1971 of deciding to collect $1,000 a month each from among five firms, to be paid to Lathers' Union officer Gus Simone to find out what smaller firms were bidding on any job so that the big ones would undercut them. Mr. Simone also was to divert labor from the small to the big firms.

Mr. Romanelli said this arrangement fell through before producing results and after only about $9,000 or $10,000 had been collected.

Though he said he turned this money over to Mr. Simone, there has been previous evidence that the union man told other contractors that he received none of it from Mr. Romanelli, who was to act as go-between.

Another combine-type proposal, he said, was for each of the five contractors to put $5K, 000 in a fund, with the proviso that the group would assign a number of jobs to one of its members and anyone under-bidding the chosen firm would forfeit his $30,000.

But Mr. Romanelli said this deal fell apart as 20% outset because no one wanted to handle the fund.

Mr. Romanelli said that at the time he suspected his competitors were gauging up on him—"maybe they were making payoffs under the table" to people in firms letting out contracts.

He himself was questioned by commission counsel E. A. Bigg-herd about previous evidence from Robert F. Rose, project manager on a Toronto job involving a $1 million lathing contract, that Mr. Romanelli and contractor Dominic Valsi had offered him $15,000 in February, 1972, to steer the job to them.

Mr. Romanelli said the two executives had taken Mr. Rose to dinner "to see if he would put in a word for us" and Mr. Rose had told them that anyone could get the job and whoever got it would pay him $10,000.

"I said when we left, 'I'll give you 15,' but I was speaking as a joke," he added.

Wet Weather Threatens Northern Prairie Crops

EDMONTON (CP) — "We don't even dare think about it," said Lucie St. Andre of the financial loss she and husband Roger face after wet weather that has almost forced them to abandon one crop four miles northwest of the northern Alberta community of Grimshaw.

With most of Prairie grain crops harvested in southern areas, large acreages in northern Alberta and northern Saskatchewan remain in water-soaked fields that defy attempts by machinery to move in.

Industry officials estimate that 91 million bushels—more than one-sixth of this year's total estimated Prairie wheat crop of 585 million bushels—still is not harvested.

Earlier this week, the Alberta wheat pool said most points in the province north and northwest of a line from Calgary through Lloydminster reported less than half of their wheat threshed, and the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool said nearly half the bread wheat crop was unharvested in northern Saskatchewan.

In the Alberta legislature Wednesday, Premier Peter Lougheed said warm, windy weather is need to dry unthreshed grain.

Allan Wesbroekder, Saskatchewan Wheat Pool agt'st at Naicam, Sask., 80 miles southeast of Prince Albert, said conditions have been bad but the harvest should be completed "if don't even dare think about it," said Lucie St. Andre of the financial loss she and husband Roger face after wet weather that has almost forced them to abandon one crop four miles northwest of the northern Alberta community of Grimshaw.

Allan Wesbroekder, Saskatchewan Wheat Pool agt'st at Naicam, Sask., 80 miles southeast of Prince Albert, said conditions have been bad but the wheat from a total of 208 million bushels remain to be harvested. In Alberta about 62 million bushels of the wheat harvest, estimate of 134 million bushels are in the fields.

There was no harvest problem in Manitoba this year with almost all of the 85-million-bushel wheat crop in the bins.

The total estimate for this year's crop was an increase of about 70 million bushels compared with 1972 and officials say there is no doubt the Canadian wheat board, the national marketing agency, will be able to sell every bushel produced.

Major Expansion Believed Ahead

TORONTO (CP) — Optimism over business prospects for 1974, a vision of accelerated change in world business conditions and a nagging concern over inflation highlighted the business outlook session Thursday of the Conference Board in Canada.

The one-day meeting attended by about 1,000 business leaders from Canada and the United States heard some predictions of a recession, but these were balanced by projections of major business expansion and prosperity further into this decade.

Among observations by the more than 20 speakers from industry and government were that:

—The Canadian economy is poised for a major expansion of industrial capacity;

—Canadians must reduce their level of spending to contain inflation;

—Multinational corporations will continue to grow and be forces for economic progress;

—World trade in the future is more likely to be between blocs of countries rather country-to-country;

—Canada has a shocking trade deficit in the use of technology;

—Canadians should continue to be able to raise most of the investment money needed to expand industry;

—Interest rates are headed downward.

U.S. Airlifts Food To Hungry Mauritania

NEMA, Mauritania (AP) — The United States has launched an emergency airlift of food to stave off starvation in Mauritania, an African desert country fighting its fifth year of acute drought.

The desert area of the relief effort is Nema, near the Mali border, where several thousand Mauritanians critically short of food are cut off from the rest of the country.

Scattered heavy late rains have washed out the major east-west desert track linking Nema to Nouakchott, the state capital 300 miles to the West.

The rains, too late to help much with food production, are expected to disrupt transport until about Nov. 15.

Nema, with a population of 12,000, is the capital of Mauritania's First Region, one of the areas hardest hit by a savage dry spell which has gripped West Africa.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE

Saturday, Oct. 23

Aries (March 21-April 19) To-day you will be careless about little things. Count your change. Be certain you get back all that's coming to you.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) Avoid petty people who pick everything apart looking for flaws. They'll not only spoil your fun, but anger you as well.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) If you do not handle certain responsibilities as you should you will not have peace of mind to-day. Set things straight.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) Youngsters will be more boisterous than usual, if sentimental, too. Don't miss recreation. Problems will result.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) You have some basic doubts concerning a goal you want to attain. As long as uncertainty remains, the desired result will not be achieved.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Its important today that your complete faith rests in you, for you're likely to jump from one thing to another, completing nothing to your satisfaction.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Someone you know quite well will want to borrow from you. It will be very difficult to turn her down, even though you want to.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You and your mate will not be of the same mind today. Each will want to do certain things and insist the other go along.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Pace yourself so that your work doesn't become too tedious. Occasional breaks in between your mind alert.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Noisy places with too many people will take the edge off your social pleasures today. Select placid surroundings for relaxation.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you're entertaining at home today be prepared for some unexpected drop-ins. It could be the neighbor you didn't invite.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) It will be difficult for you to keep your mind on things at hand. You seem to be more interested in something distant.

FASTEST YACHT

The highest speed recorded by an ice yacht was 143 m.p.h. on Lake Winnebago, Wis., by John Buckstaff. He sailed in a wind of 73 m.p.h.

Jordanians Enter Middle East War

From AP-REUTER

Jordan announced today it has joined Egypt, Syria and Iraq in the war against Israel.

The announcement by a military spokesman in Amman opened a new potential 250-mile front against the Jewish state already battling Syrians and Iraqis in the Golan Heights area and Egyptians in the Sinai peninsula.

"We have committed part of our elite forces to play their part with the Syrian army on the Syrian front," the Jordanian information ministry quoted the military spokesman as saying.

He did not say how much of King Hussein's 75,000-man army will be dispatched into the eight-day-old battle. The Jordanian force is backed by only 33 combat planes but contains many tough Bedouin desert troops and is considered one of the best trained in the Middle East.

Amman's announcement came as Israeli tanks backed by heavy air power battled up the road to Damascus and an dogfights raged over the Golan battleground. Tel Aviv said Iraqi ground forces bolstering the Syrians have almost been eliminated.

Neither Syria nor Iraq responded to the Tel Aviv report. But Syrian communiques issued in Damascus said anti-aircraft batteries and Syrian jets shot down 16 more Israeli planes during a morning of heavy aerial combat.

A Syrian communique said "meanwhile, ground battles still are violently raging between our forces and the enemy since dawn along the entire front line".

Damascus gave no indication when the front line lay and made no immediate mention of Jordanian aid. The Israeli state radio said Israeli armored columns pierced 15 miles beyond the 1967 ceasefire lines Friday.

UN Council Gives Up

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The United Nations Security Council adjourned its fourth debate on Middle East fighting Friday night, and disappointment said no session will be held before Monday without a major change on the battlefield.

U.S. Ambassador John Scali said the convening of another council meeting "will depend on the crystalizing of a consensus" on the fighting between Israel and the Arabs.

Asked whether that process has begun during private consultations, he replied: "I just don't know."

When asked the same question, Soviet Ambassador Jacob Malik told reporters: "Don't ask me. Ask the president of the council."

Council President Sir Laurence McIntyre of Australia said only that debate will resume after consultations among the members."

In Blackrock, England, highly placed British government sources said Friday that, if the UN peace initiatives fail, Britain may call for a Middle East peace conference attended by the big powers and the combatants.

Kerr Would Hang Pushers

BURLINGTON, Ont. (CP) — George Kerr, provincial justice secretary, has expressed opposition to the legalization of marijuana and speaks approvingly of publicly executing drug pushers.

Mr. Kerr, in a speech prepared for delivery Friday night, commented a trend in the Middle and Far East toward eliminating drug production, especially of the opium poppy.

He praises the hard line taken by Philippines President Ferdinand Marcos.

"It recently ordered the execution of a convicted drug distributor broadcast live on the nation's radio network."

Mr. Kerr, in the speech to the Ontario Movers Association, said surveillance of drug trafficking must increase "so that life isn't made safe for anyone that they will eventually be apprehended and that, when convicted of a crime, will be severely dealt with."

War Cuts Oil Flow

LONDON (AP) — Europe is beginning to feel a pinch on fuel supplies as a result of the Middle East war, oil company sources said Friday.

They said the closure of the Iraq oil pipeline terminal at Banias, Syria, and a reduction to half capacity in the Aramco tapline from Saudi Arabia to Sidon in Lebanon are affecting supplies.

The oil from these east Mediterranean ports in the war zone normally goes to Italy, Spain, and Austria.

Austria has imposed daily quotas on the sale of oil. Italy and Spain banned exports of all products. The sources said West Germany and the Netherlands are considering similar export bans.

A number of European countries—among them Britain, France and Sweden—were said to have prepared plans to ration oil if Arab suppliers cut off the flow as a war measure.

A Syrian defeat on the northern front would free the Israelis to concentrate more air and armored firepower on the Sinai desert, where Israel was forced to abandon its original defence lines to Egyptians storming across the Suez canal.

This was seen as a possibility that may have persuaded the 38-year-old Hussein to enter the war, which erupted a week ago today.

"As a result of the developments in the Syrian front and the ensuing movements of the situation," the Jordanian statement said, "the supreme command has taken a decision to move a combination of its best military formations to carry out its military duty in the current battle in defence of the dear Arab land. Our forces will fight with all their ability until death to defend our sacred soil."

Soviet Planes Said Airlifting Weapons

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet transport planes have delivered at least 1,000 tons of weapons and ammunition to Syria and Egypt since midweek, United States defence department officials say.

However, Israeli air attacks on Syrian and Egyptian airfields appear to have impeded the Russian airlift.

Some Russian transport planes were reported to have turned back from Syria and headed home because Syrian airfields were too badly damaged to land.

At least two Russian AN-12 Cub transports were reported damaged on the ground at Aleppo, Syria. Israeli jet pilots have revelled from threatening or attacking Soviet transports in the air.

The Cub carries up to 10 tons of cargo.

The Russians also are flying heavy military cargo into Egypt aboard giant AN-22 transport planes which can carry about 30 tons apiece.

What gear unloaded from Soviet planes in Egypt and Syria has included surface-to-air missiles (SAM), anti-tank weapons and ammunition, officials said.

It was noted that Egyptian SAM batteries along the Suez canal have been firing missiles at Israeli planes in salvos. This may indicate the Egyptians are confident of receiving plentiful supplies of Soviet missiles.

The Russians also have been resupplying their Arab clients by sea, U.S. intelligence sources said.

More than 50 medium tanks and a number of potent SA-6 surface-to-air missile batteries were reported to have been landed by a Soviet fighter at Alexandria, Egypt.

The Soviet sealift of war supplies is proving to be risky. Russia said one of its freighters was sunk by Israeli missiles in the Syrian port of Tartus.

The Soviet news agency Tass warned of possible "grave consequences for Israel." It did not say what those consequences might be.

At the same time, Russia has been silent on its airlift to Syria and Egypt.

FREDERICTON (CP) — The New Brunswick Supreme Court has ruled a Clair, N.B. man must pay damages of $39,942 after an incident which resulted in the loss of the thumb and fingers from another man's hand. His death brought to 883 the number of people killed in Northern Ireland in fighting between Catholics and Protestants since 1968. CALAIS, France (Reuter) — An attempt by a British Royal Navy diving bell to save six men trapped in an overturned French dredger was called off today because of technical difficulties, rescue officials said here. Cannery Destroyed

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Officials of Green Giant of Canada Ltd. were to meet today to discuss the future of their operations at Tecumseh, just north of here, after fire Friday caused an estimated $10 million damage to their plant.

Alex Chappell, director for production for the company, said "there are going to be a lot of people out of work until we get the plant rebuilt." He said he had no doubt layoffs would be necessary, but added that the percentage affected is not yet known.

The fire at the huge food-processing operation was a "devastating blow" to the town, said Tecumseh Mayor Don Lepain.

The firm employs about 150 at present, but during the peak production season the workload increases considerably.

Destroyed in the fire, which broke out shortly after noon, were the can manufacturing operation and the main warehouse. Also damaged was a portion of the older warehouse. There was heat and smoke damage to the contents of the freezing plant.

Cause of the fire was still unknown by early today.

'Dangerous' Tag Protested

Frank Milkowski, 23, of Calgary, escaped from the prison Wednesday. He was awaiting trial on break-and-enter and drug trafficking charges.

Milkowski told the radio station that he couldn't understand why he should be considered dangerous.

RCMP said they wouldn't call him dangerous if he came back.

Cox Would Release Tapes

Cox had contended that the tapes were essential to the grand jury's attempt to determine the extent of the conspiracy to obstruct the investigation of the June 17, 1972, break-in at Democratic national committee headquarters.

Charles Alan Wright, lawyer for the president, had argued that the doctrine of executive privilege and the Constitution gave Nixon sole authority to decide if presidential documents could be turned over either to the courts or to Congress.

Sirica had ruled it was the duty of the court to decide whether the president's asserted right to keep the tapes secret is valid. And the only way he can determine that, said Sirica, would be to listen to the tapes.

Supreme Court Likely To Rule on Nixon Tapes

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon appears certain to appeal to the United States Supreme Court a federal appeals court ruling demanding surrender of White House tapes for judicial examination.

In a 5-to-3 decision Friday, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia upheld District Judge John Sirica's decision ordering the tapes turned over to him.

The appeals court gave the president until next Friday to ask the Supreme Court to review its decision.

The president "is not, above the law's commands," the court said in rejecting Nixon's contention that the constitutional doctrine of separation of powers prohibits branch of government from forcing another branch to obey its commands.

There was no immediate comment from the White House.

Special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox, who had subpoenaed tapes of nine presidential conversations about Watergate, said through a spokesman:

"We are very pleased with the decision, which on first reading of the opinion appears fully to sustain our position."

Egyptian soldiers stand beneath their flag Wednesday on the Bar Lev Line, the defense works constructed by Israel on the east bank of the Suez Canal after the 1967 Middle East War. LIP Committee Named by Ellis

Proposed membership of a local committee which will centralize and advise government on Local Initiative Programs in Hastings is being has been forwarded for government approval by Jack Ellis, MP.

Such committees have been introduced this year in the LIP process as a means of injecting more local involvement in decision-making.

Members of Parliament are responsible for organizing the groups, but final approval is the formal responsibility of Manpower and Immigration Minister Robert Andras.

The committees may advise on local projects submitted for LIP funding. But, again, final decisions rest with the department.

Committee membership is based on broadly representative local grouping and includes local government, social-agency and community-projects representatives.

Committees members proposed by Mr. Ellis for his Hastings constituency:

Jack Ireland and Jon Cox, both Belleville city councillors; Audrey Donnelly, Bancroft deputy-reeve and president of the Regional Cancer Society; Desmond Greer, George Lyons, who also helped steer that town's LIP-subsidized new medical centre project last year; Vera Hill, of Madoc, active community worker and secretary of the village's medical centre board; and this year's LIP-aided development: Beth Barrows, director of Belleville Volunteer Bureau; Verne McMurray, of Gilmour, former Youth Counselling Centre, participant in various community projects; Gordon Bennett, Marmora, past president, Highlands of Hastings Tourist Council; Jean Way, Tweed, active in service club and other community endeavours.

Committee members are only paid mileage to meetings. Ministerial approval of the committee is expected within two weeks, said Mr. Ellis.

Deadline for LIP applications is Oct. 15.

Workers Swing in Roofing Beam

With the aid of a 50-ton crane, workmen lowered a 12-ton section of reinforced concrete onto the walls of the Sidney Township municipal garage and fire hall earlier this week. This T-beam, 50 feet long by eight feet wide, is one of 16 needed to completely cover the building situated behind the present municipal offices on concession road two. Holes in the precast concrete allow for roof drains and exhaust fans. Exterior work and interior finishing is likely to continue until the end of October, when the building, it is hoped, will be completed.

Recognition of a person's service to a company is always a time for presentations and awards. This fall, the American Optical Company honors those of its employees who range from 15 years to 40 years. The Junior AOCO employees of the three, Anthony de Nicola, dispensist optician at the Pinnacle Street shop, was presented with a plaque and pin for his 15 years of service.

Wet 1973 Spring May Bruise Crop

The Ontario Apple Marketing Commission says that wet weather last spring could result in a 25 per cent drop this year in the over-all provincial apple crop but the reduction for the "fresh" apple drop will be greater in the Quinte area. Quinte Sub Codelelick Ministry of Agriculture and Food fruit specialist at Trenton estimated during the summer that the apple crop this year would be down by at least 40 per cent and today said this estimate still stands.

And the reduced apple crop is born out by local orchardists who say that considerably, fewer apples are being picked than in the normal year.

One of the main reasons for the drop in the apple crop was the wet spring which discouraged bees from working, thus resulting in less pollination of the blossoms.

Scab conditions resulting from spray application not being made at the proper time are also expected to further reduce the top grade apple crop.

Apple Commission officials estimate the Ontario apple crop this year will be about 9½ million bushels, down from last year's 6¼ million bushels.

As result of the smaller crop, prices are about 15 per cent higher than last year's levels. The wholesale price of three pounds of McIntosh apples is 60 cents compared with 52 cents a year ago.

This year orchardists are being offered from $4 to $4.50 per bushel for ungraded Spys and Mr. Cobblelick expected that a much higher percentage of the Spy crop will be sold to the processors.

Local orchardists have now picked their McIntosh and Greening apples and this week are picking Delicious.

Lowered Speed Limit Supported by Council

City council Monday concurred in a traffic-committee recommendation requesting the provincial government to amend the Highway Traffic Act to reduce the speed limit in cities and other built-up areas to 25 miles per hour.

At the same time, however, the city manager will be asked to bring in a report clarifying the present regulation under which a municipality may reduce the speed limit by bylaw.

The understanding of the traffic committee that if the speed limit was reduced by bylaw without provincial legislation, the municipality would have to sign all streets on which the lower limit was effective.

But Alderman Jack Ireland, chairman of the traffic committee, told council that in Toronto where a 25 - mile - an - hour limit was in effect in residential areas, not all streets were signed.

Alderman Dr. John Slack requested the report from the city manager to clarify present regulations, suggesting that by approving the traffic committee recommendation, council was doing nothing.

Lloyd Elected Head Toastmaster

Belleville's Toastmasters Club elected its officers for the 1973-74 term Tuesday night.

Dick Lloyd takes over the presidency from the club's charter president, Art Hughes. Mr. Hughes was instrumental in starting the club in Belleville last year.

Other officers chosen were: Lorne Albertson, vice-president of education; Skip Roberts, vice-president of administration; Ray Flowers, treasurer; Rex Veal, secretary; and Alex Manjuris, sergeant-at-arms.

Mr. Lloyd, manager of the Uniroyal Store, on Bridge Street has been a toastmaster for ten years in Toronto and this area. In accepting the office, he stressed the aim of the club, self-improvement of the individual.

Formerly area governor for District 60, Mr. Lloyd said each one of us can improve. "It all depends on yourself", he said.

He also urged the members of the year-old club to take every opportunity to speak at outside functions and not just at club meetings.

"You may be nervous as speaking at first," said Mr. Lloyd, "but when it is over you'll know you've reached the highest form of maturity."

Guest speaker at the meeting held at George's Restaurant, was Chief of Police Douglas Crosbie who told the gathering how he benefited from being a member of toastmasters club at one time.

He also told the members how by taking a course in writing and listening, he learned the importance of proper communication.

"Communications with the people we are serving is most important," he said, and then told the group of about 20.

The next meeting of the club is October 23 and anyone interested in expressing themselves effectively through public speaking is invited to attend.

Camping, Snowmobile Course Is Proposed

The Hastings County Board of Education and the Belleville Parks Department are seeking the co-operation of the City Recreation and Arena Committee in offering a family camping and snowmobile course during the coming winter.

The course would cover safety and first aid, outdoor cookery, sledding, nature recognition, proper location of camps and snowmobile maintenance. The course will be offered will depend on registration.

The recreation committee agreed in principle with the Board of Education request, but staff was directed to contact the board regarding possible costs and report back to the committee.

In other business, members decided the recreation department would attend the committee - sponsored leisure time exhibition at the Belleville Arena next spring.

An Ajax firm requested use of the arena to stage a leisure time show next April, but due to the proposed high cost to the local exhibitors, the decision was to continue the committee - sponsored program.

Carrier Day

Once again it is International Newspaper Carrier Day and we are happy to salute the boys and girls of this newspaper and others throughout Canada and abroad.

As bearers of the daily newspaper the young people are not only bringing the news of the day to the reader's doorstep, they are also taking steps along the road to responsibility, business sense and interest in others.

The boys and girls are the adults and professional people of tomorrow, the youngsters whom we hope will be able to mold a better world.

It is in the creation of a well-informed public that newspapers play their part in the progress of society. But it is one thing to produce a newspaper, another to get it into the hands of readers.

Without the carrier boys and girls this task would be impossible. These youngsters serve their generation and our democratic way of life in sterling fashion. In a very real way too they bring us all together, while preparing themselves for the larger role that is ahead of them in a new and challenging world.

Sex Versus Romance

Looking at the magazines and paper backs flooding the market these days we are grateful for the literary wealth much of it represents.

But what of the tidal wave of material having sex and pornography as its basic subject matter? Not to mention the detective magazines with their lurid covers and heavy-handed mixture of sex and violence?

We are not advocating censorship, for we can take our pick so to speak, unencumbered by the blue pencil of some government autocrat. It is the same time that has to be some questioning of the flood of reading matter which tends to widen still further the tide of permissiveness engulfing society today.

What a contrast with the romantic novel which also enjoys a huge market yet manages to do so without resort either to the sordid or to the morbid.

We recall an article about Violet Winspear, a former factory worker whom Canadian Press writer Carol Kennedy describes as "one of Britain's prospering tribe of romantic novelists." Esse Summers is another whose work sells particularly well in Canada.

Sex in these books is secondary to the theme of old-fashioned romance. The heroes, as Miss Winspear puts it, "can have a faintly wicked past, but not the heroines."

Shades of the old double-standard, today supposedly on the way out.

But the queen of Britain's romantic novelists is Barbara Cartland, one of the "bright young people" of the twenties, who still exhibits in her life a perfect style of femininity and whose books have sold 14 million copies.

Says Miss Cartland: "My heroines are hard to get. It's easy to write a romantic book with an old-world setting, when virginity meant something, than in the permissive society.

"I think women should be elusive, mysterious and chaste. . . I write for the great mass of people who believe in God and live decent lives and have the right impulses."

Many will say "Hurrah for Miss Cartland," but girls with behavior patterns there are others who will say she is out of her time, anachronistic. Yet 14 million readers cannot be wrong. Can even the porno writers match that?

A....Choo!

Something of a calamity for Arizona fans, including the not inconsiderable number who go there for reasons of health, recreation or whatever . . . it seems the State is becoming as heavily pollinated as anywhere else, and allergy sufferers need their shots as much in Phoenix as they do in Belleville. And all because community planners have created those immaculate suburban complexes complete with trees, shrubs, grass and all the rest of the paraphernalia of the allergy scene. Anywhere left then that's pure and undefiled? It is a question that may have more significance than may be supposed, for the United Nations has a plan designed to turn the shifting sands of the world's deserts into farmland. The first project will be the "Greening of Arabia." Anyone for the moon?

A Case of Hobson's Choice

King Hussein Under Pressure to Enter Mid-East War

By ROD CURRIE

LONDON (CP) — While the Middle East war rages, Jordan's King Hussein faces a harsh choice on what his role should be while also warding off mounting pressure for him to jump into the fray immediately.

The king is seen by many observers as convinced that his contribution might be more than token on behalf of his Arab neighbors, while Israeli revenge could be massive.

He lost the fertile food-growing region west of the Jordan River and his armed forces suffered devastating losses in the 1967 six-day war. Hussein apparently fears that another similar humiliation might bring an upheaval at home that would knock him from his throne and end the Hashemite dynasty.

The irony of his dilemma is that he might well face the same fate if he hangs back despite the prodding of other Arab leaders and even some of his military advisers.

In other words, he faces the Hobson's choice of dangerous discontent at home whether he goes in and gets burned or stands on the sidelines, which many Jordanians consider a humiliating posture in the current situation.

Hussein's position is made more difficult by his recently renewed—and widely publicized—friendship with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and President Hafez Assad of Syria, who restored official relations at a Cairo meeting last month.

Despite this, special attention is focused on Jordan because it already is suspect as the Arab country with particular ties with the West. He rebuilt army includes, for instance, some old tanks from Britain and the United States.

To add to the complexity of his situation, many military observers feel Hussein is serving the Arab cause best by the position he had adopted so far—that of a Jordan watchful and ready but not a participant.

Jordan, with its longest frontier with Israel, has down large numbers of Israeli troops just by the threat of action, which was greatly increased by Jordan's day when Hussein issued a decree calling up all army reservists. Earlier he placed the regular army on alert.

His attempts to convince his own people and his neighbors of the soundness and usefulness of his policies have been hampered by such figures as the Libyan President Moammar Gadhafi of Libya who termed the king "a coward" for his inactivity.

Some military observers suggest that if the Egyptians and Syrians deal Israel a major setback, Hussein then might be tempted into the battle in a bid to win back the lost West Bank.

Alternatively, if the Israelis push the upper hand, Egypt and Syria might call on Jordan to cross the Israeli border and relieve the pressure on them. In that event, Jordan's pathetically small air force would likely be ineffective in providing air cover and his army could suffer a bloodier fate to that in the six-day war.

Home Study New Concept in Universities of Future

From The Intelligencer's Toronto bureau

TORONTO — Houses and apartments will become university campuses in the near future says the chairman of the Ontario select committee studying ways of educational facilities.

Dr. Charles McIlveen says the province will have a program of universities without walls enabling people to take community college and university courses at home.

The Ottawa psychiatrist says for every mature student who returns to post secondary school education there are probably another 10 who want to go back but are unable.

He says mothers with children could study university work at kitchen tables. Assembly line workers on shift work could pick up books when they get home, and people in smaller communities could study in their living rooms rather than travelling to university cities.

Dr. McIlveen says the idea of universities without walls will form part of the recommendations contained in the final report of his committee. Presentation of the report to the legislature is expected in early 1974.

Within the next one to two weeks the committee will give the legislature an interim report on possible ways to extend the school year at the high school level, he said.

Extension of the school year will enable students to take a required amount of work but in a variety of time periods. In effect summer holidays would be eliminated and students could take their two months vacation any time during the year.

The final report will contain recommendations on use of the present school facilities, the extended school year, and the open university.

Dr. McIlveen says already there is a change in study habits with the typical 18 to 25 year old university student sharing class space with an increasing number of older students who are returning to classroom after some years. He says he is concerned about people who want to go back to further studies but are restricted to the home.

Because of the "Outreach" program offered by the University of Western Ontario, London, a Simcoe woman completed a degree program last year with only two visits to the campus. One visit was to register and the second was to receive her degree.

The university has experimented with the program in several municipalities including Chatham, Midland and Simcoe.

The committee studied the extension work of Empire State University, New York which was set up for students doing work at home. Apart from an administrative building the university has no campus. All the university students make a contract and set goals towards a particular degree. Students receive credit for work experience and in some instances require only a few more courses to complete a degree.

Dr. McIlveen also wants a standardized credit system between community colleges and the universities. Students who take credits at home be able to move from area to area without loss of academic achievement when they change university or community college.

Advantages of the at home study system are elimination of capital costs for classrooms and the opportunity for more people to improve their education, says Dr. McIlveen.

Official Languages Act 'A Farce' in Quebec View

Moncton L'Evangeline:

Canada's official languages commissioner, Keith Spicer, said during a visit to Western Canada that "French-Canadians are refusing rights which other Canadians consider as sacred."

Mr. Spicer is uneasy because many French-Canadians consider the Official Languages Act a farce.

Can one be surprised that so little has been accomplished in the domain of bilingualism over the last year?

Haven't the civil servants forced the government to take a Step backwards by obtaining permission for unilingual civil servants to occupy bilingual posts as long as they show their intention to learn Canada's other official language?

Perhaps there has been some progress in Ottawa and, above all, in Quebec; but what is the true state of bilingualism in the federal services in the Maritime provinces? Isn't the civil service still the watchdog of unbilingual English - speaking people?

If the official languages commissioner is unhappy about progress on the federal scene, what would he do in action if he lived in New Brunswick?

In April, 1969, the New Brunswick legislative assembly, on the recommendation of the Robichaud government and supported by the Opposition under the leadership of Richard Hatfield, unanimously approved the Official Languages Act of New Brunswick.

Four years later, the most important public concerning the development of Acadians, in particular those affecting education and government services, have not yet been published.

The answers must come from Fredericton. But there is no one in Fredericton who can or wants to give satisfactory replies.

Are the ministers and the government representatives really sincere when they tell their five Francophone colleagues that they, the Anglophones, will lose their seats because of bilingualism?

Yes, we need a Keith Spicer in New Brunswick to shake up the consciences of our civil servants and our members of the legislature.

Bible Digest

by H. B. DEAN

"And when he had found him, he brought him unto Antioch. And it came to pass, that a whole year they assembled themselves with the church, and taught much people. And the disciples were called Christians first in Antioch." Acts 11:26

They were called Christians because their living, giving and forgiving had a strong resemblance to that of the resurrected Christ. Can the world call us Christians today by what they see rather than what they hear? Here is the credibility gap that needs to be closed.

Smoking and Public Health

Brockville Recorder and Times

Recent comment on this page relative to the rights of nonsmokers has been given a boost by a developing situation in Great Britain that all nonsmokers will wish to have developed here. Britain, home of the reputedly first English-speaking smoker, Sir Walter Raleigh, is cast under a thick cloud by the new hotting-up of the "no-smoking" campaign. We wish that people on this side of the Atlantic could get as excited about corresponding campaign.

The campaign in Britain is shifting from converting smokers to protecting nonsmokers. A new poster campaign by the Health Education Council depicts a cigarette in a high chair puffing a cigarette. "How many cigarettes a day does your baby smoke?" it asks. The text warns that breathing smoke-filled air can be as harmful as if the child himself smoked. An article in the New Scientist charges that millions of non-smoking Britons involuntarily inhale tobacco smoke equivalent to smoking one cigarette a day up to as much as one cigarette an hour, depending on the number of smokers in his presence.

The exhaled smoke, the New Scientist claims, packs more pollutant that the gases the smoker draws into his mouth.It contains twice as much tar and nicotine and five times as much carbon monoxide.

"If smokers are seriously harming the health of nonsmokers", the New Scientist contends, "then smoking should be made a criminal offence unless carried out in private among consenting adults."

Turkish revolutionaries signed the Treaty of Kars with Soviet Armenia 53 years ago today—in 1921—to recognize independence. Armenia had been ruled by Ottoman Turks since 1500 and, used as a political pawn during the 19th century, the country became the scene of murder and massacre after 1895. Armenia was occupied by Russians in 1918, became independent two years after and was taken over by Communists in 1921.

1832—Winston Churchill won the Nobel Prize for literature.

1940—Princess Elizabeth, made her first broadcast address to the children of the world.

1965—The famous English actor Sir Henry Irving died.

1813—Joachim Murat, king of Naples, was executed after a court-martial.

1792—President Washington placed the corner stone of the White House.

Middle East Hostilities Strain East-West Ties

By PETER BUCKLEY

WASHINGTON (CP) — Soviet-American detente survived the opening days of renewed warfare in the Middle East, but prolonged conflict could put severe strain on a policy regarded by both major powers as the cornerstone of their international diplomacy.

Both Moscow and Washington have made clear that they mean to avoid a confrontation in the area while acknowledging that their policies are at opposite poles.

But their restraint may be gravely tested if the front-line battles deteriorate into an inconclusive war of attrition which saps the manpower and military supplies of both sides, or if the Arab nations seek to include persistent attacks on civilian population centres.

The apparent casualties among Soviet and other East European advisers inflicted by Israeli air raids on Damascus serve to illustrate the delicate aspect of the stresses facing major-power diplomacy as a result of the revived fighting.

Soviet military leaders and Kremlin chiefs have harboured doubts about the policy of accommodation with the United States are likely to bring increasing pressure on Party Secretary Leonid Brezhnev to take decisive support to the Arab cause.

Brezhnev has already told the Algerians that Moscow is prepared to support economic arms forms" to Egypt and Syria and has said the two Arab belligerents "must not stand alone in their battle with the perfidious enemy."

The strains on President Nixon, although of a different nature, may not be less intense.

Acknowledging the inevitable growth in U.S. dependence on Arab oil supplies in the next decade, Nixon and State Secretary Henry Kissinger had recently begun to outline a more even-handed policy toward the Middle East in hopes of defusing tensions in the area.

The possibility of negotiating a long-term settlement of the issues underlying the conflict is seen seriously jeopardized by the new hostilities, many observers here believe, and the chances of successful negotiation will recede the longer the fighting continues.

Their reasoning is that, short of a crushing victory by either side, both Israel and the Arab nations are likely to find new reason for intransigence in the current war.

The Arabs, on the other hand, would feel that the humiliating losses in battle have restored morale and given fresh zeal to their cause.

If losses of aircraft, tanks and other weapons by either side should reach a point where the U.S. or Soviet Union must consider resupplying their client states, the effect on U.S.-Soviet relations might be to undermine the whole pattern of wary trust between the two major powers.

Fifteen-year-old Guru Pledges to Reveal God

By MALCOLM N. CARER

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Guru Maharaj Ji, the 15-year-old prophet from India, promises to reveal God and solve world peace.

His followers compare him to Jesus, Buddha and Krishna, but this unspectral link to God proposes his disciples through a personal experience. He keeps track of them with a computer and depends upon a public relations staff to share his image.

The guru is a spiritual leader, a pudgy adolescent with a footpost for sweets and a business sense that whose mushrooming multi-million dollar organization has such diverse activities as film production, education and the Guardsman Band to Godliness janitorial service.

Titled corporate "supreme executive" and spiritual "perfect master," the boy enjoys the benefits of both, and suffers the consequences. With status comes wealth and power, and worldly goods—a middle-age executive's dacor, three luxury cars and se cretaries in four homes.

His Divine Light Mission teaches an unspecified mystical truth, experienced in part through yogic contortion and eyeball pressure. Bliss is the perpetual result, and the guru's claimed following is legion.

Many of them had searched through the occult and "tried early '70s. Predominantly white, middle-class and educated, most were uncertain about their future.

Then came the guru with a promised path to inner serenity and an answer to life's great questions. To his followers, he is God himself.

They bow before his photograph and hang on his every word.

Every night they attend "satsang," listening to testimonials, reading scriptures, singing devotional hymns, rehearsing their beliefs.

Each conversation begins with a phrase that recalls his divinity, and each conversation ends with it.

What he shows us is a tool that can transform the human race," says Ronnie Davis, the 33-year-old peace activist who joined the guru's movement in February.

That tool is called "knowledge," which the guru's followers say cannot be communicated in words. It is an experience, a realization of a unity with the spirit of God, they say. To receive knowledge, the initiate touches, is to reach perfection through meditation.

Peter Berger, a sociology professor at Rutgers University and author of The Heretical Mind says: "We have a society dictated by tens of thousands of people, hundreds of thousands of people, are desperately looking for ideology."

When someone comes along with a simple, "put up a front" of assurance and out of this seeming assurance tell people who they are and what their life is all about, it's highly probable he'll find followers," Berger says.

People are likely to believe almost anything they're told them.

He observes that those who embrace therapeutic, political inaction and sectarian groups—"far-out religious groups"—have a tendency to feel unsecured in a row.

When the guru first visited this country two years ago, he found seven disciples. Today, the mission boasts control of at least 30,000 followers, with six million worldwide.

About 3,000 United States devotees are actively involved in the mission's activities, according to Michael Doonee, vice-president.

About 500 of them live in ashrams—communes for celibate living, working and discussing about "knowledge." Most of these followers is paid, nor is he or she charged for the vegetarian meals and sleeping pallet the ashram provides.

A guru since his father's death seven years ago, this plump teen-ager studies commandingly about the mission's headquarters here. His eyes dart darkly across the head bowing in his path. He is a lion among cubs, giving advice with apparent assurance the holds cooing devotion with barely a nod.

That is the spiritual leader, but one who happens to be 15 years old and who likes expensive cars as well.

He likes gimmicks and wears an electronic digital watch, flies an airplane and fiddles with a quadraphonic stereo system to hear Hugo Montenegro or Tony Orlando.

His public relations staff met recently to talk about the guru's image, concluding that he is seen as a "fat 15-year-old with pie in his face . . . and a Rolls-Royce . . . who arrested for jewel smuggling."

The allusions were to his encounter with a pie-tossing youth in Detroit and the confiscation in India last November of $35,000 in undeclared jewelry and cash, which the mission has said was forgotten by a disciple. The case has not been settled and the guru had to post $13,200 bond before leaving for his latest world tour.

For his part, the guru terms himself "just an ordinary" finishe servant of God, preaching the gospel of peace in the spirit-level house plans, plus bonus "in Love, Knowledge and Service."

The professed humility notwithstanding, Guru Maharaj Ji lives comfortably with the other members of the "Holy Family"—his three older brothers and his mother, a dominant figure he willingly obeys.

He has a sprawling $80,000 home in Los Angeles and in-Denver. There are two Mercedes-Benz automobiles for use in the U.S. and two airplanes. In Lost his followers have given him a Rolls-Royce.

Weighing 180 pounds at 5 feet 9, the guru might blame his girth on an obvious sweet tooth. But his personal physician and disciple, Dr. John Horton, attributes the boy's appetite to a sedentary life of making decisions.

Marking decisions has left another mark, says Horton. The guru has an ulcer.

He has this intestinal ulcer that caused the guru to cancel appearances this summer in Atlanta, Denver and Kansas City.

He passed up Detroit because of "fatigue," but did appear in Boston, Chicago and New York.

The day after his release from hospital, where he underwent tests, the guru was back on a relaxing brigadoon from a seven-storey building in downtown Denver.

By embarcoring, he was on the sixth floor, where weary but still smiling "premies"—lovers of God"—were ending a five-month retreat that provides new space for darkrooms, a computer room, executive suite, a reception design room, a conference room and the guru's bedroom.

It's a far cry from the head, quarters of only last April, when the mission was paying $300 a month for a building that also housed the staff, the guru and his family.

Simple Creed Offered

by
Rev. Dr. George C. Smyth

Few people go far without asking pointed questions about religious experience and the validity of much they were taught as youngsters. The result is often disenchantment, if not abandonment of the ordinances and customs of the Church.

For those who feel so inclined, here is a short creed of three articles, that I want to be like Jesus Christ. I want to help others to be like him. I want to believe in a Christ-like God."

Although a simple creed, this is not for simpletons or weaklings. Christianity is Christ. The primary records about him have been subjected to the most rigid examination. They have been authenticated. Would that people would read these primary sources. I mean the Gospels.

The personality whom these depict is often poles apart from the figure of those who "make it enough to say, "We have our own Jesus ..". The personality portrayed in the Gospels has often been as much concealed as revealed by later biographers.

I remember reading, "The Call of the Carpenter", about 30 years ago. It was written by Roach White, an American social worker. Perhaps I remember this book because its thesis is more widespread among young people today.

Mr. White maintained that Jesus Christ was a class agitator. He was the champion of the proletariat. However, capitalistic clergy and politicians out-manoeuvred him. He was "educated" and him to death, and would do so again.

There can be no doubt that Christ was incensed over hypocrisy and injustice. But to argue that he was a martyred revolutionary is tantamount to saying that facts should not interfere with theories.

I commend for reading a book entitled "Violence", by James Ethil, published by the Seabury Press. For instance, Mr. Ethil writes, "Will it be said that the Christians are absent from the world? Curious that Christians in the world should mean accepting the world's ways, means, objectives; should mean helping hate and evil to proliferate!"

Ethil concludes, "Christians will be completely present in the world if they suffer with those who suffer. If they seek out with those sufferers the one way of salvation, and if they bear witness before God and man to the condemnation of injustice and the proclamation of love."

This is the Gospel truth. The Founder of Christianity taught, "If any man would come after me, let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow me. For whoever would save his life will lose it, and whoever loses his life for my sake will find it" (Matthew 16:24-25).

The words that he spoke, the friends that he made among the sick and poor, the parables and the shrines that he honored by his regular attendance indicate that Christ's mission was not to destroy but to fulfil.

Take his Gospel to heart at home, on the campus, at work, in leisure, at the bargaining table, and in political life alike. The cruelest taunt that could be hurled at you is the greatest compliment that you could ever receive! "Who do you think you are — Jesus Christ!"

Life on Board the Margarethe

By SHARON AIRHART

Next week, Margarethe and Richard Weller will set sail for ports known and unknown in their 43-foot hatch after selling their country house and the belongings gathered during 13 years in Belleville.

They're leaving behind most of what they owned and three grown and married children for the odyssey of their dreams in the concrete boat Richard built during the last three years.

A few weeks ago, the couple moved into the boat and out of their home, exchanging a roomy Foxboro house for the three-section cabin.

There Margarethe will cook and keep house with less effort than she ever has and use the time left for pursuits of her own choosing.

"I'm glad there aren't so many things to look after. Things will be simpler. We'll be out of the rat race."

The cleverly constructed galley of the boat with its cubbyholes and drawers and storage compartments in every cranny, is designed to accommodate every food preparation need. The doors feature fingerholes to pull rather than awkward exterior closures.

There's a built in icebox for fresh meat and vegetables and fruit every day.

They'll begin their trip down the United States' inland waterway and continue to the Bahamas. From there, its destination unknown with some talk of crossing the Atlantic in the spring.

"We're not making any definite plans. We just want to relax and take things as we please for a change," Mrs. Weller says.

They've a lot of relaxing to do as they unwind from the hectic schedule they kept for several years while the "Margarethe" was under construction.

Built on the front lawn of their home, the boat was shaped by concrete and poured into wooden forms, and then outfitted on weekends.

The Margarethe, with its 11 foot six inch beam, sleeps six.

One double bunk is actually the galley table which can be lowered to the level of the benches that surround it on three sides to form a roomy bunk covered with thick foam mattresses. The table top, like the formica counter top, includes a raised wooden rim to keep things from sliding off if the boat pitches.

The galley — like the sleeping cabin and the wheelhouse — is bright and light thanks both to high ceilings and lots of portholes.

The sleeping cabin — cozy and wedge-shaped — includes two bunks and more storage cupboards. The covers were sewn by Mrs. Weller for these and other bunks.

There's a tiny on-board washroom with running hot water and a toilet. The kitchen, too, boasts running water.

The wheelhouse includes a heater for cold nights and a large chart table which drops from the wall. Two more bunks, covered in wide-wale corduroy, line the wheelhouse walls.

To all the built in furnishing, the Weller's have only added the barest essentials. A few clothes, standard medicine chest goods, a few well-loved books and Mrs. Weller's guitar.

"I took lessons a few years ago and now I'm going to have a chance to improve," she says.

Mrs. Weller, who took two swimming courses at Belleville's YMCA in preparation for their life on and in (they have bought snorkels for underwater swimming) the water, will also study Spanish, a life-long interest.

The Wellers consciously decided to change their style of living from that of the past, just one more change in a lifetime of changes.

They came to Canada in 1956 from Germany where Mr. Weller had been a river freight pilot on the Rhine. They moved to Belleville a few years later where Mr. Weller has worked as a carpenter.

Now retired, years before usual "retirement age," Mr. Weller is devoting himself to the final touches necessary to complete the Margarethe.

Mrs. Weller is arranging their things in the boat and looking forward to their new life on the boat her husband named for her.

"It was starting a new life when we came to Canada and now we start a new life again," she says reflectively.

"It's good."

In the well-equipped galley of the Margarethe, Mrs. Weller stands at the sink. The boat has running water both in the kitchen and tiny washroom. Cupboards, drawers and storage nooks fill the galley to store all the necessities of life. For the couple who will live on the boat.

Margarethe Weller practices guitar playing in the cozy sleeping cabin of the boat she and husband Richard will sail south next week. The fulfillment of a dream, they sold their Foxboro home and moved onto the boat Mr. Weller built.

Food Prices Not Skyrocketing (?)

Food prices in Canada are not rocketing out of control.

How do we know? The Food Prices Review Board tells us so.

Good thing, too, because without its pronouncement, we may never have known.

Apart from that, the board's quarterly report, released last week points out a couple of interesting things about what we spend on food.

It hardly seems possible but Canadians spend 15 cents of every food dollar on food purchased for consumption away from home. The board points out this shift towards eating out — the rate increases all the time — is contributing to the long-run rates of food spending increase. These food costs absorb labor and other costs, remember.

Also, our changing buying pattern has also tended to swell total food spending. We're buying more partially or completely prepared convenience foods, which also reflect non-food expenses like labor.

The Intelligencer's Marmore correspondent Ruby McCoy passed along a handy household hint — one that will do something for your pocket and something for the environment.

Those plastic quart milk bags, when washed and dried, make great sandwich bags, she says. Mrs. McCoy points out it's saved her quite a bit of money on sandwich wrapping and that the plastic is very sturdy and can be used again and again.

An added bonus for the environment: you're recycling!

Arctic Fishing Lodge Boss-She Runs A Tight Ship

CAMERON BAY, N.W.T. (CP) — While most resorts on Great Bear Lake come and go like the lake's frequent squalls, Branson's Lodge has weathered 19 years and looks forward to more.

The reason for the success of the 15 million fishing lodge 35 miles from the Arctic Circle is an unusual woman who has held three world fishing records—Jessie Branson. "I can't tolerate inefficiency at any time," says Mrs. Branson, "when I want something done I want it done now and I want it done well."

Her viewpoint probably accounts for the ingrowing of many of the lodge's 300 employees, who shuffle in and out on once-a-week flights from Edmonton. But this doesn't bother the boss a bit. "If they can't hack it under my rules, they go," she said.

Mrs. Branson allows her guides, for example, three beers a day . . . after they have returned home with a fishing party. "If you give my boys one drink you'll be in deep trouble," she said in the guide right off the lake," she said. Few accept her challenge.

Discipline is the strictest form is required to survive in the North and Mrs. Branson has lived in the Northwest Territories for 21 years.

Now in her 50s, she has been involved with the out-of-doors almost her father packed his family of nine onto a boat in Belgium and took them to a ranch in southern Alberta. The North began, to interest Jessie when she moved to Edmonton, where she trained huskies for sale in the Arctic.

"I started to come up here occasionally," she said, "and I finally decided to try my luck in an area where few white women had survived more than a cup of coffee.

"I landed in Cameron Bay some time after the war and I couldn't believe it. Here was a beautiful, probably undiscovered sometimes in the 1930s, which appeared the perfect place to live. I've never deserted. All I saw were mining claims on every tree and every post.

"When I came, the Indians had torn down all but three buildings for firewood. The only buildings they left standing were the RCMP detachment and two Hudson's Bay trading posts.

"I was born...on the eastern coast of Great Bear Lake, that was where I decided to build their lodge.

"I had always told myself that I'd be self-employed somewhere in the world. Somewhere on the lake there is a particular hole in which a particular trout lurks. I've been searching him. She calls him Big Tim and estimates his weight at 75 pounds.

"I'll get him one day," she said.

Great Bear Lake, which has never been fished commercially, appears a heaven for the sports fisherman. Trophy lake trout, running to 15 ounces.

"You have to be patient with those big fish. Bring a feather up to the surface too quick and they'll break loose. You haven't a chance of landing him."

Mrs. Branson has probably caught more big lakers than anyone alive, but she has no more to catch than she'll ever herself to be satisfied.

Somewhere on the lake there is a particular hole in which a particular trout lurks. Somewhere on the lake there is a particular hole in which a particular trout lurks. Somewhere on the lake there is a particular hole in which a particular trout lurks.

Ford a Logical Choice

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Nixon has reached towards the northern border for a new vice-president, picking a former football star whose congressional record is popular and will have little trouble getting majority approval from his colleagues.

Nixon's nominee, 65-year-old Gerald R. Ford, Republican whip from Michigan and minority leader in the House of Representatives, will be formally proposed in a White House message to Congress today.

Within hours of Nixon's announcement he is cheering audience in the East Room of the White House Friday night, speculation spread that the Michigan congressman will be a leading candidate for the presidency in 1976.

He is qualified, to be president of the United States," said presidential economic adviser Melvin Laird. "I would expect him to run in 1976."

Ford, a tall, rugged figure who has bowed close to Nixon policies in Congress, said he will not run. He had no intentions of being a candidate for 1976 for the presidency or vice-presidency.

But there are 3½ years left in the vice-presidential term yielded by Spiro Agnew following his resignation on bribery charge and anything can happen, Mayor Coleman Young has pressed no intentions of running only to be pushed into the race.

APPROVAL LIKELY

Ford's nomination requires a simple majority of both the House of Representatives and the Senate, both controlled by Democrats. A quick press survey showed that Ford, a wartime naval officer and an assistant coach at Yale where he studied law, will breeze through confirmation in the Senate within a week or two.

House Speaker Carl Albert, who as chief House Democrat in Ford's principal opponent, said he is delighted with the choice.

"As I told the president Wednesday," he said, "he was my choice and the easiest to be confirmed."

With a 25-year reputation as a staunch party man in the House, Ford bounded to Nixon's side from his first-year seat in the White House. He has pledged to work "to make America a united country."

The post of vice-president, only a heartbeat away from the presidency carries an annual salary of $62,500 and a $16,800 expense account, both taxable. Agnew who held the post for almost five years, will go before a federal grand jury in Baltimore next month to discuss events which led to his disgrace and resignation.

A number of possible successors were considered by Nixon in his lengthy retreat at Camp David, Md., but even before the announcement came before a national television audience speculation spread that the choice would be Ford.

"If he had chosen John B. Connally, there would have been the bloodiest battle since Gettysburg," said Representative Wayne Hays (Dem., Ohio). Connally, a hard-liner and former Democrat who turned Republican, was Nixon's one-time treasury secretary.

In making his selection, Nixon clearly wanted to avoid a major clash with Congress at a time when he is seeking to recover from the Watergate political scandals.

"It is vital that we turn away from the obsessions of the past and turn to the great challenges of the future," said Nixon in his announcement speech.

Warning of the dangers that confront America, Nixon said "This is a time for a new beginning for America, a new beginning in which we all dedicate ourselves to the task of meeting the challenges we face, setting the opportunities for greatness and meeting the dreams whatever they are, at home and abroad."

The Nixon speech was designed for drama and also another hint that he wants like the U.S. to forget all about Watergate and allow him to make a new beginning.

"Never in our history has the world needed a united strong America, a united America, with both the power and the will to act in the spirit that made this a great country and that has kept it a free country," he said.

Skim Milk Prices To Drop Monday

OTTAWA (CP) — Skim milk prices will drop at least 17 cents a pound Monday following a subsidy agreement reached with the country's eight powder producing companies.

The agriculture department announced Friday that the reduction from Oct. 3 prices results from a 30-cent-a-pound federal subsidy for powdered milk companies initiated last month to help check rising food costs.

The new prices will remain in effect for one year.

The announcement followed hard on the heels of another agreement on subsidizing an agreement to hold Ontario fluid milk prices at Oct. 1 levels for the next year under a similar subsidy program.

Under the powdered milk subsidy, the department said the three-cent difference between reduction in consumer prices and the 30-cent subsidy would be used by the companies "to cover, at least in part, cost increases for the next year."

COMPANIES LISTED

The eight companies, manufacturers of all skim milk powder, are Gay Lea Foods of Toronto; Fraser Valley Milk Producers Association of Vancouver; Cooperative Agricole de Grandby, Que.; Lactantia Limited of Victoriaville, Que.; Borden Co. Ltd. of Toronto; Cow and Gate (Canada) Ltd. of Brockville, Ont.; and Scott Bros. Ltd. of Mitchell, Ont.

Under the Ontario fluid milk subsidy, prices will be four cents a quart less than they would have been had Ottawa increases gone into effect at the beginning of the month.

The price for eight of milk will be based on home delivery costs in Toronto of 43 cents, but will vary according to location, fat content and size of container.

The department said the base price would have risen to 49 cents a quart had the province not agreed to the subsidy.

Trade Agreement Ends Trudeau Peking Visit

PEKING (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau concluded his official Friday visit to Peking with warm words, a new trade agreement, a private meeting with Chairman Mao Tse-tung and a new bamboo baby carriage.

In one of the busiest days of the tour, Trudeau wrapped up the Peking portion of his visit by signing the trade agreement, visiting the Forbidden City, talking for more than an hour with Chairman Mao and shopping with his wife Margaret in a downtown department store. And the final event was a huge banquet given by Trudeau for his Chinese hosts.

"We do not accept—in identical fashion all aspects of today's world," he told the grand banquet in the Great Hall of the People. "With our distinct histories, geographies and cultures, it is inconceivable that we could see eye to eye on all issues—but we do agree on the fundamentals: the need for world peace, and the equally fundamental need for each country to determine their own fate and design their own future."

Trudeau and Premier Chou En-lai formally signed an agreement on trade, a document that is certain to increase trade between the two countries, and Trudeau ministers revealed that a number of other agreements have been reached which will result in a greatly stepped-up exchange of individuals between Canada and China. Canadian officials were enthusiastic about talks which, they said, will create a whole series of new bonds between the two countries.

The effect of the general trade agreement is to give the "most-favored-nation treatment" to goods travelling between the two countries—that is, good tariff rates. Furthermore there was agreement to establish a joint trade committee which will meet annually, and to promote the interchange of individuals and delegations engaged in trade.

I suggested in particular that consideration be given to the importance of cooperation in forestry and agriculture," Trudeau said in a statement. It was agreed that detailed trade discussions might begin quickly on forestry products, pulp, and that further talks should be held in relation to sale of the Canadian wheat.

There were a series of agreements on the exchange of individuals. Next April, Canada will send a nine-member delegation here for a month to learn about acupuncture. And in September, a nine-member Chinese medical team, in groups of three, will go to Canada to study neurophysiology, organ transplants and the artificial kidney. Two Chinese scientists will go to McGill University in Montreal for a month under the Reitaree lecture-ship program, and plans will be made for a five-member Chinese team to go to Canada about January, 1975, to demonstrate acupuncture.

In addition, delegations of Canadian scientists will come here in the near coal mining by hydraulic power, fisheries, forestry and pest control, while Chinese scientists will go to Canada to study laser research, seismology, fisheries, forestry and coal mining by open-cast methods.

China also agreed in principle to open a Canadian air agency overseas and to an exhibition of Canadian paintings which will receive an exhibition of Chinese historic relics in Canada. Plans for these were by Trudeau today as he was the morning walking through the Forbidden Palace in famous Forbidden City.

After his tour, the prince met later and his wife stopped downtown with few follows picking up a bamboo baby carriage—Mrs. Trudeau is months pregnant—for the colorful baby jacket for $2. The prime minister also bought a 10-cent Chinese toy.

When the prime minister the shore 20 minutes later, streets were jammed curious spectators. After a Mrs. Trudeau began off at her performance Friday the appeared fresh and as she moved around Peking day.

The prime minister's meeting with Chairman Mao—an event Canadian officials had earnestly hoped for—came late in the other he had concluded his talks with Premier Chou. It followed a news conference Trudeau scheduled for several hours fore his farewell banquet.

'Very Trivial Man' Agnew Description

Mr. Agnew was followed Hum and John Connally.

"If it's John Connally, we'll have to fight it as hard as we can in both houses," he said.

Mr. Carbonell, a prominent Democrat, said that Mr. Connally has been "assigned the close for all to many years with too many members of the Texas tax drop-out club."

Texasgulf Takeover Successful

TORONTO (CP) — Canada Development Corp. (CDC) has pulled off its most ambitious coup to date, buying what amounted to a 30-per-cent interest in Texasgulf Inc. and effective management control.

Moving quickly after extended court delays, CDC spent $240 million Friday to get about $.275,000 shares from United States shareholders of the multi-national mining and chemical concern.

This fell short of the corporation's goal of 10 million shares at $20 a share set out in its original purchase offer in late July and continued through two court battles that held up consumation ot any sale.

The final purchase offer by CDC, owned by the Canadian government, ran out at 5 p.m. Friday. Any shares tendered before Oct. 5 and not withdrawn by that time would be purchased at $20, the corporation said.

The 8,275,000 shares tendered before Oct. 5 and not withdrawn by the close of business last Wednesday, Oct. 10, were snapped up by the CDC early Thursday after a U.S. appeals court in New Orleans had dissolved a temporary order blocking the sale.

Legal Aid Fees Up $2 Million

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General Dalton Bales said Friday the recent increase in fees paid to lawyers under the legal-aid plan would cost an additional $2 million in the next fiscal year.

Mr. Bales, replying in the legislature to James Renwick (NDP—Toronto Riverdale), said projected costs to absorb the increase from last Sept. 1 to March 31, 1974, when the current fiscal year ends were $750,000.

Mr. Bales said the government hopes the new fee structure will mean improved service to legal aid clients.

200 Laid Off

AJAX, Ont. (CP) — A spokesman for Chrysler Canada Ltd.'s plant here said Friday that 1,200 workers would be laid off from 1 a.m. today because of a shortage of parts created by a walkout strike at a company plant in New Castle, Ind.

Dave Jolly, labor relations representative, said he does not know how long the shutdown will last at the plant just east of Toronto.

Uuderground Museum

TORONTO (CP) — Metro's subway station at Avenue Road and Bloor Street soap soon serve as an extension of the nearby Royal Ontario Museum. Officials at the museum have been conferring with TTC commissioners about the possibility of displaying museum articles in the subway. It is hoped the station can be transformed into something similar to the Louvre station on the Paris subway where statues, paintings and other art works are displayed.

74 Seek Status As Immigrants

They'll work through until midnight Monday at the Immigration office in Belleville.

That's the deadline — to a precise second — for illegal immigrants to register with Canadian immigration authorities.

It's a program that's created a steady work stream Immigration centre since the scheme began across Canada Aug. 15, says officer-in-charge, Jim Staveley.

To Friday, 74 men and women had voluntarily presented their cases, for being granted official landed immigrant status in Belleville, said Mr. Speck.

In addition there's been the succession of phone calls from people suddenly seeking reassurance about citizenship status.

The phone, says Mrs. Speck, "Sometimes has been driving us crazy."

The Belleville office covers Hastings, Prince Edward and Northumberland counties — an area which has a "fairly large ethnic cross-section" for its size," says the official.

The program announced by Manpower and Immigration Minister Robert Andras in a bid to tidy up Canada's backlog of non-registered immigrants — a drive which has been interpreted as part of a clearing-house operation in the evaluation of tighter immigration policies.

(Until recently,Canada was one of the few countries — perhaps the only one — visitors could decide to stay then later request legal (Immigrant status).

Up to Friday 67,300 persons out their documents had been processed through 32 local offices across Canada, by their time 4,300 had been granted legal status, 1,500 had been rejected and 31,400 requested "more information" from the department.

Mr. Staveley thinks it has brought out people having varying degrees of sophistication — and cases.

There was, he says, the prostitute and other hookers who've been working the streets of ship back in the states and have worked as a result of the publicity of the Immigration drive.

There was the man who came to Canada as an illegal immigrant some years old — and married a registered nurse.

There's the elderly lady from Ireland who's been living with a family for years.

I think a lot of the cases are straight forward and could be dealt with by mail," says Mr. Staveley, decided to come in person to see how it worked for myself. It has so far worked out very well."

Mr. Staveley says Mr. Andras said the deadline will be extended only in other Mississippi, but the fact will be rigorously enforced. "If they're immigrants the day after the deadline, they're illegal immigrants," he declared.

Girl Assaulted On Victoria Ave.

A 16-year-old Belleville girl was assaulted by an unknown man on the wooded lower section of Victoria Ave. between Chatham St. and Bridge St. early Thursday.

The girl was walking home from a friend's house when she was grabbed from behind, thrown to the ground and sexually assaulted.

Police Chief Douglas Crosbie reported that the girl had been beaten about the face and head by her assailant. She was taken by police to Belleville General Hospital where she was reported to have suffered a possible broken jaw.

Chief Crosbie has asked anyone who might have been in the area at the time or who might have clues to the identity of the man to contact the police immediately. Anonymous calls will be accepted.

Committee Seeking Jobs For Idle Cement Workers

A special committee is at work seeking job alternatives for the many workers facing idleness as Canada Cement Lafarge enters the final shutdown phases at its Point Anne plant.

The government team initiated with federal advice — is drawn from company management and labor officials.

But it's headed by an outsider — with inside expertise on job relocation problems: Jim Staveley, recently-retired Canada Manpower official in Belleville.

Mr. Staveley was unanimously chosen chairman by the officials hoping to soften the economic blow to some 140 jobless when Point Anne finally closes its doors next 30 years, Oct. 31.

The shutdown plant is being replaced by a highly-automated facility which both jobs and job-retraining will be twin thrusts of the committee's mandate, says Justment rule.

After it's first meeting — with Canada Manpower consultants — Mr. Staveley said Friday that others had registered on the work-hunt list.

He was both optimistic and urgent about the committee's tasks.

The shutdown comes as economic activity traditionally heads for winter slackoff and "it's imperative we find work alternatives for these men as quickly as possible," said Mr. Staveley.

However, new industrial activity in the Belleville-Trenton area could be promising factors, he added.

Also, he already has made one contract which benefits workers willing to relocate elsewhere, he revealed.

For Mr. Staveley, the shutdown is the second time in three years he's been involved with the closing of a major industry in Belleville. He was assigned to the Canada Manpower office here when the Bata shoe factory closed its doors in 1970.

International Nickel is very interested in any of the workers who want to go to Thompson, Lake Manitoba, Mr. Staveley said. Thompson is a community of 18,000, a 2½ miles north of Winnipeg. Inco employs 1,800 there.

Mr. Staveley said he has been authorized by the committee to establish a personnel office in Belleville to counsel and help the laid-off cement workers, said Mr. Staveley.

He said many Point Anne workers have already left the area, in search of employment elsewhere, especially in the local job category.

And the committee, he said, will be working on behalf of Mr. Staveley, who has been appointed by Canada Manpower to head the committee.

The committee was formed by Canada Cement Lafarge, Canada Manpower, the Energy Department and the Ontario government when major local industry closes.

Other committee members are E.M. Lawrence, Canada Cement Lafarge; Lorne Johnson, Canada Manpower; Lubor Spilkovsky, president of Local 205 United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers, and Harold Richards, Local 205 president.

Bottles Needed

BELLEVILLE — Jaycees Chamber of Bottlemen will be operating a bottle drive here and in Picton Oct. 20-21, Mayor Garnet Rose announced Monday. Proceeds from the project will go towards purchase of seats for the judo class.

Minister Backs Food Growers

By COLIN BRUCE

TRENTON — Federal minister of agriculture Eugene Whelan in Trenton yesterday last night to the problem of lowering consumer cost but still ensuring adequate financial return to the grower.

Mr. Whelan was the guest speaker at a meeting of the Prince Edward Hastings Liberal Association.

For the most part subsidies have been the federal tool to ease costs; blind between the producer and the market place.

"It's against my philosophy to give subsidies," said Mr. Whelan. He explained his milk subsidy bill as a "temporary arrangement" as prices are expected to level off." He made no comment when asked if Canadian taxpayers weren't paying for the milk bill through increased income taxation to provide subsidy funds.

Although Mr. Whelan appealed to the crowd by his study plugging at increased rural benefits, one he clad is T-shirt and suspenders called out "that's a fine government Lewis is running."

I challenge, anyone to name a country that takes better care of its people than we do," he said. "I humbly say, we've done an amazing job."

To keep farmers in business Mr. Whelan said his government is investigating ways of fixing a floor price for feed grains or a "guarantee the bottom will not fall out of the market in time of surplus through over-production."

A seven-year "guarantee" has been given to wheat producers.

He said an important step by the government was to do away with the capital gains tax levied on children taking over family farms, an attempt to keep people on the farm.

Low-interest loans are made available for the purchase of buildings, equipment and general expansion. Some 44 per cent of these loans have been made to farmers 25 years and younger, a good sign of youth staying in the business, said Mr. Whelan.

United Way Fund Reaches $32,580

The United Way community fund campaign is ending its second week in Belleville with $32,580 already invested in crusties and pledges.

The drive — which centralises contribution to various community agencies — lasts through October and now is at the halfway mark in its campaign to attain $100,000.

"We're now beginning to receive donations from industrial sessions — some of whom had not been canvassed until this week," says United Way campaign chairman Elmer Sisson.

Meantime contributions from industry, education, public service and financial sectors of the community are considerably above "last years" total at this time.

Small businesses now are being approached, Mrs. Sisson urges canvassers already have donations to return them to campaign headquarters "quickly as possible."

"The public likes to know how we are doing," she said, and if we can tell them results we can't tell them accurately."

Imported Harvesters Curtailed

TRENTON — According to federal minister of agriculture Eugene Whelan steps are being taken to cut back the number of imported fruit harvesters who migrate to Canada each year to bring in the crop.

Imported workers came here this fall, a record 6,000 strong despite local unemployment figures.

The ministry of agriculture and the ministry of manpower and immigration is meeting with the provinces on farm a plan that will entice local unemployed into agricultural work.

Mr. Whelan, speaking at a meeting of the Prince Edward Hastings Liberal Association, said wages were the factor.

Workers imported largely from the Caribbean are supplied with transportation, lodging in some cases, and a six day week at the minimum wage.

Mr. Whelan was quick to point out that ordering someone to work on a farm is not the government's responsibility, but if a crew an emergency beat that is called out dozens of times each summer.

The 160-foot metal craft was bought through public donations which in turn were administered by the Chamber of Commerce. The Chamber later presented the craft to the fire department.

"We're handy here, being right on the river," said Chief Cecil Ellis.

Each man on the force is trained in safety procedures.

The boat, as all the fire department's equipment, is on display at the five hall fire week in commemoration of Fire Prevention Week.

Firemen Use Boat

TRENTON — The fire department here makes the Trent a safer river to play on.

As an extra service, which does not technically come under the department's responsibilities, a fire crew as emergency boat that is called out dozens of times each summer.

Crash Injures Woman

BRIGHTON — A Don Mills woman was transferred to Belleville General hospital saturday following a single-car crash on Highway 401, three miles east of Brighton.

Edith Sweetnie, 38, was driving east along Highway 401 when her car went out of control and rolled over to the ditch. She was taken by ambulance to Trenton Memorial Hospital and then transferred to hospital in Toronto.

The extent of her injuries was undetermined prior to going hospital. She is believed to have suffered fractures.

The accident, which occurred at 7:45 p.m. caused an estimated $1,500 damages.

Alarm Box

The Belleville fire department responded to the following calls during the 24 hour period ending at 8 a.m. Saturday: Oct. 13.

Oct. 11, 8.38 a.m. fire in kitchen pantry. Minimal damage, 199 Cedar St.

Same Pay For Play

If women want to be equal with men they shouldn't expect special favors.

That is the attitude of city Recreation and Arena Committee member Jean Guthrie, she says that female hockey players should expect to pay the same arena fee rental as their male counterparts.

At Wednesday's committee meeting a letter from the Belleville Senior Ladies' Hockey team was on the agenda asking the committee to consider a reduction their ice rental rate from the present $21 to $17 an hour. The letter indicated the team was preparing for the playing season and was finding it difficult to make expenses.

Staff recommendation was for the ice rental to be reduced for the ladies but committee member Mrs. Guthrie disagreed, saying the women should be treated equal with the men.

The ladies, however, will get slightly less ice time than the men.

If they can't make ends meet, the committee will consider adjusting their ice rental rate.

Two Killed Near Napanee

The Napanee detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police is investigating two fatalities following seperate accidents in the district early this morning.

Dead are Graham Ronald Friendship, 20, of RR2 Second Street, Desoronto, and Gary Nelson Winkle, 18, of RR 1 Enterprise, Camden Township.

Graham Friendship was killed shortly after midnight when the car he was driving failed to negotiate a curve on County Road 11, about four miles east of the junction of County Road 11 and Highway 41.

The Friendship car was travelling on County Road 11 when it left the road and rolled to the south ditch, throwing the driver from the car.

Gary Winkle was killed when he was struck by a car while walking west on the east side of County Road 14, one mile west of the junction of County Roads 14 and 4. The accident occurred around 2 a.m.

Police have not yet released the names of the driver of the car.

Milk-Best Buy Going

Federal agriculture minister Eugene Whelan, who is currently pushing a milk bill through the Commons, samples the Quinte district's product at a Liberal party banquet in Trenton last night. With him is local association president, Tony Dalcar.

Local Liberals Favor Nixon as Party Leader

TRENTON — Liberal delegates scarred by earlier battles are supporting Bob Nixon, but party new blood are backing Ron Ellis as leader in the race for the provincial leadership, according to party member Dr. Wilson.

Dr. Wilson, one of 16 men who form the Liberal executive committee, made this announcement Friday night at a special banquet for federal ministry of agriculture Eugene Whelan.

If Dr. Wilson's analysis of the leadership race is correct, "a slight majority favoring incumbent Nixon, will keep him for another battle.

Mr. Nixon's Liberals have twice failed to gain ground on the Conservatives of Toronto is a good alternative, says Dr. Wilson.

"He has style and his philosophy of decentralization," said Dr. Wilson, a resident of Cobourg.

"I think he has a judgement on who will stand the best chance.

The question of leadership is the hottest question at the time, he said. Whoever he is, he will have the complete support of the party.

Mr. Whelan refused to personally back any of the provincial leadership contenders but did say Mr. Nixon had all the qualities — he just needs to be a little bit tougher."

Education Beat

Indian Studies In the Way?

The push to revive Mohawk culture is putting students from Tyendinaga Reserve at an education disadvantage.

That's the contention of Sylvia Maracle, a Tyendinaga Mohawk now in grade 13 at a Belleville school.

She claims general education on reserve schools is substandard because of the low emphasis on Indian arts and crafts and language.

The school day is divided in half, with the mornings devoted to standard subjects. But the afternoon hours are totally devoted to Indian studies.

"Indian studies to some degree are necessary in all schools, not just those on the reserve," says Sylvia. But she thinks time spent on Indian studies in elementary schools is excessive and puts Indian students at an academic disadvantage when they graduate to Belleville high schools.

"With the foundations of their education beginning like this, how can they be expected to compete in offreserve employment and educational institutions?" she asks.

Sylvia has two questions to direct to Indian parents. "If you want your child to speak Mohawk, why don't you speak it at home?"

And "Why, after 60 years neglect, have you got this thing to revive the culture?"

While Sylvia has a sentimental regard for the Mohawk language, she says there is no place to use it off-reserve and too much time is spent on its study.

The life-style on the reserve is still inhibiting for those who want to get a higher education and practise a profession, she says. Although the federal government offers free university education to qualified Indians, too few take advantage of the chance. They appear to settle for a grade 12 diploma, a trade or an office job.

But the emphasis on Indian culture is only one part of the problem. The department of Indian affairs doesn't help with its policy of offering trade jobs and public works employment on the reserve — at comparatively high salaries and low work expectancy.

Young Indians are too often tempted to forsake education for short-term government contracts, she says.

Furthermore, Indian students avoid mixing with white students in high school.

"The reasons that give us comparatively high white students in high school range from prejudices to cultural differences."

Indian students can't really be expected to take the blame for this situation, which is probably almost entirely the fault of the white majority in the schools.

Sylvia first printed her views this summer in a weekly newspaper. She expected a storm of criticism. Instead, she found most natives who cared to comment were in agreement with her.

"But they don't seem to think they can do anything about it," shrugs Sylvia.

Mets Take On A's

World Series Opener Is Today

OAKLAND (AP) — New York Mets began testing their home little mistake on Oakland today as the World Series opened with a battle of left-handers, Jon Matlack for the visitors and Jim Holtzman for the Athletics.

"You gotta believe!" was the slogan the Mets used to cheer themselves from last place to first in the final months of the season and then past Cincinnati Reds in the playoffs for the National League championship.

Even some of the Athletics feared the believers. Holtzman, for example, remembered the Mets as no pushovers from his days as a pitcher with Chicago Cubs.

"If I had to pick one club in the National League which gave me the most trouble, I would have to say it was the Mets," said Holtzman, one of three 20-game winners on the Oakland staff. He lost nine of 15 decisions against the Mets this year while with Chicago.

The Mets are a good ball club with a super pitching staff," said Reggie Jackson.

Critics of people take them lightly because of their so-so record but if you don't, they'll shove your head off like they did to the Reds."

The Mets' record was 83-79 but it said good enough to win the National League East title. It is the worst record ever carried into a World Series.

Matlack, 13-9 during regular season, can't start. Davis is ready to pot veteran Willie Mays in the lineup.

Both teams need to use set-handers in the first two games in Oakland. Mets' Jerry Koosman against Vida Blue in the second game of the best-of-seven series Sunday.

That left the respective aces of the staffs—Tom Seaver of the Mets and Jim (Catfish) Hunter of the Athletics—to square off in other in Tuesday night's third game in New York. Seaver and Hunter were the winners as the Mets and Athletics won their league titles in the 1969 playoff games against Cincinnati and Baltimore.

The Athletics are in the series for the second straight year. The American League champs lost Cincinnati in a close, seven-game showdown in 1970. The Mets' only other Series appearance was in 1969 when they disposed of Baltimore in five.

It can remember 1969 like it was yesterday," said shortstop Bud Harrelson, one of 12 current Mets who played on that championship team. "If we play this Series like we played that one, we'll be all right."

The A's have changed quite a few faces since their Series triumph last October. A dozen players dotted on the 1972 25-man roster are nursing their psychoses elsewhere.

Today's game, beginning at 4 p.m. EDT, was scheduled to be televised on the CBC national network. Sunday's contest is scheduled to start at 4:30 p.m. also to be shown on CBC.

Rauch Praises Tiger-Cats

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Argonauts coach John Rauch has shown once again that when a coach praises the opposition before a game, it's not because he thinks the other team is better.

Almost any football coach will tell you not to ridicule the opposition just before a game for fear it'll backfire on them.

Rauch's Argos spent their most hated rival, Hamilton Tiger-Cats, here Sunday and should be fevered to win the Big.

Argos had the Eastern Football Conference with the wins and ties Ticats trail the conference with five wins and three ties.

But Rauch made it plain he respects the Ticats and believes they will be tough to beat in Sunday's match, starting at 2 p.m. EDT. "Hamilton will be going flat out to win to stay in there and a win here can send drop us well back," Rauch said.

The Argo coach picked out more than a couple players he regards as special threats to an Argo victory.

He called Hamilton flanker Garney Healey "a remarkable athlete—his performances stays in all."

Healey has caught 31 passes this season for 509 yards. Toronto flanker Mike Eben has caught 34 passes for 521 yards.

Rauch mentioned Ticat tight end Tony Gabriel leads the East in pass receiving.

Gabriel has caught 25 passes for 462 yards. Toronto's other leading receiver, Eric Allen, has caught 23 for 679 yards.

And Rauch tabbed quarterback Chuck Ealey "dangerous.

Chargers Meet Raiders Sunday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Forty-year-old Johnny Unitas hadn't thought much about his 18th season as National Football League passing leader and 23-year-old Dan Fouts doesn't look at it.

But when San Diego Chargers go on offence Sunday against Oakland, Unitas, the veteran Fouts on the field and Dallas on the bench.

Chargers coach Harland Svare announced his decision Friday.

"Dallas needs a rest," said Svare. "He can play, but he is sore.

Svare is sore too. The Chargers have won just two of six games. Unitas threw nine passes against Pittsburgh last week, completing two to his team-mates and two to the Steelers.

He left in the second quarter with San Diego trailing 24-0. Unitas, a second draft choice out of Oregon, has an 11 of 21 record for 171 yards in the two games, half racking up 21 points in the process.

"My quarterback is not the only problem here on the San Diego beat. Offensive coach Jim Schneider quit this week and was replaced by George Dickerson. Fouts is grumbling in the backfield.

Cid Edwards and Clint Jones are Svare's choice as halfbacks which leaves an unhappy Willie Garrett on the bench.

"I think this may be permanent," he said.

The Raiders, 3-2, also are going with a young quarterback in place of the veteran. Ken Stabler has sent Daryle Lamonica to the sidelines, for the time being anyway.

The Raiders, with Stabler at the helm, rallied for a 24-20 total offence against St. Louis Cardinals last week—the club's best offensive effort since 1970.

Other games on Sunday's schedule: Dallas at Los Angeles, Minnesota at San Francisco, Pittsburgh at Cleveland, Kansas City at Green Bay in Milwaukee, Baltimore at Buffalo, Washington meets New York Giants in New Haven, Conn., Philadelphia at St. Louis, Detroit at New Orleans, Chicago at Atlanta, New York Jets visit New England and Houston at Miami.

Miami visits Cleveland in the Monday night game.

Dallas quarterback Roger Staubach, knocked out of Monday night game against Washington with a leg injury, is expected to start against undefeated Los Angeles.

Minnesota, also 4-0, faces a San Francisco team which has running backs Larry Schreiber and Ken Willard sidelined with injuries. John Brodie still hasn't thrown a touchdown pass for the 49ers.

The Steelers, the NFL's other undefeated club, have scored more points and allowed fewer than anyone else in their conference. Pittsburgh have had five starters to injuries.

Western Playoff Spots Undecided

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The scrambling for the last trouble and will be hard playoff spot is shaping up as pressed to hold off the powerful the most interesting battle in Eastern Football Conference. B.C. will be without their defence and action this weekend is greatest offensive threat in full-crucial to the outcome.

Edmonton Eskimos and Sas-backfield Joe Zuger.

katchewan Roughriders are Harris, released last week, has Winnipeg Blue Bombers, who proven that much talent is not travelled to Vancouver Thursday for a 47-point romp over Edmonton Friday, can clinch a playoff berth with a victory Saturday.

But Calgary Stampeders have also thrown their hats into the ring. Calgary has 16 points on five defensive back. Beamer was wins and seven losses, three-and-to the roster Friday following the tournament. His 36-hole total on the 7,187-yard, par-71 Sobu Country Club course was 141.

The Riders, going into their match to be for special attention Sunday game in Winnipeg this time around.

against the Blue Bombers, have won three of their last four outings, including a 38-20 victory over Winnipeg Nov. 6 and gives the Bombers an out-24 day night in Vancouver.

But Calgary Stampeders have also thrown an insecure hold on third place Bomber coach Jim Spavital with the Lions and Blue Bomb-also plans to use former Hamilton Tiger-Cat Tim Beamer as backup to Zuger.

Calgary has 16 points on five defensive back. Beamer was more points than the Bombers-losing the release of defensive end Lions who share the cellar-safety Grady Canvese.

with only three wins and a tie Saskatchewan is virtually in-jury free although punt-return specialist Jim Walker, who also their work out out for them in plays defence, has a bruised rangling with the West's two top muscle in his leg.

Winnipeg and B.C. both have perfect 4-0 records in challenge of their own in playoff-ing the tough Ottawa Rough Riders in Calgary Sunday.

Calgary Coach Jim Duncan probably will go the safe route with quarterback Peter Liske who has an injured knee.

The Stampeders also could be missing two top defensive players, middle linebacker Steve Brown and tackle Fred James.

Ottawa reports only minor serious injury to quarterback Jerry Keeling who has his ribs taped. Rick Worman likely will get the starting assignment.

The Eskimos have lost their last three games in Empire Stadium.

Pistons Have New Angle

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The way coach Cotton Fitzsimmons of Atlanta Hawks sees it, Detroit Pistons have a new angle on making something of the home court advantage in National Basketball Association games.

"Detroit has a fine club, they'll probably win their division," Fitzsimmons said after losing to the Pistons 122-106 Friday night in Detroit. "They'll win 40 more home games and nobody else can play on this floor.

Fitzsimmons filed an official protest of the game after watching Detroit's second-year forward, scored 43 for the Squires.

Lanier led the Pistons with 28 points.

Paul Silas led Boston with 21 points and Dave Cowens had 20. Bob McAdoo scored 25 for Buffalo.

Rudy Tomjanovich sparked the Rockets with 22 points, NBA's leading scorer last year—scored 29 to pace the Kings.

In the American Basketball Association, Julius Erving led 38 points as New York Nets defeated Virginia Squires 116-106. George Carter, the second-year

Carter scored 41 points and Mack Calvin had 30 as Carolina Cougars edged Indiana Pacers 99-98, Kentucky Colonels beat Memphis Pros 111-106, Utah Stars downed San Antonio Spurs 94-87 and Memphis Tams defeated San Diego Conquistadors 118-113.

Centre Tom Owens scored a career-high 31 points to pace the Squires to victory. Jimmy Neumann picked up 22 points, including 13 in the final period, to lead the losers and goal with Chamberlain's home debut as coach.

Sands Running Out For Black Men

OAKLAND (AP) — The sands are running out on black men aspiring to the role of major league baseball manager and the blacks are much to blame, says an old-time Negro player.

"Not since the days of Jackie Robinson have we had a black player who really relates to the people," said Joe Black, a bus company executive from Pine stiz, Ariz., head to pitch for the Brooklyn Dodgers.

"Even black fans have begun to take the blacks for granted, and nothing is done about it. Take pro basketball. Willis Reed and Walt Frazier are always going to the neighborhoods and fraternizing with the kids. Football players do the same thing.

"But the baseball guys? They say, 'Okay, how much money is in it for me?'"

Black—who played for Elite Giants in the old Negro League before moving into organized baseball via Montreal Royals, the old farm system of the Dodgers, and then with Brooklyn and Cincinnati—said he thought Junior Gilliam, an old Dodger teammate now a coach with Los Angeles Dodgers, would have had a manager's job long ago.

"But Walt Alston, I see, just signed another one - year contract," Black said. "Gilliam has been with the team through both Alston—21 years now—and waiting for the big break. He might as well quit thinking about it."

Black, a physical education teacher, said of all the black prospects, Gilliam possesses the best credentials for a manager's job.

"I remember when we got two bucks apiece for playing a game in the Negro Leagues, Gilliam would borrow my money to go to the stadium to watch every move Robinson made and he'd study the hitters by the hour.

"He knows as much baseball as any man I know—black or white — and he has the toughness and the tenacity for demanding respect that it takes to be a leader."

Black said he regarded Frank Robinson as the next-best-qualified black managerial prospect.

"But when is he going to get a chance? Time is running out."

Black said Willie Mays, retired baseball star as a New York Giants, former Chicago Cubs' star, are too outgoing for the job.

"Can you imagine either one chewing out a guy for carousing all night?" he said. "Bobby Banks has been shuffled off to a job in the Mets' farm system. He might as well pull out, too."

Black had these other assessments:

Of Elston Howard, former Yankee catcher, now mentioned as a possible replacement for Ralph Houk: "I don't think Ellie has ever had to consider himself one of the blacks, anyway. He didn't mingle with us much."

Of Larry Doby, the first black to play in the American League and now a coach at Montreal Expos: "He'd be okay, but his wife wouldn't let him. Too much stress."

Of Maury Wills, the ex-Dodger now a broadcaster: "He could be a good coach or a good manager until I heard him talk on television. Now I don't."

Keystone Todd Wins Feature

ST. CATHARINES, Oct. (CP) — Keystone Todd took the lead entering the backstretch and held off a strong bid from Colonial Boy to win the $3,000 pace Friday's featured sixth race at Garden City Raceway.

The photo finish showed Keystone Todd finishing a head in front of Colonel Angus. Mosaby Hanover was third, three lengths back while Big Bret, the early leader, finished fifth.

Keystone Todd paid $15.38, $7.80 and $3.30.

A daily-double combination of Niagara Cougar in the first race and Ragin Cajun in the second paid $92.80.

Exactor payoffs were $81.80 for H.A.'s Pigs and Pearls Dominion in the fourth, $108.80 for Keystone Todd and Colonel Angus in the sixth and $2.30 for Popular Bennie and Tuxedo Tide in the seventh.

A crowd of 4,636 wagered $308,324.

All-Ontario to Westlane

FONTHILL, Ont. (CP) — Westlane secondary school of Niagara Falls by the margin of larger brothers—Steve and Kevin—and Brian Kimmich, won the all-Ontario high school golf championship Friday with an aggregate score of 313.

The strokes were based on the best three scores managed by four-man teams from 27 high schools in the province that entered the one-day 18-hole event at Lookout Point golf club.

Steve Pellinger's 77 was the best individual score posted followed by Kimmich's 78. He was tied with Bob Chisholm of Leamington District for second place in the individual series.

Mike McBride and Paul Golding, each with 79, helped Westlane to their team victory. Riverside took second place in the teams' competition with a 326 score, 13 strokes behind the leaders.

Third place in the team event with 330 was Lord Elgin secondary school of Burlington.

Kevin Pellinger turned in a 77 for the Westlane team and was the low-all-one stroke ahead of Rob Sokoloski of Toronto's Don Mills Collegiate and Mark Seguin of Kirkland Lake.

PLAGER DEMOTED

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minnesota North Stars said Friday they have sent goalie Tom Hirsch and defencemen Bill Plager to their minor league affiliate in Haven in the American Hockey League. General manager Wren Blair said both players will be used as much as possible to prepare them for another possible recall by the National Hockey League team.

Screaming Eagles Take Second Win In As Many Starts

By ALAN TEBWORTH
Sports Staff

The Belleville Screaming Eagles last night picked up their second win in as many starts as they downed the Welland Warehawks by a 5-3 score in a game which featured outstanding goaltending at both ends of the ice.

Eagles' goaltender Clyde Harris blocked 37 shots in the Belleville n e t to record the win, while Sandy Hale in the Welland net stopped 30 of the shots fired at him by the Belleville team.

The first period, went as planned by Eagles' coach Larry Hughes, as the Belleville team forced Welland into many mistakes.

Hale made his first big save of the night off Wayne Weller with about seven minutes gone, as Weller fired a shot from about 20 feet out in the slot that Hale grabbed from the upper corner of the net.

Harris followed suit, coming up with four saves in a row from the crease area.

Roy Campbell opened the scoring in the game for Belleville as he took a rink-wide pass from Weller at the Welland blue-line, and put a shot in off the inside of Hale's leg.

Weller had carried the puck up from behind his own blue-line to set up the pass.

Weller scored the second goal of the game, and his first of two at 17:36 of the first period, as he drilled a low hard shot in the corner of Hale's net after a pass from John McConnell.

Charlie Convery, the Eagles' captain, received an early shower in the first, as he protested too strongly an offside call, receiving ten minutes and plus misconducts for his efforts.

With Belleville losing up in the second period, Dwight Bettle put Welland on the scoreboard at 2:33 of the stanza. He took a perfect pass from Brian Law, and slipped the puck past Hicks on his long side.

The Eagles continued to get the good scoring chances, though, with the line of Ferguson, Weller and John McConnell causing the closest, on several occasions.

Bob Green tied the score for Welland at the 9:11 mark of the period,as he scored from a scrumpble in front of the Belleville net, with Gerry Roussell and Darrylc Sonmarville receiving assists.

Al Ferguson put Eagles back ahead at 15:38, as he scored a beautiful goal with an assist by Weller.

Ferguson, after taking the pass from Weller, faked past two Welland defenders and fired a hard wrist shot past Hale.

However, Dave Green tied the game for Welland again, as he cashed in a power-play goal at 18:09. Green pushed the puck under a falling Harris for the score.

The third period was again a well played period of hockey, with Welland playing into Eagles' coach Hughes' game plan.

The Belleville squad at the same, time were receiving solid performances from all the players, especially Jim Blastfront on defence, and the line of Mike Wall, John Gravelle, and Chuck Porte.

Weller scored the winner for Eagles at 12:38 of the period, as he placed a perfect shot in the lower right hand corner past Hale. Weller had help from Ray Johnston who carried the puck from his own blue-line to the Welland corner, from where he gave Weller the pass.

18 seconds later, Ferguson put the game on ice with an insurance goal from the edge of the crease on a seemingly innocent enough of a shot.

After taking a pass from Greg Burkitt at the blue-line, Ferguson deaded in and let the weak shot go, which appeared to fool Hale completely.

1621 people saw the game last night at the Arena last night. Tonight the Eagles travel to Cambridge (formerly Galt) to take on the Hornets in the first road game for the locals.

BMHA Set for Season

By AUSTIN WATKIN

Belleville's largest volunteer sports organization is about ready to launch another season. Close to 300 volunteers are now geared to get the 1973-74 Belleville Minor Hockey Association under way.

Most of the paper work has been done. This task involved spending hours studying rules and making necessary changes; dividing the house league into 88 teams; getting sponsors for each team plus 10 all-star teams.

Referee-in-chief

Lee Williams is busy lining up about 60 referees to officiate in house league games. There are some of the preparations that must be taken care of before the first games are played.

October 16 at Ben Bleecker Auditorium, the coaches meeting will be held, at 7.30 p.m. The new rules will be explained to the coaches and they will be given their player lists by the conveners.

Coaches must then contact their players and acquaint them with the game times.

Information on the Rotary Skatathon will also be distributed at the coaches meeting. The Skatathon will be held November 4-5-10.

Last year, minor hockey did very well from this project. A new standings board at each arena was installed with money from the skatathon.

All-star teams start their new season this weekend in a new Triple A league that has Oshawa, Peterborough and Kingston as the other members.

Top notch competition is expected for the Belleville teams in this league and coaches have been busy getting their squads prepared.

Some 1,500 boys are registered in the minor hockey program this year.

Minor and peewee house leagues are scheduled to open October 20.

WAS SOCCER ACE

BLACKPOOL, England (CP) — A former English soccer star, Harry Johnston, died in hospital Friday. He was 54. Johnston was a centre half in 19 international games between 1947 and 1954 and captained Blackpool in the famous F.A. English Cup final win over Bolton in 1953. That game marked the retirement of Blackpool's Sir Stanley Matthews who inspired the winners to three late goals.

Seals Upset Hawks

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Early in October when California Golden Seals began training in Kingston, Ont., coach Fred Glover hoped his team would show improvement in the National Hockey League this season.

"We'll be much better on attack alone," said Glover, also executive vice-president and general manager of the club.

"We can cope with him after two games!"

The Seals moved to an unbeaten position Friday night, first place in the West Division, with a 3-2 decision over Chicago Black Hawks, their second straight victory in the young season. Wednesday night, the Seals edged St. Louis Blues 2-1.

Another game Friday, Philadelphia Flyers beat Vancouver Canucks 4-2.

League action resumes tonight with Vancouver at Montreal, Toronto at Detroit, New York Rangers at Pittsburgh, Philadelphia at Buffalo, New York Islanders, Boston at Detroit, Buffalo at Minnesota and Atlanta at St. Louis.

Sunday's schedule has Los Angeles visiting the Rangers, the Islanders in Boston, Detroit at Philadelphia, Vancouver at Minnesota and Montreal at Chicago.

Left winger Joey Johnston scored a goal, his second of the season, and picked up two assists Friday night and the Seals walked the Hawks.

California led 2-0 after the first period and increased its lead to 3-0 during the third. One of Chicago's goals was scored by Pit Martin, Mo. 18th in 11 seasons.

The Seals, incidentally, had a team Flames 4-2.

trip and a tie after their first games had given them only their second Oct. 27.

"Last season was a write-off," said Glover when the Vancouver trip ended his team.

"The trouble started between the coach . . . and the owner. When it took over, the players were in a muddle and never got straightened away.

"Now it is a new ball game. The players know where they stand."

The Penguins led the Flames 3-1 after the first period and 5-2 at the end of the second before Atlanta picked up two goals in less than two minutes midway through the final period.

Minnesota, who scored seven times in five games against the Flames in 1973-72, scored the winning goal with 13 seconds remaining in the second period after taking a pass from Lowell MacDonald.

"I just made a deal with the Canucks that I'll play in Vancouver but I just changed a quarter for every pin we bowled down!"

Canucks Want Bonus Back

EDMONTON (CP) — Vancouver Canucks have asked Ketik Mackie to return a $30,000 signing bonus he has already spent on a new home for his parents.

The Canucks asked for the money back after National Hockey League officials ruled that Mackie, a slick, six-foot defenceman, would not be allowed to play in the league because of an eye injury he suffered two years ago.

Mackie, a standout with Edmonton Oil Kings of the Western Canada League last season, was a fourth-round draft choice last June. He signed a three year contract with the Canucks and accepted the signing bonus.

But now he is entangled with a clouded future, taking steps to keep his signing bonus and receive the full payment stipulated in his contract with Vancouver.

Mackie was struck in the eye by a deflected puck in a Memorial Cup game in Ottawa two years ago. A clause in the standard NHL contract prohibits players with inferior vision to play in the NHL or in any minor league sponsored by the NHL.

Fires Hat Trick

Harrison Leads Oilers' Victory

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Jim Harrison and Wayne Connelly don't believe in wasting time, especially where goals and assists are concerned in the World Hockey Association.

The 26-year-old Harrison, who is a WHA rebel, scored 4 of 10 in one game last season, scored three times Friday night as Edmonton Oilers opened their regular-season schedule with a 7-4 win at home over Winnipeg Jets.

Harrison, the leading scorer for the Oilers last year with 57 points including 39 goals, also picked up an assist, while linemate Ron Climie scored once and added three assists.

At Minnesota, the Flighting Saints signed Vancouver-Nanaimo 5-4 with Connelly picking up a goal and three assists last season. Connelly led the Saints in goals and 30 assists in 78 league games.

Eight games are scheduled during the weekend including one between Los Angeles Charlz and Houston Aeros, the first in regular-season play for both clubs.

The Howe family—father Gordie and sons Mark and Marty—will lead the Aeros at Los Angeles tonight. Chicago is at New England this afternoon and Quebec at Cleveland tonight.

In Sunday afternoon games, New England plays New York and Chicago is at Cleveland. Houston plays in Edmonton Sunday night, Vancouver is in Winnipeg and Minnesota visits Toronto.

"Every team in the WHA has improved, especially in our division," said Los Angeles coach Terry Slater. "We just have improved right along with them."

Harrison, native of Bonnyville, Alta., put the insurance pad to the Oilers into action early yet with 22 seconds remaining in the first game as an Oiler, a set up Harreon for the opening goal at 8:17 of the first period.

Climie came from Ottawa Nationals, now Toronto Toros, in a trade for the WHA rights to Darryl Sittler of Toronto Maple Leafs, who has signed with the National Hockey League team.

Norm Beaudin paced Winnipeg with two goals with Bobby Hull and Jiri Hargreaves getting the others before 4,000 fans.

In St. Paul, Minn., the Saints held a 4-1 lead midway through the second period then hung on for their win over the Blazers before 4,386 spectators.

Connelly figured in three power-play goals in the win-ner's 7-3 victory, which featured bench-clearing incident in the third period when Gordie Gallant of the Saints and Jim Caraff of the Blazers tangled.

Coach Harry Neale of the Saints and playing-coach Johnny McKenzie were both Blazers.

Petes' Win Streak At 8

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Gord Duncan's power play goal at 13:58 of the third period gave Peterborough Petes a 7-6 victory Friday over Toronto Marlboros, extending the Petes' unbeaten streak to eight games in Ontario Hockey Association Junior A league play.

It was the fifth loss for Toronto in six starts. Peterborough has seven wins and one tie.

In other OHA Junior A action, Ottawa beat St. Catharines 8-4, London stopped Oshawa 8-2, Sault Ste. Marie edged Kingston 5-4 and Sudbury and Kitchener played to a 4-4 draw.

In Toronto, Duncan got credit for the goal after Marlboro Jim Clarke's clearing pass hit the Peterborough forward and deflected into the net.

Doug Jarvis scored twice for Peterborough, with Jim Tuer, Steve Lacouvee, Stan Jonathane and Bill Eno adding singles.

Toronto goals went to Kevin Devine, Brad Winton, Brian Dillon, Craig Crawford, Barrie Johnston and Bruce Boudreau.

At Ottawa, Tim Young scored three goals in leading the 67s to their 8-2 win in 11 games.

Derek Smith added two. Ottawa goals, with Jim Roberts getting another, Ed Kea scoring goals went to Greg Craig Dave Dennis, Dave Salvian and Wilf Paiement.

London Knights struck early in their contest at Oshawa against Oshawa, scoring three times in the first 11 minutes, and coasting to their fifth straight victory.

Two-goal scorers for the Knights were Roger Lemelin and Paul Hinse, with Terry Martin, Jim Hamilton, Steve Tighe and Dennis Maruk scoring singles.

Dean Neuman and Bob Ferguson replied for Oshawa.

Sudbury scored two goals in the last five minutes before 4,217 hometown fans to gain their tie with the Rangers. Joe Fortunato and Pete Sturgeon scored two goals each for Kitchener, with Geoff Green, Gord Salajchuk, Ron Duguay and Dave Farrish scoring for the Wolves.

Photography Specialty Of Front Street Shop

Signs of Belleville's prosperity and continued growth are evident all along Front Street. But the Photo Chalet, a new addition to the variety and specialty stores to be found there, is indicative of a new trend — a trend toward creative recreation.

Prosperity invariably fosters growth in the amount of leisure time a city's residents have to enjoy and it almost always encourages growth in the creative arts.

Mike Manthorpe and Walter Hunckling, the proprietors of the Photo Chalet, 227 Front Street, are counting on the continued development of Belleville. They see a potentially great market opening up here for the sale and service of photographic equipment and they have, gambled their future on that belief.

Backed by extensive training and experience in the field of photography, both men have worked for several years in the Belleville area. Mike, a photographer who has taught basic and advanced photography throughout Hastings and Prince Edward counties, under the auspices of Loyalist College's extension studies program, has had retail experience at several stores in Belleville, while Walter has four years of training in Germany and 11 years of retail experience behind him.

"The market for photography in Belleville is incredible," says Mike. "In Toronto there has been talk among all the big names in cameras about moving into Belleville and starting up a store that was devoted to just photography."

Walter and I worked together at another photography shop in town and we felt that we could make a go of it on our own. People seem to be devoting more and more of their spare time to hobbies and pastimes that will give them some kind of satisfaction and photography is a good outlet for people with any kind of creative instinct."

The creative urge creates problems for the novice photographer, however, in so far as he can be extremely confused by talk of "f" stops," shutter speed, "fast" film and the like.

Therefore, Walter sees a new role for specialty shops similar to his. He feels that, if these shops are going to cater to a growing clientele who are interested in learning more about photography, then they must provide an informal consulting service for those people who are starting out.

With that idea in mind, the young owners of the Photo Chalet claim they will try to model their business along European lines.

"North Americans are accustomed to take cash and carry type of retail outlet", said Walter. "We would like to change that. We want to create a friendly, home type of atmosphere in which people can come to us for advice as well as cameras and camera equipment."

The Photo Chalet opened Friday, Oct. 12, at 11 a.m.

He brings us together.

While taking some better-than-average steps forward toward success in life.

Your newspaper bursts alive each day from our presses—put together by a whole troop of news people.

This youngster is the one who sees that you get it finally at your doorstep.

Ready to open and enjoy it all.

Your carrier is in business for himself.

A retail business of sorts. Buying his newspapers fresh from us. Selling them in turn to customers like you.

Making on-time deliveries, handling money, keeping records, and making a profit. Our youngster learns what it means to deal with the public and earn his own dollar.

Which seems to us a better-than-average preparation for a young person for responsible life ahead.

And explains why carriers usually are better-than-average students. Better-than-average at sports. Better-than-average.

Besides, year-'round, doing a better-than-average job of bringing us together—for which we extend a special thanks on this International Newspaper Carrier Day. Tell him for us, will you?

Non-natives in East Africa Aware Time Running Out

By ARCH MACKENZIE
HARDBEC, Kenya (CP) — "Here is running ost for East Africa's non-native residents.

"The writing is on the wall," says a European businessman here for nine years and now pondering a move that he feels certain he will have to make in Kenya. But where? Rhodesia or South Africa? Canada, Australia or back to Europe? Few other countries offer the easy, relaxed prosperous good life he has known here.

But for East African Asians, the timetable seems much more urgent as Tanzania and Kenya tighten pressures that have the same target as Gen. Idi Amin of neighboring Uganda, who abruptly ousted all but a handful of the estimated 40,000 Asians, mainly of East India origin, last year.

Monday mornings, there may be 100 prospective immigrants lined up at the Canadian manpower and immigration office established by Al Lukie when he arrived from Ottawa Jan. 4.

He started from scratch. He and his two officers, plus staff including medical officer, may deal with 300 or 400 cases a week—tentative queries and actual applications. There's another 300 to 400 pieces of mail to process, and Lukie's handful has more staff, if he had more space.

No great change in the pressure on Asians to move out is expected as observers here until President Jomo Kenyatta is gone. Since he is in his late 70s or early 80s, that could come any time and there is no guarantee that the Asian group will become a fact political issue. They have been the businessmen, merchants, the money people.

Such an economic insight also cut deeply into the white business sector, although it is the common view here that Kenya is anxious to avoid ousting technical experts and encouraging its capacity to expand earnings of foreign exchange.

Few of the Asians asking about Canada have detailed knowledge of the country and some have only a hazy idea of on the map. But they do assume, from their East African airlift, that Canada offers the best chance if applicants can muster the points assessed here on the basis of trade, education, health, outlook and other aspects including money.

Being offered 35 is worth 10 points, for example.

Having Lukie helps because immigrants have to be able to support themselves once in the country, and for some big money involved, assets exceeding $2 million in some cases.

But a $10,000 bankroll for a man wanting to establish a small shop, for example, is no guarantee of a visa because $10,000 is not that much in the Canadian economic context.

Canada is not recruiting here, officials emphasize. It is interest in Canada is largely being generated by the word of mouth. The office here has been established to deal with popular demand.

When Amin moved against the Ugandan Asians, Canada eventually took about 7,000 in a rush by plane and ships were accelerated to open up an immigration office for eastern and central Africa. Before that, applications had to go all the way to Beirut, Lebanon.

Lukie, a big, strong, personable product of Ukrainian emigration to the Dauphin, Man., area, won't estimate how many cases are actually processed a week. A "case" may be an individual or details of family and the output of the Nairobi office will emerge next year as part of the annual report on actual totals of arrivals from all countries.

COVER WIDE AREA

He and his two officers travel heavily—by Land Rover, Lukie's personal transport, and by plane—to cover the vast area of East

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Sunday, October 14

Aries (March 21-April 19) Situations are developing that give you a greater sense of security. Matters affecting your finances look favorable.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) You should get plenty done and be productive today. Plan a full schedule. You'll have no reason to settle for less.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) A lot has happened to you this past week. This would be a good day to review things and to plan your action for the week ahead.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) You need to be out and among friends or involved in some group activity with folks who share your likes.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) Automatically you'll have a certain air of authority about you. It will cause others to trust you with respect.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your strength today can be found in your philosophic beliefs. It will take a lot to shake you as long as you keep faith with yourself.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Any changes that you make are likely to have been well thought-out. Chances of improving your lot look promising.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You will function best today in what's over you attempt if you work with a partner. Alone, you're only half as efficient.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Applying your energies to a productive goal will give you a great amount of satisfaction. Work with zeal and enthusiasm.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A very important matchmaking influence exists. The bonds that link you will be strengthened today.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Course your activities and attention on family. You'll enjoy doing things with them more than with others.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) Ideas and plans that previously caused concern and confusion will come more clearly into focus. Trust them to work—they will.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) The less others are involved in your affairs today the better—you will perform best on your own. Ask no outside help or material aid.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) Keep your mind on more serious interests, as today will offer more to be very productive. Too much pursuit of pleasure spells your downfall.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) You will be tempted today to say one or dislike. Don't. Your ill humor will reveal the source.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) You're a bit too flirtatious today. It's nice to be admired, but you should be setting up a situation you may have a problem un whether.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be sure to give credit due, also don't be afraid to hurt someone's feelings, and they won't be so sensitive to the next time.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Do not fritter your time away the next few days on frivolous ventures. Important projects can be pushed if you act industriously.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Usually your advice regarding business matters is quite sound. However, today you'll overlook some important points, while guiding another.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You will be too condescending today to an important relationship. This won't work to your advantage. Be sincere.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Today you're going to prom...to do something which you will not take too seriously but the other person will. Follow through.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) This is not one of your busy days where romance is concerned. Let Cupid shoot his arrows at someone else.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) You are likely to be over outdoors today far more considerable than you will your family. Be a member charity begins at home.

Egyptian Tanks Press at Suez

From AP-REUTER

Israel reported that its forces on the Suez canal front repulsed a new attack by Egyptian tank forces that made a seven-hour attack Sunday.

The Egyptians claimed 150 Israeli tanks and 29 planes were knocked out. But the Israelis said they gave the ground, and the Egyptians lost more than 200 tanks and 15 planes.

On the northern front of the Arab-Israeli war, now in its 18th day, Syrian shelling slowed the Israeli advance on Damascus, and the Israeli tanks were reported 21 miles from the Syrian capital. Correspondents with the Israeli forces reported that the escaping Syrian guns opened up whenever the armored columns attempted to advance.

Israeli Defence Minister Moshe Dayan has said Syria's army is beaten and he now is getting ready to turn the full power of Israel's armed forces against Egypt.

Syria and its Arab allies, strengthened by the entry of Saudi Arabia in the Middle East war, announced a counter-offensive against Israeli forces which are menacing the southern approaches to Damascus.

Arab strategy appeared to be to prevent the Israelis from switching forces from this front to the Sinai front.

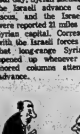
The Israeli military command also reported another naval exploit. It said its naval patrol boats sank 14 "armed fishing-type" boats in harbor of Ras Gharib, on the Gulf of Suez during the night.

Dayan said in a televised speech Sunday night that the "serious, decisive battle" with Egypt is yet to come.

"This is not like previous wars: it is a war of many days and much blood," he said.

"The important question is not a ceasefire. It is how much equipment the enemy will have left when we have finished the war. What we would like is for the Arabs to feel so badly that they cannot think of war."

The Israeli command announced Sunday that Israel lost 656 soldiers in the first eight days of fighting; the state radio gives an unofficial figure of 2,000 wounded. An Egyptian spokesman said in Cairo that Israeli casualties were much higher. Neither Syria nor Egypt has given casualty figures.



Saudi Arabia's decision to enter the war brought to 10 the number of states now joined in the Arab battle alliance against Israel: Egypt, Syria, Jordan, Saudi Arabia, Iraq, Tunisia, Morocco, Sudan, Algeria and Kuwait.

Broadcaster First Victim

TEL AVIV (Reuter) — An Israeli broadcaster has become the first war correspondent to be killed in the Mideast war.

Ralf Unger, 27, was killed in Sinai. No further details were disclosed.

The other press casualty so far in the war was Ralf Norfield, an Israeli cameraman for NBC, who was seriously wounded Saturday on the Golan Heights.

Libya Denies Using Mirages

PARIS (Reuter) — The Libyan embassy here formally denied today that the Mirage jets it bought from France have been used in the Middle East war.

Reports that some of the Mirages have been used against Israel in the Sinai canal front are "totally false," an embassy spokesman said.

The Libyan denial followed claims by Israel that it shot down two Mirage jets fighting with Egyptian forces in the Sinai desert sea Sunday.

Battle Hand-to-Hand

From AP-REUTER

Egyptian commandos sneaked behind Israeli lines in the Sinai today and captured an Israeli position in hand-to-hand fighting as Egyptian tanks consolidated new lines in the desert battleground, the Egyptian military command reported.

Israel said the Egyptian armour again tried to push forward along the Sinai front but was halted where it stood following a seven-hour armored battle Monday. The Israelis did not report the commando raid.

"Troops were landed in darkness behind enemy lines, stormed a position from more than one direction, clashed in savage hand-to-hand combat and inflicted heavy losses on lives and equipment," the Egyptians said in a communique. "Our units returned to safety except for some boots in men."

The communique did not pinpoint the location of the reported raid.

The pattern of today's fighting has become localized clashes in various sectors," the Egyptian statement said.

On the Syrian front, Damascus reported heavy tank, infantry and artillery battles raged as the fourth Arab-Israeli war entered into its 12th day.

Syrian shelling was said to be slowing the Israeli advance forward Damascus and the Israeli tanks were reported about 21 miles from the Syrian capital. Correspondents with the Israeli forces reported that long-range Syrian guns opened up whenever the armored columns tried to advance.

Turkish Vote Spread Around

ANKARA (Reuter) — Provisional returns in Turkey's election to bring back full civilian rule showed early today that no single party is strong enough to form a government on its own.

It was a severe setback for former Premier Suleyman Demirel's Justice party.

Only hours earlier it had been looking forward with confidence to returning to power for the first time since the army moved into the political scene following violent unrest in 1971.

Nearly 17 million Turks were estimated to have cast ballots.

At least 14 persons were reported to have been killed in election clashes.

Douglas Describes Wiretaps

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Supreme Court Justice William Douglas said today that late president Lyndon Johnson's telephone was tapped during his term in the White House.

Douglas also said that the Supreme Court's conference room was bugged.

Douglas' assertions came in a dissent to what would normally have been a routine action denying bail to a criminal defendant.

"We who live in the District of Columbia know that electronic surveillance is commonplace," wrote Douglas. "I am indeed morally certain that the conference room of this court has been bugged" and President Johnson during his term in the White House asserted to me that even his phone was tagged."

Two CPR employees, a conductor and a brakesman, went for a wild ride Sunday afternoon, when the train they were taking to Smiths Falls derailed at the highways crossing on Dundas Street East. PQ Budget Guess Main Election Topic

MONTREAL (CP) — The Parti Quebecois' proposed budget for an independent Quebec remains the main object of debate in campaigning for the Oct. 29 provincial election.

Liberal Finance Minister Raymond Garneau and Jacques Parizeau, the Parti Quebecois economist and candidate in Montreal Crematie, were the main combatants on the issue in weekend campaigning.

Meanwhile, Creditiste Leader Yvon Dupuis and Gabriel Loubier, Union Nationale leader, both attacked the press.

Mr. Parizeau said only a "violent inflation" caused by a government which cut taxes by 30 per cent while increasing spending by 50 per cent would cause deficits and that the budget presented by Mr. Garneau was prototype budget he released last week had included no measures so imprudent.

Mr. Parizeau, accompanied by Parti Quebecois Leader Rene Levesque at a meeting at Lachute, 45 miles northeast of Montreal, said Premier Robert Bourassa has not really criticized the budget.

"All he's been able to do is trot out the two old battle horses he defended in the 1970 election campaign, that is, deinflation of a deficit; currency and the flight of capital."

Mr. Garneau repeated his charge of last week that the Parti Quebecois budget blows up estimated revenues by $1 billion when it calculates 1975-76 government revenues at $11.676 billion.

In a statement, the finance minister charged that the budget would increase personal income taxes by $200 million and drive industry to Ontario and New Brunswick by increasing corporation taxes by $170 million.

In St. Joseph de Beauce, about 40 miles south of Quebec City, Mr. Loubier told about 220 persons that reporters covering the Oct. 29 election campaign have shown a "lack of intellectual honesty."

Mr. Dupuis stopped a television news cameraman's work in Sherbrooke as the man swung his film camera from the Union Nationale leader's group of Parti Quebecois supporters who were booing him from the audience of about 800.

"Hold on," Mr. Dupuis said to the cameraman. "Don't get nervous. We're not going to forget the magnificent crowd we have here this evening for about 50 Pequistes."

Mr. Loubier complained reporters were not truly describing what goes on in meeting, and are in particular underestimating the size of crowds.

Mr. Bourassa told a Chicoutimi news conference he has never promised that he would not alter controversial 1969 legislation giving all Quebecers the right to choose English or French schools for their children.

Fire Evicts 1,100

CHELSEA, Mass. (AP) — A fire that razed across 20 blocks of wooden basements and small boathouses has left 1,100 persons homeless in this rundown Boston suburb.

Four firemen fighting the blaze were taken to hospital for smoke inhalation. One was in poor condition, the other three fair. Five persons were treated for smoke inhalation and released. No deaths were reported.

About 500 National Guard troops roped off the charred expanse of the oldest section of the city Sunday.

The homeless, most of them Spanish-speaking, blacks and elderly Jews, sought shelter with relatives and in a makeshift dormitory in an armory.

"I have lost everything!" said Henry Wegtechowski, 60. "It's a crying shame.

"All the people who live in the stricken area are poor people. Just look at all these people standing around crying! They have no place to go from here."

Residents of the estimated 60 dwelling places destroyed rushed through the streets ahead of the blaze, carrying plastic bags and suitcases stuffed with belongings.

At the height of the blaze, which officials said apparently started in an abandoned rag storage building, 3,000 to 4,000 persons were evacuated from their homes.

Sparks leaped from building to building as gusts up to 50 miles an hour swept across Boston harbor.

"This is a conflagration of epic proportions," said Fire Chief Herbert Fothergill. "A conflagration such as this one spreads its own weather. It became force."

The fire cut a path a half mile wide through the decaying industrial section of the community of 22,000, about five miles north of downtown Boston. Many of the industries were small businesses that reclaimed scrap metal, rags and tires. Much of the area had been scheduled for demolition through urban renewal.

About half of the 20-block area was leveled. The rest was a jumble of stark building skeletons and smouldering utility poles.

The fire, which broke out about 4 p.m. EDT, Sunday was contained at a railway right of way about five hours later. But it continued to burn inside. Policemen with dogs roamed the area to guard against looters.

Fire Chief Fothergill declared Chelsea a disaster area.

Armed Convicts Out

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Police are searching for two prisoners who escaped Saturday night from nearby Collins Bay penitentiary.

Provincial police said early today they had no new clues to the whereabouts of the four men, believed to be armed with knives.

Roadblocks, set up following the escape, were taken down Sunday, police said.

The prisoners escaped by cutting bars in one of the medium-security institution's cellblocks, crawling through an air duct and scaling the perimeter wall.

The four overpowered two engineers in the prison's parking lot, taking a car and an unspecified amount of money from one of them.

The escapees were identified as:

Larry Ross Walters, 27, of St. Thomas, Ont., serving a life sentence for non-capital murder.

Stephen Caupor, 34, Hungary, no Canadian address, serving 18 years for two charges of possession of offensive weapons, attempted robbery and escaping custody.

Frank E. Walters, 18, Hagersville, Ont., no relation to Larry Wal ers, serving seven years and nine months for robbery, attempted robbery and breaking, entering and theft.

Victor Joe Martin, 40, Tilbury, Ont., serving 389 days plus three years for discharging a firearm with intent to wound, attempted breaking, entering and theft and parole forfeiture.

Conservative Faces Beam with Confidence as Commons Resumes

OTTAWA (CP) — The faces behind the Conservative benches in the Commons are beaming with new-found confidence as Parliament returns from an abbreviated summer recess.

The House spent much of September discussing inflation, particularly rising food prices, and the Conservatives are pointing to a recent poll as evidence that the people support their call for economic restraints.

The poll they quote shows the Conservatives and Liberals tied for support, indicating substantial Conservative popularity gains.

This is expected to spur Conservative demands for a 90-day freeze on wages and prices. There will a good chance that today's sitting would see the inflation debate picked up where it left off just before the House recessed Sept. 21.

There were indications the government would begin the resumed session by seeking second reading approval of its new family allowance program. Debate on this would be an official springboard for opposition attacks on government anti-inflation efforts.

The government wants the allowance bill approved soon because it has scheduled the new payments to start Jan. 1. Average monthly allowance per child would be $20 compared with the present rate of $11 a month, raised last month from an average $7.31.

The summer recess originally started July 27, four weeks later than normal, and was interrupted when Parliament was called Aug. 30 to settle the national rail strike.

In July, party leaders agreed that the capital punishment issue would receive top priority when the House opened today. But that debate, on final reading of the new bill to renew the five-year ban on hanging except for killers of on-duty policemen and prison guards, likely will not beg n before Wednesday.

That would leave the opposition only today and Tuesday to get some licks in at the government over its handling of the economy.

The capital punishment debate is expected to take about 11½ weeks during which no other business, except the daily question period and routine proceedings, will be presented.

The family allowance plan and government antidumping bill are two of 16 bills still before the House. Both are considered important by all parties, especially the bill to control election spending and the proposed new privacy legislation to ban electronic eavesdropping.

Also slated for the proposed Foreign Investment Review Act to screen foreign investment, a bill to increase the supply of residential mortgage funds and amendments to bring the Canada Pension Plan in line with the cost of living.

The Conservatives start today's work with a reorganized Commons team: Gerald Baldwin (Peace River) resigned last month as House leader and is being replaced by chief whip Tom Bell. (Saint John-Lancaster). Robert McKinley (Huron) is the party's new whip.

An election before spring is considered improbable by most observers. The New Democrats, the effective balance of power in the minority House, say the Canada Pension Plan is fine with the cost of living.

Standings in the 264-seat Commons is Liberals 109, Conservatives 107, NDP 31, Social Credit 15 and two independents.

Derailment Ties Up CPR Main Line

Two CPR trainmen narrowly escaped serious injury Sunday when the tailend of the train in which they were travelling jumped the tracks and derailed at the crossing on Dundas Street East.

The train, CPA freight 918, was travelling northeast along the main line at 2:30 p.m. when the last four freight cars jumped the tracks—they passed by an electrically controlled switch.

The train is reported to have been coming out of a sliding that is approximately 200 yards southwest of the highway, when part of the switch became entangled in the wheels and the coupling mechanism between the fourth and fifth last cars.

A 15-foot section of rail wrapped itself around the coupling and was driven through the head of a car on the first section of a three layer transport carrier. It then pierced the floor of the second layer and imbedded itself in the undercarriage of a second car.

Dragging sections of the switch, the train left the rails, scattering ties and slabs of asphalt across the road.

As the train slid alongside, crossing it sheered off portions of the highway signal lamp on the south side of the roadway and scattered the wheels of the last two freight cars along the tracks.

The train finally came to rest on the north side of the highway with the last two freight cars lying across the two outbound lanes.

The 98-car train was headed for Sudbury Falls and then on to Montreal with a cargo of Ford cars and trucks.

No one was injured in the accident.

G. T. Saunders, the train's conductor, was in the caboose when the accident occurred. Palmer at the time of the accident. He said he thought the train's troubles started as it left the siding.

"It all happened so fast," he said. "All we could do was hang on for dear life. You can expect anything to happen when she starts to swing like that: they even have to be taped on the head with something and fill it over — you're dazed."

"I'm not sure what happened" he continued. "It all happened so quick, but, it must have happened by the electric switch. I don't say for sure, he couldn't have been more than 15 seconds between the time we had the trouble and the time we started to slide."

The Belleville police department was called to the scene of the accident at 2:31 p.m. and it took them less than half an hour to open the west-bound line to Dundas Street to traffic.

Using ties that had been strewn about the right of way, police officers and the train crew made a passage across the torn up section of tracks.

CPR track crews from Bowmanville, Perth and Smiths Falls worked through the night to repair the damage caused by the derailment and CPR officials said early this morning that they hoped to have the track in service later today.

During the night, CPR had to reroute two of its freight trains along the CNR track from Brockville to Brighton.

Cause of the accident and an assessment of damages are still under investigation by CPR officials at the scene.

Council, PUC Meeting May Ease Recent Acrimony

TRENTON — Town council and the Public Utilities Commission here will sit down together, hopefully to sort out some of the problems between us," says commissioner Chairman Jim MacDonald.

The meeting was instigated last Monday at a committee-of-the-whole session, when a Wooler Road resident pressed for free water services in his neighborhood.

Council at that time said the question would be settled by the Ontario Municipal Board but there was still the question of who takes care of problems like this — council or the PUC?

Mr. MacDonald said the letter from council requesting the upcoming meeting would be discussed at the commission meeting this Thursday. A date for the discussion is expected from that discussion.

The commission chairman said the letter asked for the meeting to discuss financial arrangements between the town and the commission.

"The town wants more specific cost breakdowns on projects done by the PUC on the town's recommendation," said Mr. MacDonald.

"It (the meeting) is to satisfy council the division of cost between the town and commission is correct," he said.

Mr. MacDonald said most of the interest is in connection with water services and debenturing.

Council and the commission throughout the past summer were at loggerheads on a number of occasions when Mr. MacDonald said he hoped the meeting with council would be the basis for communication between both groups and the two could come to a better understanding of each others' problems.

Winds Over 50 mph

There were no major power interruptions in the Quinte district, but numerous Belleville residents were without power for various periods Saturday night and early Sunday as result of high winds which swept through the region.

Neil Britton, the Belleville Public Utilities manager, said trouble was mostly caused by broken limbs and branches which fell across hydro lines and services.

The weathermen at Canadian Forces Base, Trenton said winds gusted up to 56 miles per hour around midnight Saturday but had dropped to normal by Sunday afternoon.

In rural areas apples still unpicked on the trees took a beating from the wind. Many apples were either knocked off or bruised.

However, Quinte orchardists say that most of the apples are now picked with the only fruit remaining on the trees being Spies and Delicious. Several orchardists have completed picking for the year.

Mountain Visitors

Prince Edward Conservation Authority officials went up Macaulay Mountain at Picton to start annual tour Sunday. Mountain is site of school study centre and PERCA offices and official party included James Taylor, MPP Prince Edward Lennox (left) and Authority chairman Henry Leavens.

County Conservationists Make Annual Inspection

PICTON — The Prince Edward Region Conservation Authority held its annual tour of county-owned sites last weekend led by its chairman Henry Leavens.

First stop on the afternoon bus tour was MacCauley Mountain, where ski runs have been cut and a study centre built.

The new building, now nearing completion, will house the PERCA offices and has facilities to accommodate visiting school children. A large, seal window in the centre overlooks the ski runs.

Donald Bond, a member of the PERCA said that a small dam has been started at Macaulay Mountain to create a pond for use with a snow-making machine for the ski slopes.

Mr. Bond observed that a road leading to the new building is nearing completion and crushed gravel has been spread on the main drive. It is expected that this driveway will be plowed all winter to permit access for students, skiers and PERCA office personnel.

Mr. Bond said that he hopes schools will regularly use the new facilities in connection with nature studies.

Students Need More Real Life Experience

MADOC — Students should be given more responsibilities in their graduating year — and be ready to assume them, grants and school officials were told by this area's top student Saturday night.

Rita Spandauer, of Marmora returned as valedictorian at Centre Hastings Secondary School graduation here to also caution that students in their final high school year should not be given second chances since an end to such privileges would better prepare them for the realities of living.

In real life, few people ever receive a second chance.

Miss Spandauer felt students should be given more responsibilities in their last year as a means of making them realize people are also responsible for their own actions.

Miss Spandauer, a language student now attending university, won six scholarship awards along with her graduation diploma to become CHSS scholar of the year. Her awards included an Ontario Scholarship — one of 15 awarded CHSS students.

Top male student was Allan Dunham of Tweed, who won four awards.

About 150 students received graduation diplomas and 80 of them honor diplomas at Saturday night's ceremonies.

The school this year has an enrolment of 1,175.

How a second mortgage can lose you your home

"During the last 18 months, I've bought a number of items on credit. Now there are about four monthly payments left to go on each and I really have to scrape sometimes to meet my day to day bills.

Should I take out a second mortgage to consolidate my bills with a lower payment?"

Before you decide to pay off your consumer loans by obtaining a second mortgage, remember that you could risk losing your house if you go about it unwisely. Get all the pertinent information and then figure out the comparative costs of borrowing.

For example, one obvious comparison is interest rates—if the rate is higher on the second mortgage than on your other debts, then you are going to end up paying more.

Even if the interest rate is slightly lower and the monthly payment smaller, you may be required to pay the loan off over a longer period of time, making the total interest charges more expensive over the long haul.

Never use a second mortgage to pay off debts that do not have interest charges. Deal directly with the people to whom you owe interest-free money and arrange a repayment schedule with them.

However, the time may come when you must arrange a second mortgage to raise money.

Interest Rates Vary

Remember that interest rates vary depending on what type of financing source that you use and how much money you are willing to have to borrow. Although they may appear small, the differences in rates can add up to a lot of money over a five or ten year period, so it's worth your while to shop around.

Watch out, though, for those mortgage leaders and brokers who advertise a lower rate and may even assure you that you are eligible over the phone. When the details come out, you may find that "there is no more money at those rates" or that the low rates are only available to people who are in such a secure financial position that they would never need a second mortgage in the first place.

Balloon Payments—Dangerous

Another second mortgage detail to watch for is the so-called "balloon payment", which is actually just a large lump sum payment required for the final instalment.

Although the balloon payment arrangement allows you to have a lower monthly payment, just as you would in a long-term mortgage, problems may result from not having enough to meet that whopping final instalment.

If you haven't saved the required amount, you may be forced to refinance on short notice. That will nearly always be very expensive, and may even be impossible. You could end up losing your house.

A pamphlet on second mortgages is available from the Ontario Ministry of Consumer and Commercial Relations. Write and ask for your copy if you are thinking about a second mortgage.

Send your inquiries to: Consumer Buy-Line, Ministry of Consumer & Commercial Relations, Queen's Park, Toronto, Ontario.

TV Documentary's Survey

Christianity Survives, Despite Persecution, In Cuba

By JOHN D. HARRISON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomas News Service

The CBC religious TV program Man Alive will screen an unusual and original documentary on Oct. 16 dealing with the efforts of the Christian Church, Catholic and Protestant to survive in Marxist Cuba.

That film will tell a good deal about Catholics and Protestants who are not facing direct persecution themselves, but whose churches face increasing restrictions on their members and activities outside the Church itself.

Among the Cuban priests and pastors interviewed by a CBC team from Man Alive were the loyalty of the small Matanzas Theological Seminary in the city of Matanzas not far from Havana.

These were the most difficult Cuban Christian issues to categorize because they seemed to have made their peace with a permanent social revolution which is Marxist and yet still loyal to their Christian convictions.

For them "the New Man" promised in the Christian Gospel appears to have become the "New Man" produced by the Cuban Revolution. The power of the traditional figure of Christ with a gun or automatic pistol slung over his shoulder, is often mounted in Cuba next to those of Che Guevara.

He died in a Bolivian jungle in 1967 trying to extend the revolution and is the genuine "saint" of Castro's continuing revolution.

It should said this about Matanzas, it is curious how easily the members of this small but vocal seminary are allowed to attend meetings outside of Cuba of the World Council of Churches and of the association of Christian Peace Movement.

In fact the participation of many Christian leaders from Third World nations with leftwing revolutionary sympathies in the Council's open support of violent liberation movements throughout the world, has caused much controversy about the true role of the World Council of Churches.

The story process of the Cuban Christian professors from Matanzas to World Council of Churches meetings could indicate to its critics that this organization is concerned body, in its 25th year of existence, has sold out to the world's few-left causes and is no longer reliably Christian.

Clearly the reason, this genuinely local body of Protestant churches should be given from 147 churches in 90 countries in 1948 to 262 churches in 94 countries today, knows where it stands a good deal more clearly than those on the Vatican or the United Nations.

In fact it has managed to maintain some of the orthodoxy of the former, and a good deal of the cause for freedom, and an end to exploitation of the Third World mentioned earlier by the latter.

The 1973 World Council of Churches' Program to Combat Racism is typical of the Council's role as a modern version of Christ chasing the money changers from the temple. Backed by its Swiss members as "liberation" and "Third World" churches experienced against the Americans in the late 19th century.

Racism also means its circumlocution against Indian groups in both Canada and the U.S., a heritage deal for Australia's aborigines under intense pressure to change their ways with that country's sprawling industrial boom, racist Rhodesia and South Africa.

Last year the World Council cashed in that portion of its $3.5 million portfolio of stocks, for "world corporations doing business in South Africa" and with one third of the organization's stock holdings.

The Council's justification is that Christians in the political world can't afford to have their hands until it was almost too late, jobbing resistance movements that they were less effective. Accordingly it gives practical guidance to member churches to be involved and committed.

Middle East Conflict Jeopardizes World Peace

By CY FOX

BRUSSELS (CP) — Diplomats concerned with vital East-West negotiations in Europe are keeping a worried eye on the war in the Middle East.

The longer the war goes on, the greater is the danger also that the United States and Russia will be drawn further into the conflict—to the point where their much-vaunted detente is badly undermined.

Without a continuation of that detente, it will be hard to maintain efforts towards East-West harmony currently being made at the European security talks in Geneva.

The same is true of the negotiations about mutual force reductions, which will resume in Vienna Oct. 30.

At NATO headquarters in Brussels, it is made abundantly clear that the North Atlantic alliance itself is having no business becoming involved in the Middle East struggle.

But since the NATO interest in the adjacent Eastern Mediterranean area, even though there is no sign yet that the Arab-Israeli war might affect the territories of NATO members states like Turkey or Greece.

The main worry, however, is centred on the possibilities which might intensify the degree of arms aid given the opposing sides in the Middle East by the U.S. and Russia.

For their part, the Russians will be under heavy pressure from their Arab "clients" to step up the extent to which they are willing to replace military supplies lost or expended in the struggle against Israel.

The Russians are eager to preserve the privileged position they have long cultivated in the Arab world.

The Americans, on the other hand, are being urged with their calls from pro-Israel groups at home to maintain a vigorous programme of aiding the Israeli homeland's military strength in the face of the surprisingly formidable Arab challenge.

Countering the move towards a renewal of strident big-power confrontation which all the world invoire is the material advantage which both Washington and Moscow still see in a mutual mellowing of their relations.

The politically hard-pressed President Nixon has staked much on the fulfilment of his promise of a "generation of peace" for a country sickened and injured by the conflict in Vietnam.

The Russians, with China pointing an awesome challenge-ward diplomatic rapprochement with America as a prelude to detailed new discussions of badly-needed U.S. technology and capital for their economy.

Thus each of the great powers has somehow to reconcile one area of mutual interests with another in the conduct of its Middle East policy.

Definite evidence of stepped-up military aid to the Arabs and Israelis by the Russians and Americans respectively has prompted fears in Europe that the great-power detente may be on the razor's edge—an arduous situation which can only become more worrisome as continuation of the costly war makes weapon replacements all the more urgent for the combatants.

This endangering of the all-important Russian-American detente comes at a particularly delicate time.

With the detente as the very prerequisite for the discussions, the hard-slogging and often acrimonious stage of the European security conference—with Canada as a prominent participant—is grappling with such fundamental topics as easing the obstacles to human contacts across the ideological barrier which keeps Europe divided.

The prospects in Vienna are for many more months of gruelling negotiations. But it would hardly be possible to hope for any success at all if the American-Russian detente for an end to cold-war friction degenerates into a new series of slanging matches, or worse forms of dispute, over the Middle East issue.

News Leaks Proliferate

By DON O'HEARN
Queen's Park Bureau

TORONTO — We may not have Watergate but we do have news leaks, Washington has everything.

There has been a rash of reports and inside information getting to the press here recently, along the lines of the break-downs in secrecy which have caused the Nixon administration so much chagrin.

Over the past few weeks, for example, first Consumer Minister John Clement's statement on his food price inquiry was in the papers and on radio a couple of days ahead of release.

And then all the Toronto dailies, radio and television had lengthy stories on the report of the select committee on Hydro three days before it was tabled.

The morals of whether the press should go after leaks and use them is something on which this reporter is not going to play pitch and toss.

It pretty well comes down to the circumstances of the situation.

But there is one thing that can be said and this is that a rigid scramble for scoops usually makes for some inept reporting.

The Hydro report was a good example of what can happen.

The early stories, those that came out before the report had been released, treated the whole thing mildly.

The people writing them were dealing with partial information which had been whispered to them.

And not being too sure of just what the full story was, they played it cool.

The result was that though it was written that Hydro was criticized in the report there was no real indication of just how much it was criticized.

Then when the report came out it took a tremendous whack at the Hydro Commissioners.

And it was about an agency which is crawling up to government itself in size. (Actually about a quarter as big).

But because of the early reporting the impact of this didn't get across to the public.

The edge had been taken off the story when the actual report was tabled in the House and the public really didn't get to know bad it was.

Stock Prices Are Healthy

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Canadian stock prices have risen recently to their highest average levels in history.

The breakthrough is an extended upward drive over the last month or so, is all the more remarkable because it has been achieved without riding on Wall Street's coat-tails.

The New York stock market, in fact, has been having a much more difficult climate. The confidence of U.S. investors has been weakened by the renewal of the Middle East war and by the decline of such revered market leaders as IBM and Xerox.

Canadian prices, as measured by the Toronto Stock Exchange's industrial index, have surpassed the previous high set in the booming days of early January, thus making up all of the ground that was lost in the decline that bottomed out in May.

Let's not be smug, however, about the superior performance of our stock market relative to U.S. markets.

One obvious reason for the disparity is that U.S. stocks are still hampered by the Nixon administration's anti-inflationary restraints, which many economists and businessmen believe will lead to a business slowdown late this year or early next.

In Canada, on the other hand, stock markets seem unfettered by any such fears. As Algoma Steel's President D. S. Hollinshead put it, "There's not a single indication that the government is taking any serious steps to avoid long-range inflation."

About the most significant Canadian anti-inflationary action has been the series of bank-rate increases by the Bank of Canada, symbolizing Ottawa's intention to keep the pace of business activity and borrowing within bounds.

Since the last such increase (to 7¼ per cent) on Sept. 12, our stock markets have shrugged their greatest strength of the year. The reason is apparently strongly that Canadian investors see no real hindrance to business profits in the immediate level of interest rates.

In the heart of the Canadian market's advance have been the stocks of companies in the forest products industry. These are the industries that have been most affected by rapid gains in earnings, and are virtually assured of still further gains during the current quarter.

Many forest products companies listed on the TSE, for example, showed average profit increases of 50 per cent in the latest year-to-year period. For the next couple of years at least, the industry will almost be able to name its own price for its products.

Profits of senior mining companies are also running well ahead of last year, and the selling prices of metals keep rising.

Gold stocks, too, have been ahead strongly on fears that Middle Eastern oil exports might be interrupted as a result of the Arab-Israeli fighting.

Sooner or later, any market advance is bound to stumble and stop. The investors who have lately been rushing in from the sidelines can just as well sit out again if the market starts turn sour. Political problems, both in Washington and abroad, could still send Wall Street into a tailspin.

But for the short term, at least, the bulls seem to have rushed the bears.

Condition Of The Bay

Editor,
The Intelligencer,

Apropos the letter to the editor re Purification Plant here does a good job" published September 8 and written by James A. Scriver.

The writer maintains the Bay and river are pure despite contrary proof from both the Provincial and Federal reports. He attacks Ald. Arthur Keegan for describing the Bay of some 40 years ago and then agrees with him. If the Bay is so much more pure why the recent discussion last year on piping more water in from Lake Ontario?

I have never seen anything other than the Filtration Plant employee do an excellent job, and he has one of the finest (in my estimation) plants in Canada. But then we have to, don't we, even though the skies is still there.

The flow is usually from the west and it is true that Shannonville, Deseronto, Tyendinaga are undoubtly sources of our filthy water, but we also receive 75,000 Gals from the polluted Trent River, don't we?

The crux of the matter is that our Provincial or Federal Ministry of the Environment do not enforce their laws and allow the campaign-paying industries and industry a few years to think about it.

Our health department in my opinion cannot be relied on to report facts. They were formerly in the pay-roll of water in Bancroft and Deseronto.

CLARENCE E. YOUNG

Today's Youth

Editor,
The Intelligencer,

I sincerely congratulate the reporter who recently covered the anointing of a 17 year old youth and his so-called "companions". It leaves others, as well as myself, with the impression of a modern day "Jessie James."

It is emphasizing the character of this boy, perhaps in a series to establish another one's own youth. Are the temptations of today greater than before? Is the youth's fault?

Considering that the 418 wing had originally purchased this property to be used for health recreation under their supervision for today's youth, is this why it was so lavishly torched with a pleasing variety of refreshments as attractive to today's youth, they were given the temptation to steal them.

Before condoning a person's wrong doing, we should consider the reasoning behind it and be ready to help them rather than punish those who cannot help themselves.

Not All Bad

South Africa is one of those countries which seems to be in the perennial doghouse.

In its case it is apartheid, which the rest of the world sees as discrimination against the non-European population — the blacks, colored (mixed), and the Asians — while South Africa calls it "separate development."

Whatever its drawbacks, and there are many, it is not well to recognize that even a proportion, at least of the non-European population endorse apartheid.

Chief Minister of the Transkei native homeland, Paramount Chief Kaiser Matanzima for one was quoted recently as saying: "Separate development is the only feasible and workable policy that will lead South Africa to a solid block against Communism. . ."

South Africa sees itself as the only real bulwark against Communism in Africa.

Again, publications such as South Africa Scope and the beautifully-illustrated South African Panorama tend to put the best face on national affairs, containing no hint of either racial trouble or the kind of industrial unrest that led recently to a riot among black miners and the killing of a dozen or so by police — an incident that Prime Minister Vorster blames on incitement by the Press.

Government publications such as the above are at pains to put a much rosier picture of life among the various racial groups in South Africa.

Thus we are shown pictures of State President J. J. Fouche with Cedric Phatudi, newly-elected chief of Lebowa, the self-governing North Sotho homeland, a graduate of the University of Witwatersrand, and of Philip Nosh, one of the country's first black civil engineers.

We see a handsome young prince of the Zulus, in western-style uniform, installed as a paramount chief of his people as business-cum-chairman of the legislative assembly of the KwaZulu homeland and boy scouts look on. There is also a picture of the University of Zululand which has an enrolment of 800. In another sphere we see U.S. tennis star Stan Smith with Johannesburg promoter Owen Williams surrounded by a happy group of young black players.

All this in addition to a portrayal of life among the European population as well. The impression gained is that life in South Africa has its good points for all races. And that is surely to be expected, once the fog of adverse propaganda is allowed to clear and things are seen in perspective.

Inquest Rulings

A number of very important recommendations have resulted from the Barrie inquest into the 32-vehicle pile-up on Highway 400 last March which killed 12 persons.

Among them: stringent safety checks for transport trailers, a ban on pup trailers during the winter, slower speed limits for buses in winter and guidelines for removing snow fences.

Implementation of these safety moves must be regarded as vital and it may be asked if the whole spectrum of winter driving habits should not be investigated with a view to making it less hazardous. We have observed drivers taking the most appalling risks in winter, both as to speed and passing manoeuvers.

The driver is still the greatest potential hazard of all on the highway. More care on his part and the accident toll could be reduced markedly.

UCS Administration

The United Community Services reportedly is investigating the feasibility of operating without a full-time paid administrator. This is a thing that should commend itself to citizens, at least for the time being while he work of the executive committee is being assessed. The difficulties which arose under the former administration, with an administrator on the one hand and the UCS board on the other are still fresh in mind. In the circumstances a period of experimentation would seem to be justified.

Legion Has New Padre

At the October meeting of Canadian Legion, Rev. Frank Mitchell was installed as Padre by Br. 39 president Bill Richardson.

An army veteran, Mr. Mitchell, pastor of Wesminster United Church, Wallbridge Road, addressing the gathering, stated that he felt at home by the Legion as he had served as Legion chaplain at his previous parishes. Belleville veterans have been observed the Veterans' Council annual church parade as guests of Mr. Mitchell and the Westminster parish.

A special delegation from Trenton Branch 118 visited the meeting to extend a personal invitation for all members to attend the annual joint Remembrance Day church parade, Sunday November 4, parade to fall in at 2:30, 2 Repair Depot, CFB, Trenton, parade square. Non-denominational services to be conducted by Brigadier General Padre J. Cardy, the only wartime padre remaining in the Canadian Armed Forces and marched with Poppy street sales Friday evening November 9 and Saturday morning with the annual banquet in the evening and the Remembrance service at the cenotaph on Sunday.

Sports officer Dave Evans reported that Branch 39 would continue to sponsor the three minor hobbey teams, and a Legion sports day is slated for Saturday October 20.

The remains of a 1967 Mustang mark the scene of fatal single-car crash that claimed the life of James David Beattie, 46, of 169 John St., Napanee. The accident occurred just east of the CPR tracks on Dundas Street East, Saturday, at 7 p.m. The Beattie car was travelling east along Dundas Street when it suddenly went out of control and struck a tree.

Printing Manager Killed in Crash

A spectacular single-car crash claimed the life of a Napanee man Saturday, when the car he was driving went out of control and struck a tree on Dundas Street East, near the Union Carbide plant.

DAVE BEATTIE

Dead is James David Beattie, 46, of 169 John Street, Napanee.

Mr. Beattie, a well known sailor, had recently been appointed manager of The Intelligencer's commercial printing department following a career in the graphic arts industry in Toronto.

Witnesses at the accident scene are reported to have said that the car, a 1967 Mustang, had been proceeding normally along Dundas Street when it suddenly spun across the road, crossed the shoulder and struck the tree.

The accident occurred around 7 p.m. in the midst of a rain shower.

Firefighters from Thurlow Township were called to the scene by Belleville police to help them search the wreckage and remove the body of the driver.

According to one firefighter at the scene, the car looked as though it had "disintegrated" when it hit the tree.

Mr. Beattie was pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. John S. Stock.

An autopsy will be held to determine the exact cause of death.

Ontario's Urban Transportation Program:

75% off transportation.

Government subsidies of 75% make it possible for most communities to afford comfortable, up-to-date transportation.

Communities all over Ontario are concerned.

Concerned about urban transportation and how it affects the quality of life in Ontario cities.

Are the facilities adequate, fast, comfortable and safe? Are Ontario people getting where they want to go, when they want to go, how they want to go?

Is there a way communities can solve existing transportation problems and plan for future ones at the same time?

The Ministry of Transportation and Communications would like to answer 'yes' to all the above questions.

And thinks it can, mainly because of GO A NEW WAY, a program now under way to build urban transportation systems that will serve Ontario communities the way they would like to be served—efficiently, comfortably, economically and with the least possible disruption of natural surroundings.

One of the basic plans of GO A NEW WAY is to assist municipalities in upgrading their transportation systems with comfortable vehicles and convenient facilities.

If buses and streetcars are going to do their jobs properly, they should be modern, efficient and comfortable. And they should have well-equipped garages for maintenance.

But that costs money. A lot of money. So the government is now paying 75% of the capital cost of buses, streetcars, trolley buses and support facilities. And 35 Ontario communities have already taken advantage of the program.

But 75% off is just one of the GO A NEW WAY programs.

There's Dial a Bus, a personal service bus system, operating very successfully in several communities across the province. If you live in an area served by Dial a Bus and need transportation, you simply phone your local dispatcher. He'll arrange to have you picked up and taken to a local transfer point or some other point in the community.

And there's GO URBAN. For our larger cities, it's one of the most exciting transit concepts in existence: a pollution-free system with magnetic suspension, linear induction motors, silent operation and automated controls.

The whole point of GO A NEW WAY is to put people first, and to offer them alternative ways to meet their urban transportation needs. Whether it's encouragement of staggered working hours, computer-controlled traffic, redesign of existing traffic facilities or area-wide transportation co-ordination studies, GO A NEW WAY will help with finances, research and resources.

The Ministry of Transportation and Communications is using every possible facility to help municipalities in Ontario build urban transportation systems that will outshine anything else in existence today.

Urban transportation will be one of the most significant challenges facing us all for years to come. That's why the Government of Ontario developed GO A NEW WAY, a modern transportation program for the needs of Ontario communities. The benefits of this program are available to any municipality in Ontario wishing to participate.

Quinte Cuisine

Diane Holt at Quinte Secondary School helps her students learn to control food budgets by the use of organ meats - low in price but high in nutrients. For those who have not yet developed a taste for these meats she recommends starting with chicken livers, since the flavour is mild and the livers themselves are bite-size.

Chicken Livers Paulette

cooking oil and flour
1 lb. chicken livers
1 large onion, cut in pieces
1 can mushrooms
1 green pepper, sliced
1 tbsp. cornstarch
¼ cup water
1 beef bouillon cube
1 cup boiling water
¼ tsp. sugar
1 tsp. vinegar
salt and pepper

Add green pepper slices and mushrooms. Add the broth made from the bouillon and cup of water. Thicken this mixture with the paste made of cornstarch and ¼ cup of water. Add savory, salt, pepper, vinegar and sugar. Put the chicken livers back in the pan and simmer for 15 minutes. Serve with buttered noodles or rice.

Women More Receptive Now

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — The Chilean physician Latin Americans have become more receptive to birth control pills and vasectomies, say family planning experts in this Brazilian capital.

Non-Latin backers of birth control have blamed they can't force their ideas on predominantly Roman Catholic Latin Americans, as they had been accused of doing in the past.

Leading authorities in the world family planning movement ended three days of lowkey discussions last week in Rio, at the annual Western Hemisphere meeting of the London-based International Planned Parenthood Federation.

They urged more open discussion of the pill, sterilization and even abortion—issues once taboo in this part of the world because of religious, cultural and political beliefs.

"There are five million illegal abortions each year in Latin America, and at least one-third of them are complicated by infection or hemorrhaging," said Dr. Benjamin Viel, the federation's Western Hemisphere director. "No one seems to care about this. Yet a few people die of cholera in Italy, and the world mourns."

"It's a shame that we've become accustomed to such a thing," the Chilean physician added.

The meeting received little attention in Brazil. Latin America's biggest country, with a population of 100 million, Brazil's moralistic, military-run government is in favor of increasing the population and does not permit the press to promote or encourage birth control. Brazilian law considers abortion a crime as serious as murder.

The foundation is the world's foremost, birth control organization. Supported by governments in some regions and private donations in others, it operates in 120 countries.

There even is a foundation affiliate quietly working in Brazil. The government allows it to circulate birth control information by word of mouth but forbids it to publicize its activities.

"I'd bet that 80 per cent of the members of Brazil's Congress are in favor of birth control," Congressman Ivan Ferreira told the meeting. "We think it's just a matter of time—and a very short period of time, by the way—until Brazil adopts birth control as an official policy."

The current government, under which congress has no independent power, contends, however, that Brazil needs more people to fill its vast open spaces — such as the Amazon jungle.

Delegates to the meeting stressed the importance of allowing non-medical persons to distribute birth control pills in Latin America because many communities have no doctors.

"It see a much more positive attitude here than a few years back," said Dr. Malcolm Potts of Britain, the foundation's medical director. "But I'm also beginning to realize that we've learned how to present things better. We've stopped thrusting our perceptions on Latin Americans and now recognize that we must serve the needs of those we're helping."

Property Rights To be Studied

EDMONTON (CP) — Married women are getting special emphasis in a study of property rights being conducted by the Institute of Law Research and Reform at the University of Alberta.

Director W. F. Bowker says the objective is to isolate unfairness and make recommendations to eliminate it. The study, requested by the Alberta legislature, may help give married women a more property rights in cases where the marriage breaks up.

Mr. Bowker said that as the law now stands, the right of a wife to claim a share of her husband's property in cases where a marriage ends by separation or divorce is dubious.

If a wife's name does not appear on a property title, as is often the case, her right to claim property may be non-ex-

Ann Landers' Stress Points

Dear Ann Landers: Since you frequently remind your readers that emotional problems can create physical problems, I am sending the findings of Dr. Thomas H. Holmes, a psychiatrist at the University of Washington School of Medicine in Seattle. He has listed 43 events that create emotional stress in order of their impact.

Dr. Holmes' theory is that any change, pleasant or unpleasant, can create susceptibility to illness. He dvises against making several consecutive changes in living patterns when one has a choice. Such changes, he said, should be postponed or cancelled. Here is the list and scale of impact:

Death of spouse 100; divorce 73; marital separation 65; jail term 63; death of close family member 63; personal injury or illness 53; marriage 50; fired at work 47; marital reconciliation 45; retirement 45; pregnancy 40; sex difficulties 39; gain of new family member 39; business readjustment 39; change in financial status 38; death of close friend 37; change to different line of work 36; change in number of arguments with spouse 35; mortgage over $10,000, 31; foreclosure of mortgage or loan 30; son or daughter leaving home 29; trouble with in-laws 29; outstanding personal achievement 28; wife begins or stops work 26; begin or end school 26; trouble with boss 23; change in residence 20; change in school 20; mortgage or loan less than $10,000 17; change in number of family get-togethers 15; Christmas 12.

Your Seattle Friend

Dear Seattle Friend: My thanks for a fascinating contribution. Following that going to jail creates 13 stress points less than getting a divorce—and only 12 points more than getting married. I suspect there are some convicts who would disagree.

Confidential to God Bless The Supreme Court: I doubt that the decision will put an end to pornography. The decision is sure to create a great deal of confusion, thousands of lawsuits, test cases, bootlegged stag films and the hard-core porn purveyors will go underground and charge five times as much.

Kids to Help

LONDON (CP) — The medical newspaper Pulse reported that a marriage study found childless couples more faithful than those with a family. While 23 per cent of couples without youngsters said they had not wandered, only 61 per cent of moms and dads reported consistent marital fidelity.

Successful Living

Where Do Loyalties Lie?

Dear Doris: My nephew used to live with me. He is now married with four children and moved away a few months ago and left some unpaid bills behind.

He doesn't wish his address to be known and those companies he owes money to have called here for his address. At first I said I didn't know. But just a few days ago an insurance collector called saying that my nephew had had an accident and they wanted to know his new address. Apparently he had given this old one.

I myself regard this as a moral problem. I hate to tell lies in any circumstances, but I'm wondering: perhaps there are times it is all right to say we don't know. I would like very much to have your opinion on this.

In a way I think I'm encouraging him not to pay his bills by lying for him. I know they want to pay them later. Retired Uncle.

Dear Uncle: You have no legal obligation to supply him an address. Public services like Canada Manpower refuse such things and so can you.

Your stand is to say you are not at liberty to supply the address, but that you will let your nephew know that people are trying to get in touch with him. Then it is up to him.

He would be wise to write or call say creditors. They are more interested in getting their money than in making trouble. Usually a creditor of any standing will help a fellow who is trying to pay off a little at a time. It is the straight-arm that gets him and the heaping of a promise that comes.

Dear Doris: You ran a letter referring to Al-Anon as a resource for families living with a loved one suffering from a drinking problem. You requested that various citizens send you a referral for addresses and phone numbers.

I was glad to see that Winnipeg responded by supplying address and telephone number for contact. Thank you for continuing to recommend Al-Anon and Alateen. We who have found recovery in Al-Anon pray that others may be spared futile suffering by a family where Al-Anon, wherever they may be. — Winnipeg Al-Anon and Alateen Intergroup Public Information Committee.

Dear Winnipeg: Yours was one of the first groups to respond to my invitation to send in names and addresses in order that other anxious members of a family where there was an alcoholic could reach out for help.

There are many! I have yet to hear from. Just as soon as I have the necessary information for my column about the closest agencies, I will see that the meetings gets across. Secretaries and presidents of workers' Al-Anon and Alateen branches, write me today — now!

Confidential to Too Persistent: Then tell him outright. A young fellow may get the idea that such persistence is the way to handle a girl; but at 16 he has no right to park at your home every night to end, telephone you every night, and listen out in all when you suggest he desist.

Your life is your own, so make yourself heard! As for the sensitivity and jealousy — that's for the birds. He needs to learn, and you can help him.

Trudeau Turns Into Tourist

LOYANG, China (CP) — Obviously happy with the success of his talks with Chinese leaders, Prime Minister Trudeau became a tourist, Sunday. He explored spectacular caves, enjoyed scenery from an elegant train, and was greeted by large crowds.

Fresh from his "warm, friendly and also frank" talks with Premier Chou En-lai and a private audience with Chairman Mao Tse-tung, the visiting prime minister and his wife took an overnight train to this North China city and spent the afternoon exploring some of the most incredible cave carvings in the world. Premier Chou made the trip with them, driving under signs in English, French and Chinese welcoming the Canadian visitors.

Along the route, crowds waited for hours to applaud. At Luoyang station about 4,000 children danced, waved flags and sang songs.

With Mrs. Trudeau wearing a Mao-style jacket she had bought Saturday in Peking, the official party drove nine miles out of town to the famous Long Men caves, which are filled with delicate sculptures 16 centuries old.

They climbed steep steps, scaled wide ridges and walked several miles looking at some of the 1,300 caves and their nearly 100,000 statues, including a Buddhist figure more than 38 feet tall.

On Saturday, Mr. Trudeau expressed pleasure with the reception he had received during his 11 hours of talks with the Chinese premier and his 90-minute audience with Chairman Mao.

While his talks with Miss were largely philosophical, he and Chou dealt with practical matters as they put the finishing touches on a Canada-China trade agreement, decided on a variety of exchange programs,

While Chou disagreed with Canada's position on détente, he understood that Canada lived between two superpowers. Reciprocally, understood Canada's approach to the Middle East situation, although there was disagreement on the causes of the crisis.

Beef Flow Doesn't Cut Costs

HAMILTON (CP) — The number of cattle coming into Canada from the United States has increased dramatically in the last two weeks, but even though they are cheaper than Canadian beef there have been no significant price cuts for consumers, industry officials said here.

Charles Gracey, manager of the Canadian Cattlemen's Association, said in an interview that the flow of U.S. cattle has been increasing so fast that it is estimated that half the animals slaughtered in Ontario in the coming week will be from the U.S.

He said 14,000 head of such cattle arrived in the last week and estimated there will be 28,000 in the coming week. The number of fed cattle slaughtered in Ontario each week averages about 40,000.

Queen's Plane Stops Briefly

VANCOUVER (CP) — Queen Elizabeth chatted with 14-year-Walter Owen of British Columbia and passed out a window of her Boeing 707 during a refueling stop at Vancouver International Airport this morning.

The Queen remained on the plane, which landed in suburban Richmond at 1:09 a.m. PDT and departed at 2:34 a.m. P D T—5:34 a.m. EDT—for Honolulu.

The plane refuels again at Honolulu before landing at Fiji, where the royal party will spend Tuesday night.

The Queen is due to arrive in Canberra Wednesday and will be greeted there by Prince Philip, who has been carrying out royal engagements in Bulgaria and New Zealand.

Interest Blamed

EDMONTON (CP) — Real Caouette, national leader of the Social Credit Party, says the time has come to fight inflation at the national level and the Social Credit party is the one that could effectively combat it.

"All the blame can be placed on high interest rates," he said.

Mr. Caouette said the Bank of Canada should move to "dish out" loans to the provinces so they would not have to "run across the border to borrow."

The Social Credit leader said he could not understand why the federal government makes 50-year, interest-free loans to "foreign countries "when it won't even pass around a few dollars to the provinces."

Nats No Match for Bobcats

By MIKE BRADSHAW
Sports Staff

Belleville Bobcats took their second regular-straight regular season contest Sunday night when they sent Toronto Young Nationals, defending champion of the Metro Junior B League, home on the tail end of a 6-1 score. Toronto was the team that had broken Belleville out of the championship in the final series last year.

The Nats have a completely new look this year. Besides the fact that all the players on the team are different from last year's squad, their style has changed from the fast skating, co-ordinated type to something less. By the same token, Belleville has definetly put on better displays of team work then during the match but, it was more than enough to defeat the visitors.

Coach Moe Hunter was pleased with the work of his defensive units. "They're standing up at the blue line and checking well. It's a big improvement from last week when they kept backing in on the goalie." Defensively the Cat did do well, with Bobby Moore again holding the score down making some key saves.

Hunters penalty killing squads continued to do an excellent job successfully stopped the Nationals 11 times while short handed. The game was marred with penalties, Belleville getting 16 and Toronto 12.

The Bobcats started the game with fire in their eyes and a lust to hit everything in white sweaters that moved. Their early aggressiveness paid off at 4:41 of the opening 20 minutes they were leading 3-0.

Norm Jones combined with Harold Roberts half way through the opening frame to put the Cats on the scoreboard. Roberts slide the puck at the Toronto blue line and fed it ahead to Jones who cut in front of the net and back handed a shot into the far side of the goal for the tally.

Previous to Jones' power play, Marker Moore had robbed Toronto attackers of three separate goals.

Four minutes later Belleville went ahead 2-0 when Gary Bugden blasted a shot from the point past Toronto netminder Marty Schanck. The Nationals had had the Nats pinned in their own end for a couple of minutes firing shots at Schanck before Bugden's goal. Mike Watt, who did a good job of forechecking throughout the game, and Kevin Joudwa assisted on the score.

With just under three minutes remaining in the period, Bugden shot the puck into the Toronto end and Jones hustled in from centre ice beating the Nats' defencemen, flipped the puck out in front and Jim Richardson banged it home.

The middle period started out with the Nats in control as they tallied at the 3:34 mark. A bit of confusion on the Cats part aided the goal by the Nationals defencemen, Rick Hales. Ray Harte took the puck in the corner of the Bobcats end, passed to Wayne Lucas in front, who relayed it to Hales at the blue line. Hales ripped a slapshot past Moore to kill his shutout hopes.

Unfortunately for Belleville, their well balanced aggressiveness changed to over zealousness. In the Cats efforts to control the play of the game they committed several minor infractions; six to be exact. Toronto decided they couldn't beat them so they joined them and accumulated five penalties of their own during the second period.

Only two players appeared to be honestly interested in the outcome of the contest. They were the goalies, both of whom shutout their opponents for the remainder of the period.

The teams continued their wayward style of hockey until halfway through the third frame. At that time the Bobcats got back on track and began pressing into the Nationals end.

Paul King made the score 4-1 when he tucked in a rebound at the 12:18 mark. Andy Ricketts and Rob Freeman did the initial work on the score.

A few minutes later, captain Rob Foster tallied on a pass from Watt. Watt had taken a pass from Joudwa and carried the puck all the way down the ice to set the goal up.

At the 18:25 mark Andy Ricketts scored on a power offense. Joudwa picked up his third assist of the night as he shot the puck behind the visitors net where Freeman passed to Ricketts to complete the play and make the score 6-1.

The Bobcats next home game will be Friday at 9 p.m. when they meet St. Mike's.

Bobby Moore, Belleville Bobcats goalie, was an important factor in the Cats victory over the defending league champions, the Toronto Young Nationals. Moore robbed the Nationals of several goals, by making saves like this one. Toronto attacker Dave Currie was the victim of the theft on this occasion as he fired a wrist shot at the local goalie from 10 feet out. Referee Orval Gravelle stands over the goal line at the Belleville end but was only called on once to verify a Toronto score as the Cats won 6-1.

BOCA RATON, Fla. (AP) — Bobby Riggs, rebuffed by Billie Jean King in a bid for a return tennis match, Saturday challenged Chris Evert to play him. Miss Evert, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., made no immediate comment on the challenge.

Eagles Downed

The Belleville Screaming Eagles went down to defeat 5-3 in Cambridge at the hands of the Hornets Saturday night for their first loss of the season against two wins, in Senior A play.

The Hornets took a 4-0 lead in the first period, capitalizing on Belleville defensive errors, while Belleville missed several good scoring chances.

Billy Hway fired two goals in the first frame, with Pete Brennan and Ron Smith adding the other first period goals. The other scorers were Mike Dorrsett, Bruce Reier, and Brennan with another tally.

Al Ferguson had a pair of goals, his fourth and fifth in three games, to lead the Eagles' cause, with Mike Walt, John Gravelle, and Wayne Welker also scoring.

Minor injuries also led to the Belleville downfall, with Rollie Berry playing with bruised ribs, and Ray Campsall sitting out most of the game with a badly bruised ankle suffered in Friday night's game.

The home team had six minor penalties as opposed to Belleville's two.

In other action on the weekend, Orillia scored a 7-4 victory over Brantford, Barrie downed Welland by a 6-1 score.

Chargers Top Pierrefonds

The Centennial Chargers Senior football team Saturday defeated a visiting team from Montreal by a score of 40-6.

The Chargers downed Pierrefonds High School in an exhibition match played at Centennial.

The puck or the actual play is not really any where near the Toronto Nationals net but, Belleville forward Kevin Joudwa and Nats defenceman John Nicholson decide to get into it anyway. Both were assessed slashing penalties for their respective infractions. They weren't alone in illegal play however as a total of 28 penalties were handed out during the Bobcats 6-1 win.

OMHA Honors Whitby's Brown

TORONTO — Minor Hockey's top award, the OMHA Honor Award, for outstanding service to minor hockey, was presented Saturday to Alex Brown of Whitby, Ontario.

The announcement and presentation of the award to Mr. Brown was made at the luncheon following the 40th annual meeting of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association. Mr. Brown, long associated with minor hockey in Whitby becomes the 26th winner of the award.

Previous winners were: John Owens, Kitchener, J. S. Elliot, St. Catharines, Bert Sullivan, Delhi, Merv Duke, Elmira, William Garner, Port Dover, Errol Russell, Sarnia, L. O. "Nip" Whetstone, Cochrane, Dave Pollock, Preston, D. Kirk Havelock, Ben Hyde, Stamford, Jack Bell, Stamford, Angus Bradley, Peterborough, Orv Hodgins, Woodstock, Hale Irving, Norwood, Wilson Ainsworth, Wellington, Glen Irwin, Stratford, Harold Rivers, Forest, Bob Ewer, St. Catherines, G. Mowat, Guelph, Bill Fitsell, Gananoque, Rabori B. Graham, Watford, Lesley Skipper, St. Mary's, Len Bedel, Dresden, Byrne Martin, Bob Cagson, Gerry Karges, Port Dover.

Soccer Players Okay, Cheerleaders Great

The representatives from the Bay of Quinte area met with mixed fortunes at the eighth Annual All-Ontario Invitational Soccer Tournament in Newmarket on Saturday, winning only three games of the seven they played in.

In the E division, BCI defeated Thornlea Secondary, of Richmond Hill on a goal by Peter Crawford midway through the second half.

In the semi-final, although the game was controlled by BCI for most of the time, one unlucky break resulted in a goal for Courtice. BCI fought back hard, but were unable to score, and Courtice went on to the final against St. Clair SS.

Trenton High School, playing in the F division, went into a 2-1 lead in the game against Saugeen High School, on goals by John Uneti and Louis Forbes, however, the Port Elgin school came back with two late goals to win the game.

In the consolation semi-final, Trenton downed John F. Ross High School of Guelph 3-2 on goals by Joe Paliddini, Ed Mallette, and Jim Brier.

In the consolation final, the loca's were unable to overcome a 2-0 half-time deficit, loring to York-Humber High School 2-1, with Bob Seary scoring Trenton's only goal.

Bayside scored a first game win in the G division over Osgoode HS, from Ottawa, by a 2-1 score with Paul Dassylva scoring both the Bayside goals.

They went on to hold Eastview High School and Barrie scoreless at the end of regular time, but gave up a corner kick goal in the overtime to knock them out of any further competition.

In the cheerleading competitions, also held in Newmarket on Saturday, Bayside won the team competition, with BCI fourth.

Could Be Annual Event

Pat Carty, left, coach of the Centennial Chargers senior football team, exchanges handshakes with Bernie Young, centre, and Skip Rochette, right, the coaches of Montreal Pierrefonds seniors, after the exhibition game played at Centennial on Saturday morning. The game, which the Chargers won, 40-6, was the first of what is hoped to be an annual exchange game.

Parsons Capture Cup On Penalty Shots

It took a long time to do it but, Belleville Parsons did defeat Cobourg Tony's to win the final game of the Belleville Charity Cup. The two teams battled to a 0-0 tie after playing two hour-long periods of soccer in their play of Quinte League match. They then went scoreless in a pair of 15 minute periods.

The coin toss was definitely a goaltender's game, right down to the wire. In order to decide a winner both squads were allowed to take five penalty shots on the unprotected defenseless. When it was all over Al McNeil, the Parsons goalie, had let in just three of the Tony's shots while Hans Esser had been beaten on all five chances to produce a 5-3 Belleville victory.

Both McNeil and Esser had played outstanding games in their respective nets to produce the blank tie periods.

McNeil probably had the toughest last of either goalie however when Cobourg was awarded a penalty shot during regulation time. He made a diving save to block the shot and help what seemed to be a labelled goal.

On the first allotted penalty shot Eric Grabb, of the Tonys missed the net trying to beat McNeil to the bottom right hand corner.

Peter Heiller of the Parsons, then scored on Esser.

Alex Esser tied the game when he scored on the Tony's second shot but Phil Mo-Sherry got the Parsons back on top, 2-1, on his team's second free kick.

John Balen and Peter Bahr both scored on Cobourg's third and fourth shots but, Bill Lucas and Eric Johnston kept Belleville ahead 4-3 when they tallied on their chances.

The Parsons goalie then put the game away for his team when he dove across the goal mouth to stop Mark Vessens kick, the last for the Tonys.

Charlie Nesorovski capped off the scoring at 5-3 as he booted home the final Belleville shot.

McNeil was unanimously voted the most valuable player of the game by his team.

Atom Majors Lose Game And Maher

Towers-Food City, Belleville's entry in OMHA major atom play, went down disasterously Sunday afternoon at the hands of the visiting Oshawa team.

The locals may have lost more however than the 14-0 decision as one of their promising rookies, Danny Maher, was sidelined early in the game after being caught on the receiving end of an Oshawa check. It is suspected that Maher may have suffered a shoulder separation.

Defence played a big part in Belleville Parsons 5-3 victory over Cobourg Tonys Sunday during their final match for the Belleville Charity Cup. Plays like this one where Bill Lucas, defensive back (left) and teammate Phil McSherry, Parsons forward (right) trap the Cobourg attacker from both sides to gain possession of the ball, were prevalent throughout the Quinte Soccer League contest. Parsons captured the Cup after regulation and overtime play had expired, on penalty shots.

Mets Win 10-7 in 12
To Square Series 1-1

OAKLAND (AP) — Three observants gave New York mets ITA Sunday—the sun, umpire Augie Donatelli and Oakland thiefjacks.

But the National League champions rallied later to win a 10-7 victory in 12 innings to even the World Series at one game each. Oakland won 3-1 Saturday.

"I think we'll look better in New York," said Don Hahn, one of the Met outfielders who had to deal with the treacherous sun in the Oakland Coliseum during the weekend. "The Coliseum was an awfully tough park to field in ... one of the toughest I've ever been in."

Cleon Jones verified Hahn's report. The Met left fielder lost a bin in the sun in the first inning, giving Joe Rudi a gift double in a two-run Oakland uprising.

"It was the worst," said Jones, "the absolute worst. I've never played in a major league ball park where the sun is that bad."

The Mets didn't think much of the umpiring either. They had a ripe opportunity to break a 6-6 tie in the 10th inning with runners at first and third still one out. Felix Millan lifted a fly ball to Rudi in foul left, and Bud Harrelson attempted to tag up and score from third.

But Donatelli called him out on a play at home. Harrelson complained that Oakland catcher Ray Fosse "never touched me."

Donatelli's decision brought several Mets storming from the dugout. Willie Mays, the on-deck batter, was literally down on his knees pleading with the umpires.

"There's no question in my mind that I was safe," Harrelson said after the storm had died down and the Mets had locked up in a huddle. "That was a question in Donatelli's mind."

The Mets scored four runs in a whacky 12th inning to break the deadlock. Relief pitcher George Stone came into the tense game and pulled it down for New York after Tug McGraw gave up Oakland's final run.

"We felt like we would never give up," said McGraw, who pitched six fine innings of relief before needing help himself.

Trailing 6-2, the Mets scored four times in the ninth inning before 49,151 fans. After a walk to Cleon Jose, a single by John Milner and a hit batsman that loaded the bases, Rahn beat out an infield single for one run, Harrelson dodged to right for another and then Jerry Grote and Hahn both scored on an infield error.

After the American League champs scored a run in the 10th on a double by Reggie Jackson and a single by Sal Bando, Felix Millan led off the Mets' 11th with a two-run rally.

In the ninth, the Mets took command.

Denied earlier opportunities by Oakland pitchers, they finally put it out of reach in the 12th as Mays singled home the go-ahead run and the Mets pushed across three more tallies on two errors by second baseman Mike Andrews. It was one of five errors Oakland was to make.

"I honestly don't know what happened," Andrews said about the ball that shot through his legs in the decisive 12th. "I thought it was right in my glove."

Erratic fielding produced six errors in the game, which at times looked like a sandlot affair. It went four hours and 12 minutes, a record for the World Series. Also a total of 11 pitchers was used by both sides, and that tied a World Series record.

"It reminded me of an early exhibition game," said Oakland pitcher Blue Moon Odom. "Things can get sloppy this time of year. Guys get tired, conditions are tough and it's a shame things like this have to happen in the World Series."

The series resumes Tuesday night in New York's Shea Stadium.

Tom Seaver will pitch for the Mets and Jim (Catfish) Hunter for Oakland in a battle of right-handed aces. The game will start at 8:30 p.m. EDT and be televised on CBC.

Saturday, Oakland pitcher Ken Holtzman, who didn't have the usually ad-hoc all-season because of the American League designated hitting against Jon Matlack, who allowed only three hits, all of them in that inning.

Holtzman pitched only five innings but secured the victory with shutout relief from Rollie Fingers and Darold Knowles.

The Athletics scored both their unearned runs with two outs in the first inning against Matlack, who allowed only three hits, all of them in that inning.

Donohue Runs Away From Field

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP) — Mark Donohue of Reading, Pa., ran away from the field Sunday at Laguna Seca Raceway to win not only the $75,000 Monterey Castrol Grand Prix, but the 1973

MARK DONOHUE

Canadian-American Challenge Cup series.

Using a backup engine bolted into his turbo-charged Porsche minutes before the race began, Donohue started from 18th place in the 36-car field, but never worked his way through traffic.

For the last 21 laps, Donohue was out for a Sunday drive, already having lapped the second-place car driven by Jackie Oliver of England.

The winner toured the 66 laps, 125.4 miles in 1:13.37 at an average speed of 102.19 m/es an hour to win $12,795.

Finishing a distant second was Oliver for $18,232, two laps down in a Kendall Porsche.

John Cordts of Huntsville, Ont., completed 26 laps—14th best—to pick up $900.

Crusaders' Goalies Are Hot

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Cleveland Crusaders, one of three teams still undefeated in the World Hockey Association, believe goaltending is the key to success.

"You've got to have good goaltending in this league, and we've got it," said coach Skip Krake after the Crusaders defeated Chicago Cougars 3-2 in overtime Sunday.

It was their second win in three starts. In it left Jacques Crusaders one point behind New England Whalers in the East Division. The Whalers slipped New York Golden Blades 2-1 in overtime Sunday for their third win in four games.

In other Sunday games, Edmonton Oilers defeated Houston Aeros 5-2, Winnipeg Jets beat Vancouver Blazers 6-3 and Minnesota Fighting Saints downed Toronto Toros 5-2.

Saturday, the Aeros beat Los Angeles Sharks 4-3, New England beat Chicago 6-4 and Cleveland topped Quebec Nordiques 6-3.

Bob Whidden of Sudbury, Ont., and the Crusaders' No. 2 goaltender, made his first start against the Cougars and stopped 25 shots, 12 in the third period.

Whidden said his "arms were hanging out there, especially in the third period."

"I thought for a while I was going to have to tie them up to keep them up."

Cleveland was helped by a controversial call by referee Bill Friday in the overtime period. Chicago's Joe Hardy fell on the puck to freeze it after breaking his stick, and Friday sent him to the penalty box for delaying the game. A short time later, Bo Bochanan beat goalie Andre Gill for the winning score.

Chicago's Rosie Paiement, who tried unsuccessfully to get the puck away from Hardy, argued the call.

"I told him I gave him enough time," Friday said. "It was a tough penalty to call."

The Oilers and Saints are both undefeated in the West Division and lead with four points.

Edmonton scored four goals in the first period, two of them within 30 seconds of the opening faceoff, to defeat Houston. Ed Climie packed the Oilers with two goals and Frank Hughes scored twice for the Aeros.

Gordie Howe, who set up two Houston goals Saturday including the winner by Gordon Labossiere with 2½ minutes remaining in the third period, assisted on one of Hughes's goals.

In Winnipeg, high-scoring Bobby Hull scored twice for the Jets who scored two goals in the first two minutes of the opening period.

The Jets led 3-0 after the first period and spotted the Blazers two goals in the second before adding two more themselves before the period ended.

Canucks Break Jinx

By GLENN COLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Vancouver Canucks have had little success on the road since they entered the National Hockey League in 1970-71.

Sunday night, the Canucks won their first game of the season and their first game in Buffalo in two seasons by defeating the Sabres 3-1.

In other action, Chicago Black Hawks and Minnesota North Stars and Los Angeles Kings and New York Rangers battled to 1-1 ties, Boston Bruins clipped New York Islanders 3-2, and Philadelphia Flyers slammed Detroit Red Wings 7-2.

The Canucks dropped a 4-3 decision to the Canadiens in Montreal Saturday, Toronto Maple Leafs dumped Los Angeles 6-3, Atlanta Flames whipped St. Louis Blues 1-0, the Rangers defeated Pittsburgh Penguins 4-2, Boston trampled Detroit 8-4 and Philadelphia blanked the Buffalo Sabres 3-0.

Defenceman Jocelyn Guevremont says the Canucks "have to play better than we did with Gerry Smith as our No. 1 goaltender."

Smith stopped 27 of Buffalo's 28 shots in Sunday's game but the Vancouver hero was Orland Kurtenbach who scored twice in the third period to provide the margin of victory.

Tony Hodge slammed home Bobby Orr's rebound during a power play to give the Bruins their first straight win of the season and the lead in the Adams Division. Hodge's fourth goal for the Boston right winger, who also has seven assists.

At Philadelphia, the Flyers ran their record to 3-0 by handing Detroit their first defeat in four. For the second night in a row, Philadelphia received two unanswered goals, with the first, a backhand shot by Don Saleski tying the game at 2-2 at 9:37 of the second period.

The Flyers, who trailed 2-0 in the first period, forged into the lead at 12:34 of the second when Dave Schultz batted in a rebound after a set up by Orest Kindrachuk.

Philadelphia clinched it in the final period when Rick MacLeish scored at 10:46 after a pass from Terry Crisp while Bill Flett was serving a tripping minor.

At New York, ex-Ranger Bob Nevin scored on a breakaway at 15:10 to give the Kings their first lead of the game. Nevin took a pass from Butch Goring at the New York blueline and then beat Ranger goalie Gilles Villemure to the ice before slipping the puck by Rangers Murphy and the Rangers' goal in the second.

3 Straight For Reds

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rhode Island Reds might be the team to watch in the American Hockey League this year.

The Reds rolled to their third consecutive victory to improve their fashion Sunday night, beating Nova Scotia Voyageurs, defending Calder Cup champions, 4-2 in Providence, R.I.

Rhode Island, a farm team for New York Rangers of the National Hockey League, got goals from rookie Dennis Ververgaert and Rick Middleton, defenceman Larry Sacharuk and forwards Norm Dennis, Andre Peloffy and Jerry Butler.

The Reds have rolled to lopsided victories in each of their three starts. They have outscored their opponents 20-7.

Nova Scotia, affiliated with Montreal Canadiens, managed goals by Len Cunning and Mickey Ojay. They have lost two of three starts.

In games Saturday, New Haven whipped Hershey, 7-2, Cincinnati edged Virginia 5-4, and Boston and Rochester battled to a 3-3 tie.

RETAINS TITLE

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Raisel Herrera of Mexico City, both eyes virtually battered shut through the final five rounds, hung on to win a split decision over Thailand's Venice Borkorsor and retain his World Boxing Council bantamweight title Saturday night. Herrera, 22, weighing in at the 118-pound limit, won the fight when he knocked Borkorsor, 117½ to the floor in the seventh round with a crashing left hook. Without that knockdown, the WBC undoubtedly would have won the fight before 12,200 in the Forum.

ORLAND KURTENBACH

Scratched stopped 27 of Buffalo's 28 shots in Sunday's game but the Vancouver hero was Orland Kurtenbach who scored twice in the third period to provide the margin of victory.

Tony Hodge slammed home Bobby Orr's rebound during a power play to give the Bruins their first straight win of the season and the lead in the Adams Division. Hodge's fourth goal for the Boston right winger, who also has seven assists.

At Philadelphia, the Flyers ran their record to 3-0 by handing Detroit their first defeat in four. For the second night in a row, Philadelphia received two unanswered goals, with the first, a backhand shot by Don Saleski tying the game at 2-2 at 9:37 of the second period.

The Flyers, who trailed 2-0 in the first period, forged into the lead at 12:34 of the second when Dave Schultz batted in a rebound after a set up by Orest Kindrachuk.

Philadelphia clinched it in the final period when Rick MacLeish scored at 10:46 after a pass from Terry Crisp while Bill Flett was serving a tripping minor.

At New York, ex-Ranger Bob Nevin scored on a breakaway at 15:10 to give the Kings their first lead of the game. Nevin took a pass from Butch Goring at the New York blueline and then beat Ranger goalie Gilles Villemure to the ice before slipping the puck by Rangers Murphy and the Rangers' goal in the second.

Bombers Move Within Range

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Winnipeg Blue Bombers quarterback Don Jonas directed a 60-yard march that led to the winning field goal by Walt McKee in an 18-17 triumph Sunday over Saskatchewan Roughriders.

The two points moved the Bombers within range of third place and the final playoff berth in the Western Football Conference.

The Bombers, first-place finishers last season, jumped two points ahead of the cellar-dwelling British Columbia Lions and trail Calgary Stampeders by only one point.

The third-place Stampeders host 20-8 to Ottawa Roughriders Sunday in a Canadian Football League interlocking game in Calgary.

B.C., injury-riddled most of the season, took a 27-13 whipping from Edmonton Eskimos in Vancouver Saturday night.

After the second struggles, Edmonton was in first place, one point ahead of Saskatchewan. Calgary was six points behind the second-place Roughriders.

Each western club has three games remaining.

McKee's winning field goal, an 18-yarder, followed four earlier misses. He collected three in seven attempts and got singles on two attempts that missed.

In addition, he converted the only Winnipeg touchdown, a one-yard charge by Jim Calip in the first quarter.

Calip's touchdown followed a fumbled punt by Saskatchewan's Terry Bobych.

Roughrider fullback George Reed, held to 46 yards rushing in the game, scored touchdowns on runs of five and two yards.

Ken Nagenbacan contributed two converts and a single on a wide field goal attempt as the Roughriders led 17-15 with four minutes remaining, setting up the late Bomber march into playoff contention.

Dave Cutler produced two field goals, tying a CFL record as Edmonton bounced the Lions. Cutler now has 30 three-pointers, equalling the record set by Ted Gerela of B.C. in 1968.

Roy Bell, the leading ground gainer in Canada, exploded for a 76-yard scoring run to put the Eskimos' victory in safekeeping. He gained 185 yards on 26 carries to become the first back to surpass 1,000 yards this season.

Flanker George McGowan took a four-yard pass and tight end Tyrone Walls a 13-yard pass for touchdowns from Bruce Lemmerman. Cutler converted two of the three scores and added a single.

Mike Wilson scored the only B.C. touchdown, rambling 38 yards with an interception of a Lemmerman pass. Ivan MacMillan kicked two of three field goals attempted and converted Wilson's major.

The Lions were without halfback Monroe Eley and fullback Johnny Musso was handicapped by stretched knee ligaments. B.C.'s offensive team has scored only one touchdown in the last three games.

Ottawa stopped Calgary with only 24 yards along the ground and opened a 25-1 halftime lead that was seldom in danger. Peter Liske of Calgary completed 29 of 45 passes for 387 yards but couldn't keep drives moving consistently.

Liske watched Rod Woodward streak 62 yards after intercepting a pass to score Ottawa's final touchdown late in the game. An interception by Jerry Campbell also set up a 29-yard touchdown pass to flanker Hugh Oldham from Jerry Keeling, former Calgary quarterback.

Ticats Still In the Hunt

TORONTO (CP) — Centre Paul Desjardins of Toronto Argonauts summed it up: "We know what we had to do, but don't ask me why we didn't do it."

Coach Jerry Williams of Hamilton Tiger-Cats said: "What the hell We won, didn't we? Perhaps both teams have played better games."

Neither team was impressive, but the Ticats sustained their hosts 16-11 Sunday to tighten the Eastern Football Conference race. The fourth-place Tiger-Cats now have 11 points, one less than Montreal Alouettes, and two behind the Argos and Ottawa Rough Riders.

The Rough Riders moved into a share of first when they whipped Calgary Stampeders 33-6 Sunday in a Canadian Football League interlocking game in the western city.

Quarterback Chuck Ealey didn't throw for any touchdowns, but he moved the Ticats close enough for four field goals and a single by place kicker Ian Sunter and another injury punter Alec Lockington.

Ealey, who completed 11 of 18 pass attempts for 122 yards, also picked up 117 yards rushing on 19 carries. The Argos had 85 yards rushing and 99 on passes.

"I didn't want to throw long. I was scared of the strong wind," said Ealey. "You couldn't fool around with that.

"They left big gaps. It was not my intention that they should give me the openings and I did my best to take advantage."

Hamilton got its other two points when Toronto kickere-Zoran Andrusyshyn was tackled in his end zone for a safety touch.

Quarterback Joe Theismann of the Argos, outstanding in Toronto's 27-10 over Calgary last week, had one of his worst games against the Ticats, although he scored a touchdown.

He completed only six of 13 attempts and picked up only 27 yards on five scrambles. Andrusyshyn converted the touchdown and added a field goal and single.

Coach John Rauch of the Argos said: "Hamilton played well enough to win. We knew what we were up against, we knew all we had to do was to win to knock them out, but we didn't do it."

The Ticats, who have defeated the Argos in two of three league games this season, led 4-3 after the first quarter. The teams were tied 6-6 at the half and Hamilton led 16-6 at the end of the third quarter.

With more than 10 minutes remaining and Hamilton leading 16-11, Theismann attempted a rush that fumbled the ball into the hands of Ticat BOB Krouse. Toronto got the ball again, but Hamilton's defence held.

Abdul-Jabbar Missed by Bucks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"We always seem to bring out the best in the big guys we face," said coach Larry Costello of Milwaukee Bucks.

Maybe that's because the Bucks have one of the best-Old men in the National Basketball Association: Kareem Abdul-Jabbar.

Sunday night, Jabbar got into foul trouble and it was Seattles big men, Jim McDaniels and Spencer Haywood, who helped the Supersonics to a 100-100 victory.

McDaniels scored a career high of 29 points, and the Sonics scored 55 points while Jabbar was on the bench for 11 minutes.

In other NBA games Sunday, Detroit beat Cleveland 95-83 and Golden State whipped Phoenix 120-95.

In the only American Basketball Association game, Utah topped San Antonio 101-95.

Saturday, Los Angeles edged Buffalo 125-122, Houston trimmed New York 98-88, Boston beat Philadelphia 111-106, Kansas City-Omaha beat Atlanta 117-102, Chicago defeated Detroit 101-94, Portland walloped Capital 123-87, and Milwaukee defeated Golden State 97-85.

ABA Action Saturday, New York beat Carolina 111-107, Pittsburgh defeated San Antonio 117, Denver defeated Virginia 125-120 and Kentucky edge Utah 103-101.

Rick Barry led Golden State Sunday with 23 points, 13 coming in the final period.

Cleveland, in its fourth year in the league, showed little of native punch, except from right Davis who scored 18 points and grabbed 13 rebounds. Bob Lanier led Detroit with 29 points.

Jimmy Jones and Ron Boone led the way for Utah, which opened up a large lead in the third period. Jones finished with 30 points while Boone had 21.

Hadl Pitching - Jackson Catching

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Charlie Daney Dallas Cowboys upset much of Sunday's slate in Los Angeles chasing speedy Ram receiver Harold Jackson. But he didn't catch up with him until after the game.

"You're not all-American," declared Waters, giving Jackson's hand. "You're all world."

Jackson caught touchdown passes of 65, 18, 67 and 36 yards from John Hadl as the Rams topped the Cowboys 37-31. Jackson hauled in seven passes for the afternoon for a whopping 238 yards.

The rejuvenated Rams now are 5-0, one of only two unbeaten National Football League teams. Minnesota Vikings, 17-13 winners over the San Francisco 49ers, are also 5-0.

Elsewhere, Pittsburgh Steelers dropped from the ranks of the unbeaten, falling to Cincinnati Bengals 19-7. Buffalo Bills beat Baltimore Colts 31-13; Denver Broncos beat Houston Oilers 46-39 ; New York Jets edged New England Patriots 9-7; Oakland Raiders downed San Diego Chargers 27-17; Atlanta Falcons buried Chicago Bears 45-6; New Orleans Saints upset Detroit Lions 30-13; Philadelphia Eagles edged St. Louis Cardinals 23-20; Washington Redskins took New York Giants31-3; and Kansas City Chiefs played to a 10-10 tie with Green Bay Packers.

Miami Dolphins play the Browns at Cleveland tonight.

Jackson, obtained from Philadelphia in the trade that sent the Eagles, was delighted with his performance.

"This was my best game ever," said the 175-pound speedster. "And Hadl is the best man I've ever had throwing to me."

Hadl, another recent Ram acquisition, connected on nine of 14 tosses for 217 yards and four touchdowns before had done.

Minnesota withstood an aerial barrage from San Francisco's Steve Spurrier, who completed 31 of 48 passes for a club record 338 yards. Safety Paul Krause intercepted Spurrier twice in the fourth quarter, however, to kill ther drives.

Rookie Charles Clark ran for 113 yards and one touchdown, and Horst Muhlmann kicked four field goals for Cincinnati against Pittsburgh.

The Baltimore defense held O. J. Simpson of Buffalo to just 26 yards rushing in the first half, but the former Heisman Trophy winner ran wild the last two periods, winding up with 148 yards on 23 carries.

Simpson now has a remarkable 812 yards rushing to five games.

Simpson scored twice, once on a 75-yard jaunt, as the surprising Bills increased their record to 4-1 and remained tied for the American Conference East lead.

Charley Johnson had a big day for Denver, completing 16 of 19 passes for 214 yards and four touchdowns—three to Haven Moses. Johnson now has thrown for more than 20,000 career yards. Houston now is 0-5 and coach Bill Peterson's job is reported in jeopardy.

Bill Demory, a rookie free agent pressed into service after the Jets lost quarterbacks Joe Namath and Al Woodall to injuries, directed New York on that resulted in three, Scoby Hoerfield field goals against New England.

Oakland coach John Madden refused to change quarterbacks despite a poor showing by Ken Stabler against San Diego in the first half. Stabler responded by completing eight of 11 passes, two for touchdowns, in the second half to spark the Raiders.

Stewart to Retire

LONDON (CP) — Three-time world auto racing champion Jackie Stewart of Scotland, who has won more Grand Prix races than any other driver, announced Sunday that he will quit racing.

The jaunty 34-year-old king of Formula One racing announced his decision only eight days after his team-mate Francois Cevert of France, was killed while practising for the U.S. Grand Prix at Watkins Glen, N.Y.

There had been speculation that Stewart might retire ever since he clinched his third world crown after the Italian Grand Prix last month.

Stewart has competed in 99 Grand Prix races, scoring an all-time record 27 victories—two more than his idol and fellow Scot, the late Jimmy Clark, who was killed on the track in 1968.

In the nine years he has been Grand Prix driver, nine of Stewart's closest friends have died in motor racing.

Reported a millionaire through his motor racing earnings, Stewart lives with his wife, Helen, and their sons, Mark and Paul, in Switzerland.

His decision to "quit, coupled with the Cevert tragedy, means that the crack Tyrrell-Ford team is left without its established driver for 1974.

Stewart said Jody Scheckter, 23-year-old South African, would fill the spot left by his retirement. Scheckter has been driving for the McLaren factory team.

Stewart, the most famous and probably the richest racing driver in the world, said he would be working in the future as a consultant for the Ford Motor Co. of Europe on special projects and production development.

He added that he would not be leaving motor racing entirely, as he hoped to get involved in the administrative side as well as continuing his involvement in safety aspects of the sport.

"As from today, I am no longer a racing driver," he told a news conference at a London hotel.

"I have retired and I am very happy about it.

"I decided to retire way back in April 5 but I could not announce my decision before today.

Last year we gave you the rotary and super quiet snowmobiling.

This year, JX performance.

Last year we revolutionized the snowmobile. We introduced the first North American rotary engine and the first truly quiet snowmobile.

Now we offer you another radical concept: 1974 distinction in performance. The JX. This machine isn't a rehash of worn-out parts and tired claims. It's totally new. It's an exciting blend of breath-taking speed, balance and control. It has performance so new, we needed to build a new line of snowmobiles. JX performance ("J" for Johnson, "X" for extra everything) takes snowmobiling beyond the obvious.

Each red and black JX 650, 440 or 400 houses newly designed alternate-firing twins. High horses of compact size make the JX lighter. To help it go faster. You get reed valves for sustained power. Wide range transmissions. Extra long one-piece moulded track for sure grip. And controlled-ride suspension for even smoother performance. Driving one is the only way you'll really appreciate JX performance. And it's all backed with the know-how that made Johnson famous for dependability.

Get the whole story from your Johnson dealer. Try any of the seven members of Johnson's snowmobile family, from the fun-lovin' 21 hp to the competitive 650/50hp. And get on to something great.

The revolutionary rotary comes in two exciting horsepowers. The proven 35 and new 45.

Super Quiet
The "Golden Ghost". It's only 73 dB(A) and some people can talk louder than that.

JX 400/35 HP.

JX 440/40 HP.

Alberta Museum Is Used

EDMONTON (CP) — The Alberta Provincial Museum as an Archives doesn't look like a museum.

Ancient pinball machines take a pounding at a nickel a play. Old school halls and artifacts can be handled.

Guides demonstrate quilting and spinning.

"We're moving away from the stuffy view of museums as institutions with Monstone fronts," says museum director Ray Harrison.

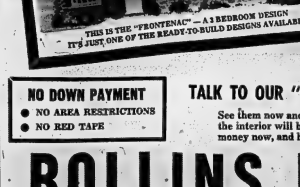
"If you're not moving with the community, what good are you?"

The museum has expanded the appeal since opening six years ago to encourage more participation by visiting school classes and increased use by organizations such as the ethnic groups that present concerts every Sunday.

An example on-wheels that will travel throughout Alberta is planned as a series of exhibitions in cities outside the province.

"As a provincial museum, our community is the whole province," says Mr. Harrison. "The museum is an orientation centre for the province. When you leave it, you should enjoy the rest of the province more because of what you have learned about it."

There's still an Australian accent when Mr. Harrison speaks. He says that from the minute he stepped ashore in Victoria in 1950 he felt there "was something unique in Canada and its public environment."



He has always been interested in museums and during research days from the 1870s Mr. Harrison decided to move into the field.

Mr. Harrison became involved in work to preserve the Maritime Museum in Vancouver. He began collecting artifacts and travelled across Canada and the United States talking to others interested in preserving history.

He gave up his business as an architect in 1957 and accepted a job with the Canada Natural History in Regina before coming to the Alberta provincial museum in 1962.

Tuesday, Oct. 16

Aries (March 21-April 19) Today is the day to seek out those whose co-operation you need. Your requests will fall upon very receptive ears.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) Some surprising benefits will come your way today through work or service for another and it won't be just money.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) This will be a good day for you. You will be able to move your plans forward with surprising ease. Don't waste time.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) Your best results will come today if you follow instincts, hunches. Don't question that small voice. Act on it!

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) You will sparkle and shine today with your club or group. When addressing others, don't come on too freely—as well applause.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Career benefits are likely today. If you think you rate advancement, discuss things with the boss—he should be in a good mood.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Continue to promote your most important ideas while the iron is still hot. Work fast, opportunity may vanish as quickly as it appeared.

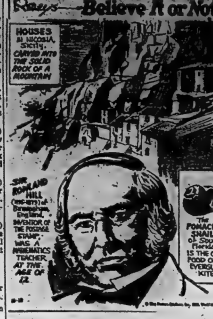
Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't be afraid to push new ideas or techniques where your work is concerned today. Look for methods to save time and money.



Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Today you will indirectly hear about an unusual opportunity. Make it a point to get more information first hand.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) Changes that affect your home today will be for the better. All who share your roof will benefit some way.

Art Professor Responsible for UFO Sighting

CAMDEN, S.C. (AP) — An unidentified flying object sighted by thousands of Kershaw County residents Saturday landed Sunday and turned out to be the work of an art professor.

Local radio stations and law enforcement offices were flooded with calls Saturday afternoon from residents who sighted the object in the sky.

It landed in an elderly woman's yard about nine miles from Camden. Observers said it appeared to be a gas balloon made of a material similar to tinfoil.

Attached to the balloon—which an observer said measured about 80 feet by 12 feet—were two questionnaire cards.

There was a request that the balloon and the cards be mailed to Prof. Howard W. Woody, Atmospheric Sky Sculpture Research Project, Art Department, University of South Carolina, Columbia, S.C.

Prof. Woody, reached in Columbia, was excited by the news of the landing. He said he planned to drive to Camden and interview those who saw it.

Rush Ends Tonight

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Immigration offices across Canada are handling their last rush of applications for landed immigrant status from illegal residents as the government's deadline of midnight tonight approaches.

For the last two months, all visitors who entered the country before last Nov. 30 and overstayed their welcome have been encouraged to apply for official landed status—with a promise of no recriminations for not having gone through the proper channels in the first place.

Persons arriving since Nov. 30 and remaining illegally are not covered in this latest move.

A quick check across the country by The Canadian Press Sunday showed at least 48,000 persons covered by the registration so far, with two provinces unaccounted for.

The actual number of registrants is lower than the total of those affected because in cases where entire families—or several members—are involved, only the heads of those families have been asked to register.

In Metropolitan Toronto, for example, almost 12,000 applications have been made on behalf of almost 30,000 persons.

The government has said it has no idea how many illegal immigrants are in Canada—a fact which makes it difficult for the department of manpower and immigration to estimate the success of the program.

But most regional officials canvassed Sunday were pleased with the response, especially during the weekend as immigration offices remained open both Saturday and Sunday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. local times. Tonight, there is the special extension of opening hours to midnight.

In Halifax, a department spokesman described the weekend response as "fantastic."

Almost 330 persons registered throughout the Atlantic provinces, he said.

In all, 1,630 are affected so far by the two-month total of applications received in Nova Scotia and Newfoundland, and another 1,316 in New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island, he said.

In Quebec, 13,617 persons were covered by registrations by close of offices Sunday, almost 6,000 of them in the Montreal region and the balance in the Quebec City region.

Metropolitan Toronto had registered about 23,700 persons going into the weekend and an immigration spokesman said he expected about another 2,000 to be added to the list by the time offices close tonight.

Saskatchewan and Manitoba figures were not immediately available but 2,282 have registered for landed immigrant status in Alberta and the Northwest Territories.

In British Columbia and the Yukon, 4,612 persons so far are covered by applications, 212 of them lodged Saturday and Sunday.

The immigration department already has approved many applications and Ron Bull, a department spokesman in Toronto, said he expects all registrations to have been processed in about two weeks' time.

A number also have been deferred by assessment officers for consideration by senior officials.

Possible grounds for rejection of an application and deportation include "serious" criminal records and certain health factors, such as communicable disease, said Mr. Bull.

Congress Checking Out Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional committees have started background investigations on vice-presidential nominee Gerald R. Ford as a prelude to confirmation hearings.

Majorities in both the Senate and House of Representatives already have said they plan to vote for the 60-year-old Michigan congressman, unless something unexpected turns up in his background.

Ford, already given a "vice-presidential office," jet plane and entry to intelligence briefings and cabinet meetings by President Nixon, said he doesn't know of anything that could cause problems.

Meanwhile, Ford has confirmed that he did not include contributions of $11,500 in his signed declaration to the House clerk after the 1970 elections, saying it was because he had endorsed the contributions over to the Republican national congressional committee for other Republican campaigns.

The chairmen of the House judiciary and senate rules committees said Saturday, as Ford's nomination was submitted to Congress, that his committees plans a full investigation on the House Republican leader.

Representative Peter Rodino (Dem. N.J.), said committee investigators will review Ford's background and financial situation. He said he hopes hearings can start within two weeks. Television coverage will be permitted, Rodino said.

Senator Howard Cannon (Dem. Nev.), held a preliminary meeting of the Senate rules committee, at which it approved his proposal for a full FBI investigation of Ford.

Cannon has said it will be at least two weeks before public hearings can start, but committee sources said that the schedule will be reviewed at a meeting Tuesday afternoon.

The committee approved Cannon's proposal to open the hearings to television coverage.

Nixon's Kitty Examined

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate committee looking into the Watergate political espionage scandal has begun an investigation into President Nixon's personal finances, says the Washington Post.

An article in Sunday's editions quoted unnamed sources as saying the committee plans to examine Nixon's bank records and also wants certain documents from the New York accounting firm that audited the purchase of the president's residential properties in Florida and California.

Street War Persists in Thailand

BANGKOK (AP) — A street war between foes of Thailand's ruling military clique and the regime's troops and police persisted for the second day today despite the appointment of a civilian premier who promised a new constitution and elections.

Only a handful of students had firearms when the bloody clashes exploded Sunday after an orderly week-long campaign for a new constitution. But today students with automatic weapons exchanged fire with police holed up in a precinct station.

King Bhumibol Adulyadej named Dr. Sanya Thammasak, rector of Thammasak Dshrerdity, Sunday to replace Premier Thanom Kittikachorn, but throngs of demonstrators confronted the army's troops and tanks today, and sporadic shooting sent a steady stream of casualties to already crowded hospitals.

Complete casualty figures were not available, but one doctor said a check of four hospitals indicated more than 163 dead so far. There were many more wounded and injured, he said.

Sanya said he will put together a civilian government, but there was widespread speculation that it will be a front for the military clique that has ruled Thailand for the last 16 years.

Thanom remained supreme commander of the armed forces.

There was no word of Field Marshal Prephas Charusathien, the deputy premier who is considered the most powerful man in the ruling group.

The students demand a new constitution, real civilian government for the first time in a quarter of a century, and the release of 13 critics of the government jailed 10 days ago on treason charges.

Club Seeks Aid

TORONTO (CP) — The German-Canadian Club Harmonie has asked German businessmen in Toronto to raise $700,000 to get the club out of debt. Club president Rudy Herbst said German-owned businesses such as Volkswagen have done well in Canada because German-Canadians provided a ready market and encouraged other Canadians to buy German-made goods. As Harmonie promotes German-Canadian relations, Mr. Herbst said he feels "businesses owe us something in return."

Unbroken Spirit

LONDON (CP) — A West End shop which had its windows shattered by a bomb in a recent wave of terrorist attacks bore this sign pasted over the broken glass next day: "It's a blasted nuisance, but we're open for business as usual."

Consul Released

GUADALAJARA, Mexico (AP) — The honorary British consul in Ojadalajara was released by kidnappers who held him for four days, but an industrialist who also was kidnapped last Wednesday still is missing.

The consul, Dr. Anthony Dawes Williams, returned home unharmed Sunday night.

"I feel great," he said, waving to a group of reporters and well-wishers who gathered in front of his house. He arrived in a taxi with two unidentified persons.

Although the same Communist group said it kidnapped Williams and Fernando Aranguren, a 36-year-old cooking oil manufacturer, Williams said he did not see the other man and learned about his abduction through radio reports.

TILLSONBURG, Ont. (CP) — Seven persons, including five members of one family, were killed Saturday night in a two-car collision near this town 20 miles northwest of Simcoe.

Arms Pour Into War

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Syrian and Iraqi forces launched a new offensive against Israeli troops in Syria today, the Israeli military command announced. It said tank and artillery battles were raging on the Egyptian front.

With the war in its 13th day, United States transport planes were rushing arms to Israel's battered war machine and a Soviet airlift was doing the same for the Egyptians and Syrians.

Israel said its ground and air forces were "holding off" the new offensive on the Syrian earlier claim was premature.

The U.S. announced Monday that it has begun replenishing Israel's arsenal because the "massive" Soviet airlift to the Arabs threatened to unsettle the military balance in the Middle East. The state department said the U.S. airlift began last weekend.

Meanwhile, the Soviet Union announced it will assist the Arabs "in every way" to liberate the territories occupied by Israel. Tass, the Soviet news agency said the pledge was given Algerian President Houari Boumedienne during previously unannounced visit to the Kremlin Sunday and Monday.

U.S. officials declined to say whether the new U.S. aid to Israel includes tanks and planes. Portuguese sources said U.S. military cargo planes, Phantom jets and tankers for in-flight refuelling of planes were landing every 15 minutes at a U.S. base in the Azores and then heading east.

State department spokesman Robert McCloskey said that since last Wednesday, the Russians have delivered about 4,000 tons of military equipment in 200 flights to Egypt and Syria. Israel said Soviet ships were bringing heavier equipment to the Syrian port of Latakia.

Although heavy fire continued on both the Syrian front and the Sinai Desert alongside the Suez canal, no major change in the positions of the Arab and Israeli armies was reported Monday.

Egypt's Sadat Warns Missiles Are Poised

CAIRO (AP) — President Anwar Sadat warned today that Egyptian missiles are poised to strike "the very depths of Israel any minute," but that Egypt was ready to accept a ceasefire and attend a peace conference at the United Nations on two conditions.

He also said Egypt was ready "this minute" to open the Suez canal as a "contribution to world prosperity. I have ordered the Suez canal authorities to take the next necessary steps. Preparations are under way for the canal to be ready for navigation."

Egyptian missiles called Zafer, which means victorious, can cross the Sinai. These land to-land missiles are ready now to be launched to the very depths of Israel any minute, Sadat said.

But he added Egypt is "ready to accept a ceasefire" and was sending an open letter to President Nixon outlining Egypt's conditions for peace.

Ottawa Backing Israel

OTTAWA (CP) — Israel is "entitled to live behind secure and recognizable boundaries" and has the right to exist as a sovereign state, Secretary of State Minister Mitchell Sharp said Monday.

Replying in the Commons to New Democratic Party Leader David Lewis, the minister said the government sticks with its support of Israel as a fair position.

Mr. Sharp, handling a series of questions on the Canadian position on the Arab-Israeli war, said he would support requests for a special Commons debate on the war if it can be arranged by House leaders of the various parties.

The special debate was sought by Claude Wagner, Conservative external affairs critic, and later by Mr. Lewis.

Answering former prime minister John Diefenbaker, Mr. Sharp said the government holds that the war began with Arab attacks on Israel.

Mr. Diefenbaker asked whether the government made more than a "merely-considered" statement about who attacked whom. Had the government declared that the attack was unjustified under international law?

Mr. Sharp replied that such a statement is unlikely to lead to a settlement of the war.

Soviets Make Promise

MOSCOW (Reuter) — The Soviet Union has promised "every assistance" in the Middle East fight to regain Arab territories occupied by Israel.

The Soviet promise was made to Algerian President Houari Boumedienne during a 12-hour visit Sunday and Monday.

In a public speech after the Algerian president had left Moscow, Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin said the Kremlin sought "guaranteed security for all the countries and peoples of the area."

Marines On Way

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States will send about 2,000 additional Marines to the Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean as a result of the Middle East crisis, a defence department spokesman said.

The marines will be transported aboard the carrier Iwo Jima from Mooredeer Bay.

The decision to send the marines was disclosed a day after President Nixon pledged that he will not allow Israel's security to be jeopardized.

Immigrants Flock To Offices

By ELMO CIPRIETTI
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canada's 60-day blitz to transform illegal residents into landed immigrants ended Monday, and the final-day rush of almost 4,000 applicants brought the total registered to about 39,000.

Promoted by a $1.4-million advertising campaign, the program offered virtually amnesty to any person who entered the country before last Nov. 30 and stayed illegally.

Saturday coverage in Canada's official languages and more than a dozen others, over time work by 2,000 immigration and information officers and a "cell of a lot of hard work," accounted for the success of the program, an immigration official said.

A cross-Canada survey by The Canadian Press just after midnight showed 3,753 illegal residents decided to emerge from hiding on the last day of grace.

Baby Bonus Backed By All

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons opened its fall sitting Monday with all parties pledging support for another major family allowance increase.

The display of unity came as the House began second-reading debate on a bill to raise allowances from the current level of $13 a child to a monthly average of $20 Jan. 1. The proposed legislation was introduced in July.

The increase will be the second in three months. Allowances were raised Oct. 1 to the flat $25 from a monthly average of $7.25 a child as part of a government anti-inflation program.

The bill now before the House gives the provinces the right to set benefit levels for individual age groups, but the total expenditure must average $20 per child under 18. For example, a province could allot $28 a month for each child in a high-income family, and $18 a month for those in a low-income family.

Lower Taxes Coming

OTTAWA (CP) — A 6.6-per-cent increase in 1974 income-tax exemptions and tax-bracket limits was announced today by Finance Minister John Turner to offset the effects of continued inflation.

He said the result will be lower taxes for all taxpayers compared with what they would have had to pay under existing exemptions and tax scales.

The move, announced in a news release, is in accordance with a tax indexing plan proposed by Mr. Turner in his Feb. 19 budget speech and later approved by Parliament.

The result of this will be to reduce taxes for all taxpayers from the amounts they would be required to pay in the absence of indexing. It is expected that some 175,000 taxpayers will be dropped entirely from the rolls.

The legislation passed by Parliament, an amendment to the Income Tax Act, provided for major personal exemptions and deductions to be raised each year to reflect changes in the consumer price index.

This means that the major personal income tax exemptions and the tax bracket limits are to be raised by 6.6 per-cent."

The basic personal exemption for a single person will increase to $1,708 from $1,600, while the married exemption will go to $1,462 from $1,400 for each person, a total of $2,924 from $2,800.

As well, the reduction for the aged and disabled will be $1,096, up from $1,025; the maximum exemption for dependent children under 16 will rise to $320 from $300; and the corresponding exemption for children over 16 will go to $586 from $550.

Kennedy Not Trusted

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — A plurality of Americans polled do not favour the re-entry of Senator Edward Kennedy (Dem., Mass.), considered a likely presidential candidate in 1976, the Louis Harris survey reported Monday.

The lack of trust arose from the 1969 accident in which a woman passenger in his car was killed when it ran off a bridge late at night at Chappaquiddick, Mass.

Unemployment Hike Highest in Two Years

OTTAWA (CP) — The total number of persons at work dipped in September and the unemployment rate took the biggest jump in more than two years, Statistics Canada said today.

The rise in the jobless rate from 5.3 to six per cent of the labor force and the decline of 61,000 in employment to a total of 8.8 million appeared to confirm other indications of slowing economic growth.

The jobless rate was at the highest point since the beginning of the year and the size of the increase was the biggest in a single month since April, 1971, Statistics Canada said.

The unemployment rate had steadily declined from 6.3 per cent last January and had taken its first significant swing upward in August, from 5.3 to 5.9 per cent.

The figures are seasonally adjusted by Statistics Canada to eliminate normal shifts for this time of year and more closely show the underlying trend of the job picture.

The actual decline in total employment was 477,000, but most of it was expected in September according to normal seasonal trends.

The actual total of unemployed dropped 15,000 to 477,000, but Statistics Canada figured it as a rise of 47,000 as a seasonally-adjusted basis because it usually drops much more in September.

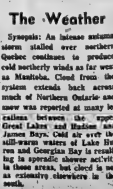
"On a seasonally-adjusted basis, the employment level decreased in the Atlantic region, Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia while it increased in the Prairie Region. The increase in the Prairie region follows several months of declining or stable employment," the report said.

"The most pronounced decline was in Ontario—43,000," it added. Most of the drop in jobs was among younger and older workers.

"The seasonally-adjusted unemployment rate increased substantially for persons 14 to 24—from 9.7 per cent in August to 10.7 per cent in September," Statistics Canada said.

"There was no change in the rate for persons 25 to 54 while the rate for persons 55 and over increased from 3.4 to 4.3 per cent," it said.

"The seasonally-adjusted unemployment rate increased in the Atlantic region, Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia while it decreased in the Prairie region," the report added.



It also said there was a large drop of 105,000 in the number of workers with full-time jobs, and a big increase of 53,000 in the number with part-time employment. Such a trend usually indicates some persons were working only part-time because they couldn't find full-time jobs.

In actual figures, the report showed the total number of employed was made up of 5,813,000 men and 2,985,000 women. The total unemployed included 231,000 men and 160,000 women.

"Employment for women 25 and over decreased 16,000 following a large increase in August of 37,000," Statistics Canada said.

The jobless rate of married men aged 25 to 54—considered a key breadwinner group—declined to 3.2 per cent from 3.4 per cent, the report said. This figure has remained stable at its relatively low level since last March, it added.

RCMP Cracks Down On Duck Hunters

By PETER GOODSPEED
Staff Reporter

Duck hunters in Hastings and Prince Edward Counties may find themselves being hunted if they fail to obey the regulations, laid down in the federal government's Migratory Bird Act, governing their sport.

Then the Royal Canadian Mounted Police are combing the bush every weekend trying to catch those hunters who are breaking the law.

Although this year's hunting season, which runs until Dec. 15, is only two weeks old, the RCMP has laid charges against 13 hunters. Last year, the force charged only six hunters with infractions of the act.

Corporal Don Harlton, of the Belleville detachment of the RCMP, says he can't find an adequate explanation for the rise in the number of infractions this year.

"I guess it's the same old story," he said. "It's not what you do but what you get caught doing that counts for most people. That's one of the prime hunting areas for ducks and that's why the people around here have been hunting for years. They should know the regulations by now."

Of the 13 people arrested this year, all but two are residents of the two counties.

The most common offence so far this year has been hunting on a baited area. To date six people have been charged under that section of the act.

Other common offences include: hunting between the period of one-half hour before sunset and one-half hour before sunrise; hunting without a Canada Migratory Game Bird Permit; hunting from a motor boat; using an unplugged gun and travelling through the bush with a shell in the breech.

Corporal Harlton recommends that hunters, obtain a copy or summary of the regulations laid down in the Migratory Bird Act when they buy their licence at the Post Office.

If a hunter doesn't obey the law, he may be fined anywhere from $10 to $300 or spend six months in jail.

Missing Symbol Goes On

Robert Wood made his contribution to the United Way campaign on Monday yesterday morning, but his wasn't the usual monetary one. Mr. Wood, a sign painter by profession, added the "united" symbol on the billboard at the Upper Bridge after the company that printed the sign, failed to include it in the two located in Belleville. Although the capped hand symbol is coming into increasing use nationally, the "Joint-U United Way logo is still in use here.

Education Board Hears Three Co-ordinators

Three co-ordinators of special programs for Hastings county board of education last week came to trustees a progress report on their activities that left the board dazed with statistics.

They were Dave Smith, co-ordinator of adult community school activities; Wayne Brooks, co-ordinator of outdoor education and Bud Wylie, co-ordinator of instructional media.

Director of education Eric Runacres described them as "board employees who take learning to the marketplace."

Mr. Smith described his job as that of assisting the community to make use of its schools and assisting the schools to make use of their community. He is responsible for all shared use of community and school facilities in the county, such as the combined school library-resource centres and public libraries in north Hastings and the use of swimming pools and arenas in the southern part of the county by school children.

Wayne Brooks is responsible for out-of-school excursions to natural resource areas. He said 5,000 children took part in centrally organized outdoor activities last year and another 7,000 took part in activities arranged by their schools.

Outdoor activities ranged from half-day hikes to camping excursions of several days duration under canvas. He said the aim of his program was to ensure that each class went out on a major excursion up to twice a year.

His equipment, stored at Bayside Secondary, comprises tents, canoes, snowshoes, hip boots and compasses, and costs $2,313.

"Although I swear some kids paddle canoes through gravel pits, repairs cost only $426 last year," he said.

It was Mr. Wylie, in charge of the board's electronic hardware, who produced "the most mind-boggling statistics.

Three years ago, he said, the board possessed 250 old 16 mm films. Now it has 1,150 and they are sent out by courier service daily to schools south of Highway 7 and about four times a week to the centre and north Hastings.

In 1970 there were five videotape recorders in the county. Now there are 61, on which the media centre and resource centre produce television programs for later replay to their classes. The county owns 130 black and white TVs, costing $375 and lasting for 10 years, 15 color TVs costing $675 and lasting for the same length of time, 14 portable videotape recorders that can be used outside the classroom, 16 TV cameras and 670 cassette tape recorders.

The tape recorders are kept in school libraries for students whose teachers insist on tape-recorded assignments. These students who do not own their own tape recorders are prevented from being put behind the academic eight-ball by the tape recorders for assignments.

The advantage of an audio-ordinator, said director of education Eric Runacres, lies in the staff training on proper use of audio-visual aids.

With the centre, he said, "you don't get the crazy use of everything" that took place when film, TV and slides were a new toy.

Remembrance Day Preparations Start

By HOWARD KORESS

"Remember . . . Think . . . Participate" is the theme of this year's annual poppy campaign to be conducted by the Belleville Poppy Fund Committee. Appealing to people of all ages, whether they remember war or can only think of it as something that happened long before they were born. Regardless of age, all Canadians can participate in remembrance. They can do so by thinking about citizenship today and deciding how well they have kept the faith with those who gave the world a second chance.

The annual Remembrance Day Service will be held in Belleville on Sunday, November 11 at 11 a.m. at Memorial Park, Station Street. The annual banquet will be held Saturday night November 10th in the Holland Room, Royal Canadian Legion Hall. Plans for the Remembrance Day Ceremonies were formulated at a meeting of the Veterans of Belleville Council last Saturday. The parade is expected to be one of the largest in the city in many years and will fall in on the Armory floor at 10:15 a.m. Jack Rankin has named bascuet ticket chairman and tickets priced at $3.50 per person will be placed on sale at all veterans clubs and messes before the end of the month. Boer War and World War I veterans together with Silver Cross mothers in the area will be guests at the banquet of the local veterans association.

Under at Edinburgh Unit ANAF sports enthusiasts have been transferred planned for them A meeting of all members interested in the House League Darts Tournament will be held at Barcovan with tee-off time 8 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 21 a mixed golf tournament is scheduled for Marysville with the women playing nine holes. Members are asked to register with chairman Dave Feeney for the golf tournament.

Want something to crow about? become an early bird is the theme of ANAF membership chairman Reg Feaver who has started a campaign to bring in membership renewals before the end of the year. Early birds must now align their financial year with that of Dominion Command and in order to do so the Oct. 31 201 must advance their dues deadline to the end of the year. Any member who renews on Jan. 1 to Jan. 74 will have to reapply for membership. The membership chairman will be available in the club every Friday afternoon from 3:30 p.m. to accept your dues at $12.50 for active or $13.00 for associate members and will also be most pleased to accept your dues by mail if it is more convenient.

The Jack Rat this week remains unchanged, with the following comrades in Belleville General Hospital: George Booth, room 3812 and George Barnes, room 1387.

REAL ESTATE:
REAL ESTATE VS. DOW JONES
Ed. McKinney & E. Buchner Real Est. Ltd.

When talking about fortunes made in investments — the mind normally associates with the stock market. However, when we compare the results over the past decade between stock market profits and real estate increases, we'll see quit a dramatic difference in dollars.

In the decade from January, 1968, to January, 1973, the Dow Jones Industrial average jumped from 865 to 950 — an increase of 16 percent in ten years.

In 1960, the average sales price for a single family house in many suburban areas of major cities was $18,500. Ten years later the average price had increased to $27,500 — an appreciation of 4.7% per cent. Nationally, the increase in real estate value has been somewhat less dramatic — 32% — but even that is double the Dow.

No matter how you slice the cake, an investment in real estate over the past decade has proven to double stock market increases. And the trend appears to be widening in favor of real estate.

Labor Board Orders Woman Get Nursing Home Job Back

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — The Ontario Labour Relations Board following a hearing here, has ordered the re-instatement of a nurse's aide, dismissed from Kentwood Nursing Home Ltd. last July.

Mrs. Evelyn Henry, of Ontario Street, will be re-hired with compensation for lost wages and reinstatement benefits. She had been employed at the nursing home for more than eight years and was Kent Falls, after she refused dismissal by her employer on a day that she had requested free to attend to a personal emergency.

The OLRB hearing ruled that Mrs. Henry was discharged not because of this "mere play" but because her employer believed she had played a "vital role" in bringing in the complainant union.

At the hearing Sept. 21, Mrs. Henry testified that she had requested a day from work to pick up her husband who was being discharged from a Toronto hospital. She said that her supervisor, Mrs. Linda Bolgajlevski, replied that she would arrange for her absence.

Mrs. Bolgajlevski told the hearing that she had advised Mrs. Henry, "I'll do what I can do." After studying her timetable she found that there was no available replacement.

The supervisor said that when she advised Kent Falls of the situation that left her to disregard it. Mrs. Henry's name was left on the timetable for her regular shift.

Mrs. Henry said that she was later told by her employer that she might have the day off if she would agree to work a night shift for three days. She refused this suggestion and on the advice of a representative of the Canadian Union of General Employees (CUGE) she took the day off. She was advised when she returned to work that her services no longer were required.

The OLRB hearing's decision noted, "having carefully reviewed the totality of the evidence at this hearing we are satisfied that Mr. Falls at the time of making the proposal to Mrs. Henry as referred to in paragraph five herein, was well aware that she would find it unacceptable in the circumstances."

"In our opinion Mr. Falls' actions in this regard were a mere ploy designed to entrap Mrs. Henry's direct refusal to come to work on the Sunday in order to justify her termination. Such an act camouflage the real reason for such termination, namely, his belief that Mrs. Henry had played a vital role in bringing in the complainant union."

The hearing report add "In the result we do not accept as credible the explanation forthcoming from the respondent concerning the reason for Mrs. Henry's termination, having regard to all of the circumstances of this case, including Mrs. Henry's apparently unblemished work record, her retention by the respondent exclusively on the day shift and her relatively lengthy service."

The report summarized: "We find that Mr. Falls' actions as regards Mrs. Henry were primarily motivated by his anti-union animus and all are contrary to the Labor Relations Act."

Chairman for the OLRB hearing was Frank Boscariol, vice chairman was Ray Lunn and board members J.D Bell and O. Hodges.

Warrants Are Issued For Two Escapees

KINGSTON, Ont. CP — Provincial police issued warrants Monday for four prisoners believed armed with knives, who escaped Saturday from nearby Collins Bay penitentiary.

They overpowered two men working in the kitchen of the penitentiary, got about $2, two credit cards and a set of car keys.

Police have charged the four with possession of dangerous weapons, car theft and escaping custody.

Roadblocks set up after the escape were taken down Sunday.

Top Herd To Be Sold

AMELIASBURGH — One of Prince Edward County's top milk producers is selling off his herd.

Floyd Huffman, who has been working on a herd improvement for more than 30 years at his farm on the Wellington road three miles southwest of here, is auctioning his herd of 118 registered Holsteins.

Difficulty of securing steady farm help is one reason for the decision, says his wife.

The Huffmen herd has been selling milk . . . averaging more than a ton daily — to Belleville dairies for years, she says.

Big impetus for his stock improvement plans came so far back as 1946 when Mr. Huffman purchased the entire herd of the late W. A. Corrigan, of Carrying Place. It included a strain of distinguished breeding. Mostly Talleville Holsteins, since 1946 the herd has been on Record of Performance testing — official federal average test of four per cent, in the show ring from 1946 through 1971 — and since 1973 — Mr. Huffman has won the county's premier Breeder shield.

The auction will take place tod. 29.

Court Rules Traffic Tickets Void at CFB

Military police at Canadian Forces Base Trenton will no longer be able to enforce traffic tickets when charging people with speeding violations committed on the base.

In a provincial court ruling Monday in Belleville, Judge J. L. Clendenning ruled that charges laid using uniform provincial traffic tickets were void when used for violations of the federal Government Property Act.

Judge Clendenning made the ruling after two 17-year-old youths, Gary L. Payne and Timothy R. Weir, were brought before the court on charges of speeding on CFB Trenton.

In making his ruling, Judge Clendenning noted that the federal act was not one of the legal schedules for which use of uniform traffic tickets is authorized.

He also said CFB Trenton did not fit the definition of a municipality, as laid down in the provincial Municipal Act. Therefore the base does not conform with the section of the Summary Convictions Act which allows the use of uniform tickets for violations of municipal by-laws.

The uniform traffic ticket is a form of summons that enables an accused to settle a traffic charge out of court, if he pays a fine.

As a result of the court's decision, people charged with traffic violations on federal property must be issued with a conventional summons which will require their appearance in court, a court official explained later, outside court.

Gale force winds during the weekend blew down cinder block walls just completed for expansion project of Quaker Oats here. A spokesman for Finley McEachian, project directors, said Tuesday "only a few blocks" were blown down. He said there would be no time loss and the collapse of the 48-foot-by-16-foot section would not affect the job completion date.

Liquor Stolen

STIRLING — Provincial police at Belleville are investigating a break-in at the Liquor Control Board store here during the weekend.

Late Sunday night thieves broke glass in the front door of the premises and swiftly left the store minus a case of liquor.

OPP officers discovered the break-in while making their routine patrol of the area.

Rockhound Course Coming

The Ministry of Natural Resources will hold a free course in mineral exploration . . . a hobby enthusiastically pursued by many in the Quinte district because of nearby Canadian Shield deposits — early next year in Belleville.

The course will involve rockhounds, the name given hobbyists seek out raw mineral specimens, to polish and add them to their collections.

Previous courses in mineral exploration have drawn popular response in various parts of the province, indicates a ministry announcement.

The Belleville course is one of 13 scheduled in various Ontario centres from September to April and will be held Jan 7-13 from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. each night.

Lecturers are E. B. Freeman and E. C. Blundell, of the ministry's geological branch.

Strange Contrasts

The back lot of the Brewers' Retail store across from the War Memorial park is an unlikely spot for birdsong. But there in the woods across the spur rail line birds flit from tree to tree and the sound of them amid this sylvan setting is refreshing.

Stokes Street leads into this lot but Brewers' Retail need not fear any sudden tourist rush to this part of their popular establishment. Not unless such visitors want to tangle with the big trucks which, of necessity, ply in and out.

There were a couple of the big vehicles on the lot when we decided on a quick visit to this place where commerce and nature merge so unexpectedly. Hunting off the car's engine and opening the window to catch the vision and sounds from across the track.

Only a couple of minutes . . . but then as poet W. H. Davies wrote: "What is this life if full of care we have no time to stand and stare."

Some lines of Wordsworth return also from across the years: "But oft in lonely rooms and mid the din of towns of cities I have owed to them in hours of weariness sensations sweet . . . feelings too of unremembered pleasure . . ."

But we had come along Great St. James Street where there is also a bank of trees and steps leading to houses and the schools on the upper level, a place of busy passage in fact for students. Here the prospect is also pleasing . . . and only man is vile (wasn't it some distinguished cleric, a bishop, who said that of Ceylon?)

For it is along here that the lower slopes are strewn with litter of every description. Paper, soft drink cans, even a large rubber ball met our gaze. We saw no bottles this time, but have no doubt they are present too — we are told the kids do some drinking there, then toss the bottles away— and it is amid this evidence of slovenly behavior that we should pause and consider if something can be done about it.

There was after all a clean-up, was there not, in the area mentioned in these opening remarks, earlier this year. Or was it last year? No matter, there was such an operation at some stage and then, as now, we drew attention to the shameful clutter in this wooded area off Church Street.

There is at least one trash can near the steps leading up the slope and if the youngsters cannot make use of such a facility then they have less capacity upstairs than is so frequently claimed for them in these days of a supposedly superior generation. But why blame the schools when the necessary training is lacking in the home.

In any event it would be an achievement if those who cause this litter could be prevailed upon to desist. A start should be made to clean up what already is desecrating the landscape. Ideally the students should do it themselves, together with those adults, and we dare say there are some, who contribute to this sorry situation.

More on Pollution

It may be that Dr. Morton Shulman is playing the political opportunist again in saying he intends to "embarrass" the provincial government on the issue of pollution in Hastings county and the Bay of Quinte area.

Dr. Shulman has not always been right in his many one-man campaigns against the government.

At the same time we cannot ignore his contention that pollution could be the reason for the above-average incidence of cancer, flu and pneumonia-related deaths in Hastings county.

Disturbing also is the allegation that the slag heap at the Deloro smelting site has not been cleared up and the arsenic content in water in the area is high. This is one aspect of the pollution problem here which Dr. Shulman has been aware of for some time. He visited the Deloro site three years ago.

These are all matters of deep concern to residents over a wide area and should be watched carefully. At stake is the health of the population and the desirability of this region as a place in which to live. The entire issue is one that cannot be taken lightly.

Energy Minister Donald MacDonald Is PM's Hatchetman

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — To the Opposition House leaders in the Commons, Energy Minister Donald Stovel Macdonald is the perfect tough guy of Pierre Trudeau cabinet.

New Democratic House Leader Stan Knowles, a mild gentleman usually given to kindly thoughts, becomes apoplectic when it comes to Mr. Macdonald.

He calls the Energy Minister the government's "parliamentary muscle-man."

Former Conservative House Leader Sid Baldwin, who recently gave over the assignment to the Tory ex-whip, Tom Bell, regards Mr. Macdonald as the "cultural bully boy."

He has other endearments for him, ranging from "Dirty trickster" to "Trudeau's hatchetman."

Why all this admiration for the Energy Minister?

1. For a breakdown on the Macdonald parliamentary record.

2. His "rallying through," as Sid Baldwin calls it, of the new House rules. Stan Knowles says it is "unreasonable pressure."

3. His abuse, election night, of many of his colleagues-elect in Toronto's Rosedale riding as "ugly rednecks" and backbenchers.

3. His personalized attack on former Auditor General Maxwell Henderson for the latter's very job. Parliament had assigned him to do.

4. His roughshod manner of slapping the export tax on Alberta's oil without consultation, firing the opening round of political artillery that has become a war between the federal and provincial governments, with the consumer in the middle.

Donald Macdonald was in on the Trudeau ground floor when, as a veteran parliamentary secretary in the cabinet of Prime Minister Pearson, and as a "big man" among the Toronto Liberals, he took PET under his wing in that city in the party leadership race.

He became the chief of the Minister's House leader and took charge of what Sid Baldwin charges was the "firing" of the Commons rules— in a partially successful attempt to handcuff and gag the Opposition.

Stanley Knowles doesn't go quite that far.

His account Mr. Macdonald of having been "unreasonable, very difficult and always anxious to use the then big government majority to "force the united opposition to accept drastic changes in the rules."

Those changes, "some of them good," he concedes, had they had been left "a heritage of unsolved problems for Parliament."

As the government's "muscle-man," as Mr. Knowles calls him,Donald Macdonald even descended to trickery, he says, in forcing the rules, bringing in one — Rule 14A — then dropping it as a sop to the Opposition while never really intending to put it through.

Sid Baldwin recalls that Mr. Macdonald later gloated, along with the Prime Minister, "meeting" at the Opposition for failing into what they readily confessed had been "a trap."

The deep run the ill-feeling followings the rules battle that the Prime Minister benched Mr. Macdonald as House leader, fielding him on the Commons floor as Defence Minister.

Two years later he became Energy Minister and soon it was election night.

And there he was, first elected in 1962, 19 years later standing on a platform at his Rosedale campaign headquarters, his 10,000 vote majority from the previous election cut to 727.

He was angry, glowering, as THE TORONTO GLOBE AND MAIL saw him, and complaining. THE TORONTO STAR reported that it had been a Tory redneck backlash" that so nearly got him.

Everywhere he went in his riding, he said, people would ask him what he was doing to prevent blacks from coming to Canada and asking him to cut back on the number of French Canadians in Ottawa.

The following day, having cooled down, he apologized, confessing that it had been "a night I'd like to have back, to live over again."

He was given marks for being a big enough man to say he was sorry.

Big he may be, but tough he is.

He next showed his muscle in hammering Maxwell Henderson in a joint attack by Prime Minister Trudeau and Treasury Board President Drury on the former Auditor General.

The brought in a bill to clip the AG's wings, claiming he was abusing his authority by criticizing the government in his war on bureaucratic waste.

Henderson was backed by the Opposition and the pressure of public opinion forced the bill's withdrawal.

"But Macdonald was the one they sent to make the bill," says Ged Baldwin, "and even if he failed, he served his primary purpose as head I call the government's agent provocateur in raising hell.

Then came the expert taxing of Alberta oil without prior warning to the provincial government, bringing quick retaliation from Premier Peter Lougheed. The concern now on Parliament Hill is that it could be the consumer and not Mr. Macdonald who gets hurt in the political punch-up that "Macdonald — mad Macdonald" so blindly started.

New Committee Is Looking Into Doctors' Salaries

By DON O'LEARN

The matter of doctors' payment has been one of the very complex problems government has had to wrestle with.

At the time that medical insurance was started several years ago it was particularly ticklish.

Up to that point the medical fraternity had been the most independent of professions.

The only form of public control it had been met with at all was standards of practice. These were under legislation but even it was principally administered, and jealously held by the profession itself.

Then suddenly the old position changed when, with the start of the insurance program, the government was in effect paying the doctors — at least that large proportion of them who were in public practice.

When the first schedule of fees was to be decided on there was very considerable strain.

For the doctors with their long record of professional pride and an inherent fear of public control resisted any interference, including what they were to be paid.

The government, which was making the bulk of the payment through the insurance plans, had a public responsibility to take some control.

Eventually there were compromises and fees were scheduled and accepted, but the situation between the profession and government on this point has always had tension.

Now it appears that at least a semi-solution may have been worked out which will do much to smooth out this situation.

A new committee has been established: the Joint Committee on Physicians' Compensation for Professional Services.

This is a seven-man group made up of three representatives of the Ontario Medical Association, three civil servants and an independent chairman and it will try to work out on a continuing basis what adjustments should be made in the fee schedule over two year periods.

There are two notable points about this committee.

One is that it is something completely new for Canada, well know it is leading the way and will be exceptionally interested in being a success.

The second is that it grew out of the Pickering Study, an independent study which was ordered by the OMA itself.

And this responsible group in the profession will want to see it work.

Union Nationale's Pitch in Quebec Election

Montreal Le Front: Gabriel Loubier, leader of the Union Nationale, has warned English-speaking Quebecers that they will be playing with fire if they vote solidly in favor of the Liberals in the Oct. 29 elections.

A bloc vote of this nature, he said, could result in the election of a government rejected by 80 per cent of Francophone voters.

It is evident that if this were to be the case, it could create an explosive situation.

A small minority of voters would have falsified the game of democracy.

We believe Mr. Loubier is somewhat over-dramatizing the situation.

However, the warning should be heeded. The so-called Anglophones are just as much Quebecers as the Francophones ,and have the same right to express their preferences.

But one senses that, even on the purely psychological level, it would be bad, particularly in Quebec's current political climate, to identify a political party too closely with a minority when the majority is dividing its votes among four parties.

One must also not forgetthat our system of voting was designed for a two-party system and it breaks down much there easily with the presence of four parties.

The absence of proportional representation gives the minority vote an importance it would not otherwise enjoy.

It is not the first enough back to the 1920s, one sees that English - speaking Quebecers used to divide their votes much more equally in the political arena.

But since the "Quiet Revolution," since 1966 in particular, one might say that the Anglophones, who until then thought of themselves as an extension into Quebec of the great majority of the English-speaking people in Canada, suddenly realized that they were a minority among us.

This realization probably influenced their behavior. Minorities everywhere have defensive reflexes.

We therefore understand, up to a point, the non-French of Quebec. But they must admit to themselves that because of their association with the dominant class — they are not a minority like any other.

John Street United Church celebrated the 50th anniversary of the founding of the congregation on Sunday. It was in 1846 that certain members of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church here withdrew from that congregation and formed a congregation of the Free Kirk. This movement was a result of the differences within the Church of Scotland which occurred in 1843 — three years prior to the taking place of the separation here. The first meeting place of the new congregation was in a room over a store at the corner of Bridge and Pinnacle Streets where the post office building now stands and the first minister was the Rev. William Gregg, who later became a professor at three colleges to serve in the Knox College, Toronto.

Conditions Of Blacks In Mines

The Observer (UK)

What is truly amazing in the case of the black miners, is that they have been patient so long. The death rate in the mines is high, but not as notorious that few black South Africans will take jobs there, and a recent survey has shown that black Africans earn on the mining companies to pay black workers much higher wages, this does not by itself fundamentally change the intolerable conditions of the half-million black miners. But higher wages, together with the right to form a trade union organization, could provide the miners with the industrial weapons which would enable them to make an effective stand on their own behalf. Only when they have the labour relations and human rights will they be in a position to change the ugly character of the South African industry. If they never win these rights, then the chances of a more bloody and destructive breakforward will be all that is left to them.

PM's View Of China

Ottawa Journal

Prime Minister Trudeau has sometimes an odd turn of phrase. Asked whether his visit to China was an attempt to find more markets for Canadian products he said it was one reason but not the main one. He added:

"I'll be meeting the leaders of a very important country and Canada, being a trading-land country, we like to be friendly with the big guys."

Such glib insensitivity offered as a motivating factor in Canada's China visit falls far short of Mr. Trudeau's undoubted intellectual capacities. There is no reason to suppose that the prime minister should visit China in search of Chou En-lai. But China should not have had top priority on his travel schedule if he were truly journeying to the capitals of Eastern Europe.

There, in the heartland of the European Common Market, are the richest prospects for Canadian trade. There, amid accustomed boundaries of neo-Canadians, are our old alliances and current commitments.

Yet strangely enough, during his five years in office, Mr. Trudeau has ignored visiting Western European capitals of Western Europe. He has visited London twice and Moscow once, but apparently passed unseeing over the European land mass.

Small wonder, then, that the Canadian public notions ignored Canada last month in their 22-point statement about North Atlantic treaty affairs and other matters vital to Canada. External Affairs Minister Sharp, startled into belated action, rejoined:

But what could Canada expect? Mr. Trudeau has eyes for only those whom he considers the big guys — Peking, Washington, Moscow and Peking. He — and Canada's national interests — could be blinded as a result of his unscrupulous dismissal of the Europeans. They are not "little guys," and dislike being considered as.

Carol Paris, at Quinte Paint and Wallpaper Ltd., sets up end-of-line wallpaper in packages of three or four rolls, to make a good bargain when you want to brighten up one corner of a room or a hallway. These pre-pasted papers are so easy to put up you could change your room in an afternoon.

Paint and Paper On Your Own

Sometime between Thanksgiving and Christmas nearly everybody decides to redecorate at least one room in the house.

There's probably nothing you want to change that you can't do yourself. Booklets giving explicit instructions are available wherever you buy decorating supplies.

The easiest, cheapest and fastest way to change a room is to change the walls!

If you're thinking of changing the furniture around, decide on a final arrangement before you consider wall color. The placing of furniture can alter the light and mood of a room.

"What is important is to look at the room as total unit," says Harold Farrow of Quinte Paint and Wallpaper Ltd.

"You create a background for furniture with your walls. That's the overall impression you should reflect your lifestyle."

Deciding on colors, remember that yellow, blue, orange and red tend to create a cheerful atmosphere. If you're inclined to gloomy thoughts stay away from dark blue, brown, black or grey color schemes.

You can compensate for too little light from small windows with bright colors or white, and for too much glare with cool shades like blue or green.

One note of advice: don't use chartreuse in a bathroom or dressingroom or you'll feel nauseous every time you look in the mirror. The color makes your skin look the same shade of green.

If you're interested in following — or going against — current trends, the most popular shades for walls, carpets and borpe furnishings in recent years have been gold, yellow and olive green.

Orange is the most predominant color in wallpapers, but the largest selling pairs is still "anilne white."

"We have to restock it constantly," says Tony Terhaar of Color Your World. "People like off-white because it makes a good background."

Your choices of paint or wallpaper will be influenced by whether you want your walls to be unobtrusive or to make a statement.

In the last few years sales of wallpapers have risen sharply as improvements in quality and merchandising have surmoud the public of its value.

The multitude of patterns now available in wallpaper makes it easy for you to express your personality in the room you do over.

Mr. Terhaar says that many customers are buying wallpaper now as a conversation piece. Walls papered with nudes or old newspaper reproductions are popular at the moment. Abstract and geometric designs also are selling well since they suit contemporary or traditional furniture.

At Quinte Paint and Wallpaper, colonial and early American designs are the most frequently sold. floral designs stay popular for bedrooms.

Papering one wall in a striking design as the focal point of a room is a popular decorating technique. Doing this means you can afford a more expensive paper than you might otherwise buy.

The price range of wallpaper moves from $1.89 to $20 per seven-yard roll. Most papers are between $3 and $5, are pre-pasted and washable.

Read the fine print carefully, or, better with the store clerk. Washable paper can be wiped, but is not as hardy as scrubbable paper, which is more serviceable for kitchens or bathrooms.

Only vinyl paper is crubbable. There are two types: laminated and coated, and they come in various qualities and thicknesses. Laminated is tougher, and longer-lasting, but a little more difficult to hang.

Strippable paper is a good buy if you are an apartment dweller, or if you plan on changing your wall often. There are two different types of strippable paper, so be sure to find out which kind best suits your needs.

If you do paper on top of other paper make sure you clean the old paper well and remove any ragged loose edges.

Tony Terhaar recommends that you keep a small bucket of wallpaper paste with you while you re-paper over old paper, to make sure that edges stay firmly glued.

A heavy traffic area is often better painted than papered. Unless you've had pro a interior decorating you've wise not to combine patterned paper with patterned rugs, drapes and furniture.

If your room looks bare with plain walls, consider one of the texture paints that result in a stucco-look finish to give added substance to your walls.

Walls of one color make a good setting for paintings and hangings, and if the architect of there are architectural oddities in the room. Walls previously covered in imitation wood panelling must be painted since the plastic-coating makes the surface unsuitable for papering.

Of course, painting is cheaper per wall, although paper lovers argue that wallpaper last longer

If you decide to paint, make sure you buy the right kind for your purpose.

Leslie Depont at Arthur A. Sills and Son Ltd. explains that "basically there are two types of paint, latex and oil base. Oil base is necessary for exteriors.

"Flat latex is sold for use on indoor walls. Being watersoluable it is easy to clean rollers and brushes when the job is through. It ranges from $4 to $9 per gallon. The lower the price, the less chance there is that the paint will cover well or clean well. Good quality latex can be washed like enamel.

"Latex semi-gloss enamel costs between $9 and $11 at Sills, and is recommended for woodwork and walls that need frequent cleaning. Gloss enamel is popular for kitchens and bathrooms.

Having decided on either paint or paper — or both — how do you figure out how much you'll need?

Work out the area of your room. For example, if the room is 12 feet by 15 feet in circumference, and eight feet high, the total area will be 420 square feet.

Estimate the area of cupboards, doors and windows, and deduct this from the total area.

Office Workers Attend Lunch-Hour U

TORONTO (CP) — For Jean Kerr, lunch hours are more than mere meal breaks. The office supervisor and mother of two also fits in a university commerce course at city hall so she won't be lowered a degree from University of Toronto.

Her educational endeavors are not restricted to the noon hour, for she also takes a political science course in the city's apartment complex at night as part of the university's off-campus extension program.

The city hall experiment is called High Noon University and has classes three days a week from noon to 1 p.m. in the city hall's personnel department training room.

"I think it's a good idea," said Mrs. Kerr. "It saves me an evening."

The course is aimed at downtown office workers who might find it convenient to attend a university during their lunch hour in a handy downtown location.

John Clappison, course instructor and a chartered accountant with Price Waterhouse and Co. said half a dozen workers had signed up with the rest of the class of about 15 comprised of full-time U of T students who couldn't get into a commerce course on campus.

"I registered late and this was the only one open that didn't conflict with my time-table," explained student Maureen Baird.

Alex Waugh, assistant director of the university's extension division, said some commercial building in the downtown core were approached concerning the noon-hour courses "but the reception wasn't very encouraging."

Apartment developers were more receptive, however, and two furnished the university with recreational space for courses in political science and economics.

School Counsellor Helped, Hope for Others, Too

Dear Ann Landers: Yesterday I read the letter from the girl who had been in bed with so many guys that she had lost count. It seems she was hoping Mr. for a genuine love relationship and found only rejection, self-recrimination and deeper depression. I could have written that letter myself three years ago.

My problem started with a brutal sexual encounter that robbed me not only of my virginity but my self-respect. I had a strict religious upbringing and felt so defiled that the only way I could restore myself was to was human; was to have sex with somebody—anybody.

After each boy friend dumped me I hated myself more and felt more promiscuous. My thoughts kept inching toward suicide. I knew if I didn't get some help I'd probably kill myself. Of course, I had no money for a psychiatrist (I was 16 years old), but I remembered your advice to others: "See your school guidance counselor." I decided I had nothing to lose.

With that man's help I am a new person. I actually owe him my life. Several years have passed but I still keep in touch with that incredibly insightful and compassionate high school counselor. Because of him, my relationships with men are on a completely different level.

I hope this letter will help someone who has taken the wrong road as I did years ago. Keep telling them, Ann, that they don't have to stay in the mud if they don't want to. Counseling might not be the answer for everybody, but it was for me. My name is not important. My State Is "Contentment."

Dear Contentment: Thank you for a letter that may provide others with the impetus they need to move in the direction of help. You performed a more valuable service today than you will ever know.

Dear Ann Landers: I run a small office, staffed by seven competent women. In the last several weeks there has been a mysterious disappearance of many small items and insignificant sums of money from our handbags. All the circumstantial evidence points to one girl as the guilty person. Since I am the manager it is up to me to straighten it out. But how can I tell this girl that she is the suspect?

My desk is the only one that can be locked. The other girls keep their belongings in the lounge area on open shelves. Lockers would be impossible because of lack of space.

Thanks for your help.—Tender Heeks

Dear T.H.:You simply can't accuse a girl of stealing on the basis of the "evidence" in your letter. It would be inadvisable.

Surely every employee's desk has a drawer on which a lock can be installed. This is the best solution, and well worth the few dollars it would cost.

Dear Ms. Landers: You will notice I have addressed you as Ms. Landers, although I know your writing name is Miss Landers and you are married and therefore a "Mrs."

How do you feel about the "Ms." title? Do you like it? Do you dislike it? Are you indifferent?—A Frosh Question

Dear Frosh: Your frank opinion deserves a frank answer. I don't like "Ms." I prefer Miss or Mrs.—or even Occupant. The Ms. label is for females who figure it's nobody's business whether they are married or single and they would just as soon not say. I am not in that category and I don't wish to be placed there.

Dear Ann Landers: A recent letter from a 17-year-old girl who had VD prompted me to write this letter. Illinois has had in operation for several months "VD Checkline," a statewide, toll-free telephone service which has helped thousands of people. A similar service is offered in other states.

The phones are manned by high school and college volunteers who are trained to respond to questions pertaining to VD treatment centres, etc.

Anyone in Illinois who needs such help should call 1-800-252-8090 between 8:30 a.m. and 9:00 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 12 noon until 5:00 p.m. on Saturdays. (No one will ask your name or address.)

Please urge your readers to call us if they want information or directions.—Robert C. Grifi, M.D., V.D. Program, Dept. Public Health, Springfield, Ill.

Dear Mr. Grifin: Since gonorrhea is second only to the common cold in infectious diseases in the United States (and syphilis is not far behind), I appreciate the opportunity to publicize this service. (P.S. I called the number myself to check the calibre of phone personnel and I can report that it is suprisr!)

Anne: Simple, Colorful Taste

LONDON (CP) — She is a young lady of simple yet colorful taste with an eye for the latest fashions.

She is soon to be married and has chosen a designer from the London ready-to-wear house of Susan Small to fashion her wedding dress.

Princess Anne has, in recent years, surprised many people who believed royalty to be traditionally stiff and formal.

The 23-year-old princess, who will marry Capt. Mark Phillips in November, enjoys the rapidly changing variety of the young fashion scene and the sense of fun that prevails in it.

Of course, she has an official role to fulfil, royal occasions that demand formal dressing. But Princess Anne has built a reputation as a fashion individualist with a perfect sense of what to wear and when.

With the world of fashion to choose from, she has found she can dress impeccably by choosing largely from the sector that has made London famous as a fashion centre—the ready-to-wear industry.

She runs accounts at two of London's brightest stores for fashion and fabrics accessories, Fortnum and Mason and Harrods.

She can still go shopping with a lady-in-waiting or with friends without being recognized—the young lady with a scarf tied casually round her golden hair generally manages to elude the attentions of other shoppers.

She owns little jewelry. A string of pearls from her parents, a diamond and ruby brooch she chose from the Queen Mother's collection and a gold bracelet she was given when bridesmaid to Princess Alexandra are among the few real pieces she has owned so far. For her engagement ring she chose a sapphire in a coronet setting, flanked by two diamonds.

For her 18th birthday her parents gave her a diamond necklace and on important occasions she wears one of two simply designed diamond tiaras. One of these had been worn by both the Queen and Princess Margaret when they were young, the other was a gift to the Queen from her mother-in-law, the late Princess Andrew of Greece.

When the function is an official one the young princess wears formal suits simply styled with a channel seaming as the main detail, usually in a pastel color and with a pin or brooch on the lapel. A smart hat and matching shoes completes the outfit and her gloves are usually three-quarter length, in black or white.

Pant-suits are a favorite for informal occasions. A bright red one has been her choice for watching polo at Windsor and for sailing she likes a navy blue version. She wears pant-suits on family occasions, such as travelling on holidays, which a generation ago would have called for more formal dressing.

Weekends and holidays are the time she puts on Carnaby Street hipster jeans, check shirts and wide leather belts with brass buckles, but for riding she prefers the traditionally tailored habit.

Princess Anne is not keen to be a trend-setter. She shops around and is a regular visitor to Britain's most famous chain store, Marks and Spencer, where she buys sweaters and casuals.

The Queen, who always assisted that her daughter be treated like any other girl during school days, wisely gave the princess her own say about what she wore at an early age.

As a result the princess now has the skill to know what suits her—and she can be as fashionable as any other girl of her age.

Royal Wedding Ripples

LONDON (CP) — The first ripples of royal wedding activity are just beginning here, though most of the complex machinery of regal pomp and protocol is humming along well below the surface.

Since the Queen has not signalled the date of a nuptials of Princess Anne and Capt. Mark Phillips as a state occasion, the man in charge of the myriad strands of organization is not the Earl Marshal of England but the Lord Chamberlain, Lord Maclean.

Chief of the Scottish clan Maclean and former Chief Scout of the Commonwealth, the 57-year-old baron now is official host of the Queen's household. With his small staff he has set aside a couple of rooms in Buckingham Palace to deal with the pile of wedding correspondence and steadily increasing flow of gifts.

Meanwhile, with the 1,500 invitations sent out and protocol organizers in palace, church and army smoothly putting the royal machinery into gear, the Queen flies off Sunday for a long-scheduled visit to Australia to inaugurate the new Sydney opera house. Prince Philip secretly is flying to Malta.

The royal couple returns Oct. 31, the day Anne and her future husband take a 20-minute spin in the Anglo-French supersonic airliner, Concorde.

Canadian High Commissioner J. H. (Jake) Warren and his wife Hilary will be among the Westminster Abbey wedding guests.

First details about the wedding ceremony, to be conducted by the Archbishop of Canterbury, Most Rev. Michael Ramsey, will be given at the end of next week by the Dean of Westminster.

Meanwhile, Maj.-Gen. Philip Ward, in command of troops and processions along the route, says the emphasis will be on a military wedding and there is "no question of enthusiasm" in the army for it.

Capt. Phillips, 25, is an officer in the 1st Queen's Dragoon Guards, now a tank regiment.

The army catering corps already has baked the wedding cake.

Anne has broken with royal tradition in choosing a ready-to-wear manufacturer to make her wedding dress and going away outfit, rather than a top couturier like Hardy Amies or Norman Hartnell.

Dressmaker Maureen Baker of Susan Small Ltd. is remaining tight-lipped about every detail announcing the dress will be ready on the wedding day.

"Traditional will, however, rule" on the wedding ring which is being made from the same nugget of Welsh gold that supplied rings for the Queen Mother, the Queen and Princess Margaret's wedding. There is just enough gold left.

During tour of Ethiopia earlier this year she wore straw hat brightened with a scarf matching her dress (centre). Agnew States Case

WASHINGTON (CP) — Former vice-president Spiro Agnew says that, judging by current standards, perhaps the manner in which he received funds from architects and contractors may have been unethical and unlawful. But he was not the author of any complex system of extortion.

"My current net worth, less than $300,000, is modest for a person of my age and position," the 54-year-old former governor of Maryland added in a political valedictory Monday. "Every penny of it can be accounted for from lawful sources."

Denying once again that he was guilty of extortion, bribery and conspiracy, Agnew told a national television audience that he resigned the vice-presidency to still "the raging storm."

For months he had been plagued by newspaper reports and "leaks" from prosecutors pacing to publication "of the spiciest rumor and speculation." This had weakened his ability to continue in office.

"An appearance of wrongdoing, whether true or false in fact, is damaging to any man," he said. "But more important it is fatal to any man who must be ready at any moment to step into the presidency."

Bangkok Brawl Over

BANGKOK (AP) — Shops reopened and traffic flowed again in Bangkok today after two days of street fighting that drove Thailand's three most powerful military men and their families into exile.

Insurgent students who led the rebel revolt against the military clique that had ruled Thailand for 16 years began cleaning up the debris left from the fighting. A night curfew was lifted. But troops and police patrolled the streets prudently kept out of sight.

The last violence was reported Monday night when several thousand students stormed and burned a police substation on the outskirts of the city. A mob burned out the main police headquarters earlier Monday, and several district stations were wrecked.

At least 100 persons were reported killed and hundreds wounded in the fighting Sunday.

Welfare Hiked

TORONTO (CP) — The government plans to increase benefits Jan. 1 to those under 65 years of age and "disabled" — such as disabled persons — Rene Brunelle, minister of community and social services, said Monday.

Bonus Handout Blasted

TORONTO (CP) — Opposition criticism erupted in the legislature Monday when a government minister hedged on the question of whether Ontario welfare families and those on other forms of government assistance will get the full benefits of increased baby-bonuses.

Rene Brunelle, minister of community and social services, told the legislature Monday that the matter of how to distribute the $20-a-month-per-child baby bonus was still under consideration.

Stephen Lewis, leader of the New Democratic Party, said a "cruder, more punishing, more thoughtless response to people I have not seen — and I thought I'd seen everything from this government."

What caused the uproar was Mr. Brunelle's sidestepping of the question of whether welfare families and others on government assistance, might have those other forms of assistance cut back when the baby-bonus increase comes in.

While he said Ontario has decided to opt for a flat rate of $20 a child effective Jan. 1, 1974, he would not guarantee Mr. Lewis that those already on government assistance would reap the full benefit of the bonus.

It will help reduce "inequities" in the current system of welfare benefits, he told a committee of the legislature reviewing his ministry's estimates.

The minister was replying to Ray Haggerty (L—Welland South), who spoke of "grey areas" among those in the 58-to 65-year age bracket and living off disability or widow's pensions.

Mr. Haggerty cited the case of a man who had his disability pension cut off because he married a woman receiving an old age pension.

"They said $140 a month is sufficient," said Mr. Haggerty.

Mr. Haggerty said "this business of $75, $80 and $105 or $110 a month is not sufficient," and asked if improvements are planned in benefits to those in the "grey areas."

Said Mr. Brunelle: "There will definitely be an increase to those who are under 65 years of age and who are in need . . . effective Jan. 1."

The minister said "there are some real major inequities in the present system" of pension payments, and added that reinstatements "definitely" will be made to the system.

Ontario Won't Need Winter Works Plan

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario, to ease unemployment this winter because of a buoyant economy, Treasurer John White told the legislature Monday.

Mr. White said forecasts that unemployment this winter will level off at between 4.5 and five per cent of the labor force, compared with nearly seven per cent last winter.

But he told Liberal Leader Robert Nixon the unemployed next winter won't be those who can't find work but those "not able to find a particular job, in a particular line of work, in a particular locality."

These, he said, will be "well supported by unemployment insurance benefits."

Want Women To Work

TORONTO (CP) — The government is studying ways to encourage women with dependent children to return to work, Rene Brunelle, minister of community and social services, said Monday.

The development of day-care centres and other programs has freed increasing numbers of such mothers from the need to stay at home, he said.

LIP Funding Requests Are Fewer This Year

The number of projects up for federal Local Initiatives Program funding is down this last year in the Belleville-Hastings County area.

Local Canada Manpower officials — who initially process LIP projects before passage to higher authority for approval — say they haven't deciphered any major reason for the decline.

Monday was across-Canada deadline for submitting proposals for LIP grants, which seek to soften the impact of winter unemployment in the community - based schemes.

By last night, 43 proposals, averaging a total $800,000 had been filed from all areas of the county, reported Susan Broll, Manpower Comselor who assists local LIP applicants draft submissions.

Last year, there were 58 applications totalling close to $1 million, said Mrs. Broll.

Conversationally, financially, request grants have a general tendency to natural propagation, MPO is unofficial. But she has "no idea" why the number of project proposals is down this year.

However, last year the deadline was extended to the end of December — when the winter slowdown already was being felt.

This year, application forms became available the first week in September — which means project organizers have had about six weeks to prepare their submissions.

There was a strong variance in the pattern flow of LIP applications this year, Mrs. Broll noticed. Many came with a sudden-end surge. About half the total of all projects proposed were walking on her desk Monday.

But much leg work is involved for applicants in organizing a submission — participants have to be contacted, letters of community support, proving need, collected, stg. said.

However, 1973 may have been an exceptional year for LIP grant requests in the area.

Mrs. Broll says the 35S applications received for LIP funding this winter still represent an "exceptionally strong showing" for an area the size of Belleville-Hastings.

The projects are as varied as the county communities and individuals that produced them.

The range from:

The ambitious submissions from Belleville's parks and recreation authorities to install a network of outdoor rinks, and other projects costing $38,000.

To the proposal to build a kitchen onto the community centre in Maynooth in northern Hastings.

In between is a wide variety of proposals, including plans for a recreation area on Crow Lake on property bought by a church group's hopes of a young woman to open a tea room facilities, to stimulate creative theatre among school students; proposals for a historical society and museum at Madoc, and a range of municipal projects from various townships.

Trend of the applications seems to be much involved with educational and cultural activities this year, says Mrs. Broll.

The projects also appear a "lot more investive," even more oriented to broader community benefit and involvement, she believes.

Once proposals have been received, it takes only a day to process them locally for transfer to Manpower's regional centre in Toronto where the approval procedure begins.

Mrs. Broll's role is strictly that of advisor — without consent. She helps applicants ensure their preparations for submission are properly assembled for official scrutiny — but has no influence on the eventual outcome.

This year, also LIP projects may be scrutinized by local committees, formed by MPO, to advise Manpower authorities in decision - making.

Applicants will be informed of decisions on their projects as they are made by the Manower department. In the Hastings area projects won't commence prior to Dec. 3.

Success rate for 1972 LIP applications in the federal riding of Hastings — which includes Belleville but excludes the northern six townships of the county — was 34 per cent.

Sidney Traffic Increase Could Disrupt Exhibition

An increased volume of traffic on Sidney Street following reconstruction and completion of the four-lane overpass over the CN double tracks could make it impractical to close that artery during the four-day Quinte Exhibition.

This was the possibility expressed at Monday's traffic and light committee meeting by Alderman Paul Russell, who said the city should be "taking a close look" at whether the city could afford to close the street during fair time.

"It seems sort of crazy to be building up a major traffic artery and then close it down," said.

Committee chairman Alderman Jack Ireland agreed that heavier traffic could be expected along Sidney Street when construction was completed as Quinte People would be using this artery on their way to the Quinte Mall.

It was admitted, however, that keeping Sidney Street open during the fair could result in considerable disruption of the regular exhibition program as the artery bisects the grounds and several of the fair buildings are east of the street.

Included among the buildings east of Sidney Street are the Ben Haecher building in which the fair board has an equity, the Junior Farmer building, cattle sheds, the coliseum building where cattle are judged and the horticultural building.

Mayor Robin Jeffrey, however, said the city had some responsibility to the fair board and that it "couldn't do that to the fair" without full consideration.

If the street had to remain open during the fair, a pedestrian overpass such as at the CNE in Toronto might have to be considered.

Alderman Russell agreed that it would be opening up a can of worms but suggested there should be talks with the fair board.

First, however, after the reconstruction of Sidney Street between Catherine and College Streets is finished and the CN overpass is completed, counts will be taken to determine the traffic volume on the street.

Traffic Inspector Ralph Blatchford said this would be the next step following reconstruction.

The traffic count information will also be used to determine whether traffic lights are needed at the intersection of Sidney and Moira streets.

City council has already authorized traffic lights at Sidney and College streets and at Sidney and Bridge-streets, with installation now awaiting delivery of equipment.

Trustee Says Complaints Groundless

Parents of pupils at Tyendinaga Township School, who two weeks ago complained about school buses in their area, "really have very little to kick about," a trustee said

James Spry, head of the Hastings county board of education transportation committee, travelled the route to investigate complaints. Parents objected to children being forced to walk along narrow country roads to collection points, saying the bus should stop at each driveway.

Mr. Spry found the individual driveways separated by only 75 yards and said the bus be rode on met only one car on the entire route it travelled.

"I can show them places a lot worse," said the Rawdon township trustee.

The parents request for individual pickups was refused.

Blazing Cab Wakes Driver

A Keswick truck driver woke up with a fright early this morning when he found the cab of his truck was on fire.

Leonard McGowan was sleeping in his parked truck just south of the CNR crossing on Highway 62, north of Foxboro, when the cab burst into flames around 5:45 a.m.

A passing motorist rushed to a phone and notified the Belleville department of the Ontario Provincial Police of the fire. The Thurlow fire department was called out to put out the blaze.

The truck, owned by Equipment Express Ltd. of RR 2 Gormley, sustained damage to just the interior of the cab. Damage estimates and clues to the cause of the fire were not available at press time.

Fewer Pupils In Hastings

Enrolment in Hastings county schools has dropped off by 707 pupils this year, and in a quarter where it was least expected — the elementary schools.

The official enrolment for grant purposes was taken Sept. 30 and it showed 13,791 pupils throughout the county. Of these, 14,085 are in elementary school, down 638 from last year's 14,723.

Secondary school enrolment has dropped by 69 from 7,838 on Sept. 30, 1972 to 8,832 this year.

Enrolment at schools for the trainable retarded is up from 197 to 125.

Province Aids Historic Site

COBOURG — Ontario has awarded $20,000 for restoration of Cobourg's Victoria Hall.

The money, given through the Ontario Heritage Foundation, will go towards the restoration committee to proceed with interior work on the municipally owned building.

Victoria Hall was declared a historic site in 1967. It completed in 1860, it was opened by the then Prince of Wales, later Edward VII, and served as the town's county council chambers for Northumberland and Durham and court house. It also has a large opera house that will be restored, using imported materials.

Total cost of the restorations is $1,743,000. The foundation's grant brings the total contributions so far to half the required total.

Festival Singers World Acclaimed

Standing ovations and critical acclaim have not been unfamiliar to the Festival Singers of Canada in recent years. Conductor Elmer Iseler's 38-member mixed choir has received glowing accolades from across Canada, the United States and Europe.

Their ability to interpret complex choral liturgy with an ease equal to that exhibited by the greatest choral groups of the world has been noted and applauded. The Festival Singers, the only professional choral group in Canada, directed by Canada's only full-time conductor, will make its first appearances before a Quinte audience tomorrow evening.

Tickets for the only performance, at Bridge Street United Church, are still available according to sponsors of the one-night presentation — the Quinte Arts Council and the Stewart Warner Corporation of Canada Ltd. The audience — paying $3.50 per ticket — must be seated before the start of the 8:30 p.m. performance, but this is what will be heard.

—"Last week, on their first tour of Europe, the Singers were proving the Canadian all too human that the best way to gain attention at home is to win headlines abroad." TIME, June 14, 1971.

"The Festival singers . . . forced even the critics to struggle for seats at the MacMillan Theatre, Edward Johnson Building, then left the audience cheering wildly and engaging in other enthusiastic demonstration of approval at the end of the program." John Kraglund, Globe and Mail, Toronto, June 18, 1971.

"Rumor has had murmured of their excellence, but nothing prepared me for the electrifying effect of their London appearance." Ronald Crichton, Ertland's The Financial Times, June 2, 1971.

"...The musical quality was remarkable. The choir was founded and directed by Elmer Iseler and consists of but 40 members and has a beautiful vocal sound, exceptional tonery and perfect cohesion." Marie-Rose Chaunt, Paris Guide Musical, Paris, July 3, 1971.

"Iseler's oft-stated ambition is to make the Festival Singers of Canada, one of the finest choirs in the world. Hearing them perform live; one becomes persuaded that he can." Max Harrison, The Vancouver Sun, March 24, 1971.

"The Festival Singers are an absolute joy." Bill Munkwitz, Calgary Herald, March 23, 1971.

Exchange Students from Lahr

Six of the seven students from Lahr, now attending Belleville schools, are, back row, Doris Schmalzhaf, Ulrich Zweig, Reinhard Baer and front row, Juergen Frank, Barbel Schneider and Erhard Lamparter.

German Visitors:

Canadian Students' Lives Dull

Canadian teenagers living in Germany on the Belleville-Lahr student exchange program are probably getting the best part of the deal socially. But the Germans attending schools here aren't having it as great an intellectual struggle.

Six of the seven Lahr students pooled their experiences recently to come up with that conclusion.

"School here is not too easy because we were ahead in Germany of those in the same grade here," said Juergen Frank, who goes to BCI.

The student exchange is the result of the twinning of Belleville and Lahr, two cities of about the same population, each with a nearby Canadian Forces base.

Eight Belleville students left for Lahr in August, where they are living in the homes of the Germans who are going to school in Belleville. Because few teenagers in Canada study German, the city of Belleville paid about $200 for three tutors, who spent the summer giving a quick course in instant German. The Lahr students were luckier — all have several years of compulsory study of English behind them.

The Lahr students here, and their Belleville hosts are: Juergen Frank, living with Mr. and Mrs. Manfred Koechlin and attending BCI; Ulrich Zweig, living with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hamilton and attending Moira; Erhard Lamparter, living with Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Brown and attending BCI; Reinhard Baer, living with Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Neville and attending BCI; Doris Schmalzhaf, living with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ross, and attending Centennial; Barbel Schneider and Ingrid Moire and Barbara Berne living with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gauthier and attending Quinte.

An eighth German student is scheduled to arrive later for a six-month stay.

The Germans are at a disadvantage in the exchange — they won't get credits for the work they do here and will be a year behind their classmates when they return. Canadian students will get credits on their return for any courses they crashed the language barrier to pass.

Why the difference in academic achievement in Ontario and Germany?

German youngsters must choose very early the type of education they want — the nine-year program in a gymnasium or the six-year program in a secondary school. And they must opt for either the science and humanities course or science and math.

In Germany, teachers lead and dominate their classes in what appears to be a set era of programmed learning.

"In Canada classes are more student oriented," says Erhard Lamparter.

Adds Reinhard Baer: "Here, pupils stand up the same level as the teacher and treat him as one of themselves. This is one reason we are, more advanced. Teachers try to bring us toward one aim. In Canada it is up to the student."

Teachers in Lahr secondary schools are younger than their counterpart here says Barbel Schneider.

"Our teachers are more interested in people and what they are doing — they are our friends outside school."

But the biggest adjustment the Germans had to make was to school hours. In Lahr they attend school Monday through Saturday, from 7.45 a to noon or 1 p.m.

As a result, they have the afternoons free to study and the evenings for social and activities.

The six Germans feel free for Canadian students. They are given more homework than Germans and less time to do it.

"All they do is go to school, go home to do homework and go to bed," said one of the Canadian student's Lunetable. "It's so boring."

In Lahr, students gather in the school's cafes and discotheques. The Germen students lament the lack here of similar respectable teenage hangouts. Only one, Reinhard Baer, is old enough to go to what they call "discotheque" — the Mad Mechanic.

"I can't understand why there hasn't been built to those under-18," he says.

Supreme Court — Five Civil Cases

The Supreme Court of Ontario convened this week-long sitting for the Hastings County fall assizes yesterday at the County Court Building on Pinnacle Street.

In a brief ceremony after the official opening of the court's proceedings, Assistant Crown Attorney Glenn Dellbe, presented the Honorable Mr. Justice Lacourciere with a pair of white gloves in recognition of the absence of criminal cases on the court docket.

Following the white gloves presentation, Mr. Justice Lacourciere gave his charge to the grand jury in which he ordered them to investigate and report on the condition and operation of the Court House, the Gaol and the Gaol farm and any other buildings receiving public funds that may fall under his jurisdiction.

Originally, there were to be 14 civil, jury and non-jury cases on the docket at this court's sitting but, nine of those cases were either settled out of court or set aside for the next sitting.

Mr. Justice Lacourciere will preside over two civil jury cases involving motor vehicle claims and three civil non-jury cases of a similar nature.

Finley's Antics Upset Players

NEW YORK (AP) — Oakland Athletics are angry at Charles O. Finley and concerned about pitcher Ken Sanders.

The controversial Oakland owner and the New York righthander are two bothersome problems as the Athletics attempt to take a 2-1 lead tonight in the third game of the best-of-seven World Series against the Mets.

Almost always to some kind of hot water, Finley had most of the Athletics bristling today with his latest affair, the "Ha-ha" of second baseman Mike Andrews.

An announcement from the Athletics' front office stated simply that Andrews was knocked off the roster because of a "shoulder ailment."

However, the Athletics, almost to a man, believe that the eccentric owner literally fired Andrews for making two costly errors in Sunday's 10-7 loss to the Mets in Game 2.

The uncomfortable situation has the Athletics on the brink of a "player revolt," says outfielder Reggie Jackson, the team's player representative.

The players are "prepared for refusing to play," he said, "if we get a bunch of guys from this team who are close to their pocket."

However, Jackson tempered that bold statement after thinking about it for a while.

"We have to decide whether to play or not," he said the stugger. "After all, we have an obligation to the fans. We owe them things - performances. If we're playing like this bother our play, then we wouldn't be professionals."

He stressed, though, that there is a mood in the club enchanted with some of the stunts pulled by the Oakland owner.

"Believe me, there are going to be a lot of bobbles in batting practice next year. Some play, some don't. I'm ready to go just for spite."

Most of the Athletics went through a lazy practice Monday at Shea Stadium wearing an air of gloom and resignation about their sleeves.

This was in memory of Mike Andrews," said third baseman Sal Bando, obviously upset.

"I'm sorry he could not have coupled with the physical problem with the owner's problem. The ace of the New York staff will be opposed by Jim Rooker in a night-game showdown.

Along with Finley, Seaver also was on Oakland's mind as he reedied himself for the game.

"They got a guy going for them that they heard about in China," said Jackson.

Finley and Seaver weren't the only concerns in the first World Series night game in baseball history, scheduled to start at 8:30 p.m., EDT, and to be shown on CBS television.

The crowd and condition of the field were almost as topical as the game itself.

A booked-up security force of 1,000 police and others will be on hand for crowd control. The Mets' management are trying to prevent a recurrence of the turnfulness at last week's National League playoff with Cincinnati Reds.

Shea Stadium's ground crew appears in better shape than Rusty Staub, the Mets' sore-shouldered right fielder. Staub, the York star flew home ahead of the team Monday and vowed to do or die if he could play. He found out he could, but barely.

He had his shoulder numbed into the wall at Shea Stadium while making a catch in the National League playoff and hasn't been able to throw or hit properly.

The weather forecast for game 3 is clear and cool with little chance of rain.

Wood for Duncan In Calgary Shuffle

CALGARY (CP) — Jim Wood, who failed to make Calgary Stampeders as a player in 1959, now is the head coach of the Western Football Conference club.

Wood, 35, was named Monday to succeed Jim Duncan, released one day after the Stampeders' fourth consecutive defeat.

"We still have the same principles we had yesterday," said Wood, who joined the Stampeders in the season after five years as head coach at New Mexico State University.

His first chore, he said, is to reorganize the players and "utilize them in a better way."

He said there will be few changes, but he wants a more emotional commitment from his players.

He is taking over a club that has scored fewer points and given up more points than any other team in the WFC. The Stampeders hold third place, the last playoff spot, on points over Winnipeg Blue Bombers, and meet the second-place Saskatchewan Roughriders Sunday at Regina.

Wood tried out with the Stampeders as a defensive end in 1958 but was cut.

A native of Tonkawa, Okla., Wood attended Oklahoma State and was named to the coaches' All-American team as an end in 1958.

He played in the Senior Bowl and Blue-Gray game after his senior year and turned down an offer from the Washington Redskins of the National Football League in order to try out with Calgary.

He began coaching with Allen Hancock junior college in California and moved to New Mexico State in 1968 as an assistant coach. He was named head coach in 1967 and stayed there until joining Calgary this season.

General manager Rogers Leverse said the decision to name Duncan followed a 33-6 whipping by Ottawa Rough Riders Sunday.

Johnson A Hit With A's

NEW YORK (AP) — Deron Johnson can't believe his good fortune in batting in the World Series. A year ago he thought his baseball career was over.

But there was Johnson, walking to the plate as a pinch hitter for the American League champion Oakland Athletics and hitting a double that started a two-run rally in the second game. The Athlties tied Johnson in batting in three runs in 1971. After four previous major league teams, Johnson appeared to have found a home.

The ailment was described as a nerve problem which would subside only with time and rest. The doctors didn't promise the slugger he would regain 100 per cent efficiency.

The 6-foot-3 Johnson returned to the lineup in September, hit the ball well and management figured on Deron as their first baseman for 1972.

He had a good spring training, but when the club came north, new manager Danny Ozark decided to go with young Willie Montanez and Tommy Hutton at first base. He benched Johnson, who in the three seasons prior to his allment hit a total of 79 homers.

Johnson knew he wasn't long for the Phillies, and May 2, he was dealt to Oakland.

Johnson was made a designated hitter by manager Dick Williams. He responded with 27 homers and 81 RBI, a big factor in Oakland's drive to a second straight American League pennant.

He's meant a great deal to our ball club," says Williams. "He helped us not only with the long ball and RBIs, but by giving us more flexibility. He's the type that is a designated hitter. He's a good first baseman."

When Williams wanted to rest one of his two catchers, he'd put Johnson at first base.

Johnson has been troubled adjusting to being a designated hitter.

"The real adjustments was to our park," Johnson explains. "The park is so big it's difficult to hit the ball out, and the grass is so high. Sometimes I think you need a cannon to get the ball through. And when the wind starts blowing and cold to stiffen up sitting on the bench. I took extra running to keep my legs in shape."

Whalers Tie Saints 3-3

BOSTON (CP) — New England Whalers scored three unanswered goals in the third period to tie Jerry Farris, 3-3 in Minnesota Fighting Saints 3-3 in World Hockey Association game Monday night.

There was no scoring in a 15-minute sudden-death overtime period.

The Saints took a 1-0 lead early in the first period when Mike Walton scored the only goal of the year. Wayne Connelly increased the margin to 2-0 at 13:32 of the second period and Jarley of New England in the penalty box.

Keith Christie got Minnesota's third goal at 6:24 of the second period with Connelly and Mike McMahon picking up assists.

The Whalers scored their first in six minutes span.

Two of the goals came from Williams off a rebound and Christie in the second—were power-play efforts.

For the defending WHA playoff champions, it was their third 14th straight at home and first loss, and second consecutive overtime contest.

No Decision On Secretariat

TORONTO (CP) — Penny Tweedy, owner of Triple Crown winner Secretariat, and trainer Lucien Laurin visited Woodbine race track during the weekend but left without making a decision on whether Secretariat will run here this month.

Mrs. Tweedy's famous three-year-old thoroughbred has been invited to run in the $250,000-added Canadian International Championship Stakes Oct. 30.

The owner and trainer toured the Woodbine track and walked the Marshall turf course on which the International will be run.

Both were impressed with the good condition of the turf course but expressed doubts about how well Secretariat might adjust to the Marshall course's grass which is much longer and denser than on the New York courses he is used to.

Jets Sign Fran Huck

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Jets of the World Hockey Association announced today the signing of Frank Huck who was last year by St. Louis Blues of the National Hockey League.

Details of the signing were not announced.

Dolphins Top Browns 17-9

CLEVELAND (AP) — "There were no fancy plays, just head on head," said middle linebacker Bob Babich of Cleveland Browns.

"In a game like that something bad to break, and unfortunately it broke against us."

Babich's comment came moments after Miami Dolphins handed the Browns their second defeat of the season, 17-9, in a National Football League game Monday night.

"Mercury" (Morris) run and (Mike) Kolen's interception were the big plays," said Miami coach Don Shula.

With the Browns ahead 6-3, Morris broke away for a 76-yard run in the third quarter and put the ball on the Cleveland nine-yard line. Three plays later Larry Csonka went in from the two and put the Dolphins ahead for good.

An announcement from the Athletics' front office stated simply that Andrews was knocked off the roster because of a "shoulder ailment."

However, the Athletics, almost to a man, believe that the eccentric owner literally fired Andrews for making two costly errors in Sunday's 10-7 loss to the Mets in Game 2.

The uncomfortable situation has the Athletics on the brink of a "player revolt," says outfielder Reggie Jackson, the team's player representative.

The players are "prepared for refusing to play," he said, "if we get a bunch of guys from this team who are close to their pocket."

However, Jackson tempered that bold statement after thinking about it for a while.

"We have to decide whether to play or not," he said the stugger. "After all, we have an obligation to the fans. We owe them things - performances. If we're playing like this bother our play, then we wouldn't be professionals."

He stressed, though, that there is a mood in the club enchanted with some of the stunts pulled by the Oakland owner.

"Believe me, there are going to be a lot of bobbles in batting practice next year. Some play, some don't. I'm ready to go just for spite."

Most of the Athletics went through a lazy practice Monday at Shea Stadium wearing an air of gloom and resignation about their sleeves.

This was in memory of Mike Andrews," said third baseman Sal Bando, obviously upset.

"I'm sorry he could not have coupled with the physical problem with the owner's problem. The ace of the New York staff will be opposed by Jim Rooker in a night-game showdown.

Along with Finley, Seaver also was on Oakland's mind as he reedied himself for the game.

"They got a guy going for them that they heard about in China," said Jackson.

Finley and Seaver weren't the only concerns in the first World Series night game in baseball history, scheduled to start at 8:30 p.m., EDT, and to be shown on CBS television.

The crowd and condition of the field were almost as topical as the game itself.

A booked-up security force of 1,000 police and others will be on hand for crowd control. The Mets' management are trying to prevent a recurrence of the turnfulness at last week's National League playoff with Cincinnati Reds.

Shea Stadium's ground crew appears in better shape than Rusty Staub, the Mets' sore-shouldered right fielder. Staub, the York star flew home ahead of the team Monday and vowed to do or die if he could play. He found out he could, but barely.

He had his shoulder numbed into the wall at Shea Stadium while making a catch in the National League playoff and hasn't been able to throw or hit properly.

The weather forecast for game 3 is clear and cool with little chance of rain.

BCI Juniors, Seniors Pick Up Soccer Wins

The BCI Junior Wanderers took over first place in the Eastern division yesterday at Zwicks Island, with a convincing 9-0 win over the Centennial F team in high school soccer action.

Rungano Mutuwaire opened the scoring at the 10 minute mark with Davy Freakle, Gord Van Vliet, and Greg Mulvihill adding goals before the half.

Van Vliet scored his second goal of the game midway through the second half, while Mutuwaire fired two more to bring his season's total to eight.

In the last five minutes, Franklin scored another, while Dwight Bagley round out the scoring.

BCI and Moira both have seven points, with one game to play. If either team drops a point, the other will take the division title. If the teams are still tied at the end of the schedule, a coin toss will likely decide the premier winners.

In senior play, the BCI Wanderers missing the services of regulars Brian Kaiser and Greg McMurter, turned on their best performance of the season and completely outplayed a late OSD team.

Charlie Nesterovski scored two goals, a minute apart, on passes from Peter Crawford.

Early in the second half: Rungano Mutuwairo, brought up from the juniors, squicered the ball past the OSD goalie to put BCI three up.

Nesterovski scored two more goals on passes from Crawford and Mutuwaire after Gary Donavon had a goal nullified on a BCI penalty.

Late in the game, Jamie Mason scored his first goal of the season with help once again by Crawford.

Dave Van Vliet rounded out the scoring just before the final whistle, with Crawford drawing his fifth assist of the game.

Phil Scovo bagged the shutout, his second of t'e year to give BCI its seventh consecutive win. The Wanderers clinched first place in the Eastern division.

In the other Eastern Conference game played last night, the Maple Leaf downed Nicholson in the senior game by a 5-4 score, while the NCC juniors edged Madoc 3-1.

snowmobile buyer's guide

A few hot features don't make a high performance snowmobile. It's how you put them all together.

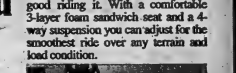
There are a lot of snowmobiles around with big, fast engines, slide suspension systems and sleek, racy styling.

And there are a lot of snowmobile buyers who think that's all you need to make a high performance machine. But, there's a little more to it than that.

Power from a reliable source

Take the all-new TNT• from Ski-Doo.

We've got the engines: 3 big twins by Rotax that really crank it out. But, instead of just worrying about the performance you need to get you moving, we also worry about the reliability you need to keep you moving.



So we developed a rugged, Square Shaft clutch that increases available power by reducing power loss. We used a tough, light aluminum-steel frame to keep sled weight down. And on our muscular 440, for example, we chrome-plated the cylinder walls and added two additional transfer ports per cylinder to help it run cooler and last longer. The extra power you get is free.

A complete handling package

When we designed a slide suspension system to improve TNT handling, we didn't stop there. We also incorporated a stable 16-1/2 inch track, a full 28 inch ski stance, mounted the engine low and up front over the skis and added (as standard) shock absorbers and Ski-Doo• carbide ski runners to give you a good grip on ice and hard packed snow.

Comfort is part of performance

When we set out to make TNT look good with its sleek, low-profile styling and handsome sheet-moulded cab, we also set out to make you feel good riding it. With a comfortable 3-layer foam sandwich seat and a 4-way suspension you can adjust for the smoothest ride over any terrain and load condition.

TNT from Ski-Doo. It's got everything you expect to find in a high performance snowmobile, including a speedometer and tachometer as standard equipment. But TNT isn't just a few hot features. It's a totally engineered machine. See it at your Ski-Doo dealer's. There are six new models to choose from, including two with electric start, 4 and all having a full one-year warranty.

Bourassa Appeal Made

MONTREAL (CP) — Counsel for court proceedings scheduled today against Premier Robert Bourassa for his book, James Bay, were blocked Monday by the lodging of an appeal in Quebec Superior Court.

The notice of appeal was accompanied by a sworn declaration that the premier had issued orders to the distributors and sellers of the books to cease circulating them "out of respect for the administration of justice, while the petition is pending."

A counsel for the Quebec Indian Association, which filed the petition for the contempt charge, said Monday the appeal against the contempt order was followed by a motion from the association to quash it.

Chief Justice Jules Deschenes ordered the premier Wednesday to show why he should not be held in contempt for publishing his book at a time when the association's injunction seeking to halt the James Bay development project is under advisement.

Named in the contempt petition along with Mr. Bourassa are Jean Morissette, Liberal party agent, and the publishers of both the English and French language editions of the book.

The association's motion to quash the appeal will be argued Wednesday. No date has been set for hearing the appeal, which would be disposed of before any proceedings resume on the original move to cite the premier for contempt.

Last Attraction

TORONTO (CP) — While the Yonge Street Mall has been dismantled after the summer, one attraction remains. On one corner sits Joe Smolli, a speed chess expert. He'll play anyone in two, three or four minutes and probably win. During the games he recites tales of his wide travels throughout the world.

Thurlow Will Ask Repairs to Dam

Thurlow Township council will request the Moira River Conservation Authority to investigate the possibility of either repairing or reconstructing the Canniffon Dam.

Council's action came as a result of a verbal submission from Ray Baigent, owner of Canniffon's Club Cedars. At its regular monthly meeting Wednesday, Mr. Baigent asked council to contact the authority for a report.

Due to the disrepair of the dam, he reasoned, there is a danger that there won't be any water for residents living on the banks of the river at some future date. The dam isn't holding the water between Canniffon and the Corbyville dams. Besides marring the river's natural beauty, the dam's disrepair coupled with water level fluctuations, leaves residents drawing from the river, high and dry on occasion.

Since a private citizen cannot approach the authority with such a request, Mr. Baigent came to council for action.

Owner of the dam that is part of the Canniffon Mill's property, Fred Sterba, said this morning, he is financially unable to make the necessary repairs. He admitted work was needed, but said he was unable to skim $5,000 or more into it.

"I've been in the business for six years," said Mr. Sterba. "The business is finished. I'll be closing the mill after the new year."

Business for area grist mills has decreased steadily over the years.

James H. McCloud, authority secretary-treasurer, admitted the poor condition of the Canniffon Dam requires rectification, but said the water seepage cannot solely be attributed to this factor.

However, the main problem with lack of water at certain times during the year, stems from the limestone through which the river runs. Especially on the west bank of the river, the water has bored channels in the rock around the end of the dam.

"Water is escaping there, and the dam itself is in poor condition," said Mr. McCloud. "The problem has to be solved, but as it stands, the authority cannot do repairs for private individuals."

Healing Substance...
Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch
Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids... and repair damaged tissue.
A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissue.
One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.
And most important—this improvement was maintained in cases where clinical observations were continued over a period of many months. Furthermore, these tests and observations were made on patients with a wide variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. All this was accomplished with a healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.
In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a stated cause of hemorrhoids.
Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Oil Newest Weapon

Crude Prices Jacked Up

KUWAIT (CP) — Six Persian gulf states have raised their price for crude oil by 11 per cent as they continued their deliberations on how to use oil as a weapon in the Middle East war.

The states said the increase is not directly related to the war.

But sources here said the most likely action would be a cutback of oil production while the war lasted and a stern warning to the U.S.

Six Persian Gulf states decided in Kuwait to raise their prices for crude oil and threatened to put it on the open market if Western oil companies refused to pay. Ministers said the decision was not linked to today's sit-as-a-weapon talks.

The Persian Gulf states were being joined by representatives Libya, Algeria, Egypt, Syria and Bahrain to "consider the role of oil in the Middle East conflict," as Kuwait's invitation put it.

The meeting came as the Arab-Israeli war went into its 12th day.

The oil ministers said the price of light crude oil would be increased to $3.65 from $3.12 a barrel. They said this brought the price in line with that charged for North African and Venezuelan oil.

The ministers added that, from now on, the cost of their oil will be determined by market prices, which are rising, and not by negotiations with the oil companies.

"I told you to keep your mouth shut!"

Sadat Likes Stalemate

From AP-REUTER

More tank battles were reported on the Egyptian and Syrian fronts of the Arab-Israeli war today, and Syria said Israeli jets again tried to bomb Latakia and Tartus on the Syrian coast.

But both fronts appeared stalemated, and observers in Cairo said the standoff may have convinced Egyptian President Anwar Sadat he can bring Israel to terms. He has issued a peace call containing demands previously rejected by Israel.

In the Sinai, an Israeli communique today said "large-scale armored battles are being fought in the central sector of the Suez Canal front."

Debate Turns To War

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons started aside the domestic issue of family allowances Tuesday to plunge into inconclusive debate on the distant Middle East war.

But Claude Wagner, Conservative foreign affairs critic, suggested the war is not really far removed from Canada.

"I suggest that we will indeed be facing if the present conflict remains within the category of a little war."

Spokesmen for all parties aimed most of their shafts at the Arabs, the Soviet Union and the United States for their roles in the war.

The Democratic Party Leader David Lewis even took aim at the United Nations, saying UN discussions of the war gave the impression of a "lynch mob is ready to tear Israel apart."

Canadian Supply Threatened

OTTAWA (CP) — Energy Minister Donald Macdonald said Tuesday there is "a serious threat" that the Middle East war—currently in its second week—will cause interruption of Arab oil shipments to Canada.

Mr. Macdonald said that the war so far has cut out oil supplies to Canada from the four Arab countries that provide a quarter of Canada's oil imports.

But "every day that the war goes on there is a greater risk of interruption of the supply in the Canadian market."

Hours after his return from Caracas, the minister also announced that the Venezuelan government has accepted his request to negotiate an agreement for assured supplies of Venezuelan oil to Canada.

But that was "not of great assistance" during the current Middle East war.

He said Venezuela would prefer to arrange a supply deal between its own petroleum corporation and a similar government agency in Canada.

He had replied that establishment of a government-owned oil company is "very much a matter of domestic debate in this country."

But it was clear that a supply arrangement with Venezuela "would be assisted" by setting up such a company.

In his speech to the Royal Society of Canada—holding a seminar on energy this week—Mr. Macdonald said Canada is in a better position than some countries under threat of losing Middle East oil supplies.

"We produce half our own oil consumption, and have other sources of off-shore supplies—largely Venezuela," he said.

Faster Mail Ahead of Schedule

OTTAWA (CP) — Post office efforts to speed the mails are proceeding ahead of schedule and 26 major cities may have new mail-processing equipment by late 1976.

A final step in the first phase of modernization will be taken next month when new alphabet-numeral postal codes for the Atlantic Provinces will be announced. That will complete the coding process for the country.

The postal codes—keys to post office automation plans—must be on letters in order for them to be processed by a proposed $80 million worth of coding and letter-sorting machines.

Codes will be announced Nov. 5 in Saint John, N.B., and Halifax and the following day in St. John's, Nfld.

J. G. Fultz, director of the post office coding and mechanization branch, said in an interview that completion dates for coding are well ahead of schedule.

When officials mapped out the original coding plan in July, 1970, they planned to have the country coded in five years. This was later revised to April, 1974.

With problems of processing some five billion pieces of mail a year and the desire to turn the post office into a competitive business motivating administrators, installation of coding desks and letter-sorting machines began in Ottawa last year.

During the summer machines went into Winnipeg. Installation now has begun in Regina and will start next week in Saskatoon.

At first they were to go into 15 cities but this was later expanded to 26 covering all communities with 80,000 or more population.

Estimated capital cost of the automation program now planned will be $85 million. That includes the $80 million for coders and sorters, about $2.5 million for optical character readers and the rest for training equipment.

The optical character readers, being made in Japan, will eliminate the need for human coders who now read and stamp mail.

Coding desks and letter-sorting machines are being built by International Telephone and Telegraph at Guelph.

Minimum Wage Up

TORONTO (CP) — Labor Minister Fernand Guindon said Tuesday he will seek to raise the minimum wage in Ontario by early next year.

Mr. Guindon, replying in the legislature to New Democratic Leader Stephen Lewis, said he will recommend an increase to cabinet, but declined to give figures.

Ontario's minimum wage was increased by 15 cents last winter to $1.80 an hour.

The rate for construction workers went up to $2.05 from $1.80 and for students under 18 to $1.45 from $1.30.

Mr. Guindon told Liberal Leader Robert Nixon that each time the minimum wage is raised "a few jobs are lost" because small employers can't afford to pay it.

He said the number of lost jobs depends on how much the minimum wage is raised.

He rejected a suggestion by James Renwick (NDP—Toronto Riverdale) that public hearings be held to obtain opinions as to how high a minimum wage should be.

Mr. Guindon said public hearings would only delay decisions to set minimum wages.

Airmen Killed

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP) — Two Canadian Forces personnel were killed early today when a CF-100 jet crashed in Four Mile Lake, two miles short of the runway at CFB North Bay.

Lieut. G. J. Hunt, 28, of Brampton, Ont., pilot of the aircraft, and its navigator, Capt. T. M. Campbell, 38, of Winnipeg, were killed at the plane, from the 414 Black Knights Squadron, made its final landing approach.

• Visibility in the area was 10 miles with a slight snow shower.

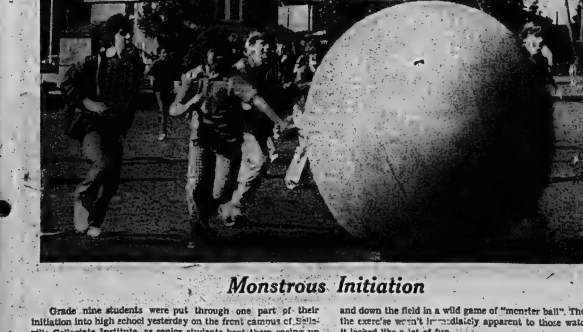
The plane was returning from a test exercise with the 21st NORAD region in the northeast United States.

Gunman Kidnaps Diplomats



HAVANA (Reuter) — An anti-Castro gunman threatened to kill himself and two diplomats he is holding hostage in the French embassy here unless granted a safe-conduct flight out of Cuba.

The kidnapper seized Belgian Ambassador Jean Semerhuzen and French Ambassador Pierre Antal Anthonioz Tuesday.

"Please tell the world that in the face of Communist obstinacy I am ready to die," he said in a telephone conversation with Reuters from the heavily guarded embassy building.

Asked if he was prepared to kill the hostages, the gunman, who gave his name as Manuel De La Paz, replied: "Yes sir." Then he hung up.

The kidnapper, described as an elegantly dressed mulatto in his 30s, seized Semerhuzen after first calling at the office of the French news agency Agence France Presse and forcing an employee at gunpoint to take him to the Belgian embassy.

Chatham St. Man Guilty of Arson

A 30-year-old Belleville man, John Howard Tame, of 11-A Chatham Street, was yesterday convicted in provincial court on three counts of arson.

Brought to trial before Judge J. R. Clendenning after his arrest Aug. 30, following a series of four late-night fires Aug. 27, Tame was convicted of having set fire to the front porch of a home at 255 Allen Street, to the back porch of a home at 253 Charles Street and to the back wall of a garage at 165 Victoria Street.

A charge of wilful damage over $50, which arose from setting fire to the front wall of a car parked in front of 88 Queen Street, was dismissed after the Crown failed to prove the damage exceeded $50.

In testifying on his own behalf, Tame told the court he could not remember what he had really happened, since he had been drinking heavily on the night the incidents occurred.

He also claimed a signed statement he made earlier made to police, admitting his part in setting the fires, was false.

"I signed it just to get it over with," he said. "I presumed that's what happened."

In presenting the case for the Crown, special prosecutor Richard Crowley called on 13 witnesses who gave evidence as to the cause of the fires.

The only witness for the Crown, however, were Belleville police constables Donald N. Caibers and Paul Mckerracher, an inspector with the office of the Ontario Fire Marshal.

Both PC Caibers and Mr. McKerracher testified that on Aug. 28 Tame went with them for a drive around the area in which the fires occurred and retraced his actions of the night of Aug. 27.

Upon returning to the station, Tame said he was willingly signed a statement that described how and where he set the fires.

In the statement, which was admitted as evidence after a lengthy private legal debate, Tame explained how he had gone to a store on Chatham Street to buy a package of cigarettes. Finding the store closed, he began to walk west along Queen Street.

He said that he came across a car parked in front of 88 Queen Street and for no apparent reason, picked up some papers from a nearby garbage pile, set them on fire and placed them in the front seat of the car.

The statement then outlined how Tame had fled north along Albert Street, stopping to set a burning cardboard box filled with papers against the front door of 253 Albert Street.

He then scattered a burning ado the back porch of 255 Charles Street and set fire to a towel he had stuffed between the partitions of the garage on Victoria Street.

PC Caibers stopped Tame minutes later at the intersection of Pine and Chatham Streets because he matched a description given to police by a woman who had seen him fleeing from the fire on Albert Street.

In registering convictions against Tame, Judge Clendenning said he did not regard Tame as a credible witness and having taken into account that the evidence was "purely circumstantial" he believed there was enough to convict him.

Tame was remanded to Nov. 6 for sentencing pending the results of a psychiatric examination at the Quinte Regional Detention Centre.

Family Flees Morning Fire

Fire sent a Belleville family of four scurrying into the street early this morning, when it gutted the living room of a condominium apartment unit at 34 Tracey Park.

Belleville firefighters received a call at 7:40 a.m. and rushed to unit 34, 91 Tracey Park, the home of Mrs. Carol Thorburne and her three young boys.

On arriving at the scene, the firefighters found a large picture window had been blown out onto the front lawn as a result of the heat from the fire. They managed to put the blaze out within 10 or 15 minutes of their arrival.

Deputy Fire Chief Bob Emerson said that, so far, investigation has revealed that the fire started in a chesterfield. They have also ruled out the possibility of an electrical malfunction starting the fire.

Fire inspector Paul Stephenson will continue to inspect the fire site today.

Commenting on the fire, Deputy Chief Emerson said that the three young boys who had been sleeping upstairs, discovered the fire when they were getting ready for school. They ran to get their mother and fled from the house.

Noting that the apartment had only one exit, through the front door, deputy Emerson said, "We were lucky it happened at 7:40 because if it had happened at 2 o'clock at night we may have had four corpses on our hands."

Damage estimates were not available at press time, but all the living room furniture was completely destroyed and the kitchen and upstairs bedrooms sustained smoke and heat damage.

In Trenton Area

LIP Requests Show Big Surge

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — While much of the Quinte area seems to have slackened off in local Initiative Program participation, Canada Manpower officials have report more than a four - fold increase in grant applications.

For the greater part of Hastings County 42 applications have been submitted, compared to 38 last year.

In Trenton the increase has been dramatic. A Manpower spokesman said Tuesday 13 formal applications were on their way to Toronto head offices. Last year there had been only three.

The spokesman said "response has been extremely good" but could give no reason for the interest. The centre here distributes information kits to all municipalities and interested groups in an attempt to draw interest to the program. The Manpower office here also covers Frankford, Brighton and Murray township areas.

Included in the list of applications are bids by the Quinte District Labor Council for a citizens bureau to be based in Trenton, a town council project to facilitate renovations of town offices for the incoming Quinte Planning Board and requests by the Brighton Save Our Heritage Society for funds to complete Proctor House.

The Manpower spokesman said he did not have specific totals for project costs but they "seemed to range between $17,000 to $70,000". Maximum for one project is $75,000.

These LIP programs, if accepted, may begin no sooner than Dec. 3 and will usually last no more than six months.

It will be at least six weeks before approval will be received for the programs.

It's Rubble - - Again

Smoking rubble was all that remained Tuesday of a modern farm owned by Bert Kotchapaw of Sophiasburgh. Mr. Kotchapaw lost a barn to fire on the same site less than a year ago. Cause of the Monday-night fire is still not known.

Arena Gets $16,000

DESERONTO — Council has received a letter from Community and Social Services Minister Rene Brunelle, advising the town that a grant of $16,091 has been authorized for its arena project.

One of the conditions of approval is that construction commences on Nov. 1, 1972, and be completed by February, 1974. As these dates are some months ago, council has decided to ask that the commencement and completion dates be changed to Nov. 1, 1973 and May 31, 1975.

Councillor Peter Dickenson, recreation committee chairchairman, advised that as a bylaw was passed some time ago no other bylaw is necessary to cover construction of the Community Centre. He submitted a resolution to apply for a provincial government loan of $115,000 for construction of the community hall and skating rink. This loan is expected to be the last large one here. The resolution was passed.

Audit Stays In Town Hall

DESERONTO — Councillor John Neal declared his intention several times at meetings ago of seeking a copy of the 1973 audit report for his own use.

This week, he did ask for the report at council. He was told that such material is available for councillors to inspect but it cannot be taken from the town hall. Councillor Neal then asked if it was permissible for him to make some discussion a motion was passed authorizing him to do this as long as he waited until after the municipal election or about December 15th. The councillor suggested that the town auditor be asked for a price to make photo copies of audit reports in future, for councillors use.

Cadet Hired

DESERONTO — Barry L. Roebuck, an 18-year-old Deseronto native has been hired as town police cadet. Salary will be $5.30 to be paid weekly.

The town police committee will meet with its constables in the town hall Oct. 18 to receive briefs of the next police contract.

DEMAND DECREASE

The county financial demand for Marmora Lake Township will be down slightly in 1974, Reeve Graham Bell has told township Council. The difference will amount to 19 per cent

Fire Loss May Be $60,000

SOPHIASBURGH — Fish Lake farmer Bert Kotchapaw this week watched his barn burn to the ground for the second time in less than a year.

Oct. 26, 1972, the dairy farmer lost 33 cows when fire destroyed his barn.

In a fire Monday night more than 7,000 bales of hay were burned as well as milking equipment and a calf. Cause of the blaze which lit the sky for miles around remains a mystery.

Sophiasburgh fire chief Donald Potter said that the fire loss had been estimated at $60,000. Firefighters were unable to save the new barn, arriving on the scene as the roof began to cave. The fire apparently started in a pile of hay in the barn.

"Firemen stayed at the site until 8 a.m. Tuesday morning.

Mr. Kotchapaw said that he had been at the barn a short time before the fire broke out. He was unaware of the blaze which was spotted by a neighbor driving by.

Burned In Flash Fire

MARMORA — A young man is still recovering in hospital from burns suffered during an accident at a garage here.

Douglas Shipman, 18, suffered burns to his legs and back when gasoline on his clothing was ignited.

The mishap occurred at the garage of his brother-in-law, Stan Madigan, on Highway 7 at the east end of the village Oct. 7.

Gas splashed on the young man's clothing while it was being drained from an automobile in for repairs. Reports say a fire started when an unknown customer lit a cigaret and dropped the match in the spilled gasoline — the flames catching Mr. Shipman's clothes.

$2 Million Sanitary System For Bancroft

Environment Minister James Auld has announced awarding of a contract to Tripp Construction Comoany in the amount of $1,984,573.00 for extension to the sanitary sewers and filtration plant in the Village of Bancroft. Construction is expected to be completed by November 1st, 1974.

New Recreation Industry Will Employ 120 at Picton

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Wickes Canada Ltd., manufacturers of motor homes, trailers and other recreational vehicles, has located at Loch Sloy Industrial park.

The new industry, which will employ approximately 120 yesterday by William Duggan, county director of economic development and executive of Loch Sloy Holding Ltd.

Wickes Canada Ltd. is a subsidiary of Wickes Corporation in Michigan. A Canadian head office operates at Lethbridge, Alta. The new Picton plant will supply the Eastern Ontario market.

Mr. Duggan has confirmed that negotiations, underway for more than a year, reached fruition with the signing of leases this week. The new plant will occupy two buildings at the industrial park.

Renovations at the park already are underway with carpenters, fitters and electricians working non-stop to build a modern factory from an aluminum hangar. An independently - fired automobile boiler has been installed for heating and will be connected to the steam lines and tested within the next few days. Operations, hopefully will begin Dec. 1, according to Ted Rosel, director of manufacturing for Wickes Canada.

The new industry will employ 120 workers in its present phase, 60 of whom will be trained and the balance hired during the winter.

Mr. Duggan said it is expected that the training program will be operated with co-operation of Canada Manpower which already has application forms available.

Local firms are renovating the buildings to be used by the new plant and electrical contracting also has been awarded to area companies.

The announcement of another new industry for Prince Edward was applauded by George Foster, reeve of Sophiasburgh and chairman of Prince Edward County's economic development committee, county warden Russell Thompson and Harvey McFarland Jr., of Loch Sloy Holding.

They noted Wickes is the third new company to locate at the industrial park and the fifth manufacturing undertaking in Prince Edward in the past 12 months.

Hallmaster Boats Ltd., and Skylight Homes Ltd. now are located in the park. Other new manufacturing concerns in the county include J. W. Fiberglass of Bloomfield, and Nourse Electronics, Picton.

Chief Criticizes Indian Deportation

DESERONTO — Chief Earl Hill of the Quinte Mohawks today expressed feelings about the government's recent decision to deport Indians born outside of Canada if they had not signed into the country as landed immigrants by October 15.

Chief Hill stated that the Jay treaty, signed in 1794, which allowed Indians to pass and repass, withstanding any immigration laws, was ratified by the United States, but was never agreed upon by the Canadian government. He feels that the government should adopt the portion of the Jay Treaty applying to the "free and unimpeded travel" of the Indians, because, originally, native people did not have a United States - Canadian border line.

"To what foreign country do they intend to deport North American Indians," Chief Hill asks.

He says that the Canadian Government must shoulder and shoulder the responsibilities that it has willingly made with aboriginal peoples.

Walkathon

TWEED — The annual hockey walkathon is scheduled for Oct. 21 in this area.

Speaker From Big Brothers

TRENTON — Guest speaker at the Trenton Kiwanis Club Thursday night will be a representative of the Canadian Big Brother Movement.

Clifford Hall will discuss his organization with the service club at their regular meeting to be held in the Trenton Country Club.

Park Site Develops

TRENTON — If all goes well, another 12 acres will be ready for public use in this community's Centennial Park development program.

Over the summer, crews have been leveling and topsoiling ground bordering the Bay of Quinte, says a town spokesman, if the weather holds grass may still be planted this fall.

With the grass planted, the 12 acres for picnic leisure spots will be ready for spring.

This portion of the project cost the town approximately $18,000. Each year some $20,000 are set aside in the budget for this park's continued development.

Pollution in States

In the United States there have been successes and failures in the fight against pollution. Unfortunately the failures seem to predominate.

The Christian Science Monitor offers evidence of the latter in the experiences of seven men and a 14-year-old youth who retraced, using mid-west river systems the 3,000-mile voyage made 300 years ago by the young mapmaker Louis Joliet and Jesuit missionary Jacques Marquette.

Clad as their predecessors would have been, and reproducing as nearly as possible all aspects of the journey, the latter-day adventurers nevertheless had to make concessions to conditions of the moment. Instead of birch-bark, which would never have held up under today's polluted rivers, they used two canoes made from fibre glas patterned with a tartlike pitch to look like the originals. As it is, the canoes each finished up with a pollution film in water level.

The water of course was undrinkable and one of the participants, biology teacher James Phillips said that in some stretches of the trip, the river stench was so bad the canoeists sprayed their water-soaked hands with a disinfectant. In addition their period-style breeches became stained at one point when they jumped into the river to pull their canoes through fast-flying current.

Everywhere the tale was similar — oil slicks, dead wood carps and gasping carp. One water sample they took "was so dark we couldn't even see any sunlight coming through it," said Phillips.

And all this in a journey that took them from St. Ignace, Michigan, through Wisconsin south through Iowa, Missouri and Arkansas, then northward again to Chicago, by river and portage.

In short, very different conditions to what Pere Jacques Marquette found back in 1673. In his journal he wrote: "We have seen nothing like this river we enter, as regards its fertility of soil, its prairies and woods, its cattle, elk, deer, wildcats, bustards, swans, ducks, parroquets, and even beaver."

It is all indicative of the dangerous straits to which our modern lifestyle has brought us and how far the road is toward winning the battle against pollution . . . if ever.

Oil Is King

Oil is a product in our crazy mixed-up scale of political and social values that has the potential to make or break.

This is true today more than ever.

In recent talks in Vienna, and in a statement eloquent of efforts to halt the flow of oil to countries supporting Israel, six Persian Gulf states demanded a two-thirds increase in their crude oil prices.

More than ever, for the countries of the western world there is a need to economize on oil consumption on the one hand and to uncover new sources on the other.

How many inner lands Nigeria is such an important and growing source, as witness the article by Kevin Doyle on this page.

The seabed around Scotland is another important new source being opened up. Thirteen of 20 prospecting companies have struck oil there, with exciting prospects for supplying Britain's needs.

As for economizing, it has been said in recent months that the United States could be virtually self-supporting — if drivers drove more slowly and housewives washed clothes in cooler water.

But will anybody buy that suggestion? As Eliza Higgins would say: "Not bloody likely!"

Costly War

A vast amount of military hardware — especially planes and tanks — has been destroyed in the fighting in the Middle East. For students of conventional warfare it has been a revealing experience, a chastening one too for the armies on both sides.

The latest tanks, whether of United States (Israeli) or Soviet (Arab) design or use, have proved in effect to be so much tinsel. The fastest jets in use today — Phantoms, Mirage, MiGs — all have fallen before countless weapons including ground-to-air missiles. Hundreds of these sophisticated planes, no matter that they can fly faster than sound, have been shot out of the skies.

Now both sides are apparently at the stage they will have to be replenished — but how many pilots and tank crews will be left to man them?

Municipalities Blamed for Shortage of Serviced Land

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

There's nothing very fancy about Canada's perennial housing shortage—except, perhaps, the long list of people who step forward every so often by the carpenter.

Despite each new "solution" however, the shortage goes on, and house prices continue to rise.

Just a week or so ago, Urban Affairs Minister Ron Basford was holding out new hope that a public land-assembly program would enable municipalities to get into the real-estate business in a way that could lead to lower housing costs and greater supply.

He noted that the two senior levels of government hold 15,000 acres of land in 30 Ontario municipalities, which would provide enough land for 75,000 public-housing units.

The trouble is that nobody has shown that an increase in the number of public-housing units does anything to reduce prices in the rest of the housing market—nor that a shortage of land is the basic reason for our chronic shortage of housing.

The real shortage, from all accounts, is in serviced land—not in raw land.

And one of the basic reasons for the shortage of services (sewers and the like) is the foot-dragging of many municipal councils.

Municipal opposition may be based on council's reluctance to pay the bills for educational services, which are inevitably required in new housing developments, or it may be based on the wish to mollify those ratepayers who are already established in the municipality and don't want to share it with newcomers.

But even when this type of resistance is not present, housing industry men say that construction is needlessly and unreasonably hampered by red tape. Approvals must be sought from a truly formidable array of regulatory authorities—all of them negatively inclined—before a housing project can be carried out.

Then, too, there is inflation. In no other field is the average Canadian faced with such steady and substantial pressure on prices.

"In a situation such as exists today, where there is a shortage of both new and resale homes, there is a temptation by a private owner to make a once-in-a-lifetime, tax-free capital gain," noted Albert Fish, president of the Canadian Real Estate Association, at his group's recent annual conference in Toronto.

"Because of the rising costs of land, labor and materials, new houses must of necessity cost more to put in place.

"Owners of existing homes see the 1973 increases in price tags and are tempted to push the asking price of their houses as close to the price of the new homes as possible. In many cases they succeed."

As long as the supply of housing remains tight, sellers will demand more and more for their properties.

The housing shortage remains despite many years of government intervention in many forms. Surely it's time for governments to give market forces a chance to increase the supply and lower the prices of houses.

Ottawa could help by clearing away needless restrictions on the servicing of land, by examining building materials from sales taxes, and by permitting purchasers to deduct mortgage interest payments from taxable income.

"Of course, you realize we had no choice — She might have overthrown all of Latin America!"

Oil Is Key to Nigeria's Increasing Stature

By KEVIN DOYLE

LONDON (CP) — After a decade of revolution and civil war, military-governed Nigeria is emerging as the political giant of black Africa, demanding and getting a new respect from governments in the West.

The world energy shortage, coupled with Nigeria's vast oil resources and growing affluence, have given the government of Gen. Yakubu Gowon an influence in foreign affairs which now far outweighs that of any other African country.

The general and his military cabinet seem set on taking full advantage of their new-found strength.

Last June, Gowon became the first Commonwealth African head of state to make a state visit to Britain. A month earlier, the 38-year-old Sandhurst-educated officer was named chairman of the Organization of African Unity and at the recent Commonwealth conference in Ottawa he seemed determined to enhance his growing reputation as a statesman.

Just how influential Gowon has become may be seen by white-ruled Rhodesia's increasing fear that Nigeria now has the power to prevent internecine war any Anglo-Rhodesian settlement which does not provide for full African governmental within a generation.

Oil—two million barrels a day—and huge natural gas deposits are generally regarded as the key to Nigeria's economic upsurge and its international influence.

Among the big league oil producers, Nigeria now is second only to Libya on the African continent. It is the biggest producer in the Commonwealth and stands eighth in the world. Nearly 23,000 square miles of territory have been allocated to oil exploration and production.

It provides France with its largest single source of supply, provides some supplies to the U.S. and has major sales to Britain.

But it is not only oil and gas which makes Nigeria a much-courted state internationally. It has formidable purchasing power derived from its multiplying energy sales.

Last year alone, for example, Nigerian importers purchased $200 million in arms, heavy equipment and general consumer goods from Britain, Purchases in North American and European markets have also reached record levels.

Since the end of the three-year civil war in 1970, with the defeat of secessionist Biafra by federal forces, Gowon has made his aims in world affairs progressively clearer.

Foremost among these seems to be a deep-seated ambition to strengthen the international isolation of Rhodesia and perhaps eventually mount a unified move by black countries to overthrow the regime of Prime Minister Ian Smith.

To help accomplish this, Gowon is generally expected to bring heavy pressure on Washington to make certain it stops imports of chrome from Rhodesia, a move that won Senate approval last year.

It has also managed to decrease effectively French influence in its former West African colonies and now is leading the fight to get a vastly improved trade association for African Commonwealth countries with the expanded European Common Market.

Gowon has intimated he is prepared to throw in his hand with the Arab oil producing states in a boycott of Western markets unless he gets genuine support for his projects which will undoubtedly include, at some stage, a campaign against the white rulers of South Africa as well.

To increase co-operation with the Arabs, he seems prepared to sever diplomatic relations with Israel if that becomes necessary. He has given every indication during the last year that his threats should not be lightly dismissed.

Status of Women Council Established by Ontario

By DON O'HEARN
Provincial Secretary for Social Development Robert Welch has demonstrated on various occasions that he is a man of some courage.

Mr. Welch, for example, has usually been willing to meet with angry delegations and face up to their strident denunciations and criticisms.

But Mr. Welch now has undertaken a new endeavor for which it would seem he deserves some form of decoration for willingness to serve beyond the ordinary demands of courage.

The secretary recently announced the establishment of an Advisory Council on the Status of Women.

He merits his decoration for two reasons:

One, for accepting the responsibility for the mare's-nest which such a council almost inevitably will become.

And two, for the fact that the council is to be made up of 17 people, all but two of them women. And any man who is willing to subject himself to such a potential fount of babel is either outrageously naive or a hero in the cause of political courage.

And Mr. Welch is not naive. And what the value of this committee will be is something that it is impossible to assess.

One certain fact is that it will not get everything that it wants or suggests.

Privately opinions in the government (and also within the bureaucracy) as to what should be done on the advancement of women within the government itself are mixed.

Politically all politicians pay lip service to a bigger role for the female sex.

But privately a good many men run scared and like if they had to face the reality of working with them at a senior level or possibly even being bossed by them.

What we can reasonably expect is that there will be a wealth of suggestions from it.

And a government, with Mr. Welch in the van, trying to figure out how to duck a good many of them while still not offending the women's vote.

Jap Premier Tests Links With Europe and Soviets

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Japanese Premier Kakuei Tanaka has been on a major European tour, the first by a Japanese premier since the 1962 visit of the late and former premier Hayato Ikeda.

The main thrusts of the trip were estimated as Japanese trade relations with the countries of the European Common Market and closer Japanese relations with the Soviet Union.

The latter was a very tricky area since Japan and Russia have yet to sign a peace treaty officially ending the Second World War between them, while they are negotiating on Japanese use of massive resources of Siberian natural gas.

The European Common Market portion of the Tanaka visit was a two-way street in that in an effort by the Japanese to diversify their export markets away from the big United States market which is now resisting Japan's trade surpluses.

The individual European nations wanted the Japanese premier to deal with Europe as an entity, not play off one nation against the other for trade advantages.

The European Common Market members' nations, especially France and Italy, were afraid they would soon experience the same kind of flooding of their markets by high quality but cheaper Japanese consumer goods which the U.S. experienced in the late 1960s and the 70s to date.

It is very interesting that Tanaka went to Europe to learn about international diplomacy largely in terms of trade and investment, rather than on the basis of discussing military alliances or balance of power politics.

This emphasis is of course, has been the main thrust of a post-war Japan whose recovery is now itself considered the most impressive achievement of capitalism in the decades since the Second World War.

Territorial problems affecting Japan have also been kept to that country's growing demand the islands nearest to Japan and which were occupied by Japan the empire before 1945, now be returned. This happened with Okinawa last year.

But return of four islands called the Kuriles, nearer territory by the Japanese and the northern half of Japan's Hokkaido Island, is taken by Russia after its six-day war against Japan in August, 1945 would be if it is fact possible at all.

Canada was not on Premier Tanaka's recent trip and yet we have the same feats as the European countries have as Japanese economic expansionism affecting our economy.

Like the United States, we have been barraged by Japan's trade surpluses, but unlike the United States, demand in our relatively rich economy has been large for Japan's high quality goods.

Some Japanese multi-nationals like the Toyota car company have built major plants in Canada for partial car fabrication and sales.

But Canada has to prepare for a particular kind of Japanese industrial onslaught which is the result of industrial power on even the United States. This will be more and more flexible Japanese high technology industries in Western Canada which also have a high pollution content.

That move when it comes, will appeal immensely to a part of our country constantly hit by the U.S. industrial diversification from the major plant concentration of eastern Canada.

Citizens' Bureau

With regard to the article on the Citizens' Bureau on October 5. I wish to clarify Mr. Williams' comments on the Citizens' Bureau staff and its closing of the bureau. By asserting the bureau staff was responsible for the bureau's closing, Mr. Williams leads the reader to believe that non-irresponsible staff caused the bureau's closing. Mr. Williams' argument is false and self-serving.

The bureau staff was responsible to the Canadian Government through its terms of reference, and its activities were monitored regularly. Furthermore, as a former member of the staff, I received no pressure from Conservative Minister Robert Andras, dated October 2nd, which refutes the claim of election political interference. The letter concludes, "Project No. 7 1110 did not fall under the criteria applied to all projects considered for funding and therefore was not forthcoming."

Hence, neither devious, clandestown activities, bad-price surveys, nor friends connections to receive favouritism to politicians cut off the operation. The lack of confirmation of the bureau's funding took care of that.

The former provisional board of directors, presided over by Mr. Williams, convened early in June with express purpose to provide alternate funding. Yet in the past four months the board of directors and Mr. Williams in particular, did nothing whatever to fulfil the conditions of the government. Now, that this lethargy caused the bureau's shut-down, Mr. Williams buries to provide himself with an alibi by blaming politicians, Mr. Mr. Hockey and others for the results of his inaction.

Economic Disparity

Ottawa Le Droit: In an interview . . . William Davis, premier of Ontario, said his province does not have a serious poverty problem.

The level of economic development is the highest in the country. But, as in all affluent societies, the extremes show up in a harsh manner.

There is some truth in Mr. Davis' statement when he speaks about the poverty of the less economically developed provinces. But the question is not resolved by placing the blame on one sector. If food appears to the government leader to be a concentration problem, in the consumer level it is received as the major difficulty.

The Ontario legislature must apply itself to poverty. Creating of a housing department is an important step but so long as the root of social and economic disparities has not been identified, all measures will appear to be of a provisional nature.

Bourassa Bites PQ's 'Budget'

MONTREAL (CP) — Premier Robert Bourassa said Tuesday the Parti Quebecois has produced its own "death warrant" during the campaign for what has called the most crucial election in Quebec's history.

Interviewed on a local television program, the premier said the Oct. 29 Quebec general election is the most crucial ever in the province. He concentrated his attack on the Parti Quebecois budget, the central topic of the election campaign since it was released last week by Jacques Parizeau, the party's economist.

The premier said the budget's proposed establishment of a Quebec currency would mean capital would leave the province as people tried to convert their assets into more stable currencies prior to separation.

The Parti Quebecois leader, Rene Levesque, campaigned in Sherbrooke and Hull, where he told about 1,200 supporters an independent Quebec would absorb Hull-area civil servants into the Quebec public service.

Gabriel Loubier, Ualeb-Nationale leader, said his party would require primary processing of minerals be done in the province while Parti Creditiste leader Yvon Dupuis told supporters his party would transform Quebec so that "you won't recognize it in three months."

Earlier in the day, a McGill University management professor said surveys he and graduate students have done indicate Independence could cost the province 25 per cent of its job in construction, corporate regional and head offices and the convention business.

Dr. Donald Armstrong said the Parti Quebecois budget reflects "a virtually complete flight of capital, like the appearance of a significant percentage of non-agricultural jobs and a large outflow of population."

Mr. Levesque told a Sherbrooke news conference more than one referendum on a constitution for an independent Quebec might be necessary.

"I'm not referendum-wise," he said. "I'm referendum-wise where needed for Newfoundland to enter confederation. It wouldn't be at all surprising if two were needed for Quebec to get out."

Mr. Levesque's party promises a referendum on independence if it is elected. It would attempt to form a sort of common-market arrangement with Canada while establishing Quebec as a separate country.

A Union Nationale government would not allow immigrant parents to educate their children at English-language schools, Mr. Loubier told about 200 junior college students.

"They should be told before they leave their countries to come to Quebec that they will have absolutely no choice in language. They will be forcefully, not gradually, but forcefully, integrated into the French-speaking group."

Police Maintaining Watch on Reserve

MONTREAL (CP) — Police maintained a close watch on the Caughnawaga Indian reserve Tuesday as eight Indians were charged in court after a violent uprising Monday.

Three policemen were injured slightly and eight police cars damaged Monday night. A house was badly burned by a fire that followed eviction of a group of Indians from the building.

Paul Delorme Jr., a supporter of the militant Warrior Society on the reserve, said Tuesday townspeople were responsible Monday night for turning over police cars and smashing windows of band council offices, not the group which staged a "sit-in" at the former home of an evicted white family. He said more trouble could occur.

The militants say the sit-in was held to protest turning over of evacuated homes to the council, recognized by the federal government, rather than to the Longhouse, which the society supports.

Longhouse clan mother Loraine Montour said homes of those evicted should go to the people who need them and not back to whites whom Chief Ronald Kirby is allowing to remain on the reserve.

Chief Kirby said at a news conference police would remain "as long as we want them." He said they had the right to be there and supported their use of bar gas Monday night to disperse more than 100 Indians who stormed the police station.

Despite claims by reserve Indians that no Quebec court has jurisdiction over reserve land, eight Indians were arraigned in courts here Tuesday on various charges arising out of Monday's events.

Security Guards Come Under Scrutiny

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario solicitor-general's office is planning to step up the enforcement of the act covering operations of privately-employed security guards, a government official said Tuesday.

R. M. Warren, deputy solicitor-general, said there will be "more frequent spot checks rather than continuing to rely on hearings on complaints from clients and the public."

Speaking at a workshop conducted by the Centre of Criminology at the University of Toronto, he quoted from the conclusions of a private survey of security industry.

Mr. Warren said there have been few complaints from the public about private security guards but "the fact that little has been heard from the public should perhaps not be taken as an indication that no problems exist."

The solicitor-general's department currently is reviewing legislation governing the private security industry.

Creamy Rutabaga Soup is a family favorite and can be varied each time you serve it.

Sip Some Soup for Supper

A hearty meal by itself, soup is a Sunday night tradition in some homes. Saturday lunch standard in others.

Everybody has their own "clean out the refrigerator" soup recipe but if you'd like to expand your repertoire, try these.

Vegetable Cream Soup

¾ cup diced carrots
¾ cup diced potatoes
2 small onions, coarsely chopped
1¼ tsp. salt
3 tbsp. butter
3½ tbsp. flour
2½ cups milk
½ cup chopped cooked ham

Put diced vegetables and spices in a pan with two and a half cups water. Cook, covered, until tender. Make a white sauce of the butter, flour and milk. Add vegetables and vegetable water along with ham. Heat thoroughly. Serves four.

Beef Soup

two tbsp. butter
one lb. stewing beef, cubed two small onions
two stalks celery
two carrots
two small potatoes parsley sprig
four cups cold water ½ tsp. salt
four bouillon cubes (beef)
two cups boiling water

Melt butter in saucepan. Saute beef cubes until browned. Add vegetables, coarsely chopped. Add cold water, salt, pepper. Dissolve bouillon in boiling water. Add to other ingredients. Cover and simmer 45 minutes. Serves four.

Hearty Meatball Bean Soup Meatballs

1½ pounds ground beef
1 teaspoon salt
¼ cup grated onion
¼ cup dry bread crumbs
1 egg, lightly beaten
¼ cup tomato juice
¼ tsp. each black pepper, marjoram, sweet basil, garlic powder.

Combine all ingredients and shape into bite-size meatballs.

Soup

1 cup dry white pea beans
5 cups water
1 teaspoon salt
1 clove garlic, finely chopped
¼ cup each diced celery, grated cabbage, diced rutabaga, diced carrot
2 medium onions, thinly sliced
4 cups beef broth or beef bouillon
1 can (28 ounces) tomatoes
1 bay leaf
1 cup broken spaghetti or small macaroni

Place beans and water in large saucepan; cover. Bring to boil, boil 2 minutes. Remove from heat and let stand, covered for 1 hour. Add salt. Return to boil; reduce heat to simmer. Simmer covered, for 30 minutes.

Brown meatballs but do not overcook; remove from pan. Drain fat from pan, reserving 2 tablespoons. Sauté vegetables and garlic in reserved fat for 5 to 10 minutes or until golden. Add vegetables, garlic, broth, tomatoes and bay leaf to undrained beans. Cover and simmer 1 hour, stirring occasionally. Add spaghetti and meatballs to soup; simmer additional 30 minutes. Correct seasoning. Makes 10 servings.

Creamy Rutabaga Soup

2 cups cubed rutabaga
2 chicken bouillon cubes dissolved in 1¼ cups boiling water
1 small onion, thinly sliced
2 tablespoons butter
¼ teaspoon celery salt
¼ teaspoon salt
dash pepper
1 teaspoon sugar
1½ cups milk
1 cup light cream
nutmeg

In a covered saucepan, cook rutabaga in dissolved chicken bouillon until tender (about 20 minutes). Do not drain. Saute onion in butter until transparent. Place rutabaga, bouillon, onion and butter in blender. Add seasonings, sugar and milk. Blend until smooth, about 1 minute. Return to saucepan; cover and simmer 15 minutes to blend flavors. Add cream; heat through but do not boil. Serve hot, sprinkled with nutmeg. Bacon bits or toasted croutons.

To use a sieve instead of blender:

Saute onion in butter. Add to rutabaga, bouillon cubes, and water; cook until very soft. Press through sieve. Simmer covered 15 minutes. Add cream, and heat through. Serve hot, sprinkled with nutmeg, bacon bits or toasted croutons.

Makes 6 servings.

Correction

Due to an error in our printing operation, several lines of instruction were omitted from Monday's Quinte Cuisine recipe for Chicken Livers Paulette. The following is the corrected recipe.

cooking oil and flour
1 lb. chicken livers
1 large onion, cut in pieces
1 can mushrooms, drained
1 green pepper, sliced
1 tbsp. cornstarch
¼ cup water
1 beef bouillon cube
1 cup boiling water
¼ tsp. savory
1 tsp. sugar
1 tsp. vinegar
salt and pepper

Coat livers with flour and saute in oil. Remove from pan. Put onion pieces in the pan and cook until soft, then add green pepper slices and mushrooms. Add the broth made from the bouillon and 1 cup of water. Thicken this mixture with the paste made of cornstarch and ¼ cup of water. Add savory, salt, pepper, and sugar and vinegar. Put the chicken livers back in the pan and simmer for 15 minutes. Serve with buttered noodles or rice.

Sportswear Guidelines Available

MONTREAL (CP) — Sportswear has hit the fashion scene in a big way, leaving many a shopper reeling from the onslaught of skirts, shirts, blouses and sweaters in every new combination.

Now is keep sane, faced with this fashion phantasmagoria?

The union label department of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union has come up with guidelines in the form of a 16-page booklet called Sportswear: It's a Matter of Mathematics.

The brightly-illustrated booklet shows the shopper how to assess her current wardrobe, add and decide what must stay, what must go and what can be mixed and matched for new fashion looks.

Using such terms as functions, addition, multiplication and division, the booklet guides the reader from a jumble of separates along the pathway to a total co-ordinated wardrobe.

It's recommends taking a hard look at what you already own, when trying the garments in various combinations until you come up with a good fashion effect.

Then make lists of "possible" and "must-buys" before shopping.

Two important rules, the booklet stresses, are: "If it doesn't fit and it can't be fixed, forget it" and "Economed".

"Casual doesn't mean sloppy," says the booklet but adds: "If it works, wear it."

The booklet also recommends taking a look at fashion presentations in magazines and stores to see how they mix and match garments, colors and patterns.

Then go home and try it with your own wardrobe, striving for a balanced effect.

One "great buy," such as a plaid jacket that lights up plain tailored dresses, skirts and pants, can be a definite asset to a co-ordinated look, says the booklet.

Accessories are also important as they can convert a sporty or sophisticated look, depending on how they are used.

The booklet, also available in French, is the 10th in a series on fashion produced by the ILGWU's union label department and is available free of charge.

Ann Landers

'Fighting' Envy of Fatties

Dear Ann Landers: I just finished reading a letter from "Two-Ton Bessie" and I'd like to say a thing or two because I happen to be one of those "prune-faced, sparrow-legged size 5's" she is talking about.

Doesn't that ignoramus know that skinny people have a weight problem as serious and misery-making as hers? I'd give anything if I could take those 25 pounds she is trying to lose.

I've been called Bean-Pole and Olive Oil for as long as I can remember. I've been ridiculed by the padded fanny, and even white hose to make my legs look like legs. I've stayed away from sleeveless dresses to hide my bony arms. Finally I gave up the gimmicks and decided to accept myself as I am and if people don't like the way I look—too bad.

Please print the reverse side of the fat story, Ann. It's a sad one.

We have no self-help groups like Weight Watchers or Tops. We are alone.—Fighting To Stay At 104

Dear Fighting: There ain't no justice, but it might help to know that the underweights usually enjoy better health, have more energy and live longer than their obese brothers and sisters. Count your blessings. Hooey, and have an extra piece of chocolate fudge cake tonight. A lot of folks envy you.

Dear Ann Landers: This friend, with whom I work on committees, insists on calling me "Mrs. Whatcha-ma-doodle." My parents came from Europe and kept the family name instead of changing it. The name is not difficult if a person will take the time to divide it into syllables. My friends and the people I work with have no trouble.

The last time this woman called me "Mrs. Watcha-ma-doodle" was when she introduced me to her mother-in-law. The woman looked startled and believed it was my real name. I immediately corrected her, but with a laugh in my voice and a smile on my face. Later I mentioned the incident to a friend who said I was too sensitive, that my name is virtually unpronounceable and she suggested that I grow a thicker hide. If you think she is right, say so. If not, tell me how to handle it.—Hackies Up In New Jersey

Dear Hack: No name is unpronounceable for those who make an honest effort to pronounce it. That clod who insists on call you Mrs. Watcha-ma-doodle is letting you know you aren't worth the trouble. The next time she does it, keep the smile off your face and the laughter out of your voice. Tell her if she refuses to learn how to pronounce her name, you will be happy to pronounce it for her—any time.

Dear Ann Landers: For two years I've been keeping company with "D." a woman eight or 10 years his senior. A month ago he gave her a diamond.

During their courtship, "A's" mother never wanted "D" into her home. The son was told not to bring her to family functions. He complied with his mother's wishes. Except for the age difference, "D" is the type of girl most mothers would love their sons to marry. She is successful, attractive and charming.

Many of us feel the engagement should be celebrated in some way but we don't want to offend the mother. How do we proceed?—Save-mah Kin

Dear Kin: The age difference should be ignored. "D" should be feted as any other bride. The mother should be invited to all festivities and it is up to her to decide whether she wishes to accept.

Dog's Life

LONDON (CP) — Mrs. Jessie Way is seeking compensation from Hammersmith district council because her pedigree boxer bitch Tammy was accidentally let out by municipal workmen and the result was eight mongrel pups. "It's costing me around £90 (about $24) a week," explained widow Jessie, 66. "I obviously can't sue the father for maintenance, but I think the council should pay up."

Plaids are sports fashion news and this dark green double knit jacket can be paired with wool-blend pants for a casual look. Plaids are dressy, too, as this plaid dress with matching stole demonstrates.

Phonic Ear Brings Deaf into Classroom

WINNIPEG (CP) — A phonic ear and an "environmental microphone" are the tools used at Gladstone School in an experimental program aimed at integrating 11 children with records hearing defects into the regular school program.

The two specialists who teach the children, Carol Chalifoux and Josie Karpa, say their approach will help the children lead a more normal life by making it easier for them to communicate with non-deaf people.

The children are learning to use oral language instead of the sign language generally taught to the deaf.

"The main emphasis in our program is to teach the children language," Miss Chalifoux said. "We start with what the students know and go from there."

The children are equipped with a phonic ear, which is, in effect, an FM radio tuned into the teacher's microphone. Electronic signals are sent through it and the children "hear"—but not in the same way most people do.

"They each have a special code which they use to interpret the signals and it seems to work," Miss Chalifoux said. "They also use lip reading."

The children also have the "environmental microphone" which picks up voices—theirs and others.

Speech therapist Marien Nunn from the Child Guidance Clinic works with the children daily.

"It's a long, slow process teaching deaf children to speak," she said. "The English language is difficult enough for people who have no hearing problem."

Successful Living

Unwed Mother Asks: Can Baby Be Given Its Father's Name?

By DORIS CLARE

Dear Doris: I am 16 and two months pregnant. My boy friend and I are definitely not marrying, because we're too young. He is 17. The real thing I wanted to know is if our baby could bear his name, even though we aren't married. We both want this as we feel it is "our" baby, not just mine.

My mother says this is impossible unless we're married, but I'm sure there must be some way. We might marry later on, but I want, and so does he want, our baby to have his name from the start.

Irene.

Dear Irene: It can be done, but we strongly advise against it.

You see, if you do not eventually marry this boy it is going to be hard to change your child's name back, since you have to find this boy, the real father, and get his permission. If you do decide to marry it is a simple matter to go to the child care agency, pay a small fee and arrange for the child to be adopted by its real father.

At this point, the "putative father" has no legal rights to the child whatever. You have all the rights and all the say. Don't complicate things for yourself.

(Anonymous letters are bad manners and may be ignored. When writing in care of this newspaper, give Doris your right name and address. It will be kept confidential.)

Revenue Loss $400 Million

By NEIL GILBRIDE

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadians will pay lower taxes on their 1974 income under a federal tax indexing plan announced Tuesday to help make up some of the rise in living costs.

The plan, announced by Finance Minister John Turner, increases tax exemptions and tax brackets by 8.6 per cent.

The program will cost the federal government $400 million in reduced 1974 revenue, he said.

The finance department estimated that a married couple with two children under age 18 and a $10,000 income in 1974 will pay $90 less in federal and provincial income taxes under the plan, assuming they take the optional standard deduction of $100 and the three per cent employment expense deduction.

"The calculations do not take into account any other potential deductions such as child care expenses or contributions to pension plans or unemployment insurance," the announcement said.

Mr. Turner said the 8.6 per cent increase in exemptions is based on the average rise in the consumer price index in the last year dating back from September. Deductions weren't increased this year.

Asked in the House why the deductions weren't increased equal to the 8.6 per cent rise in living costs in the year from [illegible] Mr. Turner said the formula was based on a law enacted by Parliament.

"In this way taxpayers will no longer be pushed into higher tax brackets by simply inflationary increases in income," the finance department said.

Mr. Turner, at a news conference, denied the inference of Conservative financial critic James Gillies that the Trudeau government was admitting to expected at least 6.6 per cent inflation in 1974.

Asked how the government would make up for the $400 million revenue cut, Mr. Turner said "We'll have to accord expenditures to revenues as best we can."

The 8.6 per cent increase will raise the basic personal exemption to $1,705 from the current $1,600. A married couple taking the basic exemption and the spouse's exemption of $1,600, will get a total of $3,198 instead of the present $3,000.

In addition, the maximum exemption for dependent children under 18 will rise to $328 from $302.

Saltsman Unimpressed

OTTAWA (CP) — "A silly proposal" that "doesn't really make any difference." That was New Democrat spokesman Max Saltsman's reaction Tuesday to Finance Minister John Turner's announcement that 1974 income tax would take into account increased living costs.

"It doesn't make a darn bit of difference, frankly," said the NDP finance critic. "It's an illusion."

Mr. Saltsman (Waterloo) said that if the government finds it does not have enough money to reduce 1974 revenue, he said, it could have increased taxes instead of increasing the exemptions.

There was no immediate comment from Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield or his financial spokesman.

The idea for indexing income tax to the consumer price index was first raised by Mr. Stanfield during the campaign for the federal election last October.

Material Shortage Blamed for Jobless

OTTAWA (CP) — The September unemployment increase is surprising and difficult to reconcile with an expanding economy, Finance Minister John Turner said Tuesday.

Evidence indicates that the economy is operating at near or [illegible] and shortages of [illegible] and equipment are [illegible] he said.

He was responding to Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield who said the September seasonally-adjusted rate of six per cent, up from 5.5 per cent in August, is the worst ever when measured against the current inflation rate.

Mr. Turner said employment rose by 417,000 jobs during the first nine months of the year, "the strongest increase in the history of the country."

Mr. Stanfield said he expected the minister to go through the "old song and dance" about economic performance during the first part of the year. But what about future trends?

Real growth for the year is expected to be seven per cent, the rate predicted in the government's Feb. 19 budget, Mr. Turner said.

Unemployment is concentrated among young people, he added. The actual September jobless rate was 4.8 per cent overall, virtually the same as the previous month, while the "raw term" rates for men and women over 25 were 2.9 per cent and 3.4 per cent respectively.

David Lewis, New Democratic Party leader, proposed expanded make-work projects to offset winter unemployment.

Mr. Turner said there is still $100 million available in the Local Initiatives Program and $75 million available for capital works projects.

Mr. Lewis said private industry is not providing enough jobs and the government must play a larger role.

James A. McGrath (PC—St. John's East) wondered why the unemployment insurance fund is worse off since the government says an increasing number of people have jobs.

Manpower Minister Robert Andras said he will make a statement soon on the status of the fund. But, there were several factors involved, including "manipulation of maternity benefits" and increases in the average weekly benefits.

Conservative Suggests Senate Abolition

OTTAWA (CP) — A Conservative asked the Commons Tuesday to approve abolition of the Senate because it has become merely "a repository for Liberal party supporters."

The motion by Tom Cossitt (Leeds) did not win the unanimous support required for a debate.

Outside the Commons, Mr. Cossitt said in an interview that Mr. Godfrey and Mr. Hart were active Liberal party fund raisers.

His action, he said, was made to protest the recent Senate appointments of three Liberals: Former British Columbia Liberal leader Ray Perrault, Toronto lawyer Joyce M. Godfrey, and Maurice Riel, former chairman of the Montreal Metropolitan Corp.

Mr. Cossitt said in an interview that Mr. Godfrey and Mr. Hart were active Liberal party fund raisers.

Contributions Swell For Cheshire Home

Donations from Belleville businesses are flooding in as the Cheshire Home here nears its target date of Nov. 15 for admission of its first three residents.

Among the contributions are Cheney's Furniture World's offer to donate all the beds for the house at 246 John St., adjacent to the northern boundary of BCI.

Robert Michaud Ltd. is donating a room of furniture and Living Lighting is contributing lamps. James Test will provide a typewriter and Singer Sewing Machine a sewing machine.

St. Andrew's Church has given more than $800 in cash

Cement Firm Profits Rise

Lake Ontario Cement Limited's recently released sales and earnings report for the nine months ending September 30, 1973 showed a significant increase over the same period last year, with the construction industry continuing to be strong in the company's market areas.

Consolidated sales were up 33 per cent over last year, and earnings after taxes were 43.5 cents, as compared to 287 cents in the first nine months of 1972.

W. M. Bateman, president of the company, stated that he did not expect the operating results for the fourth quarter of the year to be significantly changed from those of the fourth quarter of last year. He also reported that the new grinding mills at the Picton cement plant are expected to be operating before the end of the year.

and the Belleville Yardmen Benefit Fund will provide a truck for the home. The Rotary Club is donating the $3,000 smoke detection and emergency lighting equipment and the Ability Fund (March of Dimes) is providing the platform lift for the stairs.

The Kinsmen Club led off the donations in April with $15,000 in cash.

Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation Loan and grant assistance gave a loan of $48,28 for acquisition of the home, of which $7,780 is forgivable if the home is operated for the length of the 30-year mortgage.

A $12,000 capital cost grant was received from the Ontario government and operating expenses will be met from social assistance payments, a provincial per diem rate and contributions from local service organizations.

The home will have accommodation for 10 people in four double-occupancy and two single-occupancy rooms. The first three residents will move in in November, and share in the selection of the remaining seven residents, who are expected to move in at the rate of about one a month.

Renovations are now under way, with Harold Vaughan donating his services as general contractor.

The Cheshire Home movement was begun by Group Captain Leonard Cheshire, VC, who saw the need for home-like residences where disabled adults could live in independence for the rest of their lives. Each of the 120 homes now established in 29 countries operates as a family within the community, drawing extensively on volunteer help to keep costs at a minimum.

W. J. Wilkinson, Trenton accountant who heads the steering committee, says inquiries have been received here from an Ottawa group that is interested in establishing Canada's third Cheshire Home. The first is in Toronto.

Police Hunt Stolen Shack

There must be a housing shortage among the criminal element in Belleville.

Police Chief Douglas Crosbie has reported that thieves stole a prefabricated construction shack from a building site at 75 St. Paul Street Tuesday around 3 a.m.

The eight-by-eight foot, green shack was the property of Stirling Sheet Metal Ltd. It had not been assembled prior to being stolen.

Police estimate the value of the shack to be $350.

Youthful Entertainers Coming

A two-hour show of contemporary international music in a choreographed stage setting, is booked for Belleville.

One of the three international casts of Up With People will play Centennial Secondary School auditorium Oct. 28-29.

The show's 30 performers, ranging in age from 17 to 25 — and representing a variety of national and ethnic backgrounds — will be living with local area families during the show's visit.

The flavor of the Up With People production style is familiar to the Quinte area. The show first played in Trenton several years ago. The popular Trenton Sing Out group of young performers was organized shortly after.

The Up With People performance is presented as a vivid variety of modern music — rock, jazz, country and folk — and has involved audiences from Arctic Circle villages to Africa since its organization.

Up With People organization was the inspiration of two Americans, J. Blanton Belk and Donald P. Birdsall, who sought to involve youth in a creative, international endeavor.

Incorporated as a non-profit, educational corporation in 1968, UP With People casts have performed in 28 countries. It's estimated the show's live and television audiences now total more than 500 million.

Based in both Arizona and Brussells, Up With People now is an organization with an annual $2.5 million budget — funded by performance revenues, scholarship gifts and grants.

About 9,000 young people apply annually to spend a year with the organization. Some 350 are selected for the three casts which tour ten months a year. The tour means the young performers are in daily contact with different people, living with different families every few days while studying for university or high school credits.

Both Belleville shows start at 8 p.m. with regular tickets $3, students $2.

Belleville Buying Growing at Mall

Estimated total sales for Quinte Mall from September 1973 to September 1973 is $20 million.

A trading area survey, released by Mall management shows that 63 per cent of the sales volume came from Belleville, an increase of 8 per cent over last year.

"This follows an apparent trend which indicates increasing strength locally while maintaining a good county reach," says the management bulletin.

Eleven per cent of the sales came from Trenton, down one per cent from last year.

The percentage of sales from surrounding localities are: Brighton and Frankford, each three per cent; Picton and Shirling each two per cent; Madoc and Napanee, each one per cent and surrounding areas such as Batawa, Shannonville and Consecon, eight per cent.

From distant areas, (Toronto, Peterborough, Montreal) the sales volume has been cut in half during the last year, from 12 per cent to 6 per cent.

For those who wonder how many people tramp through the Mall, the survey has an answer. Officials believe that no less than 3.4 million people visited the shopping centre last year.

Feux Follets To Dance Here

opportunity to see the national dance group, the Feux Follets, next spring.

The Belleville Branch of the National Ballet Guild had an opportunity to book the group during its eastern Ontario tour, but deferred the event because of the appearance here next Wednesday of the Festive Singers.

The Ballet Guild expects the Feux Follets to perform here in late April or early May.

Curriculum Ignored

Separate School Board Trustee Charges Neglect

A separate school trustee last night laid grave charges of educational neglect before his fellow board members, then said he didn't intend to give the impression of a major problem.

"It's a very minor problem," insisted Zdenek Kvarda, after he had charged the board with an obsession with administrative and financial issues to the exclusion of curriculum evaluation.

"My frustration has been building up," said Mr. Kvarda. "This board wouldn't go for a curriculum evaluation. I've done my own and I will continue to do my own."

Chairman Lillian O'Connor asked Mr. Kvarda for a report on his curriculum, saying "you've made some pretty serious allegations."

Mr. Kvarda returned to his favorite theme — parental involvement — in his charges. He zeroed in on religious instruction and special education, saying that parents are not sufficiently involved in the religion courses and some children with learning problems are not getting the aid they need.

Mr. Kvarda said he had brought up the subject of special education at a private dinner in the public session of the board and had asked for a report. He was turned down, he said, with the statement that "we would be faced with a whitewashed report."

"Our special education is boasted about by some as the best in the province," he said, "but if it neglects only one child, something is wrong."

Any neglect, said Mr. Kvarda, was the result of not consulting parents.

Earlier this year, Mr. Kvarda was instrumental in setting up committees in each school, comprised of parents, teachers and trustees. Earlier in the meeting at Holy Name of Mary School at Marysville, he heard reports of trustees on their attempts to set up such parent - trustee committees.

A disconcerting attendance was reported by most trustees.

Mrs. O'Connor reported that 16 teachers and parents had turned out in Marmora. Rev. Walter Hamilton said only two people turned up at the meeting he called in Picton. Angus Vette said 15 per cent of parents attended his meeting in Read and 20 per cent in Marysville. Other trustees reported similar low attendance, or no representation at all.

"I don't know what this committee is for, but I've got one," proclaimed Austin Scott of Trenton.

"I've got a real dog's breakfast here" said Rev. Louis Casertelli of the parent-trustee committees.

As he described them: "They would have been an end run, if you please, around the administration."

But Mr. Kvarda insisted that parents are "frustrated" because they are not rung in on the changes in religious education materials, directed toward parents, is not being sent home from school with children.

Trustee John Granville backed him up, saying that he can't get to see the books his children use in school.

"Parents are concerned," said Mr. Kvarda, "if we can't get them out to meetings, some other means must be found."

But Mr. Scott contended that the problem existed in only one or two schools.

"I parents are frustrated," said Mrs. O'Connor, "where are they. Why won't they come out?"

Truck Afire

Belleville firefighters were called out to extinguish a fire in a meat truck of Front Street Tuesday morning.

Deputy Chief Bob Emerson reported that a broken fuel line had started a fire in a truck owned by Quinte Meats, of Picton, as it was parked outside Rapino's Restaurant around 9:27 a.m.

Damage to inmates were not available at press time.

Hockey Jackets Available

TWEED — Orders for Tweed and Minor Hockey Association jackets must be in here before Oct. 24, says R.H.A. Treasurer Jack Murray.

The jackets may be ordered through Spencer's Insurance in the village.

Queries Answered at Mall

While Anne Stephens tends to 2-month-old Stephanie, her husband, Clifford, talks to volunteer Nora Kearney, Belleville Archery Club president, representing minor sports at the United Way booth at the Quinte Mall yesterday. During the remainder of the week, representatives of the 12 agencies will be manning the booth in turns to answer any questions the public has as to the way contributions are spent. Pledge cards are available at the booth and can be picked up to be used during the remaining two weeks of the October push for funds.

United Way Word Out

This week, the United Way is spreading the word — disseminating information as to where money collected from the Quinte-area public, will go in 1974.

Although most people are familiar with the nature of work done by the 12 participating agencies, some are not. In order to better acquaint the public with the facts concerning the manner in which their contributed dollars trail by manning a booth at the Quinte Mall Saturday.

Members representing each of the agencies will be available to answer questions, hand out literature on their respective organizations, and explain the use of equipment they will have on hand.

Generally, two agencies were present at the information booth. Nora Kearney, president of the Belleville Archery Club, a member of the Belleville Minor Sports Association, and Maude Rollins and Hetty Lemmex, both directors of the Hastings Board of Recreation and Prince Edward Advisory Board for the Blind, answered the questions of passers-by.

The advisory board, an affiliate of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, acts as a co-ordinating body that assists the 66 blind persons registered in Belleville.

However, since a greater part of these blind individuals are older in years, said Mrs. Rollins, not too many are able to read the Braille alphabet.

At this point, the board's volunteers swing into action. Upon notification, the board makes a request to the CNIB for talking books — recordings as varied as the Bible and issues of Reader's Digest — and subsequently, upon receipt, gives them to the blind for use.

Printed matter in Braille is used by only six people in the Belleville area, said Mrs. Rollins.

However, educational and retraining, for commerce and industry, are not the only activities carried on by the board on behalf of the CNIB. The Quinte White Cane Club, and the weekly bowling nights for the blind, are recreational activities the advisory board organizes.

The entire work in 1973 was carried on with $13,377 while a $10,000 grant received in 1972 — still less. However, as Mrs. Kearney pointed out yesterday, Minor Sports, and more specifically the Archery Club, raised funds itself to meet its operating budget.

A grant is received from city council, dues are collected from the membership as well as registration fees for instruction, a Skateathon is held annually to raise further funds.

Receipts go to the purchase of equipment and the provision for expenses incurred during road trips to compete in other cities against teams or in tournaments, and therefore, unpaid.

Any further questions will be answered by representatives of the agencies manning the booth at Quinte Mall.

Hides Needed For Indians

Deer hides are being sought again this year from all local hunters.

The hides are used as supplies for northern Indian handicraft groups which manufacture native products as a source of income.

The program is a co-operative effort between the Federal Indian Affairs Department and the provincial Ministry of Natural Resources.

Hides can be left at any ministry office — at Tweed and Napanee in the Quinte district. It's become a custom since the program started three years ago to exchange a token gift for each hide — once discarded as waste when the deer was dressed.

This year the ministry is giving away a permanent metal match handily designed for use in the bush.

Staking Out the Hill

Leaning against his car, surveyor Harold Pascoe calculates from elevation plans the number of gradation stakes that will be needed to properly mark out the town line west of Stirling before Calvin McCoy Contr., Ltd. crews move in with bulldozers. Workers will be cutting the hill behind Mr. Pascoe down from its present elevation of 157 to 145 feet. The hilltop is 61 feet above the average road level to its west. Along with the road widening, 13,500 cubic yards of earth will be moved.

Sightings on Rise

Fishermen Claim to Have Boarded UFO

PASCAGOULA, Miss. (AP) — Twinkle, twinkle, little what?

Reddish creatures floating out of a strange spaceship with pincer, crab-like claws? A fiery-shaped flying object that blinds with a flash of light? A flying machine shaped like a cigar that can turn off car engines?

They are unidentified flying objects, and folks all over the United States have reported seeing a number of them in the last several days.

One man who has had his hands full of reporters lately and some strange passengers is Fred Diamond, Pascagoula sheriff.

Diamond said Tuesday reports of UFOs became so numerous recently that he would without sleep for 36 hours, and he would seek presidential intervention if somebody didn't do something.

His troubles began last Thursday when Charles Hickson and Calvin Parker, respected in Pascagoula, went fishing off an abandoned pier.

They said a blue craft suddenly appeared hovering above the water, and out of it floated three reddish-looking creatures with wrinkled skin and crab-like hands. Hickson and Parker said they were escorted into this craft, where the creatures examined them and then let them go.

Two scientists with an interest in UFOs, Dr. James Harder of the University of Mississippi and Dr. Allan Hynek of Northwestern, said they placed Hickson and Parker under hypnosis and after four hours of questioning concluded the two were telling the truth.

Harder said Tuesday similar creatures have been sighted elsewhere, and "apparently our extraterrestrial friends" have a considerable knowledge of gravity.

In 1969, the air force ended a 21-year study which took in 12,000 reported UFO sightings. The air force said that its report was endorsed by the National Academy of Sciences, that there was no evidence of beings from other planets paying visits to earth, it said that 90 per cent of all UFO sightings prove to be plausibly related to planes, satellites, balloons and various natural phenomena.

But that didn't stop the reports, and an unusually large number of them have come in the last four or five days from a number of widely scattered areas. Many said they were flashing objects too far away to determine exactly what they were.

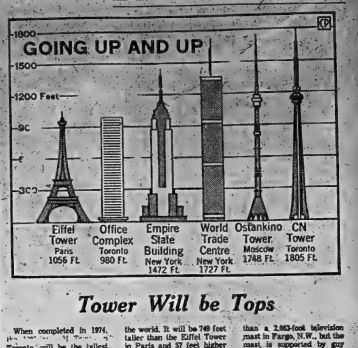
Astronomers and other scientists fi several of the affected areas fieald those occurrences probably were reflections from stars distorted by atmospheric conditions, or planes or helicopters or balloons.

In Tennessee and South Carolina, objects reported at night as UFOs turned out to be balloons with tin foil tied to them.

But there still have been some strange developments.

The Soviet news agency Tass said Tuesday that scientists at four stations have received signals from upper layers of the atmosphere. Tass said scientists were trying to determine if the signals were artificially or naturally produced. It said "it is not precluded that they may be sent by a technically developed extraterrestrial civilization."

Black Atlanta Mayor



ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Black challenger Maynard Jackson won a bitterly contested mayoral runoff election against incumbent Sam Massell Tuesday to become the first black mayor of a major southern city in modern times.

Jackson, elected vice-mayor four years ago, had been the favorite since he swamped 10 other candidates in the general election Oct. 2, but fell just short of outright election.

Unofficial returns gave Jackson 73,605 votes and Massell 60,300. About 2,800 absentee ballots remained to be tabulated.

Not only will the city's top leadership be biracial, it also will be one of the youngest in history. Jackson is 35 and Fowler 29.

Fowler will preside over a predominately black city council, Blacks won 13 of the 18 seats. Blacks also captured at least five seats on the nine-member school board.

Tower Will be Tops

When completed in 1974, the [illegible] Toronto, will be the tallest free-standing structure in the world. It will be 749 feet taller than the Eiffel Tower in Paris and 37 feet higher than Moscow's Ostankino Tower. It will be shorter than a 2,063-foot television mast in Fargo, N.W., but the mast, is supported by guy wires. (CP Newsmap)

U.S. Value Here Increases

WASHINGTON (CP) — The value of direct United States investment in Canadian industry increased by $1.7 billion last year, mainly because U.S. affiliates in Canada put a record amount of profits into further expansions and acquisitions, the commerce department reports.

Preliminary figures put the total book value of U.S. direct investments in Canada at the end of 1972 at $25.8 billion, a seven-per-cent increase over the $24.1 billion reported a year earlier.

Reinvested earnings accounted for $1,367 million of the increase, nearly $300 million more than the record 1971 figure.

Net capital outflows from the U.S. to Canada accounted for $380 million, about $100 million higher than in 1971 but well below the record of $1,153 million in 1968.

Throughout the world, U.S. direct investment was valued at $94 billion at the end of 1972, up $8 billion or nine per cent from 1971.

Union Nationale Head Won't Seek New Image

QUEBC (CP) — As head of what many people consider to be a dying political farce in Quebec, Union Nationale Leader Gabriel Loubier refuses to go to the political "image-makers" for a "new look."

"They can shorten my chin or fix my nose but I'll remain Gabriel Loubier to the public," he says.

This resistance to a new image he believes will attract voters to him as an "ordinary guy" in Quebec's Oct. 29 election.

He also dismisses as nothing new predictions from political observers that the Union Nationale is headed for extinction.

Mr. Loubier heads a party that has seen its fortunes slide from a powerful coalition of rural voters. Conservatives and disenchanted Liberals forged by Maurice Duplessis in 1936 to 17-seat representation in the 108-member national assembly following the 1970 election.

But he insists the party will come out the "big surprise" of the election with a "good bunch of seats."

To back his argument, Mr. Loubier recalls the 1966 election when the UN, led by Daniel Johnson, was given only an outside chance of getting 30 seats but won 56 popular vote.

But Mr. Johnson collected 42 per cent and knocked out Jean Lesage's ruling Liberals

Then in 1970, Jean-Jacques Bertrand, who took over the party after Mr. Johnson died, trailed over the party's defeat at the hands of the Liberals. The UN was third in popular vote, behind the Liberals and the Parti Quebecois.

Mr. Loubier, who spent four years in the Johnson and Bertrand cabinets, took over the party in June, 1971, narrowly defeating his former cabinet colleague, Marcel Masse.

He set out to rejuvenate the party, changing its name to Unite-Quebec, selling its major asset—the daily newspaper Montreal-Matin—and urging a regrouping of political forces in Quebec.

The newspaper sale filled the party's coffers—but the new name failed to grab the public and the old Union Nationale name was brought back earlier this year.

His call for a realignment of the opposition parties barely received acknowledgement from the Parti Quebecois and Parti Quebecois, who were busily trying for seats of the old UN coalition of rural voters, Conservatives and staunch nationalists.

The Creditistes, led by Yvon Dupuis, are aiming to expand their rural support and make inroads among conservative urban voters while the PQ's separatist stance has attracted most of the province's nationalists.

Mr. Loubier, trying to steer his party on a middle course, is stressing support for Quebec nationalism while proposing a "different federalism" with more power for the provinces.

A member of the assembly for the rural riding of Bellechasse since 1962, Mr. Loubier has built a reputation as a "law and order" politician, a style reflected in his admiration for Duplessis who led the party in the 1940s and 1950s.

Duplessis was "intelligent, a humorist, easy to contact, popular and authoritarian," he says.

Those close to Mr. Loubier describe him as human, upright, direct and determined.

The 41-year-old lawyer is reputed to be a millionaire thanks to his interests in a number of metal firms.

His first victory in Bellechasse was by 273 votes but he increased his lead to 2,000 votes in 1966 and to 3,000 in the 1971 election.

His tenure as minister of tourism, fish and game in the Bertrand and Johnson cabinets seems to have given him his basic plank in the party's economic platform—development of Quebec's tourist industry.

When questioned on the economic future for Quebec, Mr. Loubier repeatedly lists the advantages of strengthening tourism—already the province's second-largest money maker.

It takes much less capital investment to create a job in the tourist industry than it does in manufacturing and other industries, he says, and a bustling tourist market spawns other local industries to supply the needs of the trade.

Minorohourt trouble last spring forced the Opposition leader into hospital for a few days rest, but Mr. Loubier says he is in good health. Since his heart trouble, he has begun regular jogging and cut down his consumption of cigarettes and liquor.

Both his predecessors as UN leader, Mr. Johnson and Mr. Bertrand, died of heart trouble.

Despite the predictions of political commentators, Mr. Loubier remains optimistic that his party will do well Oct. 29.

His principal adversary, he says, will not be the Creditistes but Yvon Dupuis, not Premier Robert Bourassa and the Liberals.

Adults Wanted

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto suburb council is asking parents and other adults to help run secondary school extra-curricular activities this year. The help is needed after teachers withdrew their support for the activities, mainly sports, as a protest over the government ceiling on education spending. Activities also include drama, choral groups, and dancing.

Higher Income Noted

TOKYO (AP) — The average monthly income of a Japanese household in the first half of 1973 was $321.86, according to government statistics. The amount was a 18.9-per-cent increase from the first six months of 1972 and officials attributed the jump to a recovery in the economy.

Questions and Answers On Highway Travel

Ontario Motor League
Eastern Ontario Club

Question: For a visit to San Francisco, can you provide information on getting about to see some of the sights?

ANSWER: In driving around San Francisco, remember that Market St., the main thoroughfare, runs diagonally through the city; visitors often forget this and lose their sense of direction. Major east-west arteries are Bush and Pine, one-way streets with synchronized traffic signals; Bush goes into the city, Pine out. The numbered streets are in the eastern section of the city, the numbered avenues are in the western part. The many one-way streets make a street map particularly helpful.

The downtown speed limit is 25 mph, all blind intersections. Unless a sign prohibits, it is legal to turn right at a red light after coming to a full stop. Rush hours, 7 to 9 a.m. and 4 to 6 p.m. should be avoided if possible.

Parking in hilly San Francisco is strictly regulated and strictly enforced. Besides posted tow-away signs, the color of the curb also governs parking. Red means no parking whatsoever. Green and yellow indicate limited parking, usually only while loading or unloading passengers. White curbs, often found at entrances to public buildings, are limiting only while the given building is in use.

It is unlawful to park any vehicle on any grade exceeding three per cent without effectively setting the brakes and blocking the wheels by turning them against the curb or by other means. In parking uphill, the front wheels must be "headed" or turned out so that a tire is resting against the curb; when parking downhill they must be toed, or turned in. If there is no curb, a block must always be used. The emergency brake must be firmly set; it is strongly advised that motorists have their brakes thoroughly checked before driving or parking in San Francisco.

Tours of the city and surrounding area are available by air, land and sea for those who wish to become better acquainted with San Francisco. A tour map showing a suggested route including major points of interest may be obtained by calling in person at one of the offices of the California State Automobile Association.

Tape tours, which provide portable players and tapes describing points of interest and how to reach them are offered by the day at: Auto Tape Tour, 225 Mason St. or Info-Tape 225 Powell Street.

Bay Cruises leave from Pier 43½ at Fisherman's Wharf, tours of San Francisco Bay between the Golden Gate and the Bay Bridges, providing a perspective of San Francisco's hills and skyline. Boats leave for 1¼ hour tours beginning daily at 10.

Chinatown after Dark (Gray Line Tour), 1st and Mission Streets; includes a bus trip to Chinatown, then a walking tour of the area with an oriental guide. At 7.30 nightly except Dec., 23, 31 through Jan. 1.

Gray Line Tours of San Francisco by bus provide running commentary on the city's main attractions. The three-hour tour leaves daily at 10, 11, 1 and 2. Additional tours mid-June through September 20th.

Gray Line Night Club Tour, for women travelling alone, features dinner and three nightclub shows. Tours nightly except Monday's, Thanksgiving and Dec. 25, with pick-up service from 6.30 (motels) to 7 (Union Square); fare with dinner is $13.75, without dinner $19.50.

Nob Hill Limousine and Tours Ltd., 185 Mallorca Way, Apt. 301, provide tours of the city and surrounding area.

The temperature of the city itself is noted not for its extreme but for its year-round lack of variation. Mark Twain once remarked that the coldest winter he ever spent was a summer in San Francisco. Average temperatures rarely go above 70 or below the mid 40's. September and October are the warmest months. January the coldest.

At all times of the year at least a light coat is recommended; for bay excursions and visits to windy hilltops, women should add a headscarf. Most of the yearly rainfall which averages just over 20 inches, falls in the winter; but the summer fog also dampens the air in the morning and evenings, making a raincoat welcome throughout the year.

San Francisco is a sophisticated metropolitan centre and visitors should dress accordingly; resort-wear and summery sundresses are rarely seen in the city. The better restaurants and nightspots require coats and ties for gentlemen; women will feel more comfortable in suits during the day, cocktail or evening dresses or uber evening wear for evenings out.

By far the most indispensable item to be included in feminine wardrobes is a pair of comfortable, flat-heeled walking shoes: one quickly grows down a hill and those high heels will be relegated to the suitcase bottom for the duration of the visit.

Many of San Francisco's concentrated shopping areas would be attractions even without the picturesque shops and fashionable stores. Chinatown, of course, offers a wide variety of imports and fine displays of jade and ivory. Souvenir shops and import houses are plentiful along Fisherman's Wharf. In general, hours for downtown department stores are 9.30 to 5.30 daily except Sunday. Many stores, however, have extended evening hours on Mondays, Thursdays and Fridays, usually to 8 p.m.; some are also open Sunday, from noon to 5.

The Girls — Rebecca Sister.

Frances Loring and Florence Wyle were two endearing but rather eccentric women sculptors who shared a Toronto studio for almost sixty years. Miss Wyle was the first woman sculptor to be accorded full membership in the Royal Canadian Academy. Miss Loring was one of the three organizers of the Federation of Canadian Artists. Their studio in an old church became a meeting place for people from all walks of life, whether famous or down-and-out. This entertaining biography by a former Belleville resident is perceptive in its portrayal of two very remarkable women.

ALONG ON THE BLUE NILE — Kuno Steuben.

No river in the world has been more difficult and dangerous to explore than the previous attempt to explore this area had failed after a few days or ended in death and disaster. Kuno Steuben, who had been adventuring in various parts of the world since age 19, started out in a papyrus boat which was destroyed by rapids. He then built a log raft and after surviving attack and serious wounding by natives, having provisions stolen and recovering a considerable amount of gold, was led by friendly natives to his starting point.

THE WORLD OF PSYCHIC RESEARCH — Hereward Carrington.

Dr. Carrington was a director of the American Psychical Institute and in this book he summarizes the findings of forty-five years. He describes research into many types of psychic phenomena — clairvoyance, life after death, haunted houses, poltergeists, dreams, and communication with the dead. Dr. Carrington's treatment of these topics give the reader an understanding of the approach by responsible investigators in a field of research too often associated with fakery and charlatanism.

CHILD OF THE GREAT — a trilogy of the greatest era of forgers of all time, David Stern, unloaded over two million dollars in fake masterpieces before he was finally exposed. Here his wife tells the entire story of their years together — how she met David while he was on the French Riviera and became aware, after their marriage, that he was creating fake masterpieces. Stern became his signature by aging paper with tea and hardening paint under a lamp while he copied of numbers of paintings to unsuspecting dealers. The story ends with his arrest and imprisonment.

WILLIAM AND MARY — Henri and Barbara Van der Zee.

William of Orange is perhaps the best known and least appreciated of Britain's monarchs. He has been portrayed as ambitious and calculating, or as a statesman of outstanding vision. His marriage to his young cousin, Mary Stuart, gave him a firm claim on the English throne, which they shared until her death, when he reigned alone. This is a personal as well as a political biography. The political marriage that turned into a love-match, the failure of the King with his mistress Elizabeth Villiers, are examined, set against the backdrop of late 17th-century Europe.

Mexico Plagued By Higher Prices

MEXICO CITY (Reuter) — Mexico, still recovering from a series of natural disasters, is a country hard hit by inflation.

The high cost of living has brought demands for pay rises of up to 33 per cent and warnings of economic ruin from employers.

The wage controversy, which is threatening to spark strikes by the 2,250,000-strong Mexican Workers Confederation (CTM), came in the wake of Mexico's worst earthquake and floods which left 800 people dead and widescale damage.

Inflation is evident everywhere. Restaurant menus in Mexico City look like patchwork quilts as old prices are crossed out. Strikes in many steak houses have shrunk in size.

President Luis Echeverria blames inflation on foreign factors but the ordinary Mexican does not care whether it is imported or not.

One motorist stopped by a motorcycle policeman for speeding handed over a customary 50-peso "mordida," or bribe.

"Inflation, brother," the policeman said, and the driver had to give another 10 pesos.

The CTM demanded a 40-hour, five-day week early this year, but agreed to await the findings of a commission set up by Echeverria.

Meantime, living costs have shot up and the workers are apparently more restless to earn money than to gain more leisure time.

Mexico's inflation rate was five per cent last year but this doubled by May this year, according to the Central Bank of Mexico.

It is expected to reach 15 per cent by the end of the year because of crop losses caused by the floods. Corn, which goes into tortillas—the Mexican staple food—is among the crops most affected.

"We workers have to recover our purchasing power," said Fidel Velasquez, the veteran CTM leader.

To head off the growing clamor, congress recently passed a law raising the minimum wage.

Echeverria gave a 15-per-cent pay raise to the armed forces, which have been called upon in times of disaster and student riots.

He also raised the pay of government workers, a step followed almost immediately by private bankers who gave their 118,000 employees pay boosts of up to 15 per cent.

Private businessmen and industrialists are firmly against the 33-per-cent demand by the CTM.

Javier Martinez Verin, president of the Mexico City Chamber of Commerce, said wage increases would only provoke more inflation.

While the debate rages, choice cuts of meat are disappearing from butcher's counters.

Meat supplies are running short in Mexico City, partly because cattle ranches in southern Mexico are diverting meat shipments to the United States, where housewives are ready to pay twice the price.

Authorities are encouraging Mexicans to eat more fish.

Popsicle Sticks His Therapy

TORONTO (CP) — Mildred Scoadding of Toronto has found refuge from a drinking problem in popsicle sticks.

The 68-year-old self-confessed alcoholic has spent the better part of eight months building a three-foot replica of the Japanese icebreaker Fuji from 1,500 popsicle sticks and has christened the scale model Amazing Grace.

Behind the name, says the former sailor, lie 20 years of compulsive drinking that ended when he found new friends and hobbies in a local home for the aged.

"Since I came here four years ago I've changed from a helpless alcoholic to a person with a few ideas and an urge to build.

"The name I put on the boat is the hymn that has stayed in my memory since I heard it sung at an outdoor meeting.

"It was written by a former drunk."

And Scoadding recited:

"Once I was lost, now I am found; was blind, but now I see."

Junior Olympics Soccer

The National Junior Olympics Soccer Championship, 18 and under division will be held October 29 at Swangard Stadium, Burnaby, B.C., site of the soccer series at this summer's Canada Games.

All-Star teams from British Columbia and Ontario, winners of the eastern and western championships, meet on Saturday for one game only at 2:30 p.m. B.C. qualified for the final by winning both their games on September 27-28 in Edmonton, defeating Manitoba 4-3 and scoring a 3-2 victory over Alberta. Eastern title winners, the All-Star Ontario team, eliminated Nova Scotia 4-1 at University of Montreal Stadium on September 28.

This will be Junior Olympics' third national competition since it announced operation in early May. Administered by the Canadian Olympic Association and solely sponsored on a national basis by The Royal Bank of Canada, Junior Olympics is a development program aimed at increasing participation by the young in all Olympic sports.

In addition to soccer - track and field, canoeing, boxing and wrestling have directly participated in the program by staging competitions at all available levels

Cheerleaders representing Bayside Secondary School were judged tops among 28 teams competing in Newmarket on the weekend in the All Ontario Invitational Cheerleading Championship. Mrs. Jeannie Leichner coached the girls. A team from Belleville Collegiate Institute placed fourth. Members of the team are Cindy Newman, Sandra Dekker, Heather Loney, Lisa Doucette, Debbie Vogl, Toni-Lyn Clarke, Sue Mountford, Jan Bird, Debbie Saulnier and Ky Grills.

Denny Barnard had two goals to pace The Intell, with Sonny Farrel scoring the final tally.

Glenn McEachan had the only score for Fraser and O'Neil.

Bill Dunn had two goals and an assist for the Milers, with Al Ray, Jim McKay, and Wayne Brown also scoring.

Rick Yuck had the only goals for Stewart Warner, with Mike King adding assists on both.

Saints Still Alive

The Quinte Saints seniors kept their slim playoff chances alive last night, as they downed BCI 6-4 in a Bay of Quinte High School Senior A contest at Quinte.

The only scoring in the contest was done when George Hymers ran back BCI's first punt of the game for a 70-yard touchdown.

BCI is winless in four games this season.

In tonight's games, Moira seniors take on Centennial at CSS, while the juniors go at it at Moira.

The senior contest is an important one for both teams, with both the Trojans and Chargers sharing first spot in the A division. The Trojans sport a 3-0 record, while the Chargers are 3-1.

Golden Mile's forward Carl Boowhower, in the background, raises his arms to signal a goal on Stewart Warner's Bruce Gibson, but it was in vain this time. The goal was disallowed by referee Bob Lloyd on a delayed offside call. The Milers, did however, go on to defeat the Stewart Warner team by a 5-2 count.

Match Race At Frontenac

KINGSTON (Special) — The saga of the single shaft sulky moves into another phase at Frontenac Downs here tonight. The merits of the new style bike as compared with the conventional twin shaft sulky, have been widely discussed for some time now.

Now there are two types of single shaft sulkies. They'll be on show at Frontenac in a special match race tonight.

There will be no betting on this attraction which will be staged between the ninth and 10th races of the regular Wednesday card.

Gaiety's Jule, piloted by Chris Storms, will pull the new Boudour bike which has been dubbed the "miracle mile".

Gord Kingston will be at the reins of Duke Cameron as the two display the King bike which made its first appearance at Frontenac about five weeks ago.

Post time for tonight's race card is 7:45.

Finley Or Not, A's Pull It Out

NEW YORK (AP) — Neither cold, nor Tom Seaver nor Charles O. Finley could stop Oakland A's from their supposed rounds Tuesday night.

And as a result, the American League champions hold a 3-1 lead over the National League's New York Mets going into tonight's third game of the 1973 World Series.

"We proved what we can do despite the weather," said Oakland third baseman Sal Bando after the A's beat the Mets 3-2 in 11 innings at Shea Stadium's ice box and took the lead in the seven-game Series.

As if the bone-chilling weather weren't enough of a detriment—temperatures plunged to 39 degrees and stiff winds whipped the stands—the underdog A's were saddled with a two-run deficit in the first inning against Seaver, one of the best pitchers in baseball.

Then there was the matter about Finley and the roster. Because of their eccentric owner, the A's could not use a full 25-man roster for the Series.

In a zany cause celebre, Finley reportedly "fired" Mike Andrews Sunday after the second baseman made two costly errors that led to Oakland's 10-7 loss. His absence, combined with the loss of another player before the Series due to a front-office misunderstanding, cut the A's roster to 23 men.

Even the fact that Andrews reportedly was on his way back to the A's camp today appar-ently didn't soothe the club's general ironclad.

Many of the disenchanted A's have expressed displeasure with their off-beat owner, who has pulled many stunts similar to the Andrews business.

"I guess we're that good, that we can overcome anything Finley can do to us," said outfield star Reggie Jackson.

The morale might be low, but that didn't stop the A's from playing the kind of baseball that helped them win the AL pennant.

Although manager Dick Williams didn't have a full crew, he had enough in Bert Campaneris. The speedy shortstop helped the A's tie the score 2-2 with a stolen base in the eighth inning, then delivered the winning hit in the 11th inning.

"I felt at the moment that I was going to get a hit," said Campaneris, whose single off New York reliever Harry Parker drove home Ted Kubiak from second base.

Earlier, Campy beat a fine throw by New York catcher Jerry Grote to steal second and set up the A's second run. The play was as close as it could be. "I saw Seaver and Norman Felix Millan with the ball," said Campaneris, "so I slid to the outside of the bag and hit it with my right foot. I knew I was safe."

From second base, it was easy for Campaneris to race home on Joe Rudi's single to right. That tied the score 2-2 and spoiled a wonderful pitching performance by Seaver who, until that point, was in command of the situation with a crackling fastball.

"The way he was starting out," said rival pitcher Jim "Catfish" Hunter, "I thought, 'Here he goes again.'

"But Seaver wasn't throwing as hard in the later innings. He had to rely on his control instead of his fastball later in the game.

As it was, Seaver struck out 12 batters before leaving after eight startling innings.

Many of those strikeouts came in the early going, when the Mets had taken a 2-0 lead built on that first-inning outburst. Wayne Garrett hit Hunter's second pitch of the game into the right-field seats for his second home run of the series and the Mets scored their second run on a wild pitch by the Oakland ace later in the inning.

Seaver, meanwhile, dazzled

BEARS TAB TOM

PHILADELPHIA (CP) — Chicago Bears obtained defensive end Mel Tom from Philadelphia Eagles Tuesday for an undisclosed choice in the National Football League's 1974 draft. Tom, a seven-year veteran of the Eagles, told coach Mike McCormack last week he wanted to be traded.

Campy Just Does His Best

NEW YORK (AP) — A baseball player, little Bert Campaneris dreams of sprouting the ball over distant fences such as Hank Aaron or Willie Mays but he is happy at being a banjo hitter with a pair of speedy legs.

"Sometimes they say, That Campy is one hell of a ball player. That is good enough for me," the frail-looking Cuban said after leading Oakland A's to an 11-inning 3-2 victory over New York Mets Tuesday night for a 2-1 game lead in the World Series.

"I try hard. I concentrate. I do the best I can. If that is good enough to win, I am very happy."

Tuesday night—a raw, windy and disappointing evening for all of the "you gotta believe" boys—was a happy one for the 5-foot-11 155-pound Oakland shortstop.

He hit three singles, stole second base after the second of them to set up and later score the tying run and then, in the 11th, struck the blow that brough Ted Kubiak racing home with the deciding run.

It was Campaneris' night.

The Mets have said one of the men they fear most on the Oakland team is Campaneris.

"He won't kill you with the long hit—although he might," said manager Yogi Berra, "he'll hurt you in a dozen other ways."

BERT CAMPANERIS

McGraw Solemn, Parker Hoarse

NEW YORK (AP) — Jerry Grote refused to speak, the normally exuberant Tug McGraw was talked in solemn tones, and losing pitcher Harry Parker spoke in a hoarse, choked voice.

"You never get used to losing," said Parker, who yielded the broken, 11th-inning single to Bert Campaneris that gave Oakland A's a 2-1 victory over New York Mets Tuesday night. The A's now lead the best-of-seven World Series two games up to one.

"I have I never get used to it," Parker add. I don't plan on it."

The A's, known for their power hitting, scratched out a run in the 11th inning on a walk, a third-strike passed ball, and an RBI single. The passed ball by Jerry Grote put Ted Kubiak in scoring position, and Campaneris knocked him home.

"I'm not blaming anybody," said Parker. "Passed balls are part of the game.

"I'm the one who walked the guy, and I'm the one who gave up the base hit."

The Mets had gone with their ace, Tom Seaver, hoping to gain the advantage in this bizarre World Series that went into extra innings for the second consecutive game. The last time the October classic had gone into extra innings two successive times was in 1933.

Seaver, the fireballing right-hander, went eight strong innings and struck out 12 before yielding to Ray Sadecki.

After the first two A's reached base in he ninth, Tug McGraw, the Mets' ace reliever who has pitched more innings than any pitcher in the Series, came in.

"The ballpan said he was throwing good and he told me to go ahead and throw the ball and I would go," McGraw said. "I threw the ball and I would go," McGraw said. "I threw the ball and I would go."

Wings Match Worst Start

By RON SUDLOW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

St. Louis Blues, Detroit Red Wings, New York Islanders and Los Angeles Kings were looking for their first win of the young National Hockey League season Tuesday night.

The Kings and the Islanders scrambled to a 4-4 tie while only a deflected slapshot that trickled over the goal line gave the Blues a 3-2 decision over the Red Wings at Detroit.

Los Angeles managed to get his block on team-mate Bob Pulford's blueline blast with 5:05 remaining and the deflection appeared to catch Wing'steminder Roy Edwards by surprise.

The result was Detroit's fourth straight loss, matching the club's worst-ever start.

The rest of the scoring came in the second period as the Wings—the only club in the league without a point—took a 2-0 lead on goals 32 seconds apart by Alex Delvecchio and Henry Boucha.

But the Blues, who peppered Edwards-with 40 shots, also got two goals in 32 seconds near the end of the period, Ab DeMarco and Steve Durbano were the trigger-men.

In New York, Lorne Henning, who had only seven points in 61 games last season, tallied his second of the season mid-way through the third period to give the Islanders their second tie in four games—the same record as the Kings.

Brian Spencer and Germain Gagnon gave the Islanders a 2-1 lead in the first period while Ralph Stewart was the other New York scorer.

Vic Venasky, Bob Berry, Jimmy Peters and Bob Nevin scored for the Kings. Berry also picked up an assist to boost his season's points total to six—good enough for a share of fourth place in the scoring race.

Al Arbour, in his first year as the Islanders' coach, criticized his team's defence for being too slow.

"We're not passing or skating well," he added. "And the times when we do check, it's not hard enough."

Kings coach Bob Pulford was mostly concerned about goalie Rogatien Vachon who struck his head on the goalpost while trying to stop Gagnon's first-period shot.

Vachon was replaced by Mary Edwards but watched the game from the bench. Before Vachon was taken to hospital after the game for x-rays for a possible eye injury. .

"I don't think it's serious," said Pulford. "I think he should be ready for our next game but he won't want to take any chances."

Action resumes on six fronts tonight as Vancouver Canucks continue their eastern swing against the Black Hawks at Chicago, Toronto Maple Leafs meet the Canadiens at Montreal, Philadelphia Flyers are at Oakland against the Golden Seals, the Bruins visit New York Rangers at Atlanta.

Vickers Got Deal He Wanted

NEW YORK (CP) — Steve Vickers is no slouch when it comes to money.

With a little indirect help from the World Hockey Association, he has renegotiated a new contract in his second season with New York Rangers giving him the long-term security he wants.

Vickers talks frankly about the "big money" he was offered to jump to the WHA. He says the Rangers matched the WHA offer.

The 22-year-old left winger from Toronto is prized property, the first Ranger to score 30 goals in his rookie season.

Vickers won the Calder Memorial Trophy as the National Hockey League's Rookie of the Year last season, beating out Bill Barber of Philadelphia Flyers.

It was the first time the award had gone to a Ranger in 19 years.

He says New York Raiders of the WHA, now the Golden Blades, "talked big money with him last summer.

"I went to the Rangers and they matched it."

Vickers calls his new contract "very appealing" to him because it gives him security as well as more money.

YANKS FORM ALUMNI

NEW YORK (CP) — New York Yankees said Tuesday they are forming an alumni association for all former players who spent at least one year with the American League baseball team. George M. Steinbrenner III, general partner of the Yankees, said 526 of 854 former players are still living and 318 are eligible to become members of the association. .

Marlies Get Tie, Canadians Lose

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Brad Winton scored on a penalty shot and team-mate Greg Neeld connected with less than eight minutes left Tuesday night, lifting Toronto Marlboros to a 5-5 tie with London Knights in Ontario Hockey Association Junior A action.

In the league's only other game, Hamilton Red Wings scored five unanswered goals in the third period to defeat Kingston Canadians 6-3 at Kingston.

Winton's goal in the second period at London put the Marlboros ahead 4-3. Toronto was awarded the penalty shot after London's Tom Price threw his stick into the goal crease to block a shot.

Bruce Boudreau, Kevin Devine and Jim Clarke scored the other Toronto goals. Dennis Maruk and Don Wheldon scored two goals each for London while Terry Martin added a single.

Referee Larry Lamb handed out 38 penalties, including two match and a misconduct.

London outshot Toronto 30-21 before 2,852 fans.

Centre Mike Hobin scored three goals for the Red Wings. Two of his tallies in the third period proved to be the winners.

Mark Evans, Chris Steenoff and Ron Seiffhaver added singles.

Kingston took an early 3 - 0 lead on goals by Roger Dorey, John Blaiss and Michel Blais.

Hamilton outshot Kingston 37-26 before some 2,718 fans. The teams split the 12 minor penalties.

League play resumes Thursday night with Ottawa 67s visiting Peterborough to play the Petes and Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds playing host to St. Catharines Black Hawks.

President Resigns

ST. CATHARINE, Ont. (CP) — Jim Miranda resigned Tuesday as president of the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen, less than a month before the CAAO annual meeting at which the 46-year-old former oarsman would have completed his two year term as head of the governing body of Canadian rowing.

During his tenure as president, Miranda introduced several innovations designed to improve rowing and update the 85 year-old organization.

The most ambitious was the adoption of Game Plan '76, a scheme in conjunction with Sport Canada and the O'Keefe Foundation designed to culminate in the boating of competitive Canadian crews at the Montreal Olympics.

Two Score Four In QMJHL Games

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

John Nazar of Cornwall Royals had a hat trick Tuesday night as Montreal Juniors led their respective teams to victory Tuesday night with four-goal performances in Quebec Major Junior A Hockey League action.

Three of Tremblay's four goals were scored in the second period of Montreal's 7-4 win over Trois-Rivieres Draveurs in Trois-Rivieres. Nazar's effort helped Cornwall swamp Drummondville Rangers 12-2 in Cornwall while in another game, Quebec Remparts scored their 10th straight win by outlasting Sorel Black Hawks 11-9 in Sorel.

In Cornwall, Gary MacGregor backed Nazar's effort with three goals. Other Royals' scorers were Bob Murray, Terry Angel, Kevin Tracy, Dan Lupinette and John Markell. Jacques Chiasson and Claude Larose scored for the Rangers.

At Sore, Real Cloutier's first of two goals pulled the Remparts into a 9-9 tie with three minutes to go, and the second later Daniel Beaulieu scored what proved to be the game-winning goal.

Cornwall, now 7-3, leads the West followed by Montreal.

Meanwhile, league president Bob Lebel acted swiftly Tuesday in assessing fines and suspensions as a result of the Laval Nationals-Chicoutimi game Monday in which 443 minutes in penalties were handed out and 26 players ejected.

Laval coach Claude Laboissiere was fined $100 and was told to post a $500 bond to assure the good conduct of his players in the future.

The Chicoutimi and Laval clubs were fined $100 because their players left the bench and took part in an altercation.

Thirteen members of the Nationals and 12 Sagueneens were fined $10 each for their part in the fracas.

Laval goalie Alain Dupon was fined $50 and given a two-game suspension for leaving his crease and got a $50 fine for being singled out as the player who started the altercation.

Teammate Yvon Vatour was fined $30 and suspended for two games for his conduct during the melee while team-mate Andre Perreault was suspended for five games and fined $40 for kicking a Chicoutimi player during the altercation.

Bobby Moore Not In Lineup

LONDON (Reuter) — England's team manager, Sir Alf Ramsey, opted Teday for an attacking formation without long-time captain Bobby Moore for the all-important World Cup soccer qualifying match against Poland tonight.

Observing a prime managerial rule, never to change a winning side, Ramsey kept the 11 who thrashed Austria 7-0 in a friendly game here last month.

This meant the exclusion of 31-year-old Moore, who now appears to be near the end of his international career after 11 years and a record 107 caps.

Toros, Sharks Are Brawlers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A bloody brawl that left seven players ejected from the game erupted with less than two minutes to play in Toronto Toros' 3-0 World Hockey Association victory over Los Angeles Sharks Tuesday night.

The battle that emptied both benches delayed the end of the game for more than 20 minutes while officials tried to restore order and sort out penalties.

Gary Veneruso of the Sharks and Carl Brewer of Toronto were sent to the penalty box after a scuffle with only 1:40 left.

Almost as soon as the two left the ice, Veneruso went over the glass separating the two parts of the penalty box and went after Brewer. Then both teams joined in the battle.

Both Brewer and Veneruso were thrown out of the game, and a total of four Sharks and three Toros were ejected.

The most publicized scrap was between Brewer and a cut on his face and Steve Sutherland, one of the ejected Sharks, had a deep gash over his left eye in the fist-swinging battle.

The fighting overshadowed the shutout posted by Tom Edwards Les Binkley and Gilles Gratton.

Binkley left the game in the second period after, having away nine shots when he was hit in the head by the stick of a team-mate. Gratton finished up with 13 saves as the Sharks outshot the Toros 27-23.

Toronto scored twice in the opening period, when they got off 13 shots to only three for the Sharks, as Tom Simpson and Rich Sentes tallied.

Jack Gibson took a perfect pass from Steve King midway through the second period for the third Toro score.

Lumber Kings Top Raiders

OTTAWA (CP) — Pembroke Lumber Kings used clean checking and a third-period surge Tuesday to beat Nepean Raiders 5-1 in the Central Junior Hockey League.

The Kings trailed 3-1 and 3-2 after the first and second periods.

Terry Woermke and Mike Nixon scored twice each for the Kings and Keith Trudel once while Gil Sawyer, Wayne Skinkin, Larry Skinner and Carl Smith scored for Nepean.

It was the only game scheduled.

PANELLING:

Follow these simple guide lines and then you'll understand the basics of panelling.

1. Nails should be placed as close as possible to all four edges of the panel. Also, panels should be nailed in the grooves to the wood strapping which is at 16-inch centres on the wall. IMPORTANT: All nails should be spaced 6-inches apart to avoid warping.

Use coloured nails that match the panel colour.

2. If you're using Panel Adhesive, apply a complete bead of adhesive along each edge, or at any point touching the stud or the strapping. NOTE: to avoid panel slipping, nail at each end of panel, top and bottom.

See BEAVER for all your Panelling needs.

Animal Waste May Power Our Future

TORONTO (CP) — The dis- member as "an invention more covery by a Toronto engineer of important to humanity than wastes was described Friday by space research or modern medical discoveries."

Johanna Sollinger, 44, spent seven years perfecting his system, which treats sewage in such a way that the end products can light cities and perhaps feed the world's starving populations.

The system produces methane gas and a residue that can be used as fertilizer.

A dozen United States states and scores of cities across the continent have offered millions of dollars to obtain the system, but Mr. Sollinger said Toronto comes first."

Prof. Fred Knelman of Sir George Williams University in Montreal, a science council member, said the significance of the discovery "cannot be over-emphasized."

Mr. Sollinger has kept his invention process a secret. All he will say is that he has, he believes for the first time, found a way to heat sewage to 2,000 degrees fahrenheit without the released methane gas exploding and destroying the entire process.

His device is awaiting its patent number, registered in 81 countries.

Mr. Sollinger said communities now must pay about $12 to $15 a ton for disposing waste. His system will cost far less.

As for the need, he said:

"Every human being in North America produces about five pounds of waste, including general garbage, every day. It's piling up. We're desperate to find ways to dispose of it. We need it all right."

Prof. Knelman said Mr. Sollinger's invention "is not just a breakthrough. It's a totally new discovery."

He said the current energy crisis in the United States also can be alleviated by application of Mr. Sollinger's discovery.

Referring to the methane produced by the Sollinger system, he said that in the U.S., "a rough estimate of agricultural waste is about two billion tons annually."

"About 50 per cent of this is animal manure. In turn, 50 per cent of this manure is produced in large-scale cattle and hog feed lots, daily operations and turkey and chicken operations.

Old Newfoundland Copper Mine Reopens

SPRINGDALE, Nfld. (CP) — Copper miners have returned to an abandoned mine near this northern Newfoundland community and are extracting ore for sale to Noranda Mining Corp.

A Springdale pharmacist and three former employees of the Whalesback Copper Mine, which closed in June, 1972, formed Green Bay Mining Co. to revive the closed mine creating 63 jobs.

Newfoundland and Labrador Development Corp., a shareholder in the new company, has provided most of the $500,000 that has been invested in the operation.

Extensive negotiations involving Briner, former operators of Whalesback, the federal department of mines and energy and the provincial industrial development department were held to get the mines into production. The mill and machinery still at the site were used by the new company.

The Whalesback mines closed down because of a decrease in the price of copper and because only a small amount of high grade ore remained, meaning a reduction in company profits.

During the 1960s, the region had four copper mines but they were all closed due to exhaustion of the ore bodies and low prices for copper.

Many of the miners found employment elsewhere but some, whose communities were mining, wished to remain where their homes and families were established.

A spokesman for the new company said the idea behind setting up the company was the mining of small known ore deposits in the area.

"The new venture can be successful because the price of copper has risen during the last year or so and now is in the vicinity of 67 cents a pound with indications it will remain high during the next few years," the spokesman said.

"A high profit is not the aim of this company but rather to provide jobs and in this respect they're a lucrative consolidation by the local people to make the venture work."

The resumed mining should be able to continue for 18 months to two years, he said, but there is always the possibility of new finds being discovered.

Shortest Lady

The smallest lady midget on record was Pauline Musters of the Netherlands who stood 23.5 inches tall at the age of 18 and weighed only nine pounds at her heaviest in 1895.

Now Heart Can be Worn on One's Chest

OTTAWA (CP) — Heart on the sleeve?

Not today; it's across the chest.

The T-shirt, long a favorite of youngsters as souvenirs and bought at resort and tourist shops, has become the medium for the message.

It's considered chic to advertise your favorite company, team or theme with printed slogans or pictures emblazoned on the simple knitted cotton undershirt.

Among the current T-shirts you'll find some initialled, numbered and outlined in rhinestones.

One sports shop here sold "iron-on" T-shirts, allowing the buyers to have practically any slogan they wanted.

T-shirt lovers collect slogans, some of them merely funny, others with news connections. The owner of one sports shop says the year Pierre Trudeau became prime minister was his best year for T-shirt sales.

"Get really stoned, drink wine, commit," "I never get lost, everyone tells me where to go," "Conserve water, shower with a friend," "I've got the fastest hang in the West." These are but a few of the mad messages available.

Population Prediction

SINGAPORE (AP) — Asia's population will double to more than six billion in 30 years, if the present growth rate remains the same, according to Tye Cho Yeok of the University of Singapore. Tye said Asia's population grew by 701 million in the past 28 years.

Bare Stage Challenges Youngsters

The stage will be barren as far the children and what's left of imaginations will produce during the Belleville Theatre Guild's six-week program of workshops for 13 to 16 year-olds.

However, the youngsters do not have to rely entirely upon themselves. Dave Baker, a three-year member of the guild, is conducting the workshops, that began to begin Saturday, October 13 at 10 a.m. and end November 17. Director of the forthcoming guild production Oliver, Liz Earlenbaugh, will lend a helping hand.

Cost for the six-week program is $1.

"Basically, the workshops are structured to get the children to react and interact to different situations as individuals and in groups," said Mr. Baker. "These workshops will be building up to possible work by Christmas."

Lionel Bart's adaptation of Charles Dickens' classic tale of a poor lad grows into riches will require a cast of children for several sequences, one being in Fagan's den. The workshops would serve as a training ground for the younger members of the cast.

Explaining a possible exercise in a workshop, Mr. Baker said he would place the children in a game situation with a non-existent ball. The children would need to be an aware of where the ball is as it's passed around, that if the game stopped, each child could indicate where the ball was.

The fund-raising scheme will be held Oct. 26 in the Community Gardens.

Development Road

Marmora — A study of the 6.6 miles of boundary road between Belmont and Methuen Townships in Peterborough County and Marmora and Lake Townships in Hastings County will be undertaken by the Ministry of Transportation and Communication for possible designation as a development road, Reeve Graham Bell reported.

Family Orchard

There's four generations of the Ackerman family at work on their South Bay homestead orchard in Prince Edward County, filling apple orders for market. Gerald Ackerman, 78, is at the back with his son Carl, grandson Larry, while great-son and great-grandson, Chris, is in front of group.

Parade Judges' Supervisor Sought

The need for a judging supervisor during the Santa Claus parade December 1 was expressed by members of the committee overseeing preparations for that, winter day which acts as a harbinger of Christmas.

John Lewars, chairman of the Quinte Santa Claus Parade Committee, said that otherwise, progress toward completing the necessary preparations are advancing favorably.

"What we need now is someone who will supervise getting judges for the parade day," he said yesterday. "This supervisor will have to set up the criteria by which each of the 13 categories will be judged."

Such a supervisor would have to schedule the judges in such a way that they would not need to comment on entries in their respective categories in quick succession. Each judge will announce the winner of his category — horses, industrial floats, high school floats or marchettes — during the Awards Day to be held at OSD December 13.

The judges' stand is likely to be a raised platform situated somewhere along Front St., said Mr. Lewars.

Enrolment Up

Enrolment at Loyalist College has increased by at least eight per cent this year.

The rate of increase may continue to grow, from Sept. 28 this year the college had 10 more postsecondary students enrolled in this 10-day courses than it had at the same time last year. These students totalled 796, but the number of students on campus each day is 1,496. The difference is made up of apprentices, retraining students and the 135 enrolled in diploma nursing programs — the first Ontario saw students have been a part of community colleges.

The total daytime enrolment at Loyalist is up 15 per cent over last year. The average increase for the other 21 community colleges in Ontario is 22 per cent.

Loyalist shares one distinction with Algonquin College in Ottawa. They are the only two colleges in the province to have increases this year in their retraining enrolment.

Have Museum; Will Travel

Hastings County may be getting a travelling museum.

The Hastings County Historical Society has applied for a grant under the federal government's Local Initiatives program to establish a "museum exhibition circuit in the County."

Martin Lewis, the curator of the county museum, Glanmore House, at 257 Bridge St. East, submitted the historical society's application to the department of Manpower and Immigration Thursday.

The proposed "exhibition circuit" would provide nearly all the major communities within the county with a permanent display centre in which exhibits from all over the county could be shown.

In outlining the proposed project, Mr. Lewis explained that "Hastings County is almost 100 miles long and 20 miles wide and the County Museum is located three-quarters of a mile from the southern edge of the county. Therefore, it's difficult for citizens, other than those in Belleville, to participate in or benefit from the activities of the museum."

"We would like to disperse museum collections throughout the entire county," he said, "and the way to do this is to lend material out to attract people to the museum and to encourage people to create their own displays. Then the museum would be able to become truly the Hastings County "Museum."

The historical society hopes to accomplish its expansion program by building and installing 10 display cases in centres across the county.

Under the LIP project, the society would search through the county to obtain suitable facilities for housing the displays; build 10 display cases; identify and mark all artifacts within the museum's collections and mount the first display for each new location.

Mr. Martin hopes to have worth within the next eight weeks on whether or not the federal government has approved the society's project.

If the society gets a green light, then work will begin around Jan. 7 and will be finished by the end of May.

The proposed project will provide employment for eight people and will cost approximately $28,000.

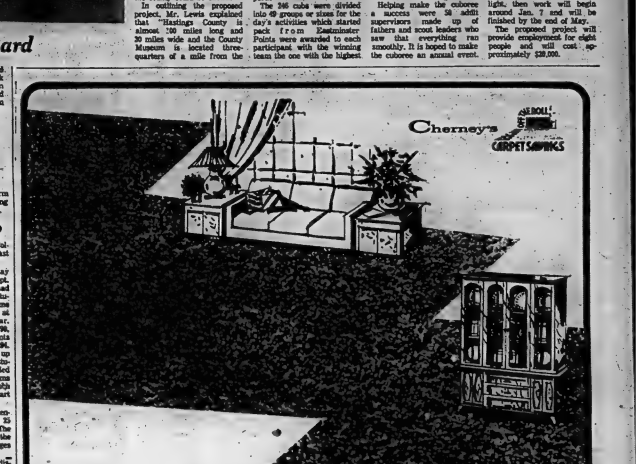
The cubs, coming from 11 packs in the Belleville area, took part in eight events ranging from walking a log to throwing a softball the farthest. Activities took place at Camp Sagonaska within the park.



The 246 cubs were divided into 46 groups or sixes for the day's activities which started pack from Easterminster Points were awarded to each participant with the winning team the one with the highest point total.

When it was over the 17th pack from Easterminster Church were the winners.

Members of the team were: Mark Sherry, Steven Goulah, David Hoare, Kenny Percival and Doug Hannah. Leader of the pack is Don Sherry.

Actress Hides Herself in Role

NEW YORK (AP) — On stage and screen, Rachel Roberts deliberately hides.

"I'd like to be one of those people who relentlessly come on," she said.

"I don't want to be a personality player, that would make me feel very naked and nervous. I much prefer to translate the character the playwright created."

If there has ever been a role that closely resembled her in the long string that began at Stratford-on-Avon and now brings her to Broadway for the first time, it is a 1920s movie queen.

Her anti-ego acting slant may have been influenced by marital exposure to the high-impact stardom of Rex Harrison. The pair divorced two years ago.

"Contentment," was the purring one-word description which the 45-year-old actress gave of her private unwed life now.

Her decision to accept an offer to play a season here came at the behest of Lindsay Anderson, one of England's ranking film directors "who is my greatest friend, personally and professionally."

Both were attending the Cannes film festival last spring when chance brought her career into conjunction with Hal Prince, Broadway's eminent impresario, in shaky fashion.

Prince had seen her a bit earlier on London's stage in Alpha Beta, an abrasive domestic drama. After meeting her at the festival he sent her a note suggesting she join the New Phoenix presentation this fall of two plays.

"I never get the letter because he sent it to the wrong hotel," she says, "By sheer accident, he mentioned it three days later to a friend who told me."

Another gremlin popped up after she said yes. "The first scripts he sent me got lost somehow. I'd signed up for two plays that I'd never seen. When I finally got to read them I knew Lindsay had been absolutely 100-per-cent right when he said 'do it.'"

The plays are a farce, Chemin de Fer, by Georges Feydeau, and The Visit, by Friedrich Duerrenmatt. The latter was the last great Broadway triumph of The Lunts, a circumstance which doesn't shake her determination even though she knows some spectators will be comparing her with Lynn Fontanne.

The twin repertory to thus at Broadway's Lyceum Nov. 26.

Tandem rehearsals—with Prince directing the Duerrenmatt and Stephen Porter the Feydeau—were enhanced considerably for the widowed actress by the occasional prowling interruptions of Jack, the rehearsal hall's lanky cross-catcher and all-natural-born upstager. Miss Roberts has a bounding enthusiasm for cats.

"It's probably the Welsh witch in me," she smiled. "We're a different race entirely from the English. We have a national theatre, but no awful lot of amateur study groups. We'd rather do things ourselves, than watch others, like the Anglo-Saxons do."

In her teens, Miss Roberts manifested lifelong independence of spirit by shaking off the sobering influences of father and grandfather, clerics, both, for an acting career.

"I was supposed to be a teacher," she relates. "And there was plenty of family concern. But once I'd decided they were all for me."

Showbiz Shorts

TEL AVIV (Reuter) — Burt Lancaster, in Israel to film the television series Moses, volunteered to appear on Israeli television to help the war effort, says the newspaper Maariv.

His co-star, Swedish actress Ingrid Thulin, has denied what was termed a considerable sum of money to the Soldiers Welfare Committee, the newspaper adds.

NEW YORK (AP) — Mexican actor-comedian Cantinflas, enormously popular throughout Latin America, helped draw more than 150,000 spectators to Fifth Avenue Sunday for the ninth annual Hispanic Heritage Day parade.

Cantinflas, grand marshal of the parade, was mobbed at every turn by fans from the metropolitan area's estimated two million Spanish-speaking residents.

Austerity Drive Grips India

BOMBAY (CP) — A leading Bombay tycoon comes away hungry from a dinner given by a federal minister.

Public fountains in most Indian cities are not switched on even on busy Saturday nights.

Government clerks have to use both sides of the paper stenographers must make their typewriter ribbons last for as long as before.

When a minister visits a village, only a single official is there to receive him as against a dozen before.

These are among the changes brought about by India's massive austerity drive designed to cope with the difficult economic situation.

Federal finance ministry officials expect a national saving of nearly 1000 million rupees. If the current measures are observed scrupulously.

The idea, as Prime Minister Indira Gandhi and her cabinet colleagues have been explaining out, is not only to conserve resources but to demonstrate to poor workers and peasants that their hardships are shared by citizens at all levels.

A multi-point austerity plan is being enforced all over India at the instance of Mrs. Gandhi.

Only visiting foreign VIPs of the rank of minister and above will be officially entertained in New Delhi and provincial capitals.

Indian government officials have also been told to limit expenditure drastically on entertaining diplomats and foreign visitors. One New Delhi official had to cancel a dinner he had planned for a dozen diplomats at short notice.

There has been a sharp drop in the number of government cars on the streets of the capital. "Every yard of travel in a government car should be fully accounted for," says a senior education ministry official.

Mrs. Gandhi has also asked senior government officials to cut down on foreign travel.

As one official sadly remarked: "We can't afford to go to New York or Toronto to study traffic problems or fly to Tokyo to see how the Japanese are tackling the pollution threat."

The austerity drive has immobilized thousands of government officials accustomed to embark on "inspection tours" on the slightest pretext. Millions of dollars are spent every year on this account.

It is not uncommon for officials in some ministries to be on tour in the provinces for 15 to 20 days in a month.

President V. V. Giri has volunteered a 25-per-cent cut in his salary to set an example to the nation and many cabinet ministers and MPs have followed suit.

Eruption Expected

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — The Makian volcano in the North Moluccas has shown increasing activity and scientists believe it may erupt by 1984. The volcano last erupted in 1956. About five microseismic earthquakes more are being recorded at Makian each day.

Round and Round

CAERPHILLY, Wales (CP) — A recent meeting of the local Round Table discussion club lasted 4½ hours, half of which time was spent discussing whether the Round Table meetings go on too long.

Thirsty Thieves

FLORENCE, N.J. (AP) — Thieves who hijacked a truckload of bottles from outside a Philadelphia distillery recently got a surprise when they opened the truck, police said. The bottles, 36,000 of them, were all empty.

Robot Fire-fighters Urged To Control Forest Blazes

SAN FRANCISCO (Reuter) — Imagine 10 years from now taking a walk in a forest and confronting a shiny 20-foot monster that marches on four spidery steel legs and stares at you from a glowing eye.

It would not be a Martian war machine, but a sophisticated mechanical firefighter on its way to dump chemicals into the heart of a forest blaze.

On the heels of the worst forest fires in the history of the western United States, a group of scientists has suggested ways of fighting the huge blazes.

Today's aerial tankers with their loads of fire retardant chemicals, bulldozing drivers and shovel-wielding smoke jumpers simply are not good enough, the scientists say.

In their place, they suggest thinking across the board. Fire-fighters able to withstand the searing 1,000 degree heat of the fires and controlled from a gadget-laden fire control center.

Sixteen camera-carrying satellites would be launched, transmitting photographs and information to the center, where computers would predict the path of the fire.

The 21 scientists and engineers spent three months putting together their plan, which they presented to representatives of California fire-fighting agencies.

The agencies were in the mood to listen to ideas. Over a two-week period, an army of 10,000 firefighters had battled more than 50 major forest fires throughout the state.

The fires blackened some 300 square miles of brush and timber land, destroying enough lumber to build 25,000 three-bedroom houses.

The plan would take up to 10 years to put into effect and would cost one billion to two billion million a year it now costs California to fight forest fires, the scientists say.

They envisage 300 automated ground weather stations scattered around the wooded wilderness area of California. The micro-station's job would be to assess the fire danger in its area.

The job is done less efficiently today by forest rangers, who visit remote areas on inspection trips. A ranger has collected logs of wood that he weighs periodically. The lighter it is by area, the drier and more susceptible to fire they are.

But the ranger may no return to the same area for a week or so, while the stations would be monitoring conditions continuously.

The satellites would relay the data to the fire control centre to be digested by computers. A red light blinking on a control console would signal a fire alert.

The fire control chief would immediately order spotter aircraft to the area and deploy his firefighting forces.

Dr. John Billingham, chief of NASA's astrionics division at the Ames research centre of the National Aeronautics and Space Agency, has been a co-director of the study. He feels certain the scientists' recommendations will eventually be put into effect.

"Forest fires today are unpredictable and almost uncontrollable," he said. "They burn far too big an area and worth of damage. We think our method would suppress most, if not all, the seven or eight per cent of fires that by 1980 become major problems."

Dr. Billingham says mechanical firefighters are currently in the experimental stage.

One, called a "dragon wagon," has eight independently-operating wheels capable of climbing a 45-degree slope and leaning 30 degrees without tipping over.

The walking robot firefighters would have legs about six feet long, enabling it to climb small vertical rock surfaces. It would weigh about 10 tons when loaded with chemicals, and would "see" with small TV cameras covered by thick fire-resistant glass.

Its surface would probably be shiny aluminum to reflect heat. Surface cooling could be accomplished either by blowing air outward through its "skin", or by circulating a coolant liquid just below the "skin."

Another possible aerial fire-fighting weapon is a combination airplane and airship, capable of carrying 20,000 pounds of chemicals—the payload of a 747 jumbo jet. It would be supported by lighter-than-air balloon gas.

It could hover over a lake, scoop up a load of water and soom off to the fire. Unloading its water-load would be like a small dam bursting.

Fallout Shelters Calgary Feature

CALGARY (CP) — The man who bought the house noticed with some curiosity that a section of the basement had unusually thick concrete walls.

It was a fallout shelter—about as popular now as high-top mods shoes.

"Is that what it is?" said the householder. "I didn't pay any attention to it. I just thought I was a few extra rooms sitting in a corner."

Another Calgary householder, asked about the state of the lumber in the early 1960s, the time of the Bay of Pigs and the Cuban missile crisis, sounded somewhat embarrassed.

"I'm not interested in talking about it," he said. "Anyway, it's knee-deep in water."

Interest in fallout shelters is other than crisis times is shortlived.

"After it was built," A.M. Middleton says of his $500 shelter, "my wife took sick and I never finished it off inside."

"I doubt if I'll ever use it now but I guess I could use it as an additional sleeping room. It just takes up part of the basement; it's just there."

Mr. Middleton says he built his six-person shelter to specifications laid out by the government in its Blueprint for Survival booklet published in 1961.

A foreword from then Prime Minister John Diefenbaker recommended the shelters.

The four permits issued by the city for construction of the shelters that year all were granted in November—two of them on the same day. November marked the height of the Cuban crisis.

The owner of one of the four residences said: "I really don't know much about it. I've never even considered completing it. They were some sort of fad, weren't they?"

Look Lessons

TOKYO (AP) — A newspaper suggested that Tokyo television stations give instructions on how to use Western-style toilets. The Japanese have been accustomed to the squat system toilet," wrote the English-language Mainichi Daily News. "The general trend is toward wider adoption of the imported system. The question now comes up whether these Western-style toilets are being properly used."

South Vietnam Revolution Aimed at Cutting Red Tape

VUNG TAU, South Vietnam (Reuter) — Ly Thi Tuyet Mai is a vivacious 21-year-old girl who has just finished her first year as an accountant in Prime Minister Tran Thien Khiem's office.

In recent weeks she has put aside her graceful, traditional dress for the somewhat shapeless black tunic and trousers of a South Vietnamese government cadre. Together with about 600 girls of the same age, Tuyet Mai has been learning to shoot a pistol, throw a grenade, master the art of camouflage, take lessons in politics and sleep on a hard concrete floor in a barn-like room.

Tuyet Mai and the other girls—secretaries, accountants, telephonists and receptionists—are some of the 6,000 civil servants and government employees going through the first stages of President Nguyen Van Thieu's administrative revolution, planned and introduced earlier this year.

The aim is to cut out much of the red tape which has for years entangled South Vietnamese bureaucracy, and to combat corruption in government offices and ministries.

The eventual target is for some 15 per cent of the country's 300,000 civil servants to move into the countryside and sort out problems at village and hamlet level.

It is there that the new rugged training should stand the city girls and white-collar workers in good stead.

The revolution has two objectives—to help the country's long-neglected economy and to reinforce the political struggle against the Viet Cong who have always been effective at the grass-roots level.

The training being given at the government cadet training centre is the fashionable seaside resort of Vung Tau is aimed at building up moral fibre. The emphasis is on self-reliance, which will enable the trainee cadres to deal on the spot with any problems.

The first stage of the revolution calls for the 6,000 men and women to undergo six weeks' training, and to spend about three weeks working in the villages and hamlets in groups of five.

The leaders will be faced with many kinds of situations—putting a birth certificate, sorting out tax problems, registering a motorcycle. The aim is to reduce the amount of minor administrative business referred back to Saigon, a process which can take time and which the people do not understand.

Life in the camp is Spartan, and its administrators admit that there have been problems in the early stages.

When the first group arrived there was a shortage of beds, and in the girls' camp most of the students were sleeping on rattan mats on a hard concrete floor.

For Tuyet Mai, the weeks in the camp have been totally alien to anything she has known before.

"The first two weeks were dreadful. Everyone wanted to go home. But suddenly everyone became friends and once we got to master the various activities it became just like school again.

"I'm sure that it is going to be very boring going back to work as the accounts in Saigon again."

While the girls' camp was buzzing with excited chatter as they ate their midday meal, the men's camp was more subdued.

"For us it is a time to sort out problems and work out what we have to do," said Tran Van Thanh, a 26-year-old teacher. "Most of us here are over 30 and this is all a change from what we're used to. But I must admit I'm feeling better than I've felt for a long time."

The men and women live in separate camps, divided into companies and battalions. The camp administrators act as commanders, but company leaders are elected by the trainees.

The mood was summed up by a slogan someone had pasted up in the men's camp: "Each inch of earth is an inch of gold."

That was a slogan originally adopted by the Vietcong resistance fighters against the French.

CP Roundup

Welfare Families Benefit

TORONTO (CP) — Families on welfare and government assistance should not have their allowances decreased because the family allowances are being raised, Rene Brunelle, minister of community and social services, said Tuesday.

"That is my recommendation (to the cabinet) and I'm optimistic that it will be accepted," Mr. Brunelle told reporters.

He made the statement after two days of hedging in the legislature on the question of whether those on welfare would have their payments decreased because of the $30-a-month a child they would receive through the federal government.

Mrs. Trudeau Singled Out

KWEILIN, China (CP) — Margaret Trudeau, expecting her second child in December, says Chinese Premier Chou En-lai has singled her out as an example for women's liberation in China.

The prime minister's wife, enjoying her tour of colorful Chinese hinterland, told reporters Tuesday that Chou says Chinese women tend to hide themselves when they become pregnant.

Potter Sees No Conflict

TORONTO (CP) — Health Minister Richard Potter said Tuesday business connections between the largest optical firm in Canada and the men who issue licences to opticians in Ontario does not constitute a conflict of interest.

The minister was answering charges from Albert Roy (L—Ottawa East), who said last May the five government-appointed members of the Ophthalmic Dispensing Board might be subject to influence by Imperial Optical Co. Ltd., which, he said, holds shares in dispensing companies headed by board members through a subsidiary, Standard Optical.

Ratepayers Balk at Tax

SUTTON, Ont (CP) — Ratepayers of Georgina Township, faced with an average tax increase of $30 to cover a deficit of $336,000 incurred last year, have threatened to withhold tax payments.

Kenneth Osborne, a spokesman for the ratepayers, said the deficit was incurred by council's unwise "land investments. Some ratepayers do not intend to pay the additional taxes, he added.

Mayor Gets $37,500

OTTAWA (CP) — Elected city officials proposed pay increases of up to $4,000 a year for themselves Monday.

Under the proposals, Mayor Pierre Benoit's salary would climb to $25,000 after a $4,000 increase. The mayor is paid another $12,500 for service on various committees and regional council.

The acting mayor's salary would go up by $2,000 to $17,000, pay to other controllers would climb to $16,000 after a $1,000 increase and aldermen's pay would increase to $9,000 from the present $5,500.

Three Killed, Fine $100

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP) — Timothy Hunt, 19, was fined $100 in provincial court Tuesday on a charge of careless driving following an accident Dec. 31 in which three persons died.

His east-bound car collided with a car driven by Clarence F. Cook, 50, of Harley, Ont., on Highway 53 on the outskirts of the city.

The accident occurred at the top of a hill, in thick fog, at night.

Cook, his son Glen, 13, and his daughter Jo-Ann, 11, were killed. Hunt was seriously injured.

The Crown said there was no evidence of excessive speed. Judge W. A. MacDonald said he was imposing the minimum penalty for careless driving since there was no evidence of any carelessness prior to the accident.

Kissinger, Dobrynin Meet

Big Two Seek Solution

WASHINGTON (AP) — The diplomatic search for an end to the Arab-Israeli war has narrowed with the United States and the Soviet Union engaged in extensive discussions over specific ideas.

There are said to centre on linking a ceasefire to an overall settlement of the 25-year-old Middle East dispute.

However, while the talks have progressed from a general examination of options, U.S. officials do not believe Washington and Moscow are ready to make a proposal public.

Although any agreement made through these talks will be sent to the United Nations Security Council for ratification, the negotiations are being conducted primarily by State Secretary Henry Kissinger and Anatoly Dobrynin, Soviet ambassador to the U.S.

At the same time, however, rumors spread in Moscow that Premier Alexei Kosygin is on a secret mission to Cairo for talks with Egyptian leaders.

While working for an end to the fighting, the U.S. is facing increased pressure from the Arab countries to pull back from its support of Israel.

The Organization of Arab Petroleum Exporting Countries announced in Kuwait Wednesday they will cut production at least five per cent a month until Israel pulls back from territory taken in the 1967 war and restores the rights of Palestinian refugees.

State department officials were unclear Tuesday night about what this action means, when it would take place and exactly what was being demanded.

The announcement from Kuwait did not specifically mention the U.S. but Arab diplomats indicated the oil action was aimed at forcing the U.S. to press Israel into a compromise.

The official U.S. position as outlined by Kissinger last week is that the Nixon administration will not relent in its support of Israel in the face of a threat, and will take the consequences.

Just before the oil production cut was announced, President Nixon and Kissinger held a series of meetings with the foreign ministers of four Arab states—Saudi Arabia, Algeria, Kuwait and Morocco.

U.S. Loses Oil Source

KUWAIT (Reuter) — The Persian Gulf state of Abu Dhabi announced today a halt in oil exports to the United States, warning that the same action will be taken against any other country which gives support to Israel.

About 12 per cent of Abu Dhabi's 1.5-million barrels of oil a day has been going to the United States. Abu Dhabi's main market is Japan.

The move was announced by Oil Minister Mana al-Otaiba following the decision by Arab oil states to cut production progressively by at least five per cent each month in order to hit countries considered pro-Israel in the Middle East conflict.

It showed that the formula devised as a compromise between radical and moderate members of the Organization of Arab Petroleum Exporting Countries (OAPEC) is flexible.

The decision to cut production by five per cent each month until occupied Arab lands are regained "and the legitimate rights of the Palestinian people are restored" concealed a series of undecided issues which it seemed are being left to the individual states.

Apart from the U.S.—which imports only six per cent of its oil from the Middle East—the targets of the cut were not identified and other details were also left vague.

The five-per-cent monthly production cuts are to be computed against the previous month's flow, beginning in September, the communique said. It indicated that the measure was already in effect, counting from the beginning of that month.

The oil ministers said countries friendly to the Arab countries will not suffer from the decision. Special arrangements will be made for countries deemed pro-Israel to change their stand to active support for the Arab cause.

Observers pointed out that with the cut based on production and not on export figures, the formula seemed to anticipate an early settlement of the Middle East conflict.

Otherwise they said there would come a point where a producer's output would not be enough to maintain exports even to countries listed as "friendly."

Israel Claims Battle Cost Egypt Tanks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israel said it destroyed 90 to 100 Egyptian tanks Wednesday in a fierce battle that continued into the night along the Suez canal. Egypt said the Israelis "suffered heavy losses in tanks and armored cars."

The Israeli drive into Syria still was bogged down about 21 miles from Damascus. The Syrian front was reported quiet through the night after heavy Syrian shelling Wednesday.

Elsewhere in the Middle East crisis, the Arab oil countries pledged to cut their production five per cent a month and to increase the cut five per cent each month as long as Israel holds on to the territory it seized in the 1967 war. They hope their West European and Japanese customers will press the United States into ending arms shipments to Israel.

There was intense diplomatic activity in Washington and at United Nations headquarters in New York aimed at ending the fighting. But no sign of progress was apparent.

Israel said its forces fought all day Wednesday in Sinai to contain Egyptian counter-attacks." Maj.-Gen. Haim Herzog, the state radio's military commentator, said it was "the biggest armored clash in Israeli military history."

Chief-of-Staff David Elazar said: "We are now calling the tune." Black he added: "This is not Israel's major offensive."

The Egyptian command said fighting was continuing Wednesday night in the central sector of the Sinai front. Another wider reported any change in the battle line 60 to 18 miles east of the Suez canal.

It was the second day on which the Israelis had reported destruction of a large Arab tank force. On Tuesday they reported knocking out 165 Syrian and Iraqi tanks, while Syria that day reported its forces destroyed 85 Israeli tanks.

Elazar said the Israeli forces were "initiating the attacks on both sides" of the canal.

Bridgehead Established Over Suez

Oil Rationing A Possibility

OTTAWA (CP) — A prolonged interruption of Middle East oil supplies might force the government to introduce rationing, Energy Minister Donald MacDonald warned Wednesday.

Minutes before news of a five-per-cent cut in Arab oil supplies to pro-Israel countries reached Ottawa, Mr. Macdonald told reporters the government likely will consider any interruption longer than 49 days serious enough to institute rationing.

The government would have to decide what energy supplies are essential and ration on that basis.

It is inaccurate, he said, to say Canada supports Israel. However, any oil boycott by the Arab nations directed at the North American continent would affect Canada.

Just after he spoke, the Arab nations announced an immediate five-per-cent cut on all oil exports to the U.S. and other countries supporting Israel.

Earlier, Mr. Macdonald told serves will last about 45 days if supplies to eastern markets are cut off. There would be enough heating oil for 100 days for consumers going for about 300 days.

He said a meeting will be held soon, possibly Friday, with it industry spokesmen to discuss contingency plans.

The government wants to get the views on various Canadian oil exporters. It also hopes to get an up-to-date picture of what assurances industry spokesmen can offer on holding back on price increases to domestic consumers, he said.

The government announced Sept. 4 that it would seek a voluntary price freeze from oil companies as an anti-inflation measure.

Gets 4 Years

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — A 53-year-old woman was sentenced to four years in prison Wednesday after pleading guilty in provincial court to possession of $45,000 worth of hashish for the purpose of trafficking. Keterina Susteric of London was arrested May 27 when police discovered about 10 pounds of hashish in her home. Special prosecutor Gary McCuaig said the woman was part of a well-established drug ring for the importing of hashish.

Post Office Unveils Domestogram

OTTAWA (CP) — New low-value definitive stamps bearing portraits of the Queen and prime ministers and a new service called the "domestogram" were unveiled by the post office Wednesday.

The domestogram is a stationery product for use within Canada which includes an eight-cent stamp, vellum writing paper and envelope. It is similar to aerograms now used for mail abroad.

The new product will be sold at a cost of six for $1 and can be obtained in 12 stamp designs showing the floral emblems of each provinces and territory.

The new stamps replace issues that picture the Queen on the one, two, three, four, five and six-cent values. Plans for the stamps were revealed earlier this year.

The 25-cent stamp, which Postmaster - General André Ouellet said is used about 30 times more than the others, will retain a redesigned portrait of the Queen.

Kidnapper Killed

HAVANA (Reuter) — An anti-Castro gunman who held the Belgian and French ambassadors hostage for more than 24 hours died of wounds received in a shootout with Cuban security forces, the Cuban foreign ministry said. The kidnapper was captured and the two hostage diplomats freed unharmed in a rescue operation Wednesday directed personally by Premier Fidel Castro.

STOCKHOLM (CP) — Australian novelist Patrick White, writer of ironic, visionary epics of pioneering life, was awarded the Nobel Prize for literature today, His latest novel, The Eye of The Storm, was published this year and among his other best-known works are Happy Valley and the Tree of Man.

NDP Caucus Bugged to Prove TV Point

OTTAWA (CP) — Shades of Watergate! Someone planted a bug on Parliament Hill!

New Democrat Leader David Lewis disclosed this incident to the Commons Wednesday. His action by MPs was built, indignant—and humorous.

The battery-powered microphone was planted under a table in the NDP's Centre Block caucus room Wednesday morning by a CTV television reporter, Tim Ralfe.

Ralfe later told Mr. Lewis and reporters that the action was to be part of a documentary on how easy and legal it is to bug people.

While MPs reacted with indignation to the news—Mr. Lewis had some hard words about the reporter and the television network—there was a strong undercurrent of humor about the "role" he played.

"I grin a little about it (the incident) because of events that have happened elsewhere," Mr. Lewis said in a reference to Watergate, where Republican party employees bugged Democratic headquarters.

"There are buggers everywhere," more than one MP was heard to say later.

But everybody deplored Mr. Ralfe's action and the Commons, at the request of Mr. Lewis, quickly passed a resolution demanding that tapes from bugging be turned over to Mr. Lewis or Commons Speaker Lucien Lamoureux.

Mr. Ralfe later gave two reels of tape to Lewis Seale, Mr. Lewis's assistant.

Reaction from Conservatives went a bit farther. Erik Nielsen (PC—Yukon) suggested an investigation of other possible bugging. John Diefenbaker (PC—Prince Albert) sought changes in a wiretapping bill now before a Commons committee.

Mr. Nielsen also asked that Mr. Ralfe be brought before the bar of the Commons to explain.

CTV is doing a program on bugging designed to show there is no legal restriction on it at present and it is easily done. Because a political story would be more dramatic, it was decided to bug the NDP caucus room.

Mr. Ralfe, a former member of the Parliamentary Press Gallery, walked into the caucus room and taped the bug under the head table.

Then he and his staff sat in a truck behind the Parliament Buildings, listened to conversations, but taped only part of them, he said.

Mr. Broadbent reached under the table—for a reason he could not recall later—and came across the "foreign device."

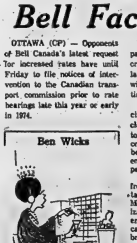
Bell Facing Stiff Test

OTTAWA (CP) — Opponents of Bell Canada's latest request for increased rates have until Friday to file notices of intervention to the Canadian transport commission prior to rate hearings late this year or early in 1974.

Indications are that the company, seeking its fifth rate increase from the federal regulatory commission since 1969, will face stiffer opposition this time than in the past.



Action Bell Canada (ABC), a citizens' group that acts as clearing house for information to those opposing Bell increases, has encouraged a number of groups and individuals to enter the fray against the company.

About 25 groups, ranging from the governments of Ontario and Quebec to the Greater Montreal Anti-Poverty Organization and the Eskimo Brotherhood, will oppose Bell's application for increases that would bring in more than $50 million annually.

Bell has reduced by $33.4 million the amount it originally proposed in its increase 1974 telephone costs. In August, the company announced that it was reducing its application for $85.2 million because a "buoyant economy" had altered revenue expectations.

Bell serves more than 4.3 million telephone subscribers with about 6.9 million phones in Ontario, Quebec, parts of Newfoundland and Labrador and the Northwest Territories.

It argues that it needs an additional $51.8 million in revenue next year to produce a profit return of 8.6 per cent on capital investment.

$2,000 for United Way

Just what you always wanted. Right? Cement blocks donated by Belleville's Stanley Structures were auctioned to the members of the Quinte Home Builders' Association last night, boosting the current United Way total to some $40,000. Elinor Sisson, framed by the block, is chairman of this year's campaign and was guest speaker at last night's meeting. Beside her is auctioneer Jerry Joyce and (left) Jim Driscoll of the homebuilders association.

Builders Blast, Buttress UCS

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

Elinor Sisson, chairman of this year's United Way campaign, received roses and thorns at last night's meeting of the Quinte Homebuilders Association.

Mrs. Sisson, a seasoned veteran on the United Community Services board of directors, had her hands full last night fielding a number of probing questions and carrying the $2,000 donation boosting the fund total to $40,000.

Questions centered around the screening of agencies to determine their need and the right of donors to choose where their money goes. It has been the recent practice of the appeal to put all the money into one pot and divide it later.

There was dissent in the crowd with some praise for UCS for its involvement in the community. Another called, "I don't want to be for your agency."

Many of the homebuilders strongly questioned the UCS' treatment of the YMCA when one year ago it was expelled from the fund drive. Others reportedly asked why the Sisson on the departure of the Boy Scouts. One spokesman, believing the UCS was paying for the Citizens Bureau through United Way funds criticized the UCS and said, "the bureau has given you a bad name, dear."

Mrs. Sisson, who continued answering all questions completely until the debate was called by president Mike DeMark, explained the bureau was completely paid for through local initiative to project funds.

Mrs. Sisson said this year would be the most crucial for the United Way in Belleville. "It has to be a turning point. The fund drive is either going to make it or it isn't."

The United Way has reached 25 per cent of its $165,000 goal, which Mrs. Sisson regards as encouraging, considering the amount of controversy around the UCS over the past year, referring to the resignation of its director.

Because of the problems surrounding the UCS over the year, Mrs. Sisson found herself as campaign director by default. According to Jim Driscoll, who introduced her, "she took a job no one else would take."

"People kept asking me why I don't take the job, so I finally did," she said. "When the board heard the nomination and realized there were no others there was relief and very little discussion."

A spokesman for the association, thanking Mrs. Sisson for her address, said, "we are hard-headed sometimes because we are constantly being asked for contributions to something. We look at things with a very examining eye."

Following her speech, members of the association were treated to an auction to raise funds for the campaign.

Stanley Structures donated 4,500 cement blocks, which sold to the group under the hammer auctioneer Gerald Joyce for some $2,000. This was turned over to Mrs. Sisson.

Trenton Sale Bids Nov. 5

Country Club Asks $85,000

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — It was confirmed Wednesday Trenton Country Club directors are looking for at least $85,000 from sale of the establishment.

Bids on the building are expected to be opened Nov. 5.

It was announced earlier this week the club doors would be padlocked Nov. 9 and says club president Jack Wilson, this remains the stand in spite of a busy cooking season which could be lost.

Mr. Wilson said there would not be a shortfall in the months of November and December booked for some sort of functions.

The ball on the second floor of the Kings Street club house rents for $85 a night, including bar tenders.

The board of directors for the 56-year-old country club were to hold an in-camera meeting to make some decision on the booking arrangements for the Christmas season.

Standing in the way of obliging the bookings is a commitment on the club's part to come good for a number of debentures taken out five years ago for general club improvements.

"These debentures came due this month and there is no way to pay for them without selling out," said Mr. Wilson.

The phone in Mr. Wilson's Chamber of Commerce office has already started ringing with inquiries from prospective buyers.

Mr. Wilson said the instructions for sale included advertisements in Toronto and local papers and for the highest bid to be accepted.

"If nothing happens we'll put it on the photo multiple listing service with real estate brokers," said Mr. Wilson.

Mr. Wilson felt now was the time to get rid of the club and its bills, while some value could be reclaimed. Once the bills are paid, the country club has plans for at least a temporary facility.

Woman to Stand Trial On Non-capital Charge

TRENTON — A Trenton woman Wednesday was committed for trial on a non-capital murder charge in the death of Canadian Armed Forces Corporal James Robinson.

Barbara Smith sat quietly throughout the three-day preliminary hearing which ended with Judge R. E. Jackson's ruling in provincial court.

She will face the charge at the spring assizes in Belleville next year.

Only two witnesses were called Wednesday. These were a next-door neighbor and a mutual acquaintance of both Mrs. Smith and Cpl. Robinson.

Judge Jackson exercised a provision of the criminal code banning all publication and broadcasting of evidence.

Mrs. Smith is on bail on recognizance.

Salt Price Is Down

The city public works department is getting ready for the winter road conditions that are all too soon to be with us.

Council last week approved tenders for 2,500 tons of sand and an estimated 3,000 tons of salt.

The tender for the winter's supply of sand goes to Charles Demill Construction at $1.95 a ton, delivered and stockpiled. Last year's price was $1.60 a ton but this figure did not include stockpiling costs.

Domtar Chemicals Ltd. will supply the city's salt requirements at $12.65 a ton.

Last year's delivered price for salt was $12.92 a ton.

At Home-- In A Tavern

WAUPOOS — There's a tavern in the town — and it is now under renovation by woodworker Roy Stevens.

Mr. Stevens has asked for community assistance in assembling the frame of the former Hayes Tavern that once stood on Mill Street in Consecon. He has planned reconstruction of the old building since 1966 and has worked seven years on a proper foundation.

When Mr. Stevens completes his project he plans to move into the hotel with his wife and family. Although many Prince Edward County residents have renovated churches and schools for modern-day living, it is likely that Mr. Stevens is the first to convert a tavern.

Cut New Album

PICTON — The Singing Post Family, a Prince Edward country and western recording group is enjoying the release of its seventh album titled Country Music.

Led by former Ameliasburgh deputy reeve Norman Post, the performers sing old original tunes as well as several popular hit numbers. One of the songs, "I Live Out on the Farm" was written by Mr. Post.

The Singing Post Family features Mr. Post's teenaged daughters Debbie and Joanne and 16-year-old son Kenneth. The group has performed on radio and television and in east-to-west coast tours. Many of its songs centre on life in rural Prince Edward. A recent album was titled Mr. Prince Edward County Home.

New recording techniques have been used to give a concert effect to the Post Family's latest collection of songs.

Road Request

MARMORA — Local property owner Oscar Hess has asked Marmora-Lake township council to reconsider its decision turning down his offer to relocate a portion of road around his cottage on Crowe Lake.

Cabbies Petition Against Shutdown

PICTON — Picton cabbies are circulating a petition opposing town council's decision to abolish a Main Street taxi stand at the close of the year.

This summer, council's public works department recommended that the stand, which occupies two parking slots, should be moved to provide additional shopper parking. It was noted that revenue from parking spaces rented to cab-drivers totalled $60 per year per taxi. Approximately six drivers rent time in the allotted slots in front of the Royal Hotel.

After council's motion to abolish the stand taxi, drivers handed together in a delegation to protest the decision. Councillor Jack Evans suggested the stand might be investigated further. But the public works committee has made no additional report to council.

Picton deputy - reeve Ross Crookwright claims he is the only councillor who opposed the suggestion to stop rental of parking slots to cab drivers.

He pointed out at the time of council's decision that many shoppers, especially women with packages or small children, might find it inconvenient to hail a cab.

It was suggested by another councillor that the drivers could make new headquarters at the site of the former Mary Street school near Main Street.

The petition now being carried in the taxis of several Picton cabbies, states that often two parking slots are blocked by large trucks unloading freight to Main Street stores. Frequently the meters are expired.

It is also noted that shoppers might find it inconvenient if forced to walk to an off-Main location for a taxi.

Tax Payment

MARMORA — Second instalment on the property tax stabilization plan will be made in October, Marmora village council has been advised by the Ministry of treasury, economics and inter - governmental affairs.

Ready to Rise

Big thermometer at Picton's Armory Mall should start rising soon as community contributes to Quinte's Isle Swimming Pool project. Pool committee has asked for $75,000 Local initiative, Pingerons grant and is seeking public donations to top total $90,000 funds goal.

Woman Pleads Guilty In Counterfeit Case

TRENTON — A Toronto woman will be sentenced Nov. 14 for uttering of counterfeit $50 bills in the Quinte area.

Diane Marie Selby was arrested by police here Sept. 14.

Miss Selby pleaded guilty to five charges of uttering and one of possession of counterfeit money. Her lawyer said the counterfeits did not belong to Miss Selby. Rather she was passing it to supplement her welfare income to ease support of her 21-month-old child.

A pre-sentence report will be presented before the court announces a verdict.

Miss Selby is free on her own recognizance.

Elzivir Plebiscite Approves Liquor Sales

TWEED — The first liquor plebiscite in Elzivir and Grimsthorpe township has come out in favour of licensed dining-rooms and lounges.

A small electoral turnout Wednesday voted 309-183 in favor of extending 11 new licences to "its combined municipality."

Under Ontario law, 60 per cent of the votes cast in a liquor plebiscite are required to signify public approval.

The municipality, which is crossed by Highway 7, is increasingly used for recreation and has a number of restaurants.

There were three questions of the plebiscite. These included sale of beer or wine in a dining-room, liquor sales in a dining-room, and liquor lounge sales.

Santa Parade For Picton

PICTON — Santa Claus is coming to town on Dec. 6, heralded by a festive parade sponsored by the Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce.

Frank Wright, a Chamber director, has indicated that this year's parade will boast more bands and floats than previous years.

Peace Prize

Remember when Boris Pasternak was awarded a Nobel prize for literature but was discouraged from leaving the Soviet Union to receive it.

Now we have North Vietnam's Le Duc Tho together with Henry Kissinger of the United States, being awarded the Nobel peace prize.

We doubt if any difficulties will be placed in the way of Tho going to Oslo for the presentation. Moreover he and Dr. Kissinger seem to have become tolerably good friends over the course of the long negotiations.

Never mind of course that hostilities are still going on in Vietnam and in neighboring Cambodia. Officially it is all over, the Americans are out of it and presumably the two negotiators can accept their awards in good conscience.

Alas, it may be just as easily otherwise, for as they receive their awards there may come from afar the sound of battle — and twinges of conscience. At least they know that they did their personal best to end the fighting and whatever discord may persist now in Southeast Asia is simply the reflection of events in a part of the world that has not known real peace for a long time.

It Endures

You have read of course that the mini-skirt has passed the tenth anniversary of its controversial arrival on London's swinging scene, to revolutionize fashion there and around the world.

Then as now younger women, and some not so young, wore the mini, to the delight of most male observers and the ire of still other citizens, groups and even governments, as witness the fire and brimstone called down upon it from sundry African administrations whose peoples ironically are often clad a great deal more immodestly than any Western society.

Yet a news report from London says the passing of a decade of this still popular women's garb has gone unnoticed, and this in a country that seldom misses noting such occasions.

Not a word either, even in the report, of the young Welsh designer who started it all — Mary Quant.

But it is still around, having survived the vicissitudes of time and the whims of designers in panic because after all the very lifeblood of their art is change.

Turning again to Africa where so much official energy has been expended in trying to ban the mini, there was this provocative observation a few years ago from the official Tunisian newspaper, L'Action: "Against wind and tide, the miniskirt endures. It can be seen everywhere again (perhaps they tried to ban it there too?) — with what it allows to be seen in addition."

And an interesting footnote: London's Carnaby Street where the mini and other British fashions received their greatest impetus, is now a traffic-free mall.

Against Odds

Something of a calamity on Wolfe Island: Mrs. Robin Camsell has had to give up the Neighborhood Sharing volunteer hop bureau she organized on the Island.

Mrs. Camsell had been trying to keep it going on a shoestring when she had a pital.

Prior to entering hospital Mrs. Camp- sail reportedly was so anxious to keep things going she began training for a long-distance swim from the island to the mainland, on the Miles for Millions principle. And this despite the fact that an illness had confined her to a wheelchair.

Her doctors said no, then came the set-back that sent her to hospital.

Now she is telling people in need of help to call social agencies instead.

There is inspiration for all of us in this little story. We think Mrs. Camsell should be awarded a Canada Medal or be recognized in some such way.

Parliamentary Doctor's Advice

Marriage and Relaxation Are Basic Health Factors

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA (...) Dr. Philip Bernard Rynard, MD, CM, FIAP, MCH, unpaid but far from unofficial medical adviser to MPs, Senators and all who work on Parliament Hill these past 16 years, agrees with the Women's Libbers that men are the weaker sex.

And from a lifetime in medicine he has evolved a basic health rule:

"Relax and get married — a second and third time, if necessary — if you want to be happy and live longer."

He ought to know. He's 73, and been happily married for 46 years.

That makes him two years younger than his best parliamentary friend, John Diefenbaker, who has been twice married through 44 years, the first time to Edna Mae Brown who died suddenly in 1951, and since 1953 to Olive E. Palmer, who is making him happier on the Rynard's farm in the way of wives — has made his career first.

Dr. Rynard, old warrior, PDef at 70 — presuming there is an election next year and "The Doc" as he is known affectionately to all on The Hill, at 77, will be in the running — and assuredly the winning again.

They flew around the world together, "Dief" as Prime Minister, and "The Doc" on his travelling medical adviser, and look forward with zest to the oncoming race.

Both men drive themselves physically so much that for one half their age would be extremes.

Diet often spends half the night aboard planes, flying out for various public appearances in all parts of the country, still finds time another day to climb hilly mountain streams, and stands in the cold morning shivering pits of Northern Saskatchewan to bag geese.

Doc Rynard makes a practice of driving a four and a half hour gruel between his Ottawa home and Ottawa, hitting the road after nine at night.

Both men still back it because more than ordinary health aids, they could be classified as fitness freaks.

"The Doc" long has talked about the sedentary kind of life which politics commits most parliamentarians to lead.

Doc Rynard makes a practice of driving a four and a half hour gruel between his Ottawa home and Ottawa, hitting the road after nine at night.

Both men still back it because more than ordinary health aids, they could be classified as fitness freaks.

"The Doc" long has talked about the sedentary kind of life which politics commits most parliamentarians to lead.

The many Ottawa physicians to become desk-bound, chained to their offices, let themselves go slack physically, smoke too much, a few over-drinking, and more getting far too little exercise.

He warns them — as he does all male patients — that being married ups one's life expectancy by nine months.

While the average life expectancy for men is 68, for women it's 72.

The reason, says "The Doc," is that women are less subject to a resses and strains and the destructive forces of hyper-tension.

So he has whipped together a small basic set of rules for a healthy, happy life, the do's and don'ts of enjoyable living for men.

Do get married.

Do relax, and the secret of relaxing, counsels Parliament's private medical man, lies in the ability to switch off as soon as you get through your front door in the evening and forget your work.

Don't listen to claims that certain chemicals or drugs are aphrodisiacs.

For there is no such thing, insists "The Doc," no known substance with true aphrodisiacal powers.

"The best routine yet discovered," he confides, is still soft lights and sweet music."

Do exercise and take a fifteen - mile walk as a matter of regular routine of living, to keep check on the shape you're in.

Don't waste time dieting if you are a few pounds overweight. Instead, use will power and common sense to the table.

On marriage, Dr. Rynard insists that despite the rising divorce rate, the majority of married couples think of themselves as very happy.

About 75 percent of divorced men remarry and the success rate of these second marriages is as good as for those men who have married only once.

In general terms, he finds from a lifetime in medical practice, a married man is much healthier than a single man, both physically and mentally. Happier, too, they even live longer.

But bachelors need not despair — they have only to divorce themselves from over-devotion to work, discover romance, marry, and live happier and longer.

Economy Cooling Off in Last Months of Year

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

During the first nine months of this year, Canadians experienced an almost unprecedented barrage of soaring prices, credit squeezes and food shortages—as well as a big boom in business activity.

For the fourth quarter, nearly all the economic signs point to a breathing spell, a cooling-off, an easing of scarcities and cost pressures.

The trick will be to avoid a recession, while the economy goes through a transition from high-torque expansion to stability.

Pulling off that trick is primarily the responsibility of the Bank of Canada, which has the job of worrying about such unexciting but vitally important statistics as money supply and interest-rate trends.

Reading between the lines of the speech given by the bank's governor, Gerald Bouey, in Toronto Oct. 11, it seems apparent that the market place will be left free to apply its own restraints.

How will this hands-off, go-slow monetary policy be reflected in day-to-day business?

Bankers will continue to charge very high interest rates to borrowers for the time being. The seasonal demand for credit is always high in the fourth quarter, and the supply of loanable funds in Canada is curtailed both by the outflow of Canadian money into the U.S. market (where sky-high interest rates are being paid) and by the central bank's insistence that our chartered banks retain fairly high levels of cash on hand.

Consumer spending is easing off, after this year's buying spree when shoppers were lying to beat the inevitable price increases. The automotive market, particularly, proved to have been stirred up with sales of 1973 models. Pre-Christmas retail sales will probably fall short of last year's records.

Sales of consumer durables (furniture and appliances) will probably be a bright spot, because this year's very high level of housing starts is now being reflected in an equally high rate of housing completions. But new housing starts seem likely to decline, because of lofty mortgage rates (10% or more under the National Housing Act) and politically inspired curbs on credit development in Ontario and British Columbia.

One of the unsettling aspects of the economic outlook is a new upsurge in prices, according to the Bank of Nova Scotia's current Monthly Review.

This upward pressure on prices is especially of basic foods, but affecting nearly all goods and services—presents the possibility of similar upward pressure on wage settlements.

The return to more sustainable rates of price advance may take a considerable amount of time to achieve, says the bank, "even though some of the primary areas of strain may soon be easing."

Norman Cafik

Leadership Candidate

By DON O'HEARN
Queen's Park Bureau

TORONTO — Norman Cafik, 45-year-old federal member for Ontario and the third important candidate for the Liberal party leadership (the other two being Bob Nixon and Donald Deroche) is still a largely unknown quantity around here.

Mr. Cafik's political career has been entirely spent in two terms in the federal house and he isn't familiar to the members of the caucus here or the rest of the provincial Liberal crowd.

So few guesses are being made of his potential on the basis of his personality.

It will take the rest of the campaign and the convention itself for an assessment of this.

There are a few things which can be said, however, about him as a federal member in the campaign.

The first is that there is a serious difference between his candidacy and that of former prospects, John Munro and Eugene Whelan.

Both Munro and Whelan, being cabinet ministers, had a stature which would have made them almost automatically front runners.

But Cafik, whose top rung has been a term as parliamentary assistant to Transport Minister Jean Marchand in the Pearson government, has no such stature.

He is a good man, people still remember this.

Was Agnew Trying To Keep Up with The Jones?

By PETER BUCKLEY

WASHINGTON (CP) — Spiro Agnew was a proud man with a circle of well-to-do friends. That may have led to his downfall, to a belief that he was not only required to keep up with the fancy Joneses, but that it was his right.

That is the suggestion that emerges most strongly from a 49-page summary of evidence the justice department says it collected in its investigation of Agnew's decade in public office, at the county and state level in Maryland and in the vice-presidency of the United States.

Social critics of the U.S. have long focussed on the competitive pressures on Americans to maintain appearances and to put on a appropriate "front." They see such pressures as being a dynamic fuel for American society, but equally as a potentially destructive and ill-children goal for individual.

Throughout the statement of "facts and evidence" about Agnew filed in court by federal attorneys, there runs a picture of a man who felt he was giving up a potentially lucrative private career for the lesser rewards of public office.

Despite the lower income, Agnew is reported as feeling that he had to maintain a certain image of prosperity appropriate to his public position. Therefore, it was reasonable to expect that even the while profiled from government contracts and encouraged his friends to help him out.

One of the continuing ironies of the vice-president's drama has been the contrast between Agnew and the man who presided over his fall.

Attorney-General Elliot Richardson is the quiet archetype of the politician considered immune to the temptations that have needled or the lure of money.

There might be other interpretations needed for him. But with his Boston Brahmin background, Richardson is expected to look loftily at the pretensions of parvenue real-estate promoters and their wives.

To a Spiro Agnew, the Greek peddler's son on an upward rocket through suburban Baltimore respectability and the executive strom of politics, the justice department summary makes the temptations look different.

As one example among several, the summary of the Hammerman case, described as a "highly successful real estate developer and financial entrepreneur" who "developed a close, personal friendship" with Agnew.

All through Agnew's political career, the summary says, the two men discussed Agnew's personal financial situation.

Mr. Agnew complained about it, and told Hammerman that he had not accumulated any wealth before he assumed public office, had no inheritance, and as a public official received what he considered a small salary.

Mr. Agnew believed, moreover, that his public position required him to live at a standard of living beyond his means . . .

Trustees' Smokes Ban Falls Short

Brockville Recorder and Times

The attempt of non-smoking members of the audience at meetings of the Leeds and Grenville Board of Education almost succeeded. Indeed, if it was close enough, we would hope, to encourage the sponsors of the move, to try again in the near future. A month hence the non-smokers may have another trustee in their fold since statistics indicate that more and more Canadians are giving up the weed.

According to the Federal department of health and welfare, fifty per cent Canadian smoking habits up to December 1972 reveal a steady increase in the percentage of non-smokers and a considerable to the number of male adults who are quitting and to a lesser extent, the number of females.

There has been an overall increase in the proportion of Canadians who do not smoke, despite a sharp increase in smoking by young girls. On the other hand the number of teen-age boys smoking is showing a leveling off, if not a decline. Two out of five Canadians over 15 years of age now smoke regularly. There are half a million fewer smokers in Canada now than there would have been had the 1965 rates continued.

Department officials don't seem to have any clear idea to the problem of the teen-age girl. Why exactly they be steadily increasing in number when the boys are not taking to the inhaling habit? The department is co-operating with local groups to provide educational material and consulting services to attack the problem at the source. It is hoped to encourage the creation of resource centres in telephone answering services for those wanting information and help in stopping the habit and in areas in public places, public transport and so forth.

The department also hopes to work through the teaching, nursing, dental and medical professions, and educational institutions, hospitals and health centres, to encourage young people not to start the habit and to maintain the health standards if they do.

This is interesting in light of the discussion that took place at the school board meeting. If the department of health is attempting to get the message across to school students, perhaps the Leeds and Grenville members of the school board first. Board members set the example for the school system just as doctors and nurses do in hospitals.

Chamber Seeks Grant For Interview Survey

The Chamber of Commerce has made an application to the Local Initiatives program for 1973-74 to conduct 1,200 interviews on priorities for Belleville.

Priorities so identified will provide an overview of the problems faced by individuals in the community and promote discussions relating to possible solutions of these problems.

The chamber expects the priorities so identified will become the basis for their program as soon as copies are made available to others interested in the development of Belleville. The results will be published in a book to be sold after the project is finished.

The chamber directors hope that such a survey will meet a community need by ensuring that Belleville can become a place where a person's skill can be used and developed in various occupations; where each person can self-develop and have a voice in local government; and where the environment has a wide variety of recreations and facilities.

The grant for $9,300 was applied for early in October and the decision on its approval will be made December 1.

It is expected that three people, provided from the Manpower office, will conduct the interviewing. "There is an excess of teachers and professional help to do the job when application is approved," said Don Sattar, manager of the chamber.

In other chamber business, approval was given to the setting up of a steering committee for the city's Centennial celebrations in 1976.

This committee would be composed of Mayor Robin Jeffrey, ex officio, and a member each of the following six organizations: historical society, labor council, city council, industry, merchants' association and citizens at large.

Besides these seven members on the committee, there will also be an executive of four appointed by the chamber from men within the chamber.

The names of the members of the steering committee have not been decided yet. And as 1976 is also the centennial of the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto, the chamber is hoping to tie in certain activities such as a Belleville or Quinte Day at the Ex.

Loyalist Computer Simulates Water

A body of water that changes its form at the touch of a button is one of the facilities now available at Loyalist College.

It exists as a series of mathematical expressions on a computer tape for the college's small PDP8 computer. It is geared to the requirements of the college's water resources field technician program and to visiting secondary school students. The computer program is designed to give students a basic understanding of the dynamics of pollution.

First, the student makes a choice of a large pond, a large lake, a swift river or a slow-moving river. After specifying the water temperature, he chooses between industrial or human pollution and sets a daily rate for the dumping of waste. The next choice is type of sewage treatment — primary treatment (screen filters) secondary treatment (sand filtration and settling ponds), or no treatment. Then the computer takes over.

In a graph or table, the computer traces the day by day decline in the oxygen content of the water and the buildup of waste until equilibrium is reached. If the oxygen level drops below five parts per million, a message spells out the death of game fish. Below three parts per million of oxygen all fish turn belly up.

Ray Turner, Loyalist chairman of pure science, adapted the pollution model for the small computer. Because of the computer's speed, the basic principles of pollution can be demonstrated quickly and easily.

Senior secondary school students with an interest in computer-simulated pollution studies have an arrangement to experiment with the model by arranging an appointment through their principal and Loyalist's director of technology, Bill Babbitt.

College St. Tie-ups Protested

Random crossing of College Street by students attending Quinte Secondary School together with lights unduly favoring North Front Street traffic is interfering with normal traffic flow along College Street.

This is the complaint of a Parkdale Drive woman who says that sometimes she has to wait as long as five minutes for the light at College and North Front Street to change to green.

In a complaint to city hall, the Parkdale resident said the green light remains on for only 25 seconds for College Street.

At Monday's traffic and light committee, city engineer Wilbur Purcell said he would have the traffic light timing checked but doubted the claimed five-minute interval for the green light on North Front Street.

Inspector Ralph Hatchford said a high percentage of the students attending Quinte Secondary School were from the country and during the day they cut across College Street to go to eateries on North Front Street.

He doubted that talks by the city traffic officer would have much effect in encouraging the students to cross College Street at the North Front Street intersection.

"Don't we have a jaywalking bylaw?" asked Alderman Roger Porter.

The query brought no reply.

Mass in Offices Will Be Monthly

Mass will be celebrated in the board office of Hastings-Prince Edward county separate schools once a month, despite the misgivings of some trustees.

Trustees Edmund Kvarda, John Granville and Joseph Chapelle all confessed to some reservations about the practice.

"This will obligate employees to attend ... and pressure on them," said Mr. Kvarda.

"It puts them on the spot," said Mr. Chapelle.

"It's not a good idea to virtually pay somebody to go to mass," said Mr. Granville.

The trustees were assured by Superintendent M. J. Neville that no employee is under pressure to attend.

The mass will be celebrated at 3 p.m. on the second Friday of each month in the board room at 138 George St.

Mr. Neville said the idea of holding mass before or after working hours was rejected because many employees are married women with children to get off to school in the morning and dinners to prepare at night.

Seniors Hold Bazaar

The Hastings Manor Bazaar and Tea yesterday was a great success again this year.

The annual event attracted hundreds of Belleville and area citizens who knew that high - uality handicrafts would be for sale.

An hour before the bazaar was due to open, crowds gathered at the front door, eager to have first chance to buy the handmade items and baked goods.

Lillian Hurley, - bazaar convenor estimated that at least 800 tea tickets had been sold by early in the afternoon.

Greeting everyone at the door, Administrator Kenneth Yorke commented that the Hastings Manor Bazaar becomes more popular every year. He gave credit to the fine work done by the Manor's residents for drawing crowds.

In preparation for the bazaar, all manner of crafts are created under the supervision of Jean Reid and Dorothy Kerr.

Mrs. Reid works with the residents of the Manor and Mrs. Kerr is in charge of the bed-care patients.

Among the most popular items that the residents make during the year are the handsewn quilts. Several were on display along one wall of the bazaar room and attracted a lot of admiration.

The residents also create many fanciful novelties from shells and paper and ribbon, as well as working on large-scale projects. Artificial flowers and - ornamients are always popular at the bazaar, as are the various kinds of needlework, such as afghans, aprons and cushions. Crocheted doilies and baby clothes were also quickly sold.

The basiest tables this year were the Christmas displays. Shoppers were able to purchase colorful decorations and stocking stuffers well in advance of the seasonal rush.

One of the features of the Christmas table was a winter scene in which painted cardboard houses were covered with white styrofoam chips found in packing cases, in order to simulate snow.

Mothers who brought children along had a hard time getting past tables where cuddly patchwork clowns vied for attention with dollhouses complete with tiny furniture.

Both before and after shopping, visitors to Hastings Manor were able to relax with a cup of tea and a selection of sandwiches, cookies and pastries.

The main dining room where the Tea was held was one of the most popular features of the Hastings Manor Bazaar.

Crowds of eager shoppers rallied along the Special Care Hospital table, trying to decide which handicrafts to buy. All the tables were laden with the work of the Manor residents who prepare for the bazaar during the year.

Care Without Consent

SASKATOON (CP) — Some doctors break the law daily by treating 16-and 17-year-olds without prior parental consent because they think it is in their patients' best interests, says Dr. Bill Davis, president of the Saskatchewan Medical Association. Physicians tried unsuccessfully to persuade the legislature to lower the medical age of majority to 16 from 18.

Reading Skills Disappearing

VANCOUVER (CP) — Elementary school pupils here are scoring lower on standardized reading tests than students did six years ago but the trend may mean the tests are obsolescent, rather than that children are not learning to read as well.

"There's some indication we're slipping in terms of vocabulary, comprehension and accuracy," says Dr. Norm Ellis, assistant director of planning and evaluation for the Vancouver school board.

Similar patterns with greater scoring fall-offs have turned up in most North American cities, and many educationists report that the standardized tests created decades ago were not designed for the kind of language skills more recently emphasized in elementary schools.

The recent trend has been away from using a single textbook, remembering details of a story and memorizing the meanings of new words. Instruction has concentrated more on finding reading material appropriate to each child and encouraging pupils to think and talk about what they have read.

One factor in the decline may be the flight of affluent families to the suburbs increasing the main city's proportion of children from poorer families and non-English speaking immigrants, thus lowering average vocabulary and comprehension scores.

Another factor—fewer "fail-ures"—was suggested by Al Blakey, president of the Vancouver Elementary School Teachers' Association (VESTA). Pupils are not kept back as often as they were 10 years ago, but are moved upwards throughout the school system with their age group.

Thus the average age per grade is lower, more poor readers are staying in school and the typical class registers a lower reading level.

VESTA has urged new kind of tests for what now is being taught. More co-operation between teachers and researchers is needed to develop measurements attuned to the times, Mr. Blakey said.

Kidney Donation The Gift of Life

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: You carried a letter from "Organs For Transplant". With this note I am sending you an organ donor card which is available from our branches.

All letters asking for medical information about kidney diseases are turned over to the principal doctors in the Renal Unit.

* * *

I wish to thank you for your interest in the fight against kidney diseases. For chronic renal failure patients, those needing life sustaining dialysis treatments (artificial kidney) there is no cure except a transplant, so you can see why the "Gift of Life" donor card is so important and so urgent.

Secretary of The Heart & Kidney Foundation of Canada (Manitoba Branch).

Dear Secretary: A peppy and industrious woman, obviously dedicated to clearing up confusing problems related to deaths and funerals, wrote me first about your organization. She is Mrs. Callie Bell of the Hamilton Memorial Society.

That organization, in turn, is a member of the Association of Memorial Societies of Canada, an organization concerned with the arrangement of reasonably priced funerals.

Anyone who wishes the address of either organization or all any one of the branches of the Kidney Foundation of Canada may get it from me. Try writing in and enclose a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

Dear Doris: Someone requested the Dogwood Legend. Here it is enclosed. My daughter - in - law brought me a small cedar jewel box from B.C. with the legend printed on the lid. She also bought me a bunch of flower, which is marked just as the story says. I love souvenirs like this. It seems the dogwood is British Columbia's floral emblem.

Thank you, Doris, for your column. I enjoy reading it, and the advice you give is really good. The few who everything you for some answers are ignorant in my estimation. God bless you, dear, for the good work you are doing. — Ivy.

Dear Ivy: The story is a lovely one and it must be particularly beautiful on a sunny hour. I have a dogwood brooch myself of which I am quite proud.

Thank you for troubling to copy out the story. We now have more than one version, including one which is in verse. Copies of your authentic one will be made available to anyone writing in, enclosing 25 cents and a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

Thank you, everyone who sent in a copy.

Bootleg Booze Worst Problem

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. David Miller, research director for the Le Dain commission inquiry into the non-medical use of drugs, said Wednesday booteg alcohol is the drug causing the most problems in Canada.

He said a meeting of international drug experts, sponsored by the Addiction Research Foundation and the Canadian health and welfare department, that, despite this, police apparently still are directing most of their anti-drug efforts at comparatively harmless marijuana.

He said government figures show 60 per cent of 1970-71 drug seizures involved marijuana and that from April, 1972, to March of this year the figure was 59.2 per cent.

The illicit alcohol has been particularly common in the Montreal area where it has been served in drinking establishments under gaudire brand names, said Dr. Miller.

He said tests of the alcohol have shown it contains particles of feces, urine and insect material.

Hospital Equipment Lavish

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Health Minister Richard Potter said Wednesday that Ontario hospitals are lavishly overequipped to dispense services the government would like placed elsewhere.

Speaking at the opening of a new ambulatory care unit at Greater Niagara Hospital, Dr. Potter said it is essential that the public accept alternatives to hospital treatment in order to relieve the financial strain.

Noting the swing toward convalescent and extended-care facilities, the minister said that general hospitals should be free to concentrate on their true function.

He said that no matter how many extensions to hospitals are built there is never any lag in their utilization.

"So we must continually emphasize that hospital services are intended to meet essential needs—not to provide a convenient source of help for those needs for which other provisions are made," he said.

Police Stand by at Reserve

MONTREAL (CP) — An estimated 150 Quebec provincial policemen were in the nearby Caughnawaga Indian reserve Wednesday as eight Indians faced bail hearings in connection with violence Monday night.

The eight were arrested during a riot in which three police men were injured, eight police cars damaged, and a vacant house burned to the ground.

An RCMP spokesman meanwhile denied a published report Wednesday that 15 carloads of Indians from the St. Regis reserve, across the St. Lawrence River from Cornwall, had been turned back at the Quebec-New York border.

He said a noon-hour check with RCMP units at such border points as the International Bridge at Cornwall, and Dundee, Trout River and Hemmingford, Que., turned up nothing.

The Caughnawaga Iroquois reserve, where about 2,000 persons reside, is located on the St. Lawrence River from the western tip of Montreal Island.

Used Car Mileage Often Altered

TORONTO (CP) — An official tor of the ministry's business of the ministry of consumer and commercial relations said Wednesday many used car dealers in Ontario are rolling back mileage indicators, and there are not enough inspectors to police the business.

S. D. Turner, executive director of the ministry's business practices division said the ministry received 18,187 telephoned complaints last year, with only 12 inspectors in the province to deal with them.

Of 800,000 used cars sold in Ontario last year, 600,000 were sold through dealers, many of whom turned back the odometers on high-mileage vehicles, he said.

R. G. MacNormac, the ministry's registrar of motor vehicle dealers, said he and his handful of inspectors know the names of some dealers involved, but are helpless to stop them.

Last year, the 12 inspectors—six in metropolitan Toronto and the others in regional offices across the province spent most of their time investigating 1,937 written complaints against dealers, but were not able to cope with many of them and the telephoned complaints as well.

Committee Okays Anti-snooping Bill

TORONTO (CP) — The New Democratic Party wants the provincial government to be answerable to its own "so-called" anti-snooping legislation.

The legislation, aimed at curbing abuses in the credit and personal information reporting field, was approved by the justice administration committee Wednesday and will return to the legislature for further debate.

John Clement, minister of consumer and commercial relations, says he hopes the legislation will be law by Christmas. However, Pat Lawlor (NDP—Lakeshore) served notice Wednesday that his party isn't happy with either the scope or the content of the bill.

Mr. Lawlor said it is unfair to expect private enterprise to get pushed under the umbrella of the legislation when the government is not answerable to its own legislation.

He told the committee that provincial bodies "are one of the chief purveyors of information," and should therefore have to answer to their own [illegible]

The legislation—which has set protecting the consumer been redrafted and understudy from inaccurate and unfair for about two years—is aimed credit reports.

House Resumes Debate On Capital Punishment

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons resumed debate today on two types of murderers it could face hanging.

As early as tonight, but more likely after considerable extended debate, MPs could decide the fate of the government proposal to establish another five-year ban hanging for most types of murder.

Virtually all MPs expect the waning months and in the future to be done.

The Commons will have extended hours until the issue is brought before Parliament in January, is decided. No other business is expected to be transacted.

The House moves to capital punishment after giving approval in principle Wednesday to proposed increased family allowance payments.

That proposed legislation, supported by all parties, will raise allowances to a monthly average of $20 from the current flat rate of $12. It also will make benefits taxable for the first time since the program began in 1945.

All capital punishment votes are free, meaning MPs vote according to their conscience without party guidance.

In the spring, after prolonged debate, the bill to limit capital punishment to murderers of police officers and prison guards for another five years received second reading by a vote of 138 to 114.

The vote was good enough for Solicitor-General Warren Allmand to propose that hanging be banned altogether in favor of longer prison terms. The idea was defeated in committee.

At the end of today's debate, MPs will vote on two amendments which would include more murderers in the bill.

An amendment by Albanie Morin (L—Louis-Hebert) would apply the rope to persons found guilty of murder following deaths resulting from rape and kidnapping.

One by Allan Lawrence (PC—Northumberland-Durham), former Ontario attorney-general, calls for hanging of aircraft hijackers who cause death and to second-time murderers.

At 10:45 p.m. there will be formal votes on these two amendments and possibly on whether the Commons should report the bill as having passed through detailed committee study.

Assuming MPs agree to report the bill, debate will start on third and final reading. This debate could last a week, with all sittings extended until the bill is dealt with.

If the majority vote against reporting the bill, it will die.

The first five-year ban on most hanging ended last December. Since then the old law, which says those guilty of premeditated murder face hanging, has applied.

The government has commuted all death sentences to life in prison since the last hanging in 1962.

Some retentionists say the whole capital punishment debate is an exercise in futility because the Trudeau government never will permit a hanging.

Eye Panthers

OTTAWA (CP) — Police and immigration officials are watching for members of the militant Black Panthers organization who might come from the United States to stir up trouble on Indian reserves, Indian Affairs Minister Jean Chretien said in the Commons Wednesday.

Non-ops Want 30 Per Cent

OTTAWA (CP) — Non-operating railwaymen made a plea Wednesday for wage increases totalling more than 30 per cent over two years as they presented final arguments before federal arbitrator Mr. Justice Emmett Hall.

A call for a 67-cent-an-hour average increase in the first year and another 40 cents an hour in the second year of a proposed two-year agreement takes into account cost-of-living increases, a share of national productivity and a catch-up factor in workers with similar jobs in other industries.

The 35,000 non-ops, who hold a national strike this summer, are mainly wages of the operation of the last contract on Dec. 31, 1972.

Their union gives immediate and retroactive pay increases of 15 cents an hour by Parliament when MPs passed a bill forcing them back to the jobs.

Increases guaranteed by Parliament in the strike-ending legislation would give the workers—including porters, maintenance men, roadmoss employees and clerks—a raise resulting in a pay average of $4.16 an hour by July 1, 1974.

In a paper presented to the arbitration hearings, union negotiators say the justifiable pay increase in the first year of a contract would include 33 cents for catch-up, 12.6 cents for a share of increased productivity and 31.3 cents to make up the cost-of-living.

The second year should show a national productivity share of 14 cents and a cost-of-living boost of nearly 35 cents, they argued. That would bring the average hourly wage to about $4.70 at Jan. 1, 1973.

Manpower Farms Out Its Job

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative MP Alf Hales (Wellington) has charged that the government is wasting its manpower department talents by tendering contracts for recruitment of public servants by private employment agencies.

He was commenting Wednesday on the fact that the supply and services department has awarded contracts to two Toronto companies, a $14,500 contract to Kelly Girl Service Ltd. and one for $10,000 to Slaff Builders of Toronto Ltd., to recruit personnel for the public service.

The contracts are for July, 1973, to May, 1974.

"Why is it necessary to spend taxpayers' dollars on this?" he asked in an interview. "It's utterly ridiculous and irresponsible."

Important Speeches Televised

OTTAWA (CP) — Ever wonder why the publicly-financed CBC cuts into your favorite evening programs to broadcast live speeches by the United States president?

It is part of the corporation's public responsibility, says Communications Minister Gerard Pelletier in a written Comment reply to Paul Dick (PC—Lanark-Renfrew-Carleton).

"The Canadian Broadcasting Corp. feels that it has a public responsibility to carry U.S. presidential speeches when these are expected to be of major historical or international significance or are expected to contain information of importance to Canada."

President Nixon's Aug. 15 speech dealing with the Watergate bugging crisis, for instance, "was considered by the CBC to have major historical significance."

American networks, Mr. Pelletier added, seldom return the favor. It is not their general practice to carry speeches by Prime-Minister Trudeau.

He noted, however, that NBC has carried excerpts from several prime ministerial addresses and on Sept. 16, 1970, that network carried an exclusive 14-minute taped interview with Mr. Trudeau.

Plasterers On Strike

TORONTO (CP) — About 250 members of Local 48, Plasterers' Union, went on strike Wednesday against six companies, members of the Plastering Association of Toronto.

Ed Russell, Local 48 business manager, said the main issue in the dispute is the contractors' demand that drywalling be removed from the union's jurisdiction.

"About 75 per cent of the work we do is drywalling and it would mean we'd have just no work left to do," he said.

Contractor Frank Flor, newly released from a brief Tuesday night abduction apparently un- related to the inquiry, told County Judge Harry Walsberg that he has "no knowledge whatsoever" of the violence.

"I remember reading it in the papers," said Paul Volpe, who described himself as formerly in the casing business in Haldimand County without a bank account, but with "say, between $38,000 and $40,000" in currency according to a net worth statement which he testified he filed recently with the revenue department.

Another of the day's witnesses — lathing contractor Nat- tell Kanzer, whose premises were shot up and bombed last year—testified he tried unsuccessfully after the incidents to track down rumors that contractor Orazio Romanelli was involved.

Mr. Romanelli, senior partner in Mr. Flor in Durable Drywall Ltd. here, was charged Tuesday with perjury along with two other men in connection with grand jury evidence they gave before the commission last week.

Mr. Flor, 37, reported to police he had been forced at gunpoint to drive to the scene of a wall-construction job at Burlington, Ont., about which a customer had complained. A man later was charged with kidnapping.

Dow Pickets Limited

SARNIA, Ont. (CP) — Dow Chemical of Canada Ltd. has been granted a "temporary injunction limiting the number of pickets at entrances to the company's properties here.

The company petitioned for a court order following an incident Monday when police attempted to escort trucks across picket lines. A spokesman for the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union said policemen were "repulsed passively."

The spokesman said "in general police treatment of strikers was excellent."

The 800-member union local, No. 3-672, has been on strike since Saturday.

The injunction limits pickets to three at each entrance. A hearing has been scheduled Friday in Toronto on whether the injunction should be extended.

Ellis Will Be Candidate In Next Federal Election

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

MADOC — Jack Ellis is the unanimous Progressive Conservative choice as champion of the party's political incumbency in Hastings.

Mr. Ellis, Hastings MP for little less than a year, was confirmed as Conservative candidate — whenever the next election is called — by a nomination convention at Centre Hastings Secondary School Wednesday night.

The confirmation became a formality of political ritual as no opponents emerged to challenge the incumbent — the single choice of 32 separate nominations.

For Mr. Ellis, 42, the nomination was in contrast to the convention in the same building little more than a year ago. Then, the one - time Belleville mayor had to fight off two challengers to win entry into national politics for the first time.

The convention became a showcase for party solidarity behind the Ellis incumbency — as the 490 voting delegates formally endorsed the unanimity of the nominators. In fact, one whole bloc of delegates — from Deloro — moved and seconded one of the nominations.

Provincial and local government spokesmen also had the opportunity to express approval of the MP's political style and co-operation during his brief term in office.

The ease with which support centralized on Mr. Ellis evoked wistful reaction from one of the party's key personalities — Claude Wagner, guest speaker for the convention.

The former leading Liberal who came out of the 1972 election as one of the few Conservatives elected in Quebec, mused to the convention:

"In my own province, where the battle is the stiffest, how I would like to see a repetition of an evening such as this, of victory that appears so easy. How I would like to see that in my province."

Mr. Ellis, who has set a fast - paced style of representation since his election, admitted he "sometimes gets wound up and going too fast for some people".

Nonetheless, "I make no apologies for anything I've done, and dissatisfactions could be solved by greater rapport.

He criticized the Liberal government for leaving much undone since the election including action on home bonnes warranties, foreign trade assistance to industry and urban transportation.

Legislation was needed to cover relocation of railroad tracks in municipalities — a move of specific importance to Belleville.

New freight rates were also the best means of alleviating regional economic disparity, said Mr. Ellis.

Among those on the platform were Clarke Rollins, MPP Hastings; Douglas Altenbrook, MP Frontenac; Lennox and Addington; Lee Grills, former MP Hastings; Hastings County Warden Horace Casey and Mayor Robin Jeffrey.

Finance Firm Open House On Thursday

The Belleville Branch of the Beneficial Finance Co. of Canada will be holding an Open House on Thursday, October 18, to mark the 48th anniversary of the company.

Beneficial Finance began in 1933 with two offices, in Toronto and Ottawa, and in the past 48 years this number has grown to 230 branches nation-wide.

George Stratton, manager of the Belleville branch, located at 228 Front Street, said that he would personally like to meet as many people as he can at the Open House, "to express our appreciation to the people of the community for making the celebration of 40 years' service possible."

Mayor Will Be Speaker

It was announced Wednesday night Belleville mayor-Robin Jeffrey will be the guest speaker at the November meeting of the Quinte Home Builders Association.

Mrs. Jeffrey will not be speaking on a particular topic but engage herself in a question and answer period with the members.

O'Connor Disputes Shulman Figures

Belleville utilities commissioner Gerry O'Connor, blasted Dr. Morton Shulman, NDP, MPP, for comments made during his tour of the Ontario area recently. Mr. O'Connor, in questioning Dr. Shulman's motivation, said, "... everyone traditionally believes a doctor would not distort or misrepresent information pertaining to one's health and welfare for any reason, least of all, I hope for personal or political gain".

Commissioner O'Connor was speaking at the 7th annual Ontario Municipal Water Association, Eastern Region, meeting held in Belleville yesterday.

Dr. Shulman, Toronto High Park NDP member, said that he felt that figures would show that there will be a higher than provincial average number of stomach cancer deaths in this area, due to the arsenic contamination from the iron ore smelting mine at Deloro.

In checking the veracity of Dr. Shulman's statements, Commissioner O'Connor said the figure of 104.2 annual deaths per 100,000 people due to cancer in Hastings County was incorrect. "The true figure is only 7 per 100,000 and the provincial average is 14.2".

"In the years that were checked, 1970-1972, the total number of deaths caused by stomach cancer was 21 in number, or an average of 7 annually.

"The newspaper and radio state that 40 in each 100,000, or double the provincial average die each year here of pancreatic and leukemia. I presume that they were quoting Dr. Shulman for there are no figures available on this — to Dr. Shulman or anyone else."

Dr. Shulman's visit was in answer to an invitation by Clarence Young, a member of PACE (People Against a Contaminated Environment.

Alderman Arthur Deegan and The Intelligencer were along on the Quinte area tour.

Speaking to the assembly of 70 commissioners, senior PUC staff, consultants and industrial representatives, Commissioner O'Connor opened his remarks at the convention's business meeting with these words:

"I believe that it is our responsibility, as elected representatives of the people, to let the public know that we are very concerned about a continuing supply of good water and that we are vitally interested in improving our environment. There are a few sensation seekers in every community that leap on the bandwagon and scream about whatever is currently popular."

Now, the Wait Begins

The next election now is only a matter of waiting for Jack Ellis, MP Hastings. Mr. Ellis (left) and Claude Wagner, key Conservative Quebec spokesman, show spirit of the occasion after riding convention at Madoc Wednesday night unanimously supported renewed Ellis candidacy whenever next campaign is called.

'Non-government' Blasted

MADOC — The minority Trudeau government cares for nothing but its own survival — and is manipulating the public interest to ensure its existence, Claude Wagner charged here Wednesday night.

The government's lack of direction and commitment is a tragedy for Canada's future and potential, claimed Mr. Wagner, leading Conservative spokesman and the party's key Quebec political presence as MP, St. Hyacinthe.

What Canadians are tolerating is "non-government", he told Hastings riding Conservatives, who unanimously chose Jack Ellis, incumbent MP, as their candidate in the next general election.

Opinion polls now are a "tremendous source of encouragement" to Conservatives awaiting that election, Mr. Wagner told the nomination convention at Centre Hasting Secondary School.

"Canadians . . . are no longer prepared to suffer the arrogance, instability and remoteness of a government that cares for nothing but its own survival — and the manipulation of the public interest to achieve that survival," he said.

He accused the Liberals and New Democratic Party of being partners in a coalition marked by "lack of principle and sheer hypocrisy".

The political partnership has done more to destroy the "sincerity" of Canada's political system "than could have been thought possible in so short a time, said Mr. Wagner.

He charged the Liberals with a "dismal record of wholesale theft" of other party programs in attempting to "give the impression that there is a government in Ottawa".

One direct result has been low morale in the public service — caused by lack of programs and direction from the government.

Leadership is needed in:

— Economics: where world shortages, currency problems and new trading blocs are calling for new rules. Domestically, inflation sees pensioners and senior citizens particularly hard hit.

— Energy: where a national policy must be developed in co-operation with all levels of government.

— Farming: facing the problems of costs, needing new transport policies to equalize competition at home and abroad.

Mr. Wagner said after the 1972 election, the government labelled voters in eastern Ontario and western Canada as a "bigoted backlash".

What such voters suffer is "an abiding and sincere concern" about the direction and type of government the country needs, said Mr. Wagner.

DeMark Stays As President

Mike DeMark last night was returned for a second term as president of the Quinte Home Builders Association.

The remainder of the executive is: first vice-president, Don Keller; second vice-president, Gary Wood, secretary, Randy Loewen and treasurer, Ken Stafford.

Taxes Collected

MARMORA — Marmora and Lake townships reeve Graham Bell told council that $110,000. in property taxes had been collected to September 30. Council decided the remainder of the 1973 county demand should be paid to save interest charges.

No World Series For Firefighters

It wasn't a sinister plan of government. It wasn't everyone's idea of fun.

But last night, while most men were sitting around the house watching the World Series, a small group of men were closeted away in the armory learning how to set forest fires.

There was method in their madness, however, since the men, all of them senior members of the 16 volunteer fire departments in Hastings and Prince Edward Counties, were learning how to fight fire with fire.

As a part of a course in firefighting being conducted at Loyalist College by the Firefighters' Mutual Aid Association, the men were spending their spare time to in improving their firefighting skills.

Since September 18, the firefighters have been meeting twice a week for two hours to study equipment use, fire analysis and inspection techniques.

The 12-week course at Loyalist is the first of its kind in the two counties and, to date, it has elicited an overwhelming response from organizers Captain Ray Reid of the Belleville fire department and Bob Pierce, a volunteer firefighter in Thurlow, who also serves as chairman of Mutual Aid's educational committee.

"The men have been trying for two years to get a course of this kind started," Bob Pierce, explained, "We met opposition all along the way but through the help of our municipalities, sanctioned the course. When we started this fall we expected only 20 or 25 students. We got 45. It's a good beginning."

The first course, which is designed for chiefs, deputy chiefs and other supervisory teaching firefighters how to use fire as a fire management, rescue methods and the techniques of household rescue.

Last night Doug Mumford, a fire warden with the department of natural resources in Tweed, taught the firefighters how to control and extinguish forest and brush fires.

On Saturday, Oct. 20, the firefighters will spend six hours practising the skills they learned at last night's and other lectures, when they hold a day-long practical training session at the Aikens Road quarry.

In summing up the value of the course, Captain Reid explained that in communities within the two counties, there are small forces of part-time firefighters with limited equipment.

"A course of this type improves the standards of firefighting and also fosters co-operation among the fire departments," he said. "When all of us have had the same training, we will find it that much easier to work together."

Super Brute, '74.
This is what better engineering looks like.

At Alouette, "better engineering" isn't just a catchphrase. The new Super Brute, for example, combines advanced design with dozens of detail refinements:

The chassis 1 is all-aluminum, one of the lightest built, with race-proven front-end structure. The front-mounted Sachs engine 2 gives a low centre of gravity, for easy handling.

The new transmission includes a special heavy-duty chain 3, running in a cast aluminum chain case, and double-sprocket, free-wheeling track drive 4, for minimum power loss.

Then there are Alouette's, exclusive Ski-Sorber™ suspension 5 with a new wide stance. And our slide suspension 6, adjustable to your weight, and to snow conditions. Plus a track tunnel 7 designed to be self-clearing, not clogging.

We could go on, about the new handlebar control module 8, with a headlight 9 that swivels to throw the beam where you're turning. About the wrap-around windshield 10 that gives more protection. About the adjustable controls 11 and posture-contoured seat 12 that makes this a really comfortable machine to drive.

But we'd rather you saw the Super Brute for yourself, at your Alouette dealer's. Look at the engineering—the harder you look, the better it looks. You'll see that we're not putting you on when we say . . . Alouette delivers.

Staub's Bat Overpowers A's

The Oakland Athletics, who have grabbed most of the headlines lately with juicy stories of clubhouse unrest, took a back seat in the World Series to New York Mets Wednesday night.

Providing some news of his own, Rusty Staub dismissed a painful right shoulder and knocked in five runs to help the Mets win 6-1 and snare the best-of-seven series at two games apiece.

"I did a lot of work during batting practice and did several things to adjust for my sore shoulder," said Staub after hitting a three-run homer and two-run single.

Jon Matlack got the win.

He encountered rough going in only one inning — the fourth, when the Athletics scored their only run with the help of a New York error.

Matlack, last year's rookie of the year in the National League, couldn't finish, though. His arm stiffened and he had to watch the hiatus inning from the dugout.

"My shoulder was really tight out there," said Matlack. It impaired my throwing. It took something off my fastball because I couldn't come around over the top. . . ."

Ray Sadecki pitched the ninth, but gave New York manager Yogi Berra some anxious moments before nailing it down. He loaded the bases with two out before striking out Bert Campaneris as most of the paid 54,817 fans roared their approval.

One of the few who wasn't roaring was sitting near the Oakland dugout—owner Charles O. Finley of the Athletics.

Finley had started a cause celebre earlier in this series by "firing" Mike Andrews for making two costly errors in Sunday's 10-7 loss to the Mets in Oakland.

Although Andrews was back in uniform Wednesday night baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn ordered him reinstated, the Athletics were still smoldering with unrest.

Andrews made his first appearance since Sunday, as a pinch-hitting role, and grounded out, in the eighth inning.

Controversy Still Raging

NEW YORK (AP) — Oakland Athletics say their manager, Dick Williams, is quitting after the World Series and that they still are mad at owner Charles O. Finley for "firing" hitchider Mike Andrews.

So it's a little hard to believe Williams when they say the controversy isn't affecting their ballclub in the deadlocked series with New York Mets.

Andrews rejoined the team Wednesday at the direction of baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn. He immediately held a news conference and said he had been under extreme duress from Finley when he signed a statement saying he had a bad arm.

Williams wouldn't say he was leaving, but second baseman Dick Green and others confirmed that the skipper told the team in a meeting Tuesday that he would quit after the Series—win or lose.

He did say: "I won't be back next year," Green said, "and if we repeat it, he'll deny it. Williams did deny it.

There was speculation that Williams would become manager of New York Yankees, succeeding Ralph Houk, who went to Detroit Tigers.

"I haven't talked to them. They haven't talked to me," Williams said. "Right now I am the manager of the Oakland A's and that's it. Next year is next year."

Finley has been quoted as saying he would not stand in Williams' way if the Yankees made an approach. He said Williams is under contract through 1974.

The Minneapolis Tribune quotes Finley as saying:

DICK WILLIAMS
Headed for Yanks?

"There's a certain amount of glamor in working in New York. Maybe this interests him."

The A's were in a state of personnel conflict.

Outfielder Reggie Jackson revealed that "I want to be traded. I'd love to play in New York."

Third baseman Sal Bando said: "If I got traded, I wouldn't be disappointed."

But through it all, the Athletics claimed to be oblivious as far as their on-the-field war with the Mets is concerned.

"It will have no affect on the team," Green said of Williams' expected resignation. "Most of us knew it was coming three or four weeks ago."

Williams said before the game that he didn't think the Andrews affair would affect morale. He inserted Andrews as a pinch-hitter in the eighth inning and Andrews got a standing ovation from the crowd, both before and after he grounded out.

A reporter asked Williams what Finley would say if Andrews was used as a pinch hitter. "Mr. Finley doesn't run this ball club on the field. I do," Williams said. "Mr. Finley tends to his business and lets me tend to mine."

A Breach Of Contract?

NEW YORK (Reuter) — Henry Aaron, star outfielder for Atlanta Braves of the National Baseball League, who is only one home run away from Babe Ruth's record total of 714, Wednesday was named in a breach of contract suit seeking more than $3 million.

The action was filed in State Supreme Court by Matlyn Enterprises, Inc., a New York personal management firm, which said it had entered into an agreement with Aaron last Feb. 1.

Under the terms of the agreement effective beginning February, 1973, the firm was to be exclusive representative for Aaron over a two-year period in non-baseball business arrangements, including product endorsements.

According to court papers, Aaron last month was induced to breach the agreement by William Morris Agency, Inc., and its subsidiary, W.M.A. Sports, Inc., which has since become Aaron's personal manager.

The suit seeks $1 million from Aaron plus 15 per cent of money earned from non-baseball contract plus $2 million from the defendant corporation. The suit also asks the court to enjoin the corporations from representing that they are Aaron's exclusive agents.

Rutherford Stopped — This Time

This is one time Moira Trojan's Dave Rutherford isn't going anywhere. It appeared a Centennial defender took hold of Rutherford's face mask seconds before this photo was taken. There was no penalty on the play. On Rutherford's left, is Centennial defensive end Fred Meema. Rutherford broke loose during the game to score two of his teams touchdowns in an important 29-12 victory.

Trojans Remain Undefeated

By ALAN TESWORTH
Sports Staff

The Moira Trojans held on to their undefeated record in Bay of Quinte High School Football senior A play last night, as they downed the Centennial Chargers 29-12 in a game played at Centennial.

Dave Rutherford and Peter Stalkovich each scored a pair of touchdowns to lead the Trojans, who now sport a 4-0 record to remain in first place in the division.

Centennial pressed early, but was stopped in the scoring drive on the Moira five yard line after marching in from the opening kickoff.

The Trojans came back on the next set of plays to score the first points of the game. Rutherford was the go-to-of man, cashing in on an off tackle run for a nine yard major. Moira quarterback and placekicker Glenn Shaw booted the convert.

Stalkovich ran 55 yards for a score but a clipping penalty behind the runner cost them the six points.

Not to be put down, Moira came back with a cal through to be put down. Moira came Moira came back with a call through the middle, with Rutherford the carrier, on the very next play. Rutherford went the distance once again. Shaw converted.

Centennial got on the board near the end of the first quarter as Steve Hicks pulled in a Robbie DeJong pass over his shoulder for a 41 yard touchdown.

An option pass by halfback Gabe Krekk to Dick Howe went incomplete on the convert attempt.

No scoring was done in the second period.

The third shaped up to be Moira's period, as they scored their winning points of the game.

Stalkovich opened with a 25 yard end run for the major, after Centennial gave up the ball on a third down attempt that failed. This was one of many times during the afternoon that gambling on the third down failed for the Chargers.

Shaw added his third convert of the day on the score, and picked up his fourth point of the afternoon on the following kickoff as his kick carried far enough with the help of the strong wind to go for a single in Centennial's end zone.

Stalkovich bagged his second touchdown of the day late in the quarter as he capped off a drive with a 12 yard run down the middle.

The Trojans had moved the ball about 65 yards downfield.

Bob Vanderwater collected the other Centennial points late in the uarter, as he dove over from the three for the score. The convert attempt was no good.

Stalkovich led the Trojans with 166 yards rushing, and was "the big man of the game" according to Trojan coach Mike Dollack.

Rutherford had over 100 yards for his efforts on the afternoon for the Trojans.

Vanderwater had 130 yards rushing for the Chargers, while Doug Nash had 75 yards on 19 carries.

Centennial did outscore Moira in one department, first downs, collecting 17 to Moira's 15.

In the junior contest at Moira, Centennial juniors suffered their first loss of the season at the hands of the junior Trojans by a score of 26-0. The Moira juniors' win was their fourth in a row, to remain in first place ahead of CSS.

In the only game today, the Quinte juniors take on Madoc.

Mr. Stration presented the Beneficial Annual Hockey Award to Blake Maynes, president of the BMHA.

"In celebration of our 40th Anniversary, Beneficial Finance wanted to express our appreciation to the families throughout the community and we felt there could be no better way than to support youth and Canada's National Sport," said Mr. Stration.

Get Even Time For the Bucks

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Milwaukee Bucks made it two in a row Wednesday night over Golden State Warriors, the team that eliminated them in the first round of the National Basketball Association playoffs last spring.

The Bucks superior scoring balance offset a 35-point performance by Jim Barnett to win 109-95 in one of two NBA games.

In the other, Kansas City-Omaha Kings defeated Seattle Supersonics 108-105.

Kareem Abdul Jabbar scored 27 points for the Bucks, who stretched a 77-76 third quarter lead to 103-86 with three minutes left to play.

Bob Dandridge added 21 points for the winners and team-mate Lucius Allen picked up 16. Rick Barry, the Warriors' scoring star, had 17 points in the first half, but was benched until the last five minutes of the second half.

Nate Archibald scored 32 points, including four, three-screws in the final minute, to pace Kansas City-Omaha.

Trouble for Blades

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Golden Blades of the World Hockey Association, being financial troubles as the Golden Blades last season, are having more money problems.

An investor's cheque—believed to be for more than $250,000—did not clear the bank and the team's players did not get their cheques, due Monday, until Wednesday, a league official said Wednesday night.

He said the WHA soon may have to take action if the financial problems aren't solved.

When original owner Dick Wood and Sy Siegel ran out of money last year, the league assumed operation of the team. This season there is a new group of owners.
